नाल बहाबुर आस्त्री प्रशासन प्रकावनी Lal Bahadur Shastri Academy of Administration मनुरी MUSSOORIE LIBRARY

भ्रवाप्ति संस्था Accession No	2539	107148
वर्ग संख्या Class No	340.59
पुस्तक संख्या Book No	Mul

PRINCIPLES

OF

MAHOMEDAN LAW

BY

DINSHAH FARDUNJI MULLA, M.A., LL.B., ADVOCATE, HIGH COURT, BOMBAY.

"COMETIME LAW MEMBER, GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, AND ADDITIONAL JUDGE, HIGH COURT, BUNIAY; JOINT EDITION, "POLLOCK AND MULLA'S INDIAN CONTRACT ACT."

AND "MULLA AND PILIT'S INDIAN SYMME ACT "; AUTHOR OF "PERMITTES OF HINDU LAW"; "COMMENTABLES ON THE CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE"; INDIAN RESIDENTATION ACT, NETO.

NINTH EDITION.

Price Rs. 5-8-0.

BOMBAY:

J. M. PANDIA & CO.

BOOKSELLERS & PUBLISHERS, PRINCESS STREET,

1929

(All rights including right of translation reserved.)

PRINTED BY H. W. SMITH AT THE TIMES OF INDIA PRESS, BOUBAY, PUBLISHED BY J. M. PANDIA, PRINCESS STREET, BOMBAY.

PREFACE TO THE NINTH EDITION.

There have been since the publication of the last edition some very important decisions of the Judicial Committee and of the High Courts of India This has rendered it necessary to rewrite several portions of the book and to make numerous additions both in the sections and the notes. At the same time, with a view to keep the book within its present size, I have omitted some portions comprising matters which have now become obsolete.

The reported decisions have been noted up to-(1928) 55 I. A. 288; (1928) 9 Lah. 470; (1928) 55 Cal. 943; (1928) 7 Pat. 715; (1928) 52 Bom. 458; (1928) 6 Rang. 582; (1928) 51 Mad. 700; (1928) 3 Luck. 371.

(1928) 50 All. 639;

References are given throughout to Indian cases and All India Reporter.

The writer acknowledges gratefully the assistance rendered to him in bringing out this edition by Mr. K. S. Shavaksha, B.A. (Oxon.), of the Middle Temple, and Mr. A. A. A. Fyzee, B.A. (Cantab.), of the Middle Temple.

CHAMBERS No. 17, High Court, Bombay, January, 1929.

D. F. M.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

								1	AGB
CHAPTER	1 -Introduction	OF WAR	OMEDA	Liw	isto B	RITISH	INDIA		ı
CHAPTER	H CONVERSION 1	о Мано	MEDAN	ISA					8
CHAPTER	III Manowedan S	SECIS AN	о Бев	48014					- 11
CHAPTER	CHAPTER IV Sources and Interpretation of Mahomedan Law								13
CHAPTER	V Succession v	o Ann	INISTR (rios					15
CHAPTER	VI. INHERITANCE -	-GENLR	u. Rei	.RS					28
CHAPTER	VIIHANARI LAW	ов 18нв	RITANO	К					33
CHAPTER	VIII Sman Law of	в Іхива	HANCE						77
CHAPTER	· IX - Wills								99
CHAPTER	Х Вылги-вые Сп	FFS AND	Ackno	wikipa	MENTS				107
CHAPTER	' XL - GIFTS .								109
CHAPTER	XII WARES .								131
CHAPTER	XIII. PRE EMPTION								157
CHAPTER XIV —
	A MARRINGE								174
	B. Dowle								187
	· С—Divorce								195
	D.— Legitimacy								205
CHAPTER	AV. GUARDIANSHIP								211
CHAPTER	XVIMaintenance								220

TABLE OF CASES

A

A. v. B., 179, 202. 203. A. Khorasany v. C. Acha, 218, Aba Satar, In re, 100. Abadı Begum v. Inam Begum, 167, 171 Abadi Begum v. Kaniz Zainab, 135, 138. Abası v. Dunne, 213. Abbas Alı v. Karim Baksh, 126, 128 Abbas Ali v. Maya Ram, 161, 165, 172. Abdool v. Goolam, 28. Abdool Adood v. Mahomed Makmd, 32, Abdool Hye v. Meer Mahomed, 109, Abdool Kadar v, Bapubhai, 32. Abdoola v. Mahomed, 122. Abdul v. Hussenbi, 186. Abdul Alı, In rc, 185, 196, Abdul Aziz v. Fatch Mahomed, 119, 120. Abdul Cadur v. Turner, 9, 104, 109. Abdul Fata Mahomed v. Rasamaya, 139, 142, 145, 146, Abdul Futteh v. Zabunessa, 185. Abdul Gafur v. Nızamudin, 122, 139, 141, 145, Abdul Ganne v. Hussein Miya, 139, 140, 141, 144, 147. Abdul Ghani v. Azizul Huq, 201. Abdul Hussein v. Sona Dero, 5, Abdul Jalil v. Obed-ullah, 135. Abdul Kadir v. Salima, 14, 187. Abdul Karım v. Abdul Qayum, 101, 122. Abdul Karim v. Karmali, 106.

Abdul Karim v. Karmali, 106.
Abdul Karim v. Mst. Amat-ul-Habib, 44.
Abdul Karim v. Shofiannissa, 134.
Abdul Karim v. Shofiannissa, 134.
Abdul Latif v. Niyaz Ahmed, 174.
Abdul Majeeth v. Krishnama Chariar
17, 22, 25.
Abdul Maiidkhan v. Husseinbee, 116.

Abdul Majidkhan v. Husscinbee, 116. Abdul Rahim v. Kharag Singh, 160. Abdul Rahim v. Mahomed Barkat Alı, 139.

A-contd.

Abdul Rajak v. Jimbabai, 134, 135, 144. Abdul Razak v. Aga Mahomed, 209, Abdul Razak v. Aga Mahomed Jaffer. 176, 180, 208, 209, Abdul Razak v. Mahomed, 187, Abdul Serang v. Putce Bibi, 33, 53. Abdul Shakur v. Abdul Gafur, 159, Abdul Wahid v. Nuran Bibi, 28, 29, 31. Abdulla v. Ismail, 162, 163. Abdulla v. Shamsh-ul-Hag, 194. Abdullah v. Amanat-ullah, 166. Abdur Rahim v. Narayandas, 136, 152, Abdurahım v. Halımabaı, 9. Abdus Subhan v. Korban Ali, 154. Abi Dhunimsa Bibi v. Mahammad, 190, Abraham v. Abraham, 8. Abu Sayıd v. Bakar Ali, 131. Abul Fata Mahomed v. Rasamava, 13. Advocate General v. Fatima, 144, 149, 153. Advocate-General v. Hormasji, 133. Advocate-General v. Jimbabai. 104, 105, 133, Advocate-General v. Karmali, 10. Afiman v. Hamid-ul-din, 138, 152. Aga Alı Khan v. Altaf Hassan Khan, 14. 77. Aga Mahomed Jaffer v Koolsam Beebee, 13, 98, 104, 117, 185.

Aga Mahomed Jaffer v Koolsam Beebee, 13, 98, 104, 117, 185.
Aga Sherali v. Bau Koolsam, 82, 95.
Agha Muhammad v. Lohra Begam, 207.
Ahinas Bibi v. Abdul Kader, 20.
Ahmad v. Bas Bibi, 100.
Ahmad Hakim v. Mahammad, 168.
Ahmadi Begam v. Abdul Aziz, 120.
Ahmad-uddin v. Ilahi Bakhsh, 110, 122.
Ahmad-uddin v. Ilahi Bakhsh, 110, 122.

192.

Azunnissa v. Karimunissa, 177, 209.

A-contd.

Akhtaroon-Nissa v. Sharintoola, 204. Alabi Koya v. Mussa Koya, 120. Ali Asghar v. Collector of Bulandsharh, Ali Bakhah v. Allahadad, 194.

Ali Husain v. Fazal, 134.
Ali Muhammad v. Azizullah, 193.
Ali Muhammad v. Azizullah, 193.
Ali Muhammad v. Taj Muhammad, 167.
Ali Muhammad v. Taj Muhammad, 168.
Alimullah v. Abadi, 216.
Ali Raza v. Sanwal Das, 137.
Amanatumisas v. Bashir-un-nisas, 191.
Amani Begam v. Mahammad, 190.
Amioshanhar v. Sayad Ali, 20.
Ameer Ammal v. Shankaranarayanan, 194.

Amercoonissa v. Abadoonissa, 117, 119.
Amina Bub v. Khatija Bib, 116.
Amin Beg v. Saman, 201.
Amir Bib v. Azuzabib, 114, 146.
Amir Dublin v. Baij Nath, 17, 23, 24.
Amir Haidar v. Ali Ahmad, 170.
Amir Haidar v. Ali Ahmad, 170.
Amir Hasan v. Kahim Baksh, 166.
Amir Hasan v. Khatum Bibi, 196, 197.
Amrit Bibi v. Mustafa, 102.
Amrutlal v. Shaik Hussein, 145, 146.
Amtul Nissa v. Mir Nurudin, 121.
Anwari Begam v. Nizam ud-din Shah, 110, 111, 117, 122.

Asa Bevi v. Karuppan, 29.
Asha Bibi v. Kadir, 196.
Ashabai v. Haji Tyob, 9.
Ashidbai v. Abdulla, 120, 127.
Asha Bibi v. Awaljadi, 136.
Ashrufood Dowlah v. Hyder Hoosein
Khan, 205, 208, 210.

Ashruff Ali v. Moer Ashad Ali, 206 Asma Bibi v. Abdul Samad, 188. Assamathom Nossa Biboe v. Lutchmeenut Singh, 17, 21.

Assoobai v. Noorbai, 136.
Ata-Ullah v. Azim Ullah, 8, 154.
Atimannessa v. Abdul Sobhan, 151.
Aulla Bibi v. Allauddin, 100.
Ayatunnessa Beobeo v. Karam Ali, 198, 199.

A--contd.

Aziz Ahmad v. Nazir Ahmad, 159, 160, 161. Aziz Bano v. Muhammad Ibrahim, 14 77, 176, 184.

77, 176, 184.
Azim-un-Nissa v. Dale, 3, 4, 109, 116.
Aziz-un-Nissa v. Chicne, 101.
Azizullah v. Ahmad, 194.

R

Baba Kakaji v. Nasaruddin, 155. Baba v. Shivappa, 25. Babu Lal v. Ghansham Das, 123. Bachan Singh v. Bijai Singh, 161. Badal Aurat v. Queen Empress, 184. Badaranisas v. Mafattala, 199. Bafaton v. Bilati Khanum, 11, 48, 76, 101.

Badal Aurat v. Queen Empress, 184.
Badaranisas v. Mafattala, 199.
Bafatun v. Bilati Khanum, 11, 48, 76, 101.
Bai Baiji v. Bai Santok, 10.
Bai Baiji v. Rai Santok, 10.
Bai Harma v. Alumahomed, 201.
Bai Harma v. Alumahomed, 201.
Bai Hansa v. Alumahomed, 199.
Bai Hansa v. Alumahomed, 198.
Bai Jima v. Kharua Jima, 187.
Bai Machibai v. Bai Hirbai, 210.
Bai Jima v. Kharudhari, 168.
Baidee v. Baditi Nath. 160, 166.
Balde Misir v. Ram Lagan, 161.
Balla Mal v. Ata Ulah Khan, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144.
Banoo Begum v. Mir Abed Ali, 30, 31

Banoo Begum v. Mir Abed Ali, 30, 3, 122, 188.
Banubi v. Narsingrao, 135.

Baqar Ali Khan v. Anjuman Ara Begum, 13, 14, 134, 137. Bashir Ahmad v. Mussammat Zubaida, 162

Basiralı v. Hafiz, 188. Batul Begum v. Mansur, 161, 171. Baya Sahib v. Mahomed, 116.

Bazayet Hossen v. Dooli Chund, 17, 18, 19, 20.

Beebee Bachun v. Sheikh Hamid, 190, 191. Beeju Bee v. Syed Moorthiya, 191, 193, Begam v. Muhammad, 162, 163. Beharee Ram v. Shoobhudra, 159. Bhagirthibai v. Roshanbi, 22, 23, 24.

Bhagwant Singh v. Kallu, 32.

194.

B-contd.

Bhola Nath v. Maqbul-un-Nissa, 20.
Bhoocha v. Elahi Bux, 213.
Bhupal v. Mohan. 161.
Biba Jan v. Kalb Husain, 132.
Bibi Khavev v. Bibi Rukha, 115, 116.
Bikani Miya v. Shuk Lal, 13, 14, 144.
145.
Bishen Chand v. Nadir Hossein, 153, 154.
Bismillah v. Nur Muhammad, 184.
Blanr v. Duncan, 133.
Braja Kishor v. Karti Chandra, 1.
Braja Kishor v. Karti Chandra, 1.
Budhai v. Nonaullah, 162.
Bussunteram v. Kamaluddin, 20, 21.

C

Casamally v. Curimbhai, 30, 114, 122, 125, 136, 137.
Chakuuri v. Sundri, 158.
Chanda Khan v. Naumat Khan, 160.
Chandra Kaishore v. Prasanna Kumari, 26.
Chandasheb v. Gangabai, 111.
Chaudhri Mebdit Hasan v. Muhammad Hasan, 109, 113, 114, 126, 128.
Chaudhri Tahib Ali v. Muammat Kaniz, 162.
Chaudhri Tahib Ali v. Muammat Kaniz, 162.

Chuki Bibi v. Shams-un-Nissa, 193. Court of Wards v. Illahi Baksh, 138.

Chekkene Kutti v. Ahmed, 122,

Cherachom v. Valia, 102,

Dahyabhai v. Pandya, 158.
Dallu Mal v. Hari Das, 22, 24.
Daudaha v. Ismahsha, 155.
Daulatram v. Abdul Kayum, 103.
Davalava v. Bhimaja, 22, 23, 24.
Daya Ram v. Sohal Singh, 5.
Devdar Hossem v. Zuhoor-non-Nissa, 11.
Deoki Prasad v. Sin Ram, 171.
Deoki Prasad v. Inoit-ullah 140.
Devki Prasad v. Inoit-ullah, 168, 171.
Devki Prasad v. Inait-ullah, 140, 141.
Devka Prasad v. Kazem Molla, 141.
Devanutulla v. Kazem Molla, 161.

D—contd.

Dhan Bibi v. Lalan Bibi, 200,
Dhunraj v. Rameshwar, 161,
Digambar Singh v. Alimad, 158, 159,
Din Mahomed, in the matter of, 185,
Doc de Jan Bechee v. Abdoolah, 134, 137,
Dulhin v. Baij Nath, 21,
Durga Das v. Nawab Ali Khan, 98,
Durga Prasad v. Munsi, 171,
Dwarka Das v. Husam Bakhsh, 165,
Dwarka Nanh, v. Shibo Shanker, 170,

Ε

Ebrahim v Muni Mr Udun, 157. Edan v, Mazhar Husaun, 189. Ejaz Ahmad v, Khatun Begam, 148 Emnabar v, Hajirahai, 116. Emperoe v, Ayshabar, 212, 220. Enatullah v, Kowsher M, 166. Eathaq v, Abedunnessa, 108. Essafally v, Abdeah, 17.

F

Fahmida v. Jafri, 102. Fakir Ninar v. Kandasawmy, 111 Fakir Rawot v. Em ımbaksh, 158. Fakrunnessa v. District Judge, 152. Fatch Ali v. Muhammad, 126, 127. Fatchchand v. Mahomed, 26, Fatesangji v. Harisangji, 10. Fatima Bibee v. Ahmad Baksh, 107, 117 Fatıma Bibee v. Ariff İsmailii, 101, 102, Fatima Bibi v. Nur Muhammad, 186. Fatmabai v. Gulam Husen, 131. Fatma Bibi v. Sadruddin, 189. Fatmabibi v. Advocate-General of Bombay, 136, 137. Fatma Bibi v. The Advocate-General 143, 145, 146, Fazl Ahmed v. Rahim Bibi, 107, 108. Fazl Karım v. Maula Baksh, 154. Fazlur v. Mohammad, 107. Fazlur Rahim v. Mahomed Obedul, 142. Fida Ali v. Muzaffar Ali, 162. Firoz Din v. Nawab Khan, 207, 209,

F-contd.

Ful Chand v. Nazab Ah, 196. Fuscehun v. Kajo, 213. Fuzcelun Bibce v. Omdah Bebee, 209.

G

Gangabai v. Thavar, 133.
Ganga Prasad v. Ajudhu, 167.
Ghastri v. Umruo Jan, 6.
Ghazarfar v. Kanız Fatima, 180, 269.
Ghulam Alı v. Nagir-ul-Nıssa, 194.
Gobind Dayal v. Inayatullah, 157, 165, 172.
Gokaldaw v. Pratab, 158.
Gooman Sing v. Tripool Sing, 159.
Gordhandas v. Prankor, 158.
Gulam Goss v. Shartram, 25.
Gulam Hussein v. Ayi Ajam, 136, 153.
Gulam Jafar v. Mashudin, 114.
Gulam J. Veknarayan, 161.

н

Habibar v. Saidannessa, 152. Habib-un-nissa v. Barkat Ali, 170. Habibur Rahman v. Altaf Ali, 180, 207, 208, 209, 210, Hadı Alı v. Akbar Ali, 193. Hap Ismail, In re, 9, 106, Haji Kalub v. Mehrum Bibee, 137. Haji Oosman v. Haroon, 9, Haji Sultan v. Masitu, 164. Hakım Khalıl v. Malık İsrafi, 8, 154. Hakım Khan v. Gool Khan, 32. Hahma Khatun, In re, 152. Hamid Ali v. Imtiazan, 196, Hamid Alı v. Mujawar Husain, 135, 137, 138, 147, Hamid Husain v. Kubra Begam, 186. Hamidoolla v. Faizunnissa, 198, 199. Hamir Sing v. Zakia, 20, 21, 22, Hamira Bibi v. Zubaida Bibi, 4, 14, 190, 191, 192, Harihar v. Sheo Prasad, 167. Hasan Ali v. Mehdi Husain, 25. Hasan Alı v. Nazo, 28. Hassarat Bibi v. Goolan Jaffar, 107. Haunsilla v. Gopal, 171. Hayat-un-nissa v. Muhammad Ali Khan, 12, 15,

H-contal.

Heera Lal v. Moorut Lall, 170.

Henry Imlach v. Zuhooroonisa, 106, Hidaitoonnissa v. Afzul, 136, 153. Hirbai v. Gorbai, 9. Hitendra. Singh v. Maharaja Darbhanca, 126. Hoosein Khan v. Gulab Khatun, 189. Humeeda v. Budlun, 28, 31, Humera Bibi v. Najam-un-nissa, 116. Hurbai v. Huraji, 216. Hurmut-ul-nissa Begum v. Allahdin Khan, 29, Husain Bakhsh v. Mahfuz-ul-Hag, 161, 172 Husaini Begam v. Muhammad Mehdi. 102, 104, 186, Hussain Beebee v. Hussain Sherif, 148. Hussain Shah v. Gul Muhammad, 155. Hussem Khan v. Gulab Khatun, 186. Hussembhai v. Advocate-General Bombay, 134, 135.

I

Iafazal v. Majid-ullah, 135.

Ibrahim v. Enavetur, 3,199. 1brahım v. Mubarak, 207. Ibrahim v. Muni Udin, 1, 3, 157. Ibrahim v. Sayad Bibi, 196. Ibrahim Esmail v. Abdool Carrim, 150. Ibrahim Goolam Ariff v. Saiboo, 107, 119, 120, 121, Ibram Bibi v. Hussain Sheriff, 148. Idu v. Amiran, 214. Ihsan v. Panna Lal, 176, 180, 207. Imam All v. Arfatunnsa, 186. Imambandi v. Mutsaddı, 180, 210, 216, 217, 218, 219, Isap Ahmed v. Abhramii, 32. Ishar Devi v. Sheo Ram, 161. Ishri Singh v. Baldeo, 100, Ismailmya v. Wahadani, 150. Ismal v. Ramji, 110, 113.

T

Jadu Lal v. Janki Koer, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 167, 172.
 Jadu Sing v. Rajkumar, 168.

J -contd.

Jafar Alı v. Ahmed, 127. Jafri Begum v. Amir Muhammad, 17, 21, 22, 24, 25, Jagat Singh v. Baldeo Prasad, 170. Jagjivan v. Kalıdas, 158. Jai Kuar v. Heera Lal, 158, Jainabai v. Setna, 30, 114 Jaiwanti v. Gajadhar, 216. Jamal Walad Ahmed v. Jamal Walad Jola, 155. Jamiruddin v Sahera, 187 Jan Mahomed v. Datu, 9 Jangu v. Ahmad-Ullah, 154 Janjira v, Mohammad, 107, 131. !34. 135, 137 Janki v. Girjadat, 162. Janki Prasad v. Ishar Das, 164. Jarfan Khan v. Jabbar Meab, 168. Jariut-oll-Butool v Hoseinee Begam, 180. Jaun Beebee v. Beparce, 186, 202. Jawala v. Dharum, 8. Jeswant Singjee v. Jet Singjee, 100. Jewan Doss v. Shah Kubeer-odd-Deen, 133, 138, Jhandu v. Mst. Husain Bibi, 175, 180. Jiwan v. Imtiaz, 120. Jog Deb v. Mahomed, 168, 169, 172.

Jyani Begam v. Umrao Begam, 190.

Kadır İbrahim v. Mahomed, 131.

Kahandas v. Narandas, 152.
Kalelohla v. Nuscerudeen, 132.
Kalenther v. Ma Mi, 188.
Kali Dutt v. Ab I d. Ji, 210.
Kalidas v. Kanhaya Lal, 112.
Kalidas v. Kanhaya Lal, 112.
Kalidas v. Kanhaya Lal, 112.
Kamar-un-mssa Bibi v. Hussaini Bibi, 188.
Kamdath v. Musaliam, 116.
Kanhai Lal v. Kalka Prasad, 171.
Kaniz v. Saiyid, 148.
Kaniz Fatima v. Ram Nandan, 194.
Karam Ilah v. Sharf-ud-din, 112.
Karim v. Tam Nandan, 161.
Karim v. Pnyo Lal, 159, 160.

K-contd.

Karim Bakhsh v. Khuda Bakhsh, 161, Karıyadan v. Kayat Becran, 221. Kasamkhan v. Kazi Abdulla, 155. Kasim Hussain v. Sharif-un-Nissa, 119, Khajah Hidayat v. Rai Jan, 180, 208, Khajah Hossein v. Shahzadee, 14. Khajeh Sahmullah v. Abdul Khair, 149 Khajeh Solchman v. Nawab Sir Salimullah, 144. Khajooroonissa v. Rowshan Jehan, 101. 109, 113, 114, 115, 126, 127, 180, 210, Khahl Ahmad, In the matter of, 129. Khanum Jan v. Jan Bebee, 29, Khatijabi v. Umarsaheb, 202. Khatubai v. Mahomed Han Abu, 10. Khevalı v. Mullick, 162, 168, Khoja's and Memon's Case, 9, 10. Khurshed v. Faivaz, 108, Khurshetbibi v. Keso Vinayek, 21, 22, Khushia v. Faiz, 217. Khwaja Muhammad v. Husaini Begum, 183. Koonarı v. Dalım, 51. Korban v. King-Emperor, 214. Krishna Menon v. Kesavan, 157. Kudratulla v. Mahmi Mohan, 165, 172. Kulsom Bibee v. Golam Hossein, 14, 131, 135, 138, Kulsum Bibi v. Faqir Muhammad, 167. Kulsumbi v. Abdul Kadır, 174, 190. Kumar-un-Nissa Bibi v. Hussami Bibi, 112. Kunhi v. Kunhi, 29. Kuttavan v. Mammanna, 138.

L

Labbi Reebee v. Bibban Beebee, 107 Lajja Prasad v. Debi Prasad, 170. Lakhahmandas v. Dasrat, 4. Lala Miya v. Manubibi, 22. Lali Jan v. Muhammad, 124. Lalla Nowbat Lall v. Lalla Jewan Lall, 166.

I .-- contd.

Land Mortgage Bank v. Bidyadhari, 18, Lang v. Moolji, 162. Lardii v. Mahomed, 212. Laqat Ali v. Karim-un Nissa, 209. Luchmiput Singh v. Amir Alum, 132, 135, 137, 139. Laddun v. Murza Kumar, 182.

M

Macduff, In re. 133. Madhub Chunder v. Rajeoomar Doss, 4. Ma E Khin v. Maung Sein, 134, 137, 145. Mahammad Abdul v. Muhammad, 169. Mahammad Azmat v. Lalii Begum, 208, Mahammad Gulshere, Khan v. Mariam Begum, 107. Mahammad Shahq-ullah v. Nuh-ullah. 207, 209, Mahanth Tokh Narayan v. Ram Rachhya, 170, Maharam Ali v. Ayesa Khatum, 198, 199. Mahatab Singh v. Ramtahal, 160. Mahatala v. Haleemoozooman, 210. Mahomed v. Cooverbai, 119. Mahomed v. Fakhr Ja' an, 100, Mahomed v. Mahome J, 144. Mahomed v. Naram, 4, 158, 165. Mahomed Ab.d Alı v. Lud-un, 182, 187. Mahomed Ahsanulla v. Amarchand Kundu, 139, 140, 142, 144, 146, Mahomed Altaf v. Ahmed Buksh, 100, Mahomed Amm v. Hasan, 32. Mahomed Arshad v. Sajida Banoo, 48. Mahomed Bauker v. Surfoon Nissa, 180, 208 Mahomed Buksh v. Dewan Aimer, 114. Mahomed Buksh v. Hossaim Bibi, 112, 119 Mahomed Haji v. Kalımabi, 185. Mahomed Hamidulla v. Lotful Hug. 139. Mahomed Hossem v. Mohsin Ali, 160. Mahomed Ibrahim v. Abdul Latif. 122.

Mahomed Ismail v. Ahmed Moola, 150.

Mahomed Jusab v. Han Adam, 220.

144.

M-contd.

Mahomed Shah v. Official Trustee of Bengal, 109, 122, Mahomed Sidick v. Haji Ahmed, 9. Mahomed Yusuf v. Hargovandas, 16, 106. Maina Bibi v. Chaudhri Vakil, 190, 193, 194, 195. Maina Bibi v. Wasi Ahmed, 193. Mairai v. Abdul Wahid, 76. Majidmian v. Bibisaheb, 194. Ma Mi v. Kallander Ammal, 112, 116, 131, 196, Mangaldas v. Abdul, 9. Maobul v. Ghafur-un-nissa, 125. Mardansaheb v. Rajaksaheb, 209. Marm Bibi. In the matter of, 183. Mashal Singh v. Ahmad Husain, 194. Masit-un-Nissa v. Pathani, 208. Masthan Sahib v. Assan Bibi, 189. Mata Din v. Ahmad Ali, 217, 218. Maula Bakhsh v. Amir-ud-Dm, 154. Maulam v. Maula Bakhsh, 114, 125. Mazhar Ali v. Budh Singh, 76. Mahzar Husem v. Abdul, 132, 144. Mazhar Hussem v. Bodha Bibi, 100. Meer Aleem Ullah v. Ahf Khan, 20. Meeraly v. Tajudin, 111. Meherally v. Sakarkhananoobai, 186. Meherian v. Shaiadi, 44. Mehr Khan v. Ghulam, 172. Mia-khan v. Bibi Bibinan, 4. Mir Ah v. Sajuda Begum, 98. Mir Azmat Alı v. Mahmud-ul-Nissa, 187, Mir Isub v. Isab. 48. Mir Sarwarian v. Fakhruddin, 218. Mirza Abid v. Munnoo Bibi, 110, 112, Mirza Bedar Bukht v. Mirza Khurram Bukht, 189. Mırza Hasim v. Bındneem, 114, 115, 123, Mirza Kurratullam v. Nawab Nuzat-ud-Dowla, 16, 28. Moazzam v. Raza, 148. Mogulsha v. Mahamad Saheb, 113, 128, Mohammad v. Fakhr Jahan, 113, 114. 123, 124, Mohanlal v. Mahmud, 126.

Mohib-Ullah v. Abdul Khalik, 119.

Mohideen Bee v. Syed Meer, 17, 32,

M-contd.

Mohideen Ibrahim v. Mahomed Ibrahim, 215.

Mohile-ullah v. Abdul Khalik, 121.
Mohundin v. Manchershah, 110.
Mohiuudin v. Sayiduddın, 153.
Mohsiuddun, v. K. Abmed, 218.
Monijan v. Dıstrict Judge, Birbhum, 183.
Moohummud Amcenoodeen v. Moohummud Kubeenooden 108.

Moolla Cassim v. Moolla Abdul, 28, 76. Moonshee Buzloor Ruheem v. Shuursoonnissa Begam, 186.

Moonshee Buzul-ul-Raheem v. Luteclutoon-Nissa. 200.

Moosa Adam Patel v. Ismail Moosa, 128.

Moosa Haji Joonas v. Haji Abdul

Rahim, 9. Morice v. The Bishop of Dhurham, 132, 133. Motilal v. Harilal, 158. Moulvi Abu Mahomed v. Amtal Karim.

Moulvi Abu Mahomed v. Amtal Karim 217.

Moulvi Mahomed v. Fatima Bibi, 123.
Mst. Ghulam v. Nur Husan, 45.
Mst. Jawai v. Hussain Bakhsh, 31.
Mst. Zannab v. Ghulam Rasul, 17.
Mubaraki Russam v. Kanar Bano, 167, 169.
Mubarak-un-Nissa v. Muhammad, 25.
Muchoo v. Arzoon. 183.

Muhammad Askarı v. Rahmatullah, 168, 171.

Muhammad v. Aulia Bibi, 103.

Muhammad v. Gulam, 12. Muhammad v. Madho Prasad, 168.

Muhammad v. Muhammad, 164, 167.

Muhammad v. Saghir-un-nissa, 189.

Muhammad v. Sheikh Ibrahim, 5. Muhammad v. The Legal Remembrancer, 14.

Muhammad v. Umardaraz, 31.

Muhammad Allahdad v. Muhammad

Ismail, 22, 205, 207, 210.

Muhammad Ashanullah v. Umardaraz,
134, 136, 138, 143.

Muhammad Awaiz v. Har Sahai, 17, 22 24.

M-contd.

Muhammad Aziz-ud-din v. The Legal Remembrancer, 134.

Muhammad Azmat v. Lalla Begam, 210., Muhammad Esuph v. Pattamsa Ammal, 127

Muhammad Faiz v. Ghulam Ahmad, 126, 127, 129.

Muhammad Hamid v. Miam Mahmud 133, 155.

Muhammad Husem v. Niamat-un-Nissa, 170.

Muhammad Ibrahim v. Altafan, 202. Muhammad Ismail v. Lala Sheomukh, 5.

Mahammad Ismail v. Muhammad, 138. Muhammad Karimullah v. Amani Begam, 191.

Muhammad Munitaz v. Zubaida Jan, 114, 119, 120. Muhammad Mum-ud-Din v. Jamal, 201.

Muhammad Munawar v. Razia Bibi, 142, 143, 144.

Muhammad Nasir-un-dın v. Abdul Hasan, 170.

Muahmmad Nazir v. Makhdum, 168. Muhammad Raza v. Yadgar, 133. Muhammad Rustam Ah v. Mushtaq

Husam, 134, 135, 147, 148. Muhammad Shafi v. Mst. Kalsum Bi, Muhammad Shafi v. Muhammad Abdul, 134, 137. Muhammad Shoaib v. Taib Jehan, 191.

Muhammad Siddiq v. Bisaldar, 129. Muhammad Siddiq v. Shahab-ud-Din, Muhammad Umar v. Muhammad Niazud-dm. 210.

Muhammadunissa v. Bachelor, 127.
Muhammad Usman v. Muhammad Abdul, 167.

Muhammad Yakub v. Kanhai Lal, 166. Muhammad Yunus v. Muhammad Yusuf, 134, 170.

Muhammad Zin v. Nur-ul-Hasan, 135, 137.

Mujib-un-Nissa v. Abdur Rahim, 142. Mukarram v. Anjuman-un-Nissa, 133. Mulbai, In the goods of, 9.

Mulka Jehan v. Mahomed, 184.

M-contd.

Mullick Abdool Guffoor v. Mulika, 110 117. Mumtaz-un-Nissa v. Tufail, 129. Munna Lal v. Hajira Jan, 160. Munnavaru Begam v. Mir Mahapalli, 148, Musa Miya v. Kadar Bux, 118. Musammat Bibi v. Sheikh Wahid, 113,121. Musammat Kanıza v. Hasan, 177, 206. Musammat Magboolan v. Ramzan, 186. Musammat Sitaram v. Ganesh, 193, 194. Musammat Sogia v. Musammat Kitabah. 194. Musammat Wahibunnisa v. Musha Husain, 124. Mussammat v. Khursaidji, 98. Mussammat Bibi v. Musammat Bibi, 194 Musst, Bibee Fazilatunnessa v. Musst, Bibee Kamarunnessa, 207, 208. Muttylan v. Ahmed Ally, 21, 23. Mutu Ramanadan v. Yava Levvai, 132, 138, 143, 144. Muzafar Ah v. Parbati, 98, 193. Muzhurool Huq v. Puhraj Ditarey, 140, 141.

N

Nadir Alı v. Wali, 172. Nadir Husain v. Sadiq Husain, 166. Nageshar v. Ram Harakh, 161. Naim-ul-Hag v. Muhammad, 144. Najm-un-nissa v. Ajarb Ah, 161, 162. Nanchand v. Yenawa, 26, Nandi v. The Crown, 8. Naram Das v. Han Abdur Rahim, 147. Narantakhat v. Parakkal, 8, 201. Narayana v. Biyari, 192. Nasır Alı v. Sughra Bıbi, 101. Nasır-ul-Haq v. Faiyaz-ul-Rahman, 29, Nasrat Husain v. Hamidam, 12, 176. Nathu v. Shadi, 162, 169. Nawab Malka Jehan v. Muhammad, 210. Nawab Umjad Ally Khan v. Muhumdee Begam, 117, 123, 124. Nawasi Begam v. Dilafroz, 191, 195. Nimai Chand v. Golam Hussain, 152.

. N -contd.

Nizam-ud-din v. Abdul Gafur, 122, 139, 141.
Nobin Chunder v. Romesh Chunder, 4.
Nundo Parshad v. Gopal, 170.
Nurannessa v. Khaja Mahomed, 190.
Nurdn v. Bee Umrao, 17.
Nur Kadır v. Zulekha Bibi, 214.
Nuri Mian v. Ambica Ningh, 164.

0

Oomda Beebee v. Syud Shah Janab, 210.

P

Pakrich v. Kunhacha, 220.
Palamyandı v. Vecramınal, 26
Parsasth Nath v. Dhanaı, 158, 161.
Pathukuttı v. Avathalakutti, 136.
Pathummabı v. Yıttil, 22, 25, 26.
Pattatheruvath v. Mannamkunniyil, 130.
Pershadi Lal v. Irshad Ali, 160.
Phul Chand v. Akbai Yar Khan, 132, 149.

Piran v. Abdool Karim, 148, 151, 155. Pir Khan v. Faiyaz, 172. Pirthipal Singh v. Hussami Jan, 20, 21. Poorno Singh v. Hurrychum, 165.

0

Queen-Empress v. Ramzan, 8. Qurban v. Chote, 161, 165, 172, 173.

R

Rahim Baksh v. Muhammad Hassan, 111, 127, 128. Rahimunissa v. Shauk Manik Jan, 144, 140. Raj Bahadur v. Bishen Dayal, 8. Kajasaheb, In re, 196. Rajiab Ali v. Chundi Churn, 167, 169. Rajirab v. Koylash Chunder, 18, 19.

R-contd.

Ram Chand v. Goswami, 158. Ram Charan v. Fatima Begam, 114, 133. Ram Gopal v. Piari Lal, 164. Ram Kumari, In the matter of, 8. Ram Lal v. Harar Chandra, 4. Ram Sahai v. Gaya. 164. Ramanadhan v. Vada, 144. Ramasahai v. Gaya, 172. Ramrao v. Rustamkhan, 6. Ramzan Ali v. Asghari Begum, 191. Ranchoddas v. Jugaldas, 160. Rashid Karmah v. Sherbanoo, 107 Rukeya Banu v. Najira Banu, 141, 142, 144. Rugghan v. Dhanno, 149. Rahima Bibi v Fazil, 202 Rang Ilahi v. Mahbub Ilahi, 218. Rex v. Hammersmith, 200. Riland, In re. 133. Rujabai v. Ismail, 128. Rukia Begum v. Muhammad, 188.

S

Runchordas v. Parvatībai, 133.

Rupa v. Sardar Mirza, 32,

Saboo Sidick v. Alı Mahomed, 9. Sabur Bibi v. Ismail, 191. Sadakat Hossein v. Mahomed Yusuf, 208, 210. Saddan v. Faiz Baksh, 200. Sadık Husam v. Hashim Ali, 109, 113, 114, 115, 120, 122, 207, Sadiq Ali v. Abdul, 167, 169. Sahebian v. Ansaruddın, 191. Sahebzadee Begum v. Himmut Bahadoor Saiad Kasam v. Shaista Bıbi, 100. Said-ud-din v. Latiffannessa Bibi, 160, 161. Sainuddin v. Latiffannessa, 198. Saiyad Waliullah v. Mıran Saheb, 207. Sajjad Ahmad Khan v. Kadri Begam, 117.

S-contd. Sakina Bibee v. Amiran, 161, Sakina Bibee v. Mahomed Ishak, 16, 26, Salayjce v. Fatima, 100, 104. Salebhai v. Bai Safiabu, 132, 138, Sahgram v. Amjad Khan, 135. Saligram v. Raghubardyal, 166. Salım-un-Nissa v. Saadat, 212. Saliq-un-nissa v. Mati Ahmed, 133. Sarabai v. Mahomed, 100. Sarabai v. Rabiabai, 107, 196, 198, 204. Sududdin v. Mohuddin, 124, 126, 127, 128. Sarkies v. Prosonomoyee, 1. Sarkum v. Rahaman Buksh, 154 Savad Abdulla v. Savad Zam, 136, 151. Savad Mahomed v. Savad Gohar, 147, Sayid Ismail v. Hamedr Begum, 132, 153. Sayed Abdula v. Sayad Zam, 136. Syed Ah v. Syed Muhammad, 98, 132, 135, 149, Syed Ebrahim v. Syed Khan, 157, 159. Sayyad Jiaul Husam, v. Sitaram 170 Secretary of State v. Mohuddin, 155. Serajuddin v. Isab, 127. Shah Abu v. Ulfat Bibi, 185. Shah Ghulam v. Mohammad, 149. Shah Mohammad v. Mohammad, 138, Shahab-ud-din v. Sohan Lal, 133.

100.
Shahasaheb v. Sadashiv, 22.
Shahazadi v. Khaja Hussatin, 131.
Shaho Banoo v. Aga Mahomed, 144.
Shak v. Muhammad, 10.
Shak Ibram v. Shaik Suleman, 115, 116.
Shak Mosawa v. Shaik Essa, 26, 106.
Shamsang v. Santabai, 183.
Sharfa Bib v. Gulam Mahomed, 103.
Sheik Kudratulla v. Mahim Mohan, 1.
Shek Umar v. Budan Khan, 155.

Shahar Banoo v. Aga Mahomed, 148,149,

Sheik Abdur Rahman v. Sheikh Wali, 194.
Sheikh Amir Ali v. Syed Wazir, 151.
Shek Muhammad v. Sheik Imamudin, 100.

S—contd.

Shekh Karimodin v. Nawab Mir Sayad, Sheobharos v. Juach Rai, 171. Shoharat Singh v. Jafri Bıbi, 181. Sibt Muhammad v. Muhammad, 205. Straj Husain v. Mushaf Husain, 31, 122. Sita Ram v. Shridhar, 26. Sitaram v. Juaul Hasan, 163, 164, 170. Sitaram v. Savad Sirajul, 158, 159, 160, 162, 163, 165, 170. Skinner v. Durga Prasad, 176. Skinner v. Orde, 8. Skinner v. Skinner, 8. Solema Bibi v. Hafez Mahammad, 32, 217. Subbaiya v. Mahamad, 152. Suddurtonnessa v. Majada Khatoon, 32. Sugra Bibi v. Masuma Bibi, 188. Sukur v. Asmot,25. Suleman v. Darab Alı, 122. Sultan Ahmed v. Abdul Gam, 151. Sumsuddin v. Abdul Hoosein, 29. Syed Hasan v. Mir Hasan, 148. Sved Wajid v. Lalla Hanuman, 167. Syeda Bibi v. Mughal Jan, 137. Synd Gholam Hossem v. Musst. Sctabli Begum, 176.

T

Tafazzul v. Than Singh, 164.
Tagore Law Lectures, 75.
Tahn-um-Nessa v. Nawah Hasan, 194.
Tajh v. Moula Khan, 177.
Iara Prasanna v. Shandi Bibi, 110, 113.
Tanifik-um-Nasa v. Ghalam Kamber, 189.
Tavakalbhai v. Imatiyaj Begam, 124.
Tejpal v. Girithari Lad, 157.
Tahakur Radhaia v. Bohra Shiam, 164.
Thottole v. Kunhammad, 216.

U

Ude Ram v. Atma Ram, 171. Ujagar Lad v. Jar Lal, 165. Uffat Bib v. Bafati, 214. Umardaraz Ah Khan v. Wilayat Ahkhan, 198. Umatul Mehdi v. Kubaum, 190. Umda Begum v. Mahammudi Begum, 189.

U-contd.

Umesh Chunder Sirkar v. Zahhot Fatima, 31. Umrao v. Lachhman, 164. Usmanmiya v. Valli Mahomed, 207, 208.

τ.

Vadaka Vitil v. Odakel, 202. Vahazullah v. Boyapati, 113, 120. Valayat Hussein v. Maniram, 118. Vidva Varuthi v. Balusami, 147, 152, 153, Virchand v. Kondu, 22. Vithaldas v. Jametram, 166.

W

Waghela v. Shekh Masludin, 5. Wahid Ah v. Ashruff Hossain, 148, 151. Wahid Khan v. Zunnab Bib, 196. Wahidumsas v. Shubrattin, 18, 19 Wali Bandi v. Tabeya, 125. Wazir Jan v. Sanyyud Altafali, 107. Wisu v. Sabduloomsa, 180, 210. Woomatool v. Meerumum-mssa, 191 Woozattomsa, 1 in he matter of, 152.

Y

Yasın Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan, 20. Yusuf Ali v. Collector of Tipperah, 122.

Z

Zafar Husam v. Ummat-ur-Rahman, 202. Zamab v. Ghulam Rasul, 17. Zammi Begam v. Khan Muhammad, 163-Zarabibi v. Abdul Razzak, 212. Za-ud-Du v. Abul, 166.

Zooleka Bibi v. Syed Zynul Abedin, 132, 135, 151, 155.

Ss

PRINCIPLES OF MAHOMEDAN LAW.

CHAPTER I.

Introduction of Mahomedan Law into British India.

 Administration of Mahomedan law.— The Mahomedan law is applied by the Courts of British India to Mahomedans not in all, but in some matters only. The power of Courts to apply Mahomedan law to Mahomedans is derived from and regulated by Statutes of the Imperial Parliament and by local legislation (a).

For Statutes, see s. 6; for the Acts, see sees, 7 to 13

The present work does not comprise the whole of pure Mahomedan law, but only such portions thereof as are applied by the Courts of British India to Mahomedans.

- 2. Extent of application. As regards British India, the rules of pure Mahomedan law may be divided into three parts—
 - (i) those which have been expressly directed by the Legislature to be applied to Mahomedans, such as the rules of Succession and Inheritance;
 - (ii) those which are applied to Mahomedans as a matter of justice, equity and good conscience, such as the rules of the Mahomedan law of Preemption;
 - (iii) those which are not applied at all, though the parties be Mahomedans, such as the Mahomedan Criminal Law, and the Mahomedan Law of Evidence.

The only portions of pure Mahomedan law that are administered by the Courts of British India to Mahomedans Ss. 2-5 are those comprised in cls. (i) and (ii). In other respects, the Mahomedans in British India are governed by the General Law of British India.

3. Matters expressly enumerated.—The rules of Mahomedan law that have been expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans are to be applied except in so far as they have been altered or abolished by legislative enactment.

Thus the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Inheritance are expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans. One of those rules is that a Mahomedan renouncing the Mahomedan religion is to be excluded from inheritance. But this rule has now been abolished by the Freedom of Religion Act 21 of 1850. Hence this rule does not apply.

4. Matters not expressly enumerated.—Such of the rules of Mahomedan law as have not been expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans will be applied, as a matter of justice, equity and good conscience, if there is no statutory provision for matters covered by those rules.

Thus the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Pre-emption are nowhere expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans. In the provinces where those rules are applied to Mahomedans, they are applied to grounds of justice, equity and good conscience (s. 178). They are not applied to Mahomedans in Oudh and in the Punjab, for there are Special Acts relating to pre-emption for Oudh and the Punjab, and those Acts apply to Mahomedans also (s. 179).

Again, the rules of the Mahomedan Criminal Law are nowhere expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans. But there are legislative enactments relating to criminal law in Indus such as the Induan Penal Code and the Code of Criminal Procedure. Hence those rules could not be applied on grounds of justice, equity and good conscience. The result is that Mahomedans in British India are governed by the criminal law of British India.

5. Justice, equity and good conscience. The rules referred to in s. 2, cl. (ii), may not be applied if they are in the opinion of the Court opposed to justice, equity and good conscience. But the rules referred to in cl. (i) of that section, that is, rules that have been expressly directed by the Legislature to be applied to Mahomedans, must be applied though they may not in the opinion of the Courts conform with justice, equity and good conscience. See s. 28A.

Thus the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Pre-emption come under s. 2, cl. (ii), and they are not applied by the Courts of the Madras Presidency on the ground that they are opposed to justice, equity and good conscience, insamuch as the Law of Pre-emption places restriction upon liberty of transfer of property by requiring the owner to sell it in the first instance to his neighbour. The High Courts of Bombay and Allahabad, on the other hand, have applied the Mahomedan Law of Pre-emption to Mahomedans.

with this remarkable result that the notion of "justice, equity and good conscience" held by those Courts differs from that held by the Madras High Court (b). See s. 178 helow. Ss. 5, 6

As regards rules which the Courts have been expressly directed to apply to Mahomedans, they must of course be applied regardless of considerations of justice, equity and good conscience. Thus the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Marriage have been expressly directed to be applied to Mahomedans in Bengal, United Provinces and Assam (v. 7). One of those rules is that a divorce pronounced by a husband is valid, though personneed under compulsion (s. 234). Hence the Courts of British India will not be justified in refusing to recognise such a divorce, though it may be opposed to their notions of justiceequity and good conscience (c).

- 6. Mahomedan law in Presidency Towns. (1) As to the Presidency towns of Calcutta. Madras and Bombay, it is enacted by the Government of India Act, 1915, s. 112 [5 and 6 Geo. 5. Ch. 61] as follows:
- "The High Courts at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, in the exercise of their original jurisdiction in suits against inhabitants of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be, shall in matters of inheritance and succession to lands. rents and goods, and in matters of contract and dealing between party and party, when both parties are subject to the same personal law or custom having the force of law, decide according to that personal law or custom, and when the parties are subject to different personal laws or customs having the force of law. decide according to the law or custom to which the defendant is subject." That is to say, the law to be applied in the matters aforesaid shall be the Mahomedan law if both parties are Mahomedans. Similarly, when a dealing takes place between two parties of whom one is a Hindu and the other a Mahomedan. and a suit is brought in respect of that dealing by the Hindu against the Mahomedan, the dispute between them is to be decided according to the Mahomedan law (d). But the Mahomedan law to be applied in either case must be such portion thereof as has not been abrogated by the general law of British India [see notes below].
- (2) The law to be applied by the Presidency Small Cause Courts is the same as that administered for the time being by the High Courts in the exercise of their ordinary original civil jurisdiction (Presidency Small Cause Courts Act 15 of 1882, s. 16).

 ⁽b) Ibrahim v. Muni (1870) 6 M.H.C. 26.
 (c) Ibrahim v. Enayetur (1869) 4 B.L.R.A.C. 13.
 (d) Azim Un-Nissa v. Dale (1871) 6 Mad. H.C.

Ss. 5. 7 Earlier statutes.—Provisions similar to those in sub-s. (1) were contained in the East Indu Company Act, 1870, s. 17, [21 Go. 3, ch. 70], which applied to the Supreme Court at Calcutta, and the East India Act, 1797, s. 13, [37 Geo. 3, ch. 142], which applied to the Recorder's Courts at Madras and Bombay. These Acts as well as the High Courts Acts of 1861, 1865 and 1911 have been repealed and re-canceted by the Government of India Act, 1915. But the repeal does not affect the validity of any charter or letters nates under those Acts (Government of India Act, 1915, 130).

Low to be administered in cases of inheritance, succession, contract and dealing between party and party. This may be repealed or altered by the Governor-General in Council; see the Governor-General in Council; see the Governor-General has of contrace's has been almost entirely superseided by the Indian Scottered Act, 1812, and other enactments, and this was done in the exercise of the power given to the Governor-General in Council by the Indian Councils Act, 1861. The latter Act has been repealed and to a large extent re-cenarcied by the Governor-General in Council by the Indian Councils Act, 1861. The latter Act has been repealed by the Usury Laws Repeal Act 28 of 1855 (f). The point arises in a recent Prixy Council case, but it was not decided (g). See a. 65 of the Government of India Act, 1915, and ds. 19 and 44 of the charter for each of the High Courts for Colutta, Madras and Bombay.

Low to which the defaultion is subject. It is provided by the latter partion of the section that when the parties are subject to diffusion be evond have, the despite between them is to be decided according to the law to which the defendant is subject. It is not easy to define what these words really mean. The decisions lay down what the words do not mean; they do not say what the words do mean. But whatever the proper construction of those words may be, they do not mean this that where a Hindu purchased had from a European which is subject to his subject chain or dower, and a sunt is brought. By the wife against the Hindu purchaser to enforce her right, the Hindu purchaser is to be in any better possession than a European purchaser would be, simply because the Hindu law recognizes no rule of down (b).

7. In Bengal, United Provinces and Assam.—As to Bengal, United Provinces and Assam, except such portions of those territories as for the time being are not subject to the ordinary civil jurisdiction of the High Courts, it is enacted by Act XII of 1887. 8. 37, that the Civil Courts of those Provinces shall decide all questions relating to "succession, unheritance, marriage or any religious usage or institution," by the Mahomedan law in cases where the parties are Mahomedans, except in so far as such law has, by legislative enactment, been altered or abolished. In cases not mentioned above nor provided for by any other law for the time being

⁽e) See Madhub Chunder v. Rajcoomar (1874) 14 B. L. R. 76; Nobin Chander v. Romesh Chunder (1887) 14 Cal. 781.

Rum Lal v Harar Chandra (1868) 3 B L R. (O C.) 130 [not abrogated], Via Khan v. Bibijan (1870) 5 B. L. R. 500 [abrogated].
 Hamera Bibi v. Zubuida Bibi (1916) 43 I.A.

^{294, 300, 38} All, 581, 587-588, 36 I.C. 87, (A) Siritar V Pronomonger (1881) 6 Cal. 796, Un-Nusar V Div. (1871) 6 Mad. H. O 455, 474-475 [37 Geo 3, Ch. 142, s. 131]; Laishmandar V. Dazrit (1880) 6 Born, 188, 183-184, Mahomed V. Narata (1916) 40 Born. 338, 363, 363, 32 I.C. 938, in force the decision is to be according to justice, equity and good conscience.

7-9

Custom. -Custom binding inheritance in a particular family has long been recognized in India (1). Hence evidence is admissible to prove a family custom of succession at variance with the Mahomedan law, though there may be no express recognition of custom as in the Act cited above ()). But the burden of proof in such a case lies upon the party who sets up the custom (k); the custom must be an ancient and invariable custom, and it must be proved by clear and unambiguous evidence (1). As to what is essential to the proof of such a custom, see the undermentioned case (m).

Justice, equity and good conscience. This expression has been interpreted by the Privy Council to mean the rules of English law so far as they are applicable to Indian society and circumstance, (a).

8. In the Mufassal of Madras.—As to the Mufassal of Madras, it is enacted by the Madras Civil Courts Act III of 1873, s. 16, that all questions regarding "succession, inheritance, marriage, . . . or any religious usage or institution" shall be decided, in cases where the parties are Mahomedans, by the Mahomedan law or by custom having the force of law, and in cases where no specific rule exists, the Courts shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience.

Custom.-See notes to s. 7 above.

Justice, equity and good conscience. See notes to s. 7 above.

 In the Mufassal of Bombay.— As to the Mufassal of Bombay, it is enacted by Regulation IV of 1827, s. 26, that "the law to be observed in the trial of suits shall be Acts of Parliaments and regulations of Government applicable to the case: in the absence of such Acts and Regulations, the usage of the country in which the suit arose; if none such appears, the law of the defendant, and in the absence of specific law and usage, justice, equity and good conscience alone."

Note that not a single topic of Mahomedan law is expressly enumerated in this section. So much, therefore, of Mahomedan law as is administered to Mahomedans by Courts in the Mufassal of Bombay, is administered as a matter of justice, equity and good conscience. As to this last expression, see notes to s. 7 above.

Usage. - Evidence may be given under this section of a custom excluding women from any share in the inheritance of a paternal relation (a). In a recent case, the High Abdul Hussein v Sona Dero (1918) 45 Cal. 450, 460, 45 I. A. 19, 14, 43 I. C. 306.

 Muhammad Ismail v Lala Sheomath (1913) 15 Born L. R. 76, 17 C. W. N. 97, 18 I. C. 571 [P. C.]; Al. Asghar v. Collector of Bulandshahr (1917) 39 All. 574, 40 I. C. 753

⁽k) 45 Cal. 450, 45 J. A. 10, 43 J. C. 306, supra. approving Daya Ram v. Sohel Singh (1906) Punj. Rec. No. 110.

⁽l) Muhammad v Sheekh Ibrahim (1922) 49 I. A. 119, 45 Mad. 308, 67 I. C. 115 ('22) A PC 59 [exclusion of females among Lubbat Mahomedans of Colmbatore]. (m) 45 Cal 450, 460, 45 I. A 10, 14, 43 I. C. 306, Walpra, v. Shekh Mashulm (1887) 11 Bom. 551, 501, 14 1. A. 88, 96. (o) Abdul Hussein v. Sona Dero (1918) 45 Cal. 450, 45 1. A. 10, 43 1. C. 306.

Ss. 9-10A Court of Bombay gave effect to a usage prevailing in the Presidency of performing rites and ecremonies at the graves of deceased Mahomedans, and granted an injunction at the suit of the Mahomedan residents of Dharwar restraining the purchaser of a graveyard from obstructing them in performing religious ceremonies at the graveyard (p). See notes to 8.7 above.

- 10. In the Punjab and the N.-W. Frontier.—As to the Punjab and the North-Western Frontier Province, it is enacted by the Punjab Laws Act IV of 1872, s. 5, and the North-Western Frontier Regulation VII of 1901, ss. 27 and 28, as follows:—
- "In questions regarding succession, . . . betrothal, marriage, divorce, dower, . . . guardianship, minority-bastardy, family relations, wills, legacies, gifts, partitions, or any religious usage or institution, the rule of decision shall be—
 - any custom applicable to the parties concerned which is not contrary to justice, equity or good conscience, and has not been, by this or any other enactment, altered or abolished, and has not been declared to be void by any competent authority;
 - (2) the Mahomedan law, in cases where the parties are Mahomedans, . . . except in so far as such law has been altered or abolished by legislative enactment, or is opposed to the provisions of the Act, or has been modified by any such custom as is above referred to.
- "In cases not otherwise specially provided for, the Judges shall decide according to justice, equity and good conscience."
- Ajmer-Merwara.—The provisions of the Ajmer-Merwara Laws, Regulation III of 1877, ss. 4 and 5, are to the same effect.

Costom ... As regards Mahomedans, prestitution is not looked on by their religion or their laws with any more favourable eye than by the Christian religion and laws." Accordingly the Chief Court of the Punjab refused to recognize a custom of the Kanchans which aimed at the continuance of prestitution as a family business, and the decision was uplied by the Prvy Council on appeal (q). See notes to 8. 7 above.

Justice, equity and good conscience .- See notes to s. 7 above.

10A. In Ajmer-Merwara.—The provisions of the Ajmer-Merwara Laws, Regulation III of 1877, ss. 4 and 5, are almost to the same effect as the Punjab Laws Act 4 of 1872 [s. 10 above].

- 11. In Oudh.—The provisions of the Oudh Laws Act XVIII of 1876, s. 3, as regards the law to be administered in the case of Mahomedans are the same as in the Punjab.
- 12. In the Central Provinces.—As to the Central Provinces, it is enacted by the Central Provinces Laws Act XX of 1875, s. 5, as follows:—
- "In questions regarding inheritance, betrothal, marriage, dower, guardianship, minority, bastardy, family relations, wills, legacies, gifts, partitions, or any religious usage or institution, the rule of decision shall be the Mahomedan law in cases where the parties are Mahomedans except in so far as such law has been by legislative enactment altered or abolished, or is opposed to the provisions of this Act:
- "Provided that, when among any class or body of persons or among the members of any family any custom prevails which is inconsistent with the law applicable between such persons under this section, and which, if not inconsistent with such law, would have been given effect to as legally binding, such custom shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be given effect to.
- "In cases not provided for [by the above clause], or by any other law for the time being in force, the Court shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience."

Custom.—See notes to s. 7 above.

Justice, equity and good conscience.—See notes to s. 7 above. See also ss. 5 and 28A.

13. In Burma.—As to Burma, it is enacted by the Burma Laws Act XIII of 1898, s. 13, that all questions regarding succession, inheritance, marriage, or any religious usage or institution, shall be decided, in cases where the parties are Mahomedans, by the Mahomedan law, except in so far as such law has by enactment been altered or abolished, or is opposed to any custom having the force of law. In cases not specifically mentioned above nor provided for by any other enactment for the time being in force, the decision is to be according to justice, equity and good conscience.

Custom .- See notes to s. 7 above.

Justice, equity and good conscience.—See notes to s. 7 above.

Ss. 11-13

CHAPTER II.

CONVERSION TO MAHOMEDANISM.

Ss. 14-15A 14. Meaning of "Mahomedan."—The expression "Mahomedan" in the Acts and Statutes referred to in ss. 6-13 includes not only a Mahomedan by brith, but also a Mahomedan by religion. Hence the Mahomedan law applies not only to persons who are born Mahomedans, but also to persons who have become converts to Mahomedanism, provided the conversion is bona fide, and not merely a colourable one (r).

[A Christian, A, married to a Christian wife, B, lives and cohabits with a Native Christian woman, C. With a view to legalize the innon between them, A and C both become Mahomedians, and marry in Mahomedian foun during the liftence of B. The marriage is not valid. The conversion cannot be said to be boun fide, as it was actuated solely by the desire to enjoy the privilege of polygamy conferred by the Mahomedian law; Skinner v. Orde (1871) 11 M. I. A. 309. See also In the matter of Ram Kuman (1801) 18 Cal. 264, and Nordi v. The Coron (1920) I Lah 440, 59 J. C. 33]

The essential doctrine of Mahomedanism is that there is only one God and that Mahomed is his prophet (s).

15. Conversion to Mahomedanism and marital rights. It is an open question whether conversion to Mahomedanism, made honestly after marriage with the assent of both spouses, and without any intent to commit a fraud upon the law. has the effect of altering rights incidental to the marriage

[1 and B, both Mahomedaux, esponse Christianity, and many in Christian form. Mere some time they both revert to Mahomedanism, and go through a form of maritiage a second time according to Mahomedan law. After A's death, B sucs A's relations to recover one-eighth of A's extate as his widow according to Mahomedan law. The defence is that B was drawed by A according to Mahomedan form some time before his death. Supposing the divorce is proved, is the divorce violat so as to exclude B from inheritance, regard being had to the fact that the marriage was primarily in Christian form, and the divorce was given in Mahomedan form? This question was left open by their Lordships of the Privy Conned, as their Lordships held that the divorce was not proved; Skiman v. Skimar (1897) 25 (4.5, 37, 464, 25) A. 3.4.

15A. Conversion to Mahomedanism and rights of inheritance. In the absence of a custom to the contrary [see secs. 16]

Abraham v. Abraham (1863) 9 M. I. A. 199, 213, Junula v. Dharum (1866) 10 M. I. A. 511, 537-58, Raj. Bahadur v. Bishen (1882) 4 Ml. AP.
 Aurandishat v. Parakkal (1922) 45 Mad. 986, 71 L. C. 65, (29) A. M. 171 [Ahmadham) are a sect of Mahometans]. Hakon Khalid v Mulk Israfi (1917) 2 Pat L. J. 108 [Ahmediyans] See also Quern-Empesor v. Ramazin (1885) 7 All. 461 [F. Ji.], Ata-Ulah v. Azim-Ulah (1890) 12 All. 494 [F. Ji.]

and 171 succession to the estate of a convert to Mahomedanism is governed by the Mahomedan law (t). According to the Mahomedan law a Hindu cannot succeed to the estate of a Maho-a medan. Therefore a Hindu wife of a Hindu who embraces the Islamic faith after the marriage is not entitled to succeed to his estate (n).

15A, 16A

16. Khojas and Cutchi Memons. - In the absence of proof of special usage to the contrary, Khojas and Cutchi Memons in the Bombay Presidency are governed in matters of succession and inheritance, not by the Mahomedan, but by the Hindu law (v).

Khogas and Cutchi Memons were originally Hindus. They became converts to Mahomedanism about 400 years ago, but retuned their Hindu law of inheritance and succession as a customary law. Hence the Hin lu law of inherdance and succession is applied to them on the ground of custom. This custom is so well established among them that if any member of either of these communities sets up a usage of succession opposed to the Huida law of succession, the builden lies upon him to prove such usage (a). Where, however, Cutchi Memons migrate from India and settle among Mahomedans, as in Mombasa, the presumption that they have adopted the Mahomedan custom of succession should be readily made. Where, therefore, a Cutchi Memon family migrated from Cutch to Mombasa, and settled there for about fifty years, it was held upon the evidence in the case that the family was governed by the Muhomedan law of succession (2).

Cutchi Memons Act. It is now provided by s. 2 of the Cutchi Memons Act 46 of 1920 and the Cutchi Memons Amendment Act 34 of 1923, that any person who satisfies the prescribed authority-

- (a) that he is a Cutchi Memon and is the person whom he represents himself to be;
 - (b) that he is competent to contract within the meaning of section 11 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and
 - (c) that he is resident in British India.

may by declaration in the prescribed form and filed before the prescribed authority declare that he desires to obtain the benefit of this Act, and thereafter the declarant and all his minor children and their descendants stall in matters of succession and inheritance be governed by the Mahomedan law.

16A. Testamentary power of Cutchi Memons.-A Cutchi Memon may dispose of the whole of his property by will.

(i) Chedemberan v. Ma Fyprin Me (1028) 6 Rang. (ii) (1028) 6 Rang. (iii) (2014)

(w) Abdulrahim v. Halimabai (1915) 43 I A. 35. 39, 18 Bom. L. R. 635, 639, 32 L. C. 413; Hirbai V. Gorbai (1875) 12 B. H. C. 294, Hirbas v. Horbas (1875) 12 B. H. C. 294, 205, Rahamellas v. Harbas (1877) 3 Born. 31; In re Hayl Isanat (1893) 6 Born 452, Abadus v. Hayl Feeb (1895) 6 Born 15; 10 Born 15; 10 Born 15; 10 Born. 11; 10 Born. 1; In the goods of Mathet (1806) 2 B. H. C. 276, The Hands law as to John family properly does not apply to Cutch Memous * Hajl Gomma v. Haroos Cutch Memous * Hajl Gomma v. Haroos (1806) 25; 10 Born. L. B. 485, 22 I. C. 413, apprenticed by the statement of t

Ss. A custom to that effect was proved in Advocate-General v. Jimbabaii (y). There is no doubt that a similar custom exists among the Khojas of Bombay. According to the Mahomedan law, a testator cannot dispose of more than one-third of his property by will; see s. 104 below.

16B. Halai Memons.—Halai Memons domiciled in Bombay are governed in all respects by the Mahomedan Law (z).

Halai Memons of Porbandar in Kathiawar follow in matters of succession and internace Hindu law and not Mahomedan law, differing in that respect from Halai Memons of Bombay. It was so held in the undermentioned case upon evidence of custom among Halai Memons in Porbandar (a).

17. Sunni Borahs of Gujarat: Molesalam Girasias of Broach—The Sunni Borah Mahomedans of Gujarat (b) and the Molesalam Girasias of Broach (c) are governed by the Hindu law in matters of succession and inheritance.

These communities also were originally Hindus, and became subsequently convert to Mahomedanism. The Sunni Borahs of Gujarat must not be confounded with the Borahs of Bombay who are Shiahs. See s. 20 below.

17A. Lubbais of Coimbatore.—As among Hindus, so among the Lubbais of the Coimbatore District, the sons exclude the daughters from inheritance (d).

The Lubbai Mahomedans of Coimbatore were originally Tamil-speaking Hindus who subsequently became converts to Mahomedamsm. They retain the Hindu rule excluding females from succession.

⁽y) (1915) 41 Bom 181, 31 I C 106; Advocate-General v. Kermali (1903) 29 Bom. 133, 148, 140

Khopas and Memons' Case (1847) Perry's
 Khopas and Memons' Case (1847) Perry's
 Ott Cas, 110, 115; Khatubas v Mahomed
 Hap Abu (1923) 53 I A. 108, 47 Bom.
 146, 72 I C. 202, (*22) A. PC 414, affing (1918) 43 Bom 647, 51 I C 513 (a) (1923) 53 I. A. 108, 47 Bom, 146, 72 I. C. 202, (22) V. P.C. 414, supra. (b) Bas Baijs v. Bai Santok (1894) 20 Bom, 53,

 ⁽a) Bath V. Bai Nantol (1894) 20 Bom. 53.
 (c) Falesangi v. Harisangi (1894) 20 Bom. 181.
 (d) Shak v. Mahammad (1916) 39 Ma.l. 664, 30 L.C. 806.

CHAPTER III.

MAHOMEDAN SECTS AND SUB-SECTS.

18. Sunnis and Shiahs.—The Mahomedans are divided into two sects, namely, the Sunnis and the Shiahs.

Ss. 18-22

The Cutchi Memons of Bombay and Haiai Memons belong to the Sunni sect. See ss. 16, 16A and 16B above.

The Khojas and the Borab- of Bombay belong to the Shuah sect. See ss 16, 16B and 17.

19. Sunni sub-sects.—The Sunnis are divided into four sub-sects, namely, the Hanafis, the Malikis, the Shafeis and the Hanabalis.

The Sunni Mahomedans of India belong principally to the Hanafi School.

Presumption as to Sannism.—The great majority of the Mahomedans of this country being Sunns, the presumption will be that the parties to a suit or proceeding are. Sunnis unless it is shown that the parties belong to the Shiah sect. (r).

 Shiah sub-sects.—The Shiahs are divided into three sub-sects, namely, the Asna-Asharias, the Ismailias and the Zaidyas.

There is yet another class of Mahomedans, called Motazala. They are sometimes spaken of by Mr. Ameer Ali as an independent sect and sometimes as an early offshoot of the Shiah seet; see Ameer Ali's Mahomedan Law, Vol. 11, pp. 21, 158.

21. Each sect governed by its law.—The Mahomedan law applicable to each sect is to prevail as to litigants of that sect (f).

The Sunni law will therefore apply to Sunnis and the Shiah law to Shiahs, and the law peculiar to each sub-sect will apply to persons belonging to that sub-sect.

22. Change of sect.—A Mahomedan male or female who has attained the age of puberty, may renounce the doctrines

⁽e) Bafatun v. Bilaitti Khanum (1903) 30 Cal., (f) Derdar Hossein v. Zuhoor-oon-Nussa (1841) 683.886

- Sa. of the sect or sub-sect to which he or she belongs, and adopt the tenets of the other sect or any other sub-sect, and he or she shall thenceforth be subject to the law of the new sect or sub-sect (q).
 - 23. Marriage between Shiah male and Sunni female—wife's status not affected.—Λ Sunni woman contracting marriage with a Shiah does not thereby become subject to the Shiah law (h).

The same proposition, it seems, would hold good in the case of the marriage of a Shiah female with a Sunni male. See s. 199 Λ .

(g) Hayatun-un-Nissa v. Mihammad (1890) 12 All 290, 17 I A 75 (change of set) Mihammad v. Gulom (1861) I B II. C (b) Nasrat Mamalan (1882) 4 Ml, 205.

Sources and Interpretation of Mahomedan Law.

24. Sources of Mahomedan law. -There are four sources of Mahomedan law, namely, (1) the Koran; (2) Hadis, that is, precepts, actions and savings of the Prophet Mahomed, not written down during his lifetime, but preserved by tradition and handed down by authorised persons; (3) Ijmaa, that is, decisions of the companions of Mahomed and his disciples: and (4) Kivas, being analogical deductions derived from a comparison of the first three sources when they did not apply to any particular case (i).

The Kiyas requires the exercise of reason, and it appears that though Abu Hamfa, the founder of the Hanaji sect of Sunnis, was so much inclined to the exercise of reason that he frequently preferred it in many cases to traditions of single authority, the founders of the other Sunn sects seldom resorted to Kivas (1).

25. Interpretation of the Koran.—The Courts, in administering Mahomedan law, should not, as a rule, attempt to put their own construction on the Koran in opposition to the express ruling of Mahomedan commentators of great antiquity and high authority.

Thus where a passage of the Koran (Sura II, vv. 241-242) was interpreted in a particular way both in the Hedaya (a work on the Sunni law) and in the Imamia (a work on the Shiah law), it was held by their Lordships of the Privy Council that it was not open to a Judge to construe it in a different manner (1).

26. Precepts of the Prophet.—Neither the ancient texts nor the precepts of the Prophet Mahomed should be taken literally so as to deduce from them new rules of law, especially when such proposed rules do not conduce to substantial justice.

The words of the section are taken from the judgment of their Lordships of the Privy Council in Bagar Ali v. Anjuman (1).

It is a rule of Mahomedan law that a gift in perpetuity is not valid unless the gift is one to Charity. Is a gift by a Mahomedan to his own children and their descendants a gift to charity? No- was the answer given by a majority of the Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court in Bikani Miya v. Shuk Lal (m). Yes-was the answer given by Ameer Ali, J., in a dissenting judgment, relying on the following precept of the Prophet Mahomed: "A pious offering to one's family to provide against their getting into want is more pious than giving alms to the beggars. The most excellent form of sadakah (charity) is that which a man bestows upon his own family." Referring to the judgment of Ameer Ali, J., their Lordships of the Privy Council observed in a later case (n), that

(m) (1893) 20 Cal. 116.

24-26

⁽t) Morley, Introd. ccxxvil. (j) Ib. p. ccxxxvil. (k) Aga Mahomed Jaffer v. Koolsom Beebes (1897) 25 Cal. 9, 18, 196, 204. (l) (1902) 25 All. 236, 254, 30 I.A. 94.

⁽n) Abul Fata v. Itasamaya (1894) 22 Cal. 619-632, 22 I.A. 76, 86, on appeal from (1891) 18 Cal. 399, 631, it was not safe in determining what was the rule of Mahomedan law on a particular subject to rely upon abstract precepts taken from the mouth of the Prophet without knowing the context in which those precepts were uttered. Their Lordships further observed that the rule of Mahomedan law on the subject was that which was laid down by the majority of the Full Bench, and that the new rule of law sought to be deduced from the precept of the Prophet by Ameer Ali, J., was not one that would conduce to justice. A wakf in favour of children and descendants is now declared to be legal by the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act VI of 1913, provided there is an ultimate gift to Charity. See ss. 159-161 below.

26-28A

- 27. Ancient texts.—New rules of law are not to be introduced because they seem to lawyers of the present day to follow logically from ancient texts however authoritative. when the ancient doctors of the law have not themselves drawn those conclusions (o).
- 28. General rules of interpretation of Hanafi law.—The three great exponents of the Hanafi-Sunni Law are Abu Hanifa, the founder of the Hanafi school, and his two disciples, Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad.

It is a general rule of interpretation of the Hanafi law that where there is a difference of opinion between Abu Hanifa and his two disciples, Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad, the opinion of the disciples prevails (p). Where there is a difference of opinion between Abu Hanifa and Imam Muhammad, that opinion is to be accepted which coincides with the opinion of Abu Yusuf (q). When the two disciples differ from their master and from each other, the authority of Abu Yusuf is generally preferred J(r). But these rules are not inflexible.

When it is doubtful which is the better opinion on a particular question, the Courts of India ought to follow that opinion which is most in accordance with justice, equity and good conscience (s).

28A. Rules of equity.- The rules of equity and equitable considerations commonly recognised in Courts of Chancery in England are not foreign to the Mussulman system, but are in fact often referred to and invoked in the adjudication of cases under that system (t). See sec. 5.

⁽c) Binger 111 v. Aryjuman (1902) 23 Al. 236.

Human Khim (1802) 14 All 429, 448.

(g) Agha Ali Khim v. Mirj Human Kham (1802) 14 All 429, 448.

(a) 14 14 22, 448. Addul Kadre v Selima Kham (1802) 16 All 429, 448.

(d) (1880) 8 All p. 102, nigram (1905) 10 C. William Homera (1905) borner (1893) is All 221, 323 it was bed that the opinion of mean Nulammad should be preferred to that of Abn Yusuf, the Court thinking (though erroneously that it was so laid down by the Full 20 Col. 116, deep 30 Col. 116, deep CHAPTER V.

Succession and Administration.

Prior to the Indian Succession Act, 1925, the two principal Acts in force in British India relating to the administration of the estate of deceased persons were the Indian Succession Act of 1865 and the Probate and Administration Act of 1881. The Succession Act of 1865 applied to Europeans, Parsis, East Indians and to all Natives of India other than Hindus, Mahomedans and Budhists. The Probate and Administration Act applied to Hindus, Mahomedans and Budhists, and it contained rules relating to administration which applied both to Hindus and Mahomedans. Both these Act is have been repealed by the Indian Succession Act, 1925, but their provisions have been re-mated in that Act. The present chapter to dams "pecual values of Mahomedan law relating to administration and succession and a few rules from the Indian Succession Act. 1995. which apply to Mahomedans []

29. Administration of a Mahomedan's estate. The property of a deceased Mahomedan is to be applied successively in payment of (1) his funeral expenses and death-bed charges, (2) expenses of obtaining probate or letters of administration, (3) wages due for service rendered to the deceased within three months next preceding his death by any labourer, artisan or domestic servant, (4) other debts of the deceased according to their respective priorities (if any), and (5) legacies not exceeding one-third of what remains after all the above payments have been made. The residue is to be distributed among the heirs of the deceased according to the law of the sect to which he belonged at the time of his death (p).

The order set forth above follows the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, se. 200-232 and s. 325. As regards stem No. (5), it is to be noted that a Mahomedan cannot by will dispose of more than one-third of what remains of his property after, payment of his funeral expenses and debts, unless the heirs consent thereto.

If the deceased was a Sunni at the time of his death, his property would be distributed among his heirs according to the Sunni law, and if he was a Shlah, it would be distributed according to the Shlah law. In other words, succession to the estate of a deceased Mahomedan is governed by the law of the sect to which he belonged at the time of his death, and not by the law of the sect to which the persons claiming the estate as his heirs belong (p).

The person primarily entitled to administer the estate of a doceased Mahomedan (i.e., to apply it in the manner set forth in the section) is the executor appointed under his will. If the deceased left no will, the person entitled to administer his estate is the person to whom letters of administration are granted. Such a person is called administration. The persons primarily entitled to letters of administration are the keirs of the (p) Hayat-un-Nissa v. Muhammad (1890) 12 All. 290, 17 I.A. 73.

S. 29

Se. 29-31 deceased: Indian Succession Act. 1925, s. 218. If no letters are obtained, the heirs are entitled to administer the estate.

30. Vesting of estate in executor and administrator.-The executor or administrator, as the case may be, of a deceased Mahomedan, is, under the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, sec. 211, his legal representative for all purposes, and all the property of the deceased vests in him as such.

But since a Mahomedan cannot dispose of by will more than one-third of what remains of his property after payment of his funeral expenses and debts, and since the remaining two-thirds must go to his heirs as on intestacy unless the heirs consent to the legacies exceeding the bequeathable third. the executor, when he has realized the estate, is a bare trustee for the heirs as to two-thirds, and an active trustee as to onethird for the purposes of the will; and of these trusts, one is created by the Act and the probate irrespective of the will, the other by the will established by the probate (q).

The first paragraph is a reproduction of the provisions of s. 211 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. An executor under the Mahomedan law is called wast, derived from wasiyyat which means a will. But though the Mahomedan law recognised a wasi it did not recognize an administrator, there being nothing analogous in that to "letters of administration." A was or executor under the Mahomedan law was merely a manager of the estate, and no part of the estate of the deceased rested in him as such. As a manager all that he was entitled to do was to pay the debts and distribute the estate as directed by the will. He had no power to sell or mortgage the property of the deceased, not even for the payment of his debts. The first time this power was conferred upon him was by the Probate and Administration Act, 1881. Under s. 4 of that Act, the whole of the property of a Mahomedan testator vested in his executor, and it does so now under s. 211 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. The property vests in the executor whether or no he takes out probate. As a result of the vesting of the estate in a Mahomedan executor, he has the power to dispose of the property vested in him in due course of administration, a power which he did not possess before the Probate and Administration Act, 1881 (r) [see s. 90 of the Act, now s. 307 of the Indian Succession Act. 19251.

31. Devolution of inheritance.—Subject to the provisions of the foregoing section, the whole property of the deceased, where he has died intestate, or where he has left a will, so much of it as cannot be, or is not, disposed of by his will, devolves on his heirs in specific shares at the moment of his death, and the devolution is not suspended by reason merely of debts being due from the deceased

⁽q) Mırza Kurratulanı v. Navab Nuzhat-ud-Dowla (1905) 33 Cal. 116, 128, 32 I. A. 244, 257.

⁽r) Mahomed Yusuf v. Harfovandas (1923) 47

The above rule follows from the decision of the Allahabad High Court in Jufii Begam v. Amir Muhammad (s) read with the preceding section. When a Mahomedan dies leaving a will, and there is an executor appointed under the will, the property of the deceased vests in the executor subject to the provisions of the second paragraph of s. 30. When a Mahomedan dies intestate, and there is a grant made of letters of administration of his property, the property vests in the administrator. But when there is no executor or administrator, the property of the deceased vests at the moment of his death in his heirs. The reason why the property of a deceased Mahomedan vests in his heirs in the absence of an executor or administrator is that the Mahomedan law does not recognise any representation to the estate of the deceased (t); if it did, his property could vest only in his legal representative, that is, his executor or administrator, and it could not vest in his heirs.

The property, when it vests in the heirs, vests in specific shares, that is, the heirs take their shares in severalty, their rights being analogous to those of tenants-in-common (a). The share of each heir before distribution is said to vest in him in interest. After distribution, the share vests in the heir in possession. When an heir comes into possession of his share, it is clear that he may alienate it by sale, mortgage, gift or otherwise. But he has not got the same powers of disposition when the share has not yet been vested in possession. Thus a valid gift cannot be made by an heir of his share which has not yet vested in him in possession except to a co-heir (s. 134). And as regards disposition by way of sale or mortgage, the validity of the disposition depends on the conditions set forth in the next section.

Limitation. - Where the heirs of a deceased Mahomedan continue to live as tenantsin-common without dividing the estate, and a suit is subsequently brought by one of them for recovery of his share by partition, limitation does not run from the date of the death of the deceased; in other words, it is art, 144 and not art, 123 of the Limitation Act that governs the period of limitation (c).

Administration suit. It may here be noted that any one of the heirs may bring an administration suit; he is not bound to bring a suit for partition (w).

32. Alienation of share before distribution.—(1) " A creditor of a deceased Mahomedan cannot follow his estate into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value to whom it has been alienated by his heir-at-law." In other words, any heir may, even before distribution of the estate, transfer his own share of the inheritance (x) either by absolute sale or by ⁽e) (1885) 7 All. 822, followed in Muhammad Awars v. Har Sahi (1885) 7 All. 719.

(f) Ams Dullin v. Bas) Math (1894) 2 Cal. 311, 315. The contrary opinion expressed by Markby, J., in Assentation Newson these v. Lutchmeeput Singh (1878) 4 Cal. 132, 138 is no longer law.

⁽u) Abdul Khader v. Chidambaram (1909) 32 Mud. 276, 278, 3 I.O 876; Abdul Majeeth v. Krishnamachariar (1917) 40 Mad. 243, v. Krishnamacha 254, 40 J.C. 210.

⁽v) Kallangmala v. Bibshaya (1920) 44 Bom, 943, 58 I.C. 42; Niurdin v. Bu Umrao.

^{(1921) 45} Bom 519, 59 LC 780; mst. Zai-nab v. Ghulam Rasul (1923) 4 Lah. 402, 73 I. C. 425, ('23) All. 519.

⁽a) Espailly v. Abdreis (1921) 45 Born, 75, 59

(b) Espailly v. Abdreis (1921) 45 Born, 75, 59

(c) Burnyet Hosener, V. Doli Chund (1878) 4 Cal,
Mayork, V. Reiner, Mayoria, 1921, 1931

Majoria, V. Reiner, 1931, 1931

Majoria, V. Serber (1919) 33 Maj. 1009,
1101, 32 15. (1902) 18 was said that a
Mahomedan left takes a share of each tiem of the property left by the deceased.

S. 32 mortgage and give the transferee a good title thereto, notwith-standing any debts that might be due from the deceased, provided that the transferee acts in good faith and under circumstances which are not such as to raise a reasonable presumption that he had notice of the debts (u) [ills. (a) and (c)].

Even if the transferee has notice of the debts, the transfer is not absolutely void, but voidable merely at the option of the creditor, so as to entitle him to follow the estate in the hands of the transferee. But the creditor is not entitled to follow the estate in the transferee's hands unless the assets in the hands of the heirs are insufficient to satisfy his claim (z) [ill. (d)].

(2) Where the estate or any part thereof consists of immovable property, and the transfer is made by an heir of his share in such property during the pseudency of a creditor's suit in which the creditor obtains a decree passed for the payment of his debt out of the estate which has come into the hands of the heir, the transferee will be affected by the doctrine of his pendens (a) [ill. (e)].

Explanation.-- "Transferee" within the meaning of this section includes a purchaser at a sale in execution of a decree obtained against an heir by his creditor (b) [ill. (b).]

Illustrations.

[4a) A Mahomedan, who owes a sum of money to C, dies leaving certain heirs. The hears well the whole of the property of the deceased to C P before payment of the debt due to C. P buys the property without notice of the debt due to C. C then obtains a exprise after an attachment of the property sold by the heirs to P, alleging that the heirs had no right to alternate the property sold by the heirs to P, alleging that the heirs had no right to alternate the property of the deceased before payment of the debt due from the deceased. C is not outluted to attach the property in the hands of P, the latter being a bona fide purchaser for value without notice of C's claim: Land Mortgage Bank v. Bidyndari (1880) 7 C. L. R. 400.]

Note. —So long as the estate of a deceased Mahomedan is in the hands of his heirs, a creditor of the deceased who has obtained a decree against the heirs for his debts may follow it in the hands of the heirs, that is to say, he may attach the estate in the hands of the heirs in execution of the decree. But the ease is different when the estate has been sold by the heirs, and it has passed into the purchaser's hands. In such a case if the purchaser bought without notice of the debts, the creditor cannot attach the property in the hands of the purchaser. It does not matter that the object of the heirs in selling the ⁽y) Bazayat Hossein v. Dooli Chund (1878) 4 Cal.

402, 5 I. A. 211; Land Mortgage Bank v.
Bidyadhari (1880) 7 C. L. R. 460.
(z) Rajkristo v. Koylash Chandur (1881) 8 Cal.
24.

⁽a) Bazayet Hossein v. Dooli Chund (1878) 4 Cal. 402, L. R. 5 I. A. 211. (b) Wahiduniesa v. Shubrattun (1870) 6 B.L. B. 54.

S. 32

property was to defraud the creditor, for the question being one between the creditor and the purchaser, the test is whether the purchaser took with notice of the debts, and not whether the heirs included to defraud the creditor (c).

[(b)] A Mahomedan, who ower a sum of money to C, dies leaving two sisters as his only heirs. C obtains a decree for the amount of his debt against the sisters as representing the estate of the deceased. Subsequently a creditor of the sisters obtains a decree against them, and the estate of the deceased in the hands of the sisters is sold in execution of that decree, and purchased by P without notice of C solaim. C then applies for attachment of the property of the deceased in the hands of P. He is not entitled to attach the property, for P is a purchaser without notice of C's claim: W behalumis as N substantial (1870) 6 3 L.B. L, with facts slightly altered).

Note.—The only distinction between this and the preceding illustration is that in the latter case the sale by |U| a new soluntary while in the present illustration the sale is in xerotion of a decree against the heirs. The point to be noted is that in both cases C sought to attach the property after it has passed from the hands of the heirs into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value without notice of C's claim and in both cases it was held that be was not entitled to do so.

[6] A Mahomedan dies leaving a son and a wotow C. The deceased over a large sum of money to C for her dover. The son mortgages the whole of the estate of the deceased to P to secure repayment of advances made to him by P without notice of C's claim. Subsequently C obtains a decree for the amount of her debt against the son and in execution of the decree attaches the mortgaged property in the hands of the son. During the pendency of the attachment, P suce the son on the mortgage-debt from the mortgaged property. The property mortgaged is sold in pursuance of the decree and purchased by X. Is X entitled to have the attachment set aside 'Y Yes, for X derives his title under a sale in execution of the decree obtained by P who took the mortgage before the institution of C's sut without notice of C's claim: Busnyt Hossein v Dools Chand (1878) t Cal. 402, 5 I. A. 211, with facts slightly altered.]

Note.—The only distinction between this and ill. (a) is that in the latter case the alienation by the heirs was by way of sole while in the present illustration it is by way of mortgage. The test is whether P_i the mortgage, was a bone fide transferre for value without notice of C^2 sclaim, and not whether X_i the purchaser from the mortgage, purchased with notice of that claim.

[(d) A Mahomedan, who is indebted to C, dies leaving a widow and other heirs. The widow sells to P certain land allotted to her on distribution of the estates of the deceased. P had notice at the time of purchase of C's claim. Subsequently C obtains a decree against the heurs for the amount of his debt, and seeks to attach the land sold by the widow to P. C is not cruitfuled to attach the land in the hands of P, though P had notice of his claim, unless it is shown that the assets in the hands of the herrs are not sufficient to estatefy his claim: Rajkristo v. Koylash Chunder (1881) 8 Cal, 24, with facts alightly altered.

Note.—The mere fact that P had notice of C's claim does not entitle C to follow the widow's share in the hands of P unless C can show that there are not sufficient assets in the hands of the beirs for the payment of his debt.

- [(e) A Mahomedan, who owes a sum of money to C, dies leaving a son as his only heir. C institutes a suit against the son for an account of the estate of the deceased come to his hands and for payment of his debt out of the estate. During the pendency of the suit, the son sells to P certain land forming part of the property of the deceased. A decree is subsequently passed in C's suit for the payment of his debt out of the estate come into the hands of the son. C applies in execution of the decree for attachment of the property in the hands of P. C is entitled to attach the property: Bazayet Hosscin v. Dooli Chund (1878) 4 Cal. 402, 5 I. A. 211, followed in Yasin Khun v. Muhammad (1897) 19 All. 504.]
- Note. In ill. (a) the sale by the heirs was made before the institution of the creditor's suit. In the present case the sale is made during the pendency of the creditor's suit which in its nature was an administration suit as indicated by the form of the decree. The decree was against the estate, and not a simple money decree (d). The rule laid down in cl. 2 of the present section is merely an application of the doctrine of list pendens (see the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, s. 52).
- 33. Liability of heirs for debts.—(1) The heirs of deceased Mahomedan are liable before distribution of the estate, to pay the debts of the deceased to the extent of the assets to which they may have succeeded but they are not liable to pay debts exceeding such assets (e).
- (2) After the estate is distributed each heir is liable for debts due from the deceased to the extent only of a share of the debts proportionate to his share of the estate (f).

Illustrations.

- [(a) A Mahomedan dies leaving assets of the value of Rs. 4,000 and debts amounting to Rs. 5,000. The hability of the heirs is confined to the amount of the assets, namely, Rs. 4,000 and the creditor is not entitled to a personal decree against the heirs for the balance of the debt.
- (b) A Mahomedan, who is indebted to C in the sum of Rs 3,200, dies leaving a widow, a son and two daughters. The heirs divide the estate without paying the debt, the widow taking 1/8, the son taking 7/16, and each daughter 7/32. Uthen sues the widow and the son for the whole of the debt due to him from the deceased. The widow is hable to pay only (1/8×3,200) Rs. 400, and the son (7/16×3,200) -Rs. 1,400; they are not hable for the whole debt: Pirthipal Singh v. Hussaini Jan (1882) 4 All. 361.]
- 34. Distribution of estate.-If the estate is not insolvent, the heirs may divide it at any time after the death of the deceased and the distribution is not liable to be suspended until payment of the debts.

⁽d) Bhola Nath v. Maqbul-un-Nesea (1903) 26 All.
28. It is stated in the judgment in this case that the decree in Yanu Kharis case cited in ili (e) was a simple money decree and not a decree for payment of the creditor's debt out of the estate II so, the decision in that case is obviously wong.

⁽e) Meer Aleen Ullah v. Alif Khan, I.S D.A.;

⁽⁸⁾ Mer Ausen Villan V. All Mill Mill, 18 D.S., Beng, 57. (1) Hamer Singh V. Zakia (1875) 1 All. 57; Pirthipal Singh V. Husaini Jan (1882) 4 All 361; Ambashankar V. Sayad Ali (1894) 19 Bonn. 273; Bussenteram V Kamaluddin (1885) 11 Cal. 421, 428.

Ss. 34, 36

So hold by the High Court of Allahahad (g) relying on certain passages from the Hedaya, and, following it, by the High Court of Calcutta (h). In a later Allahabad case (i), Mahmood, J., sawi that the translation of the said passage was only a loose paraphrase of the original Arabic, and he expressed the opinion that the estate may be distributed though it may be insolvent.

According to Mahomedan have the estate of a deceased person vests in his hears at the moment of his death (a. 31). The hears therefore may divide it at any time, even before payment of the debta due by the deceased. As a result of the rule set forth in the present section, it is not competent to a creditor of the deceased to go against any one keir for the whole of his debt, saying that the hear onght not to have divided the satate before payment of debts. The creditor can recover from the hear such only the heir's proportionate share of the debt [3, 33, 41] (b)].

- 35. Suit by creditor against executor or administrator.—
 If the estate is represented by an executor or administrator, a suit by a creditor of the deceased should be instituted against the executor or administrator as the case may be.
- 36. Suit by creditor against heirs. If there be no executor or administrator, the creditor may proceed against the heirs of the deceased, subject to the following provisions:—
- (I) If the estate is distributed, and the suit is brought against some only of the heirs of the deceased, the creditor is not entitled to a decree for the whole amount of his debt, but only for an amount proportionate to the aggregate share of the defendants in the property [see s. 33 (2)].
- (2) If the estate is not distributed, the creditor may, acrording to the decisions of the High Court of Calcutta, sue any heir in possession of the whole or any part of the estate without joining the other heirs as defendants, and the Court may in such a suit pass a decree for the sale, not only of that particular heir's share in the estate, but of all the assets of the deceased that are in his possession. Where such a decree is passed and a sale is effected in execution of the decree, the sale will pass to the purchaser not only the interest of that particular heir in the property sold, but the interests of the other heirs also (including minors), though they were not parties to the suit (j), unless the decree was obtained by consent (k), or unless it is proved that the debt was not due (l) fills. (a) and (b)!

 ⁽g) Hamir Singh v. Zakia (1875) 1 All. 57, 50, [F. B.]; Prithsyal Singh v. Husaini Jan (1882) 4 All. 361, 366, (h) Bussenteram v. Kamaluddin (1885) 11 Cal.

<sup>421, 428.
(</sup>i) Jafri Begum v. Amir Muhammad Khan
(1885) 7 411 822 838.

Multyjan v. Ahmed Ally (1882) 8 Cal. 370;
 Dulhum v. Baij Nath (1894) 21 Cal. 311.
 Assamathem v. Roy Lutchmeeput Singh (1878) 4 Cal. 142, 155.

Khursetbibi v. Keso Vinnayek (1887) 12 Bom. 101, 103.

The same view was taken, though based on different grounds, by the High Court of Bombay in earlier decisions (m), with this exception that a sale in execution did not bind the other heirs unless the heir against whom the decree was obtained was in possession of the whole estate of the deceased [ills. (c)] and (d)). But this view has been disapproved in recent cases. and it has been held that a sale in execution of a decree passed against an heir in possession in a creditor's suit does not pass to the purchaser the interest of those heirs in the estate who were not parties to the suit even if the heir against whom the decree was passed was in possession of the whole estate (n) (ill. (dd)). This view coincides with that taken by the High Court of Allahabad.

In Pathummabi v. Vittil (o), the High Court of Madras followed the earlier rulings of the Bombay High Court, but the authority of that decision has been considerably shaken by the observations of Abdur Rahim, J., in Abdul Majeeth v. Krishnamachariar(p).

According to the rulings of the Allahabad High Court. a decree relative to his debts passed in a contentious or noncontentious suit against only such heirs of a deceased Mahomedan debtor as are in possession of the whole or part of his estate, binds each defendant to the extent of his full share in the estate (q), but it does not bind the other heirs who by reason of absence or any other cause are out of possession, so as to convey to the auction-purchaser in execution of such a decree the rights and interests of such heirs as were not parties to the decree, and they will be entitled to recover from the auction-purchaser possession of their share in the property sold subject, however, to payment to the purchaser of their proportionate share of the debts for which the decree was made (r). unless the circumstances are such as do not call for the exercise of this equity in favour of the purchaser (s) [ills. (e) and (f)].

 ⁽m) Khurzethbi v. Keso Vinnayck (1887) 12 Bom.
 101; Davalaru v. Bimayi (1895) 20 Bom.
 338, followed in Virchand v. Kondu (1915)
 39 Isom. 729, 31 1. C. 180 [mortgage-Bom. 729, 31 1. C. 180 [mortgage-derver].
 Ibbegrithlov v. Roshants (1919) 43 Bom. 412, 51 1 v. 18. dissenting from 12 Bom. 101, and 20 Bom. 338, sepre, Scheduseleb v. 228 [mortgage sait], dissenting from 39 Bom. 729, 31 1. C. 180, sepre, Lala Miga v. Marubbis (1923) 47 Dom. 712, 73 I.C., 244, (23) A. 411.
 (a) (1902) 26 Mad. 734, 738.

⁽p) (1917) 40 Mad. 243, 255, 257, 40 I. C. 210. (g) Dallu Mal v. Hari Das (1901) 23 All, 263, 265.

⁽g) Daitu Matv. Hart, Das (1901) 28, 311. 253, 265.
Jafri Repum v. Amir Muhamad Khan (1885)
7. All. 522. 3 Muhammad Arosus v. Rav Sahois
7. All. 522. 3 Muhammad Arosus v. Rav Sahois
Ravin (1875) 1. All. 57. 580 en loo Muhammad
Allahdad v. Muhammad Imadi
Jamad Jibhlad v. Muhammad Imadi
Jamad Jibhlad v. Muhammad Imadi
Jamad Jibhlad v. Muhammad Imadi
John Doolin v. Kam Muhammad Khan
(1885) 7. All. 822. See the third question referred to the y. Ill. Bench la the above case and the form of it as amend the Full Bench (ib. p. 825).

- (a) A Mahomedan dies leaving a widow, a daughter, and two sisters. After his death a suit is brought by a creditor of the deceased against the widow and the daughter who alone are in possession of the whole estate, and a decree is passed "against the assets of" the deceased. The decree and the sale in execution of the property left by the deceased are binding on the sisters though they were not parties to the suit: Muttyian v. Ahmed Ally (1882) 8 Cal. 370.
- (b) A Mahomedan dies leaving a widow and other heirs. A suit is brought by a creditor of the deceased against the widow alone who is in possession of a part of the estate. The other heirs are not necessary parties, and the creditor is entitled to a decree not only against the share of the widow in the estate, but the full amount of assets which have come into her hands and which have not been papied in the discharge of the liabilities to which the estate may be subject at her husband's death: Amir Dulhin v. Baij Nuth (1894) 21 Cal 311.
- (c) A Mahomedan woman. Khatta, dies leaving a minor son and a daughter. After her daath a suit is brought by a creditor of the deceased against. "Khatta, deceased, represented by her minor son represented by his guardian" (t), and a decree is passed in that form. The deceased was entitled to a share in a Khoti Vitan and "the right, title, and interest of Khatia" in that share is sold in execution of the decree. The purchaser acquires a title unimpeachable by the daughter, though she was not a party to the suit or to the suits or to the suits or to the suits or to the suits or to the suits of the control of the
- (d) A Mahomedan dies leaving a widow, a minor son, and two daughters. Afterhis death a suit is brought by a mortgaged from the decessed against the son as represented by his guardian and mother, claiming possession of the land mortgaged to him as owner under a gohan lobia clause in the mortgage. The widow is in possession of the estate and an ex-parta decree is passed directing liet to make over possession of the land to the mortgagee, and he is accordingly put in possession. The decree hinds the daughters though they were not parties to the suit, and they are not entitled to redoen the mortgage as against the mortgage or a purchaser from him: Duvalewa v. Bhuasii (1895) 20 Bom. 238.
- (dd) A Mahomedan dies leaving a widow and a daughter. After his doath G, a creditor of the deceased, such the widow for the recovery of a debt due to him and a decree is passed in his favour for Rs. 327 to be recovered out of the estate of the deceased. In a ceceution of the decree, the right, title and interest of the deceased in a house is sold and it is purchased by P. The daughter, who was not a party to the suit, subsequently uses P to recover by partition her share in the house. Held, disapproving the cases cited in Illa. (c) and (d), that the daughter, not being a party be Cr suit, was not bound by the decree passed in the suit, and that the sale did not pass her interest in the house to P, and that she was entitled to recover her share in the house: Bhagirthiai v. Roshambi (1919) 43 Bom. 412, 51 LC. 18. [In this case the widow against whom the decree was obtained was in possession of the whole house; see p. 427 of the report, lines 27-28.]

⁽t) This form of suit, which was at one time common in the Mofussil of Bombay, has been recently disapproved of by the Bom-

⁽u) Note that in this case "no part of the produce of the Khoti was in actual possession

- (c) A creditor of a deceased Mahomedian obtains a decree upon a hypothecation bond "for recovery of his dobt by enforcement of hen" against an hier of the deceased in possession of the estate. The whole estate is sold in execution of the decree, and it is purchased by the decree-holder. Subsequently another heir of the deceased, who was not a party to these proceedings, sues the decree-holder as purchaser for recovery of his share in the estate. According to the Allahabad High Court, he is entitled to possession of his share on payment of his proportionate share of the debts which were paid off from the proceeds of the sale: Mahommad Alvara v. Har Sahai (1885) 7 All. 716, following Jafra Beginn v. Amir Jihamanda (1885) 7 All. 822.
- (f) A creditor of a deceased Mahomedan obtains a money decree against an heir of the deceased in possession of the estate, and attaches certain immovable property forming part of the estate in execution of the decree. The value of the immovable property exceeds the share of the defendant. According to the Allahabad High Court, the defendant is entitled to object to the attachment and sale of the right and interest of the other heirs who were not parties to the suit, upon the ground that as regards them he is in possession of the property as trustee: Dulla, Mal v. Hari Das (1901) 23 Ml. 23d., This follows from the decision set out in II. (c).

Principle of the Calcutta rulings.—According to the Calcutta decisions, a creditor's suit against an heir in possession is in the nature of an administration suit binding on all the heis of a deceased Mahomedian. This theory appears to have been dictated principally by the consideration that grave injustice might result if the creditor were to be confined to the recovery of a fractional portion only of his claim as held by the Allahabad High Court. The same Court has further endeavoured to strengthen its decision by the analogy, though incomplete, of the case of an execution de son note (b), who can be such according to the English law for an account of the specific assets that have come into his hands, though there may be no legal representative. Commenting on the view of the Calcutta Court, Heaton, J., said in Bungrithdia' v. Boolanabi (w): "It seems to me to be a mistake in terms to call a suit by a creditor to establish a single debt against the estate of a deceased person a creditor's administration suit."

Principle of the Bombay rulings.—In the cases cited in ills. (c) and (d), the Bombay High Court followed the rule of Hindu law, namely, that "when, in a (creditor's) suit; the debt is due from the father and after his death the property is brought to sale in execution of a decree against the wildow or some of the heirs of the [deceased], and the whole property is sold, then the heirs not brought on the record cannot be permitted to raise the objection that they were not bound by the sale simply because they were not parties to the record "(c). In 43 Bom 412, 51 LC. 18, cited in ill. (dd), the Court said that there was no warrant for the application to Mahomedans of the above-mentioned rule of Hindu law.)

Principle of the Allahabad Itigh Court may thus be stated in the words of Mahmood, J.: "To hold that a decree obtained by a creditor of the deceased against some of his heirs will bind also those heirs who were not parties to the sunt, amounts to giving a judgment inter partee or rather a judgment an personan which the landing effect of a judgment in rem, which the last limits to eases provided for by s. 41 of the Evidence Act. But our law warrants no such course, and the reason seems to me to be obvious. Mahomedan hers are independent owners of their specific shares, and if they take their shares subject to the charge of the debts of the deceased, their lability is in proportion to the extent of their shares. And once this is conceded, the maxim res inter alias acts alter incore non debet would apply without any such qualifications as might possibly be made in the case of Hundiu co-heris in a joint family "(y). The meaning of the maxim as applied to the question now under consideration is that a judgment in a suit between A and B is not binding upon C unless C is the privy either of A or B.

⁽v) Amir Dulhin v. Bay Nath Singh (1894) 21 (z) Davalares v. Bhimaji (1895) 20 Bom. 338, Cal. 311, 317. (w) (1919) 43 Bom. 412, 422, 51 J. C. 18.

Ss. 36-38

→ 37. Alienation by heir for payment of debts.—One of several heirs of a deceased Mahomedan, though he may be in possession of the whole estate of the deceased, has no power to alienate the shares of his co-heirs, not even for the purpose of discharging the debts of the deceased. If he sells any property in his possession forming part of the estate of the deceased, though it may be for payment of the debts of the deceased, such sale operates as a transfer only of his interest in the property. It is not binding on the other co-heirs or the other creditors of the deceased (2).

It has been so hold by a Full Bench of the Madian High Court overruling Pathonmodu v. Vidi (c), an earlier decision of the same High Court, and describing from the Allahabad decision in Hasan Ally v. Michil. Hasann (c). A reference to the Full Bench was necessary because in Pathoniumbi's case the Court had expressed an opinion quite contrary to that had down in the present section. That opinion was based on the ground that if a sale in execution of a decree obtained by a creditor against an heur in possession of the estate bound the other heirs though they were not joined as patters to the suit [s, 36 (2)], it made no difference that the heir met the demand by a containty sale. But this view was open to the critisein that it general the distinction between a debt which had been adjudged by the Court and a debt not so adjudged (c), and it has now been described from by the Pull Bench.

As to estensible ownership, see Mubarak-un-Nissa v. Muhammad (d), a case under s 41 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

38. Recovery through Court of debts due to the deceased.—
No Court shall pass a decree against a debtor of a deceased Mahomedan for payment of his debt to a person claiming on succession to be entitled to the effects of the deceased or to any part thereof, or proceed, upon an application of a person claiming to be so entitled, to execute against such a debtor a decree or order for the payment of his debt, except on the production, by the person so claiming, of a probate or ⁽y) Jafri Begum v. Amir Muhammad (1885) 7 All.

F22, 842, 843.

(2) Abdul Mayeth v Krushnamu Charar (1917)
40 Mad, 243, 40 l. C 210 |F B |; Sukur
v. Annot (1923) 50 Cal 978, 79 l C 491,
(24) A. C. 384. See Unlan Goss v
Shruma (1919) 43 Both, 487, 51 l. C. 79
[sale of equity of it demption by one co-hear—sult for redemption by other coheirs limitation]. (a) (1902) 26 Mad, 734.

⁽a) (1902) 26 Mart. 733. (b) (1877) I All 533 (c) Haba v. Shrvappa (1895) 20 Bom. 199, 201. (d) (1924) 46 All 377, 79 I C. 174 ('24) A A.

letters of administration evidencing the grant to him of administration to the estate of the deceased, or a certificate granted under s. 31 or s. 32 of the Administrator-General's Act, 1913, and having the debt mentioned therein, or a succession certificate granted under Part X of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, and having the debt specified therein, or a certificate granted under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, or a certificate granted under Bombay Regulation No. VIII of 1827, and having the debt specified therein, and if granted after the first day of May, 1889, having the debt specified therein.

Explanation.—The word "debt" in this section includes any debt except rent, revenue or profits payable in respect of land used for agricultural purposes.

This section reproduces the provisions of s. 214 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925.

Probate and Letters of administration.—It is not necessary in the case of a Mahomedan will that the executor should obtain probate of the will to establish his right as such in a Court of Justice [Indian Succession Act, 1925, s. 213 (2)]. Nor as it necessary where a Mahomedan has died intestate that his heirs should obtain letters of administration to establish their right to any part of the property of the deceased in a Court of Justice [Indian Succession Act, 1925, s. 212 (2)] (c). But where a suit is brought to recover a debt due to the deceased, the Court shall not pass a decree except on production of probate or of letters of administration or a certificate as mentioned in this section.

Recovery of debts through Court. - its must be observed that the rule laid down in the present section applies only where a debt due to the deceased is sought to be recovered through a Court. A debtor of a deceased person may pay his debt to the executor, though he may not have obtained probate, or, where he has died intestate, to his here even if they have not taken out letters of administration or a certificate, and such payment will operate as a discharge to debt obtoo. But payment of a debt by a debtor to one of several hours does not discharge the debt as to all (f).

It may also be noted that where a dobt is sought to be recovered by legal proceedings, it is not necessary that the plannill should have in readiness a probate or letters of administration or a certificate at the date of the institution of the suit. It is enough if he produces them before the pussing of the decree (g).

Debt. A suit by one member of a family to obtain his share of the family property from the other members is not a suit to recover a "debt" (h). It is not settled whether a decree in a mortgage suit directing the sale of the mortgaged property is a decree for payment of a "debt" within the meaning of this section (i).

⁽c) Shruk Moosa v. Shock East (1884) 8 Dopn. 241, 225. Networ Riber v. Mahmendet Jahle (1932) 37 (cal. 830, 8 l. f., 655. 15 must, however, be noted that when there are several executors, the powers of all may, in the abcted that the several control of the several control

⁽f) Pathummabi v. Vittil Ummachabi (1902) 28 Mad. 734, 739. Compare Staram v. Shridhar (1903) 27 Bom. 292. See also Ahinsa Bibs v. Abdul Kader (1901) 25 Mad. 28, 39. Chandra Kishore v. Prasanna Kumari (1910)

 ⁽g) Chandra Kishore v. Prasanna Kumari (1910) 38 Cal. 327, 83 I.-A. 7, 9 1 C. 122.
 (h) Shaik Meosa v. Shaik Essa (1884) 8 Bom. 241,

⁽²⁾ Palaniyandi v. Veerammal (1905) 29 Mad. 77 [hold not to be a debt]; Nanchand v. Yenasaa (1904) 28 Bom. 630 [held not to be a debt]; Fatekchand v. Mahomed (1894) 16 All. 259 [held to be a debt].

- 39. Enactments relating to administration.—In matters not hereinbefore specifically enumerated, the administration of the estate of a deceased Mahomedan is governed by the provisions of the following Acts to the extent to which they are applicable to the case of Mahomedans, namely:—
 - (1) the Indian Succession Act, 1925;
 - (2) the Administrator-General Act, 1913;
 - (3) the Administrator-General and Official Trustees Act, 1902, s. 4; and
 - (4) Bombay Regulation No. 8 of 1827.

Such of the provisions of the Administrator-General's Act as apply to Mahomedans come into operation when a Mahomedan dies leaving assets within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, In such a case, the Court may, upon the application of any person interested in the assets, direct the Administrator-General to apply for letters of administration of the effects of the deceased, if the applicant satisfies the Court that such grant is necessary for the protection of the assets (see s. 10 of the Act, and also s. 11).

CHAPTER VI.

INHERITANCE—GENERAL RULES.

- Ss. 40-42
- 40. Heritable property.—There is no distinction in the Mahomedan law of inheritance between movable and immovable property or between ancestral and self-acquired property.
- . 41. Birth-right not recognized.—The right of an heirapparent or presumptive comes into existence for the first time on the death of the ancestor, and he is not entitled until then to any interest in the property to which he would succeed as an heir if he survived the ancestor (j).
- [4], who has a son B, makes a gift of his property to C. B, alleging that the gift was procured by undue unfluence, sucs C in A's hifting on the strength of his right to succeed to A's property on A's death. The sun must be dismissed, for B has no cause of action against C. B has no cause of action, to the is not entitled to any interest in A's property during A's hifting at Hasan Alli v. Nazo (1889) H All. 456, 458. But the gift would be hable to be set aside it the suit was brought after A's death, provided it was brought within the period of limitation: Marza Kuratalain v. Nazach Nazhaladahadhadh (1963) 33 Cd. 1163, 24 L. A. 244.
- The right such as that claimed by B in the above illustration is unknown to, and not recognized by, the Mahounedian law $\langle b \rangle$. It is not more than a $-p_0 \approx saccossinity$, that is, an expectation or hope of succeeding to A's property if B survived A. As observed by the High Court of Allahabad, the Mahounedian law o does not recognize any interest expectant on the death of another, and till that death occurs which by force of that law gives birth to the right as heir in the person entitled to it according to the rule of succession, he possesses no right at all o (D).
- 42. Principle of representation. According to the Sunni law, the expectant right of an heir-apparent cannot pass by succession to his heir, nor can it pass by bequest to a legatee under his will (m). According to the Shiah law, it does pass by succession in the cases specified in s. 80 below.
- [1] A. Sunm Mahomedan, has two sons, B and C, B dies in the lifetime of A, leaving a son D. A then dues leaving C, hus son, and D, his grandson. The whole of A's property will pass to C to the entire exclusion of D. It is not open to D to contend that he is entitled to B's share as representing B: Modha Cassim v. Modha Abdul (1905) 33 (2d) 173, 324 b, 1477]

⁽g) Abdul Wahid v Nuran Bibi (1885) 11 Cal 597, 12 I. V. 91, Humicday Buddun (1872) 17 W R 525 Haan Ali v, Nazo (1889) 11 All 466, Abdool v, Goolam (1905) 30 Bons 304.

 ⁽k) Abdool v. Goolam (1905) 30 Bom. 304.
 (l) Hazen Alı v. Nazo (1880) 11 All. 456, 458.
 (m) Abdul Wahd v. Nuran Bibi (1885) 11 Cal.
 597, 607, 12 I. A. 91. Macnaghten, p. 1,

Ss. 42-44

In the case cited above their Lordships of the Privy Council observed: "It is a well-known principle of Mahomedan law that if any of the children of a man die before the opening of the succession to his estate, leaving children behind, these grand-children are entirely excluded from the inheritance by their uncles and their aunts."

If in the above ca.o. B bequeathed any portion of his expectant share in A's property to A, the latter would take nothing under the will. "A mere possibility such as the expectant right of an heir-apparent, cannot pass by succession, bequetor transfer so long as the right has not actually come into existence by the death of the present owner "(n).

43. Transfer of spes successionis.—The chance of a Mahomedan heir-apparent succeeding to an estate cannot be the subject of a valid transfer or release (6)

Eliustration

[4] has a son B and a daughter C.—I pays Rs. 1,000 to C, and obtains from her a writing whereby in consideration of Rs. 1,000 received by her from A, she renounces her right to inheut. It's property.—I then dies, and C sies B for her share (one-third) of the property left by A.—B sets up in defence the release passed by C to her father. The release is not a defence to the soil and C is entitled to her share of the inheritance for the transfer by her w.s. a transfer merely of a spex successions, and, as such, inoperative.—But C is bound to bring into account the amount received by her from her father is Summedian.—I shall House in (1966) 34 Bonn. 165.]

In the Bombay case ested above, the Court said that the rule of Mahomedan law that an here cannot renounce his right to inherit is not different from the law under the Transfer of the Property Act, 1882—8. 6 (a) of the Act provides that 'the chance of an hen-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a ligacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred."

A husband gives immovable property to his wife in heu of her dower, and agrees not to claim any share of it as her heir on her death. Is the agreement valid and binding on the husband? The High Court of Allehabad has held that it is binding on the husband (n).

₹44. Life-estate and vested remainder. (1) According to the Sunni law, when property is given or bequeathed to a person for life, and on his death to another person, the first donee is entitled to an absolute estate, and the second donee is not entitled to any interest in the property. The reason is that, according to the Sunni law, a life-grant [amree or umra] is nothing but a gift and a condition, and the condition being repugnant to the gift, the gift is absolute, but the condition

⁽n) Abdul Wahul v. Nuran Bibi (1885) 11 Cal. 597, 12 LA. 91. (o) Khamum Jan v. Jan Bebee (1827) 4 Beng, S. 1) A. 210; Samsuddin v. Abdul Hossein (1906) 31 Bom. 165; Asa Beev v. Karuppan (1918) 44 Mad. 365, 46 I. C. 35, dissenting from Kanhi v. Kunhi (1806) 10 Mad. 176. See also Hurmut-ul-Nusa Heyum v. Allahdin Khan (1871) 17 W.R. 108 [P. C.) (p) Nustrul-Haq v. Favyaz-ul-Hahman (1911) 33 All. 157, 0 1. C. 530.

- S. 44 is void, on the principle stated in section 138 below [see ill.(a) below].
 - (2) The rule laid down in sub-sec. (I) does not apply to a transfer for consideration. Therefore, an agreement between two persons A and B, by which it is provided that A should take an estate for life in certain property, and that the remainder should on his death pass to B, will be given effect to by the Court, if the words used unmistakably indicate an intention to create an estate for life and a vested remainder. If the words used do not unmistakably indicate such an intention, A will be deemed to take an absolute estate, for an estate for life and a vested remainder are little known among Sunni Mahomedans [ill. (b)].
 - (3) According to the Shiah law, where property is given or bequeathed to a person for life, and on his death to another person, the interest taken by the first donee in the property is an estate for life, and that taken by the second donee is a vested remainder. The same rule applies to transactions supported by valuable consideration. The Shiah law recognizes estates known in the English law as "estate for life" and "vested remainder" [ill. (c)].

Note.—According to the English haw, when an estate is given to A for life, and the remainder to B, A takes an estate for life and he is called a tenant for life, and B takes a vested remainder, and is called a remainderman. As B takes a rested interest by way of remainder, he can dispose of his interest by transfer inter ziros or by will. On his death intestate his interest will pass to his herra, even if he predecease. A. The same is the rule of Shiah law, as held by Jenkins, C.J., and Heaton, J., in Bonon Beguin's case cited in ill. (c). In two recent cases, Beanana, J., expressed the opinion that the Arabic texts relied upon by the Court in Bonon Beguin's case did not support the conclusion drawn by the Court from those texts, and observed that estate for life and vested remainders were unknown to Shiah law as much as to Sunni law (a).

Illustrations

[(a) A gift of a house is made to .1 for life, and on his death to B. According to the Sunni law, .1 takes the house absolutely. B takes nothing. See the cases cited in ill. (a) to 138 below. According to the Shiah law A takes an estate for life and B takes the remainder: see Banco Beguin's case cited in ill. (c) below.

(b) B, a Sunni Mahomedan, suew A, his step-mother, to recover certain property of which A is in possession. The suit is compromised, and a consent-decree is obtained by which it is provided that I should, during her life-time, continue to hold possession as malk (proprietor) without power of alternation, and that after her death the property should pass to B. B dies in the life-time of A learning a sister C. Subsequently A makes a gift of the property to D. A then dies, and on A's death, C sues D to recover the property, alleging that under the consent-decree A took an estate for life and B took a vosted remainder, and that B is interest passed to her [C] on B is death as B is heir. Upon these facts the Privy Council held, overruling C is contention, that A took not an estate fite, but an absolute estate, as the words of the decree did not unnistakably indicate for an intention to give to A an estate for life only: 1 that Wahlit N. Nuran Bbi (1885) 11 Cel. 507, 12 L.N. 91; Humerla v. Budum (1872) 17 W.R. 525. See also Muhammed v. Umardaux (1900) 28 All (333.

- 44-46
- (c) It is provided by a consent-decree in a suit to which the parties are Shinh Mahomedans that a certain house should be held and enjoyed by A for her life, and that after death it should be sold by public auction and the net sale proceeds divided among her step-sons. In this case A take, a life estate, and the step-sons take a definite interest like what is called in English law a vested containder: Barno Beyon v. Mir. 1664 Alt (1903) 23. Bow. 17.2, N in flusion. A Machael Hawain (1921) 21 O.C. 321.
- (d) A Sunm Mahomedan, for a normal consideration of one runce, granted the Mokurruri lease of certain property to his second wife, with the condition that it she should die childless, it should go to his son by his pre-deceased wife The second wife had no child. While the granter was still alive, a decree-holder attached the interest of the son by the pre-deceased wife, and after the grantor's death the interest of the son was sold. The question arose whether the purchaser took any interest in the property. It was decided by their Lordships of the Privy Council that he did. Their Lordships said that the son took under the deed a definite interest like what is called in English law a vested remainder, only that it was hable to be displaced by the event of there being a son of the grantor by his second wife, and that the interest which the son took was not a mere expectancy or a mere contingent or possible right: Umes Chunder Sircar v. Zahoor Fatima (1890) 17 1. A. 201. It is submitted that this case does not support the view that a vested remainder is recognized by the Sunni law, as seems to have been thought by the High Court of Bombay in Banoo Begam's case cited in ill. (c). All that the Privy Council held was that the interest taken by the son was not a mere expectancy which could neither be attached nor sold, but a definite interest which was attachable and saleable. The question whether a vested remainder is recognized by the Sunni law was not before the Privy Council in that case. See ss. 43 and 137.]
- x 45. Vested inheritance.—A "vested inheritance" is the share which vests in an heir at the moment of the ancestor's death. If the heir dies before distribution, the share of the inheritance which has vested in him will pass to his heirs at the time of his death. The shares have therefore to be determined on the occasion of each death (r).
- [A dies leaving a son B, and a daughter C. B dies before the estate of A is distributed leaving a son D. In this case, on the death of A, two-thirds of the inheritance vests in B, and one-third vests in C. If the estate of A is distributed after B's death the two-thirds which vested in B will be allotted to his son D.]

See Macnaghten, p. 27, s. 96; Rumsey's Mahomedan Law of Inheritance, ch. ix; Rumsey's Al Sirajiyyah, 43-44.

*46. Joint family and joint family business.—(1) When the members of a Mahomedan family live in commensality, they do not form a "ioint family" in the sense in which that expression is used with regard to Hindus; and in Mahomedan law there is not, as there is in Hindu law, any presumption that the acquisitions of the several members are made for the benefit of the family jointly (s).

Ss. 46, 47

- (2) Under Mahomedan law there is no family trading firm such as exists under Hindu law, and any partnership transaction between the members of a Mahomedan family is governed by the contract between them (s.,).
- As to Khoias and Cutchi Memons, see Mulla's "Principles of Hindu law," Chapter XXVI.
- x 47. Homicide.—(1) Under the Sunni law, a person who has caused the death of another, whether intentionally or by mistake, negligence, or accident, is debarred from succeeding to the estate of that other.
- (2) But homicide under the Shiah law is not a bar to succession unless the death was caused intentionally.

Rumsey's Al Strappyah, 14. Impediments to inheritance. The Strait values sets out four grounds of exclusion from inheritance, namely, (1) homicide, (2) slavery, (3) difference of religion, and (4) difference of allegiance. Homicide, as an impediment to succession, is dealt with in the present section. The second impediment was removed by the enactment of Act V of 1843 abolishing slavery, and the third by the provisions of Act XXI of 1850 (t). The bar of difference of allegiance, as contemplated by the Mahomedan system of Jurispiudence (a), has no place in Mahomedan law as administered in British India.

Of all the disqualifications above enumerated, the effect upon the person subject to any of them is absolute exclusion from the right of inheritance, and upon all others the same as if the disqualified person were actually dead (r). But the person meanable of inheriting by reason of the above disqualifications does not exclude others from inheritance (w). Thus if A dies leaving a son B, a grandson C by B, and a brother D, and if B has caused the death of A. B is totally excluded from inheritance, but he does not exclude his son C. The inheritance will devolve as if B were dead, so that C, the grandson, will succeed to the whole estate, D being a relacte hen.

(d) Hakim Khin v God Khin (1882) 8 Cal 820; Suddintamena v Majida Khiton (1873) Suddintamena v Majida Khiton (1873) Atland (1883) 10 Cal 3 Cal 8 Cal 8, Hollad Kaidar v, Bojidhar (1888) 23 Sum. Majida (1888) 12 Sum. 31 Sum. 144; Mahalerin Be v Nood Mer (1915) 88 Mad. (1994) 1141, 32 Janet v, Herbing (1917) 41 Bun. 88, 12 Linet v, Herbing (1917) 41 Bun. 88, 12 Linet v, Lie V, Cal 1 Linutation Art, 341 Linet v, Linutation Art,

- (v2) Solvina Bibl. v. Hafez Mahammad (1927) 54 Cal. 687, 104 I. C. 833, ('27) V. C. - 10
- (t) Section 1 of the Act runs as follows: "So much of any law or usage now in force... as inflicts on any person forteiture of rights. or property or may be held in any way to imput or affect any right of inheritance. by reason of his or her renounting, or having been excluded from the communion of any religion shall cease to be enfor-ced as law in the Courts of the East India Company and in the Courts established by Royal Charter within the said terri-tories," See Bhaguant Sinah v. Kallu (1881) 11 All 110; Rapa v Sardar Mirza

(1881) 11 All 110; Rupu v Surlar Mirca
(1920) 11 All, 370
(20) 11 All, 370
(20) 11 All, 370
(20) 12 All 370
(20) 12 All 370
(20) 13 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 14 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(20) 15 All 370
(2

p. 31. (w) Rumsey's Al Strammah, 27-28.

CHAPTER VII.

HANAFI LAW OF INHERITANCE.

[Prelimanary Note.—The principal works of authority on the Hanafi Law of Inheritance are the Strajiyyah, composed by Shaith Strajiddin, and the Shariliyyah-which is a commontary on the Strajiyyah written by Sayyad Sharifi. The Strajiyyah referred to in this and subsequent chapters by the abbreviation Sir. and the references are to the pages of Mr. Rumsee's citition of the Translation of that work by Sir William Jones, as that edition is easily provurable. See also Sale's Translation of the Koran, pp. 60, 61 and 80.]

A .- Three Classes of Heirs.

- 48. Classes of heirs.—There are three classes of heirs, namely, (1) Sharers, (2) Residuaries, and (3) Distant Kindred:
 - "Sharers" are those who are entitled to a prescribed share of the inheritance;
 - (2) "Residuaries" are those who take no prescribed share, but succeed to the "residue" after the claims of the sharers are satisfied:
 - (3) "Distant Kindred" are all those relations by blood who are neither Sharers nor Residuaries (x).

Sir. 12-13. The first step in the distribution of the estate of a deceased Mahomedan, after payment of his funeral expenses, debts, and legacies, is to allot their respective shares to such of the relations as belong to the class of sharers and are entitled to a share. The next step is to divide the residue (if any) among such of the residuaries as are entitled to the residue. If there are no sharers, the residuaries will succeed to the whole inheritance. If there be neither sharers nor residuaries, the inheritance will be divided among such of the distant kindred as are entitled to succeed thereto. The distant kindred are not entitled to succeed so long as there is any heir belonging to the class of sharers or residuaries. But there is one case in which the distant kindred will inherit with a sharer, and that is where the sharer is the wife or husband of the deceased. Thus if a Mahomedan dies leaving a wife and distant kindred, the wife as sharer will take her share which is 1/4, and the remaining three-fourths will go to the distant kindred. And if a Mahomedan female dies leaving a husband and distant kindred, the husband as sharer will take his share 1/2, and the other half will go to the distant kindred. To take a simple case : A dies leaving a mother, a son and a daughter's son. The mother as sharer will take her share 1/6, and the son as residuary will take the residue 5/6. The daughter's son, being one of the class of distant kindred, is not entitled to any share of the inheritance.

Ss. 48-50 The question as to which of the relations belonging to the class of abspers, residuaries, or distant kindred, are critified to succeed to the spheritance depends, on the circumstances of each case. Thus if the surviving relations be a father and a father's father, the father alons will surceed to the whole inheritance to the entire exclusion of the grandfather, though both of them belong to the class of sharers. And if the surviving relations be a son and a son's son, the son alone will inherit the estate, and the son's son will not be cuttled to any share of the inheritance, though both belong to the class of residuaries. Similarly, if the surviving relations belong to the class of distant kindred, e.g., a daughter's son and a daughter's son's son, the former will succeed to the whole inheritance, it being one of the rules of succession that the nearer relation axelules the

49. Definitions:-

(a) "True grandfather" means a male ancestor between whom and the deceased no female intervenes.

Thus the father's father, father's father's father and his father how high soever are all true grandfathers.

(b) "False grandfather" means a male ancestor between whom and the deceased a female intervenes.

Thus the mother's father, mother's mother's father, mother's father father, father, smother's father, are all false grandfathers.

(c) "True grandmother" means a female ancestor between whom and the deceased no false grandfather intervenes.

Thus the father's mother, mother's mother, father's mother, father's mother, mother's mother's mother, are all true grandmothers.

- (d) "False grandmother" means a female ancestor between whom and the deceased a false grandfather intervenes.
- Thus the mother's father's mother is a false grandmother. False grandfathers and false grandmothers belong to the class of distant kindred.
- (e) "Son's son how low soever" includes son's son, son's son's son, and the son of a son how low soever.
- (f) "Son's daughter how low soever" includes son's daughter, son's son's daughter and the daughter of a son how low soever.

B.—Sharers.

50. Sharers.—After payment of funeral expenses, debts, and legacies, the first step in the distribution of the estate, of a deceased Mahomedan is to ascertain which of the surviving relations belong to the class of sharers, and which again of these are entitled to a share of the inheritance, and, after this is done, to proceed to assign their respective shares to such of the sharers as are, under the circumstances of the case, entitled to succeed to a share. The first column in the accompanying table (p. 34A) contains a list of Sharers; the second column specifies the normal share of each sharer; the third column specifies the conditions which determine the right of each sharer to a share, and the fourth column sets out the shares as varied by special circumstances.

Illustrations

Note.—The statics in the following and other illustrations in this chapter indicate the surviving relations. It will be observed that the sum total of the sharers in all the following illustration equals unity:—

Father, Husband and Wife,

(a)	Father		 	1/6	(as sharer, because there are daughters)
	Father's fathe	r	 		(excluded by father)
	Mother			1/6	(because there are daughters)
	Mother's moti	her	 		(excluded by mother)
	Two daughter	8	 	2/3
	Son's daughte	r	 		(excluded by daughters)
(b)	Husband		 	1/2
	Father	• •		1/2	(as residuary)
(e)	Four widows		 	1/4	(each taking 1/16)
	Father		 	3/4	(as residuary)
			M	other	r.
(d)	Mother		 	1/3
	Father		 	2/3	(as residuary)
(e)	Mother		 	1/6	(because there are two sisters)
	Two sisters				(excluded by father)
	Father		 	5/6	(as residuary)

Note that though the sisters do not inherit at all, they affect the share of the mother and prevent her from taking 1/3. This proceeds upon the principle that a person, though evoluded from inheritance, may exclude others wholly or partially (Sir. 28). In the present case the exclusion is partial, the mother taking 1/6 mstead of 1/3, which latter share she would have taken if the decreased had not left sisters.

S. 50

S, 50 Note.—The mother takes 1/6, and not 1/3, where there are two or more brothers or two or more sisters, or one brother and one sister, or two or more brothers and sisters. The brother and the sister, though they are excluded from inheritance by the father, prevent the mother from taking the larger share 1/3. See note to ill. (e).

```
(h) Husband ... ... 1/2

Mother ... ... 1/6 (=1/3 of 1/2)

Father ... ... 1/3 (as residuary)
```

Note.—But for the habband and futher, the mother in this case would have taken 1)3, as there are neither children nor horthers our sisters. As the deceased has left a husband and father, the mother is entitled only to one-third of what remains after the husband's share is additted to him. The harbsand's share is 1/2, and what remains is 1/2, and 1/3 of 1/2 is 1/3. The reason of the rule is clear, for if the mother took 1/3, the residue for the father would only be 1-(1/2|1/3)-1/6, that is, half the share of the mother, while as a general rule, the share of a male is twice as much as that of a female of parallel grade (8ix. 22). For the case where the deceased leaves a widow and father see ill. (i) below 1.

```
(i) Husband . . . . 1/2

Mother . . . . 1/3

Father's father . . . 1/6 (as residuary)
```

Note. The mother takes 1-3, for the father's father does not reduce her share from one third of the whole to one-third of the remainder after deducting the husband's share

Note. In this case, the mother would have taken 1.3 but for the vidoor and father, for there are neither children not brothers nor sisters. As the vidow and father are among the surviving heirs, the mother is critified to one-third of the remainder after deducing the widow's share. The vidow's share is 1.4, the remainder is 3.4, and the mother's share is 1.3 of 3.4, that is, 1.4. See [11] (h) above and the note thereto.

```
(k) Wadow . . . . . 1/4
Mother . . . . 1/3
Father's father . . . . 5.12 (as residuary)
```

Note, --The mother takes 1, 3, for the father's father does not reduce her share from one-third of the whole to one-third of the remainder after deducting the widow's share.

True grandfather and true grandmother.

Note.—The father's mother is not excluded by the father's father, for the latter is not an intermediate, but an equal, true grandfather.

(n) Father's father's mother . . . (excluded by father's father)

Father's futher . . . takes the whole as residuary

Note.—The father's father's mother is excluded by the father's father, for he is an intermediate true grandfather, the father's father's mother being related to the decreased through him.

(o) Father's mother's mother . 1/6
Father's father . . 5/6 (as residuary)

Note. The father's mother's mother (who is a true pat, grandmother) is not excluded by the father's father (who is a true grandfather), for though he is nearer in degree, he is not in relation to her an interned into time grandfather, as the father's mother's mother is not related to the decreased through kim, but through the father.

(p) Father's mother . . . 1,6 Mather's mother's mother . . . (excluded by father's mother who is A nearer true grandmother)

Father's father . . . 5,6 (as resultany)

(q) Father's mother . . . (excluded by father)

Mother's mother is mother . . . (excluded by father's mother who is a nearer true grandmother)

Father takes the whole as residuary

Note.—The father's mother, though she is excluded by the father, excludes the mother's mother's mother. Thus proceeds upon the rule that one who is excluded may hunself exclude others wholly or partially. See note to ill, (e): in that case the exclusion of the mother by the sister was partial, for she did take a share, namely, 1.6. In the present case, however, the exclusion of the mother's mother is mother is nother; the exclusion of the mother's mother's mother; the mother's mother, the mother's mother's mother would have taken 1/6, for being a true material grandmother, she is not excluded by the father.

Daughters and Sons' daughters h. l. s.

(r) Father . . . 1/6 (as sharer)

Mother . . . 1/6
3 sons daughters, of whom one
18 by one son and the other
18 two by another son . . 2/3 (each taking 2/9)

Note.—The son's daughters take, per capute and not per stirpes. The two-thirds is not therefore divided into two parts, one for the son's daughter by one son, and the other for the other two by another son, but it is divided into as many parts as after are sons daughters irrespective of the number of sons through whom they are related to the deceased. The reason is that the Sunm Malomedan law does not recognize any right of representation (see a. 42), and the son's daughters do not inherit as representing their respective fathers, but in their own right as grand-daughters of the deceased. The same principle applies to the case of sons' sons, brothers' sons, uncles' sons, etc. See Table of Residuaries.

```
(8) Father . . . . 1/6 (as sharer)

Mather . . . 1/6

Daughter . . . 1/2

4 sons' daughters . . . 1/6 (each taking 1/24)
```

Note.—There being only one daughter, the son's daughters are not entirely evoluded from interstance, but they take 1/b, which, together with the daughter's -1/2, makes up 2/3, the full portion of daughters.

```
(t) Father
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer)
        Mother
                                  .. 1/6
        2 sons' daughters
                                      2.3
        Son's son's daughter
                                          (excluded by sons' daughters)
   (u) Father
                                  .. 1 6 (as sharer)
                                  .. 1/6
        Mother
        Son's daughter
                                  .. 1/2
        Son's son's daughter ...
                                  .. 1/6
```

Note.—The rule of succession as between daughters and sons' daughters applies, in daughter and some of daughters, as between higher sons' daughters and lower sons' daughters (8tr. 18). There being only one son's daughter in the present illustration, the son's son's daughter is not entirely excluded from inheritance, but she inherits 1/6, which together with the son's daughter's 1/2, makes up 2/3, the full share of son's daughters in the absence of daughters.

Sisters.

```
(v) Mother
                              .. 1/6
    2 full system
                              .. 2/3 (each taking 1/3)
    C. sister
                                 .. (excluded by full sisters)
    U. sister (or u. brother)
                                 1/6
(w) 2 full sisters (or c. sisters)
                                  2 3 (each taking 1/3)
      u. sisters (or u. brothers) . . 1,3 (each taking 1,6)
(x) Full sister
                              .. 1'2
    2 c. sisters
                              .. 1/6 (each taking 1/12)
    U. brother
```

Note.—There being only one full sister, the consanguine sisters are not excluded from inheritance, but they inherit 1/6 which, together with the sister's 1/2, makes up 2/3, the collective share of full sisters in the inheritance (Siz 21).

Sr. 14-23. The principal points involved in the Table of Sharers are explained in their proper place in the notes appended to the illustrations. The illustrations must be carefully studied, as it is very difficult to understand the rules of succession without them. The principles unded lying the rules of succession are set out in the notes on s. 52 below. It will be observed that the illustrations are so framed that the sum total of the shares does not exceed unity. For cases in which the total of the shares exceeds unity, see the next section.

The sharers are twelve in number. Of these there are six that inherit under certain circumstances as resolutaries, namely, the father, the true grandfather, the daughter, the son's daughter, the full sister, and the consanguine sister. See the list of Residuaries given in s. 52 below, and the notes on that section.

51. Increase (Aul):—If it be found on assigning their respective shares to the Sharers that the total of the shares with the share of each Sharer is proportionately diminished by reducing the fractional shares to a common denominator, and increasing the denominator so as to make it equal to the sum of the numerators.

Illustrations.

(b) Husband

Note: The sum total of 1/2 and 2/3 exceeds unity. The fractions are therefore reduced to a common denominator, which, in this case, is 6. The sum of the numerators is 7, and the process consists in substituting 7 for 6 as the denominator of the fractions 3/6 and 4/6. By so doing the total of the shares equals unity. The doctrine of "Increase" is so called because it is by increasing the denominator from 6 to 7 that the sum total of the shares is made equal to unity.

.. .. 1/2 -3/6 reduced to 3/7

("/	JIH WHITE	• •	• •		1,-		tener te co	.,, .
	Full sister				1/2	3/6	,,	3/7
	C. sister				1/6	1/6	,,	1/7
						7/6		1
(··)	2 full sisters				2/3	-4/6 re	duced to	4/7
	2 a. brothers	(each t	aking	1/6)	1/3	2/6	,,	2/7
	Mother				1/6-	1/6	"	1/7
						7/6		ı
(d)	Husband				1/2-	3/6 rc	duced to	3/8
	2 full sisters				2/3=	=4/6	,,	+/8
	Mother				1/6	-1/6	,,	1/8
						8/6		1
(e)	Husband				1/2	3/6 re	duced to	3/8
	Full sister				1/2	- 3/6	,,	3/8
	3 u. sisters (e	ach tal	king 1	(9)	1/3	2/6	••	$^{2/8}$
						8/6		1
(f)	Husband				1/2-	-3/6 rc	duced to	3/9
	2 full sisters				2/3 -	-4/6	,,	4/9
	2 u. sisters
	(each taki	ng 1/9)			1/3=	=2/6	,,	2/9

MAHOMEDAN LAW.

S. 51	(g)	Husband			• •			1/2 - 3/6	reduced
		Full sister		• •	• •	• •	• •	1/2 = 3/6		3/9
		2u. sisters o	ind 2	u. brot	hers (c	ach 1/I	,	1/3 = 2/6		2/9
		Mother	• •	• •	• •		• •	1/6 = 1/6	,,,	1/9
								9/6	-	1
	(h)	Husband						1/2=3/6	reduced t	to 3/10
		2 full sisters	7					2/34/6		4/10
		3 n. sisters	and 5	u. bro	thers (e	each
		1/24)	• •	• •	• •	• •		1/3 = 2/6	,,	2/10
		Mother	• •	• •	••		• •	1/6=1/6	,,	1/10
								10/6		1
	(i)	Widow						1/4 = 3/12	reduced	to 3/13
	` '	2 c. sisters						2/3 8/12		8/13
		Mother			٠.			1/6 = 2/12		2/13
								13/12		1
	(1)	Husband						1/4=3/12	reduced	103/13
	(1)	Mother						1/6=2/12	,,	2/13
		2 daughters						2,3-8/12	,,	8/13
								13/12		1
	(k)	Husband						1/4=3/12	reduced	to 3/13
	. ,	Mother						1/6-2/12		2/13
		Daughter						1/2 = 6/12		6/13
		Son's daugh	ito					1/6= 2/12	,,	2/13
								13/12		1
	(1)	W idoir						1/4 = 3/12	reduced	to 3/13
		Mother						1/3 4/12	.,,	4/13
		Full sister						1/2 = 6/12	,,	6/13
								13/12		1
	(m)	Widow						1/4 = 3/12	reduced	to 3/15
		2 full sisters	,					2/3 8/12		8/15
		2 u. sisters						1/3 = 4/12		4/15
								15/12
	(n)							1/4 :3/12	reduced	to 3/15
		2 full sisters	,		٠.			2/3 = 8/12		8/15
			• •					1/6 = 2/12	,,	2/15
		Mother	• •			••		1/6 = 2/12	,,	2/15
								15/12

(o)	Husband		 	 	1/4-	3/12 re	duced to	3/15
	Father		 			-2/12	,,	2/15
	Mother		 	 	1.6	-2/12		2/15
	3 daughters		 	 	2/3	8/12	,,	8/15
						13/12		1
(p)	Widow		 	 	1/4	-3/12 re	duced to	3/17
	2 full sister	8	 		2/3	8/12	,,	8/17
	2 u. sisters		 	 	1/3-	=4/12	,,	1/17
	Mother		 		1,6	2/12	,,	2/17
						17/12		1
(q)	Wife				1/8	3/24 re	duced to	3/27
	2 daughters			 	2/3	16/24	,,	16/27
	Futher			 	1,6	4/24		4/27
	Mother			 	1/6-	1/21	,,	1/27
						27:24		i

Sir. 29-30. For cases in which the total of the shares is less than unity, see s. 53 below.

C.—Residuaries.

52. Residuaries.—If there are no Sharers, or if there are Sharers, but there is a residue left after satisfying their claims, the whole inheritance or the residue, as the case may be, devolves upon Residuaries in the order set forth in the annexed table (p. 40A).

Illustrations.

[Note. The residue remaining after satisfying the sharers' claims is indicated in the following illustrations thus.]

No. 1. Sons and daughters.

Note.—The daughter cannot inherit as a sharer when there is a son. But if the heirs be a daughter and a son's son, the daughter as a sharer will take 1/2, and the son's son as a residuary will take the residue 1/2.

- Note.—The residue after payment of the widow's share is 7/8.

```
.. 1/4
(d) Husband
                                          (as sharer)
                    .. ..
                               .. 1/6
    Mother
                         ..
                                          (as sharer)
                   ..
                    ..2/3 of (7/12) =7/18
   Son
                    1.1/3 of (7/12) - 7/36 (as residuaries).
   Daughter
```

Note.—The residue in the above case is 1-(1/4+1/6)-7/12. If there were two sons and three daughters, each son would take 2/7 of $\frac{7}{2} - 1/6, and each daughter 1/7 of 7/12 =1/12.

No. 2. Son's sons h. l. s. and Sons' daughters h. l. s.

```
(e) Son's son ..
                                                                   \begin{bmatrix} \cdot \cdot & 2/3 \\ \cdot \cdot & 1/3 \end{bmatrix} (as residuaries)
        Son's daughter
```

Note. -Where there is a son's son, the son's daughter cannot inherit as a sharer but she inherits as a residuary with him. Similarly, a son's son's daughter cannot inherit except as a residuary when there is a son's son's son.

```
(f) 2 daughters
                             ..
                                    .. 2/3
                                              (as sharers)
    Non's son
                                   .. 1/3
                                              (as residuary)
    Son's son's son
                                  .. (excluded by son's son)
    Son's son's daughter
                                   .. (excluded both by daughters and son's son. See Tab. of Sh., No. 8)
(g) 2 daughters
                                    .. 2/3 (as sharers)
                     ..
    Son's son ...
                    .. 2/3 of (1/3) - 2/9
.. 1/3 of (1/3) = 1/9 { (as residuaries)
    Son's daughter
(h) Daughter ..
                                   .. 1/2 (as sharer)
```

.. 2/3 of (1/2) - 1/3.. 1/3 of (1/2) - 1/6 { (as residuaries) Son's daughter Note. -There being only one daughter, the son's daughter would have taken 1/6 as sharer (see Tab. of Sh., No. 8), if the deceased had not left a son's son. But as the son's son is one of the heirs, the son's daughter can inherit only as a residuary with the

```
(1) Son's daughter
                                   .. 1/2
                                              (as sharer)
    Son's son's son
                                   .. 1/2
                                              (as residuary)
```

Son's son ..

son's son.

Note.—In this case the son's daughter is not precluded from inheriting as a sharer for there is none of those relations that precludes her from succeeding as a sharer (see Tab. of Sh., No. 8, 2nd column). And it will be seen on referring to the Table of Residuaries that the only case in which the son's daughter inherits as a residuary with the son's son's son (who is a lower son's son) is where she is precluded from succeeding as a share | see ill. (k) below |

```
(i) Danighter ...
                                  .. 1/2
                                             (as sharer)
   Son's daughter
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer see Tab. of Sh., No. 8)
                    2/3 \text{ of } (1/3) = 2/9
    Non's son's son
                                            (as residuaries)
    Son's son's daughter 1/3 of (1/3)=1/9
```

Note. -There being only one daughter, the son's daughter is entitled to 1/6 as a sharer. Since she is not precluded from inheriting as a sharer, she does not become a residuary with the son's son's son (who is a lower son's son).

(k) 2 daughters 2/3 (as sharers) Son's daughter . . 1/3 of (1/3) 1/9 Son's son's son . . 2/3 of (1/3) -2/9 { (as resultaries) S. 52

Note.—There being two daughters, the son's daughter cannot inherit as a sharer. She therefore inherits as a residuary with the son's son's son (who is a lower son's son).

(1) 2 son's daughters 2 3 (as sharers)

Son's son's son . . 2/3 of (1/3) *2/3 | (as residuaries)

Son's son's daughter 1, 3 of (1,3) *1,9 4 (as residuaries)

Note.—The son's daughters in this case do not inherit as residuaries with the son's son's son, for they are not precluded from inheriting as sharers.

(m) 2 daughters 2/3 (as sharers) Son's son's son . . 2/4 of (1/3) - 1 b Son's daughter . . 1/4 of (1/3) - 1/12 Son's son's daughter . 1'4 of (1/3) - 1/12

Note.—There being two daughters, the son's daughter cannot inheat as a sharer. Such reference inherits as a residuary with the son's son's son (who is a lower son's son). The son's son's son's son is non (who is a lower son's son), son who is an equal son's son is nor inherit as a residuary with the son's son's son son, each taking 1/12. This illustration presents two peculiar features. The one is that the son's son's daughter, though remoter in degree, shares with the son's daughter. The other is that the son's daughter succeeds as a residuary with a lower son's son. If this were not so, the son's son's daughter succeeds as a residuary with a lower son's daughter, a result directly opposed to the principle that the nearest of blood must take first (Sir, 18-19).

No. 3. Father.

Note - Here the father inherits as a sharer. See Table of Sh., No. 1.

Note.—Here the father inherits as a residuary, as there is no child or child of a son h. l. s. See Tab. of Sh., No. 1.

Note.—Here the father inherits both as a sharer and residuary. He inherits as a sharer, for there is a daughter, and he inherits the residue 1/3 as a residuary, for there are neither sons nor sons' sons h. l. s. The father may inherit both as a sharer and residuary. He inherits simply as a sharer when there is a son or son's son h. l. s. [see ill. (n) above]. He inherits simply as a residuary when there are neither children nor children of sons h. l. s. [see ill. (o) above]. Ho is both a sharer and a residuary when there are only daughters or son's daughters (h. l. s.), but no sons or son's ons h. l. a. as in the present illustration. The same remarks apply to the true grandfather h. h. s. In. Inset the father and the true grandfather are the only relations that can inherit in both canacities simultaneously.

No. 4 True grandfather h. h. s.

Note.—Substitute "frue grandfather" for "father" in ills. (n), (o) and (p). The true grandfather will succeed in the same capacity and will take the same share as the father in those illustrations.

Nos. 5 & 7. Brothers and sisters.

Note.—The sister cannot inherit as a sharer when there is a brother, but she takes the residue with him.

No. 6. Full sisters with daughters and sons' daughters.

```
(r) Daughter (or son's daughter h l s.). 1/2 (as sharer)
Full sister . . . . . . . . . . . . . 1/2 (as residuary No. 6)
```

Brother's son 0 (excluded by full sister who is a nearer residuary)

Note. The full sister universe in three different enjactives; (1) as a sharer under the circumstances set out in the Table of Sharers, (2) as a residuary with full brother when there is a brother, and, failing to inherit meether of these two capacities; (3) as a residuary with daughters, or son's daughters h. l. s. or one daughter and a son's daughter h. l. s. provided there is no neater residuary. Thus in this present illustration, the sister cannot inherit as a sharer, because there is a daughter (or son's daughter h. l. s.). And as there is no bother, she cannot inherit in the second of the three capacities enumerated above. She therefore takes the residue 1/2 as a residuary with the daughter (or son's daughter), for there is no reviolary nearer in degree. If this were not so, the Liother's son, who is a more remote relation, would succeed in preference to here.

```
(s) 2 daughters (or son's daughters
       Full sister ...
                                  .. 1/3 (as residuary No. 6)
 (t) 2 daughters (-)
                                 .. 2/3 (as sharers)
                           . .
     Husband ..
                                 .. 1/4 (as sharer)
     Full sister ...
                                  .. 1/12 (as residuary No. 6)
     Futher's pat. uncle's son ...
                                  .. 0 (excluded by full sister who is a nearer residuary)
                                  .. 1/2 (as sharer)
(u) Daughter ..
     Son's daughter
                     . .
                           . .
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer)
     Full sister ...
                                  .. 1/3 (as residuary No. 6)
 (v) Daughter ...
                                  .. 1/2 (as sharer)
                           ..
     Son's daughter
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer)
                           ..
     Mother
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer)
                          . .
     Full sister ...
                                  .. 1/6 (as residuary No. 6)
                                         (z) Meherjan v. Shajadi 1899) 24 Bom.
112.
(y) Abdul Karım v. Mst. Amat-ul-Habib
(1922) 3 Lah. 397, 70 I. C. 205, ('23)
```

```
(w) Daughter
                                  .. 1/2 (as sharer)
    Son's daughter
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer)
    Husband ..
                                  .. 1/4 (as sharer)
    Full sister ...
                                  .. 1/12 (as residuary No. 6)
(x) Daughter
                                  .. 1/2 (as sharer) -6/12 reduced to 6/13
    Son's daughter
                                  .. 1/6 (as sharer) 2/12
                                                                       2 13
    Husband ..
                                                                       3/13
                                      1/4 (as sharer) = 3/12
    Mother
                                  .. 1,6 (as sharer) 2/12
                                                                       2/13
    Full sister ...
                                        0 (excluded)
                                                      13/12
```

Note.—Here the only capacity in which the full sister could inherit is that of a residuely with the daughter and son-shaughter.—But the residuary succeeds to the residue, if any, after the classes of the shares are satisfied, and in the present case there is no residue. The sum total of the shares cave is unity, and the case is one of "therease."

No 8 Consanguine sisters with daughters and sons' daughters h. l. s.

Note: Consangume asters inherit as resolutines with daughters and son's daughters in the absence of full sisters. Nubstitute "consangume aster" for "full sister" in ills. (r) to (v), and the shares of the several heirs will remain the same, the consangume sister taking the place of the full sister. Substitute also in the note to ill. (r) "consangume brother" for "full brother."

Other Residuaries.

```
(v) Full sister ...
                                         1/2 (as sharer)
      C. sister
                                     .. 1/6 (as sharer)
      Mother
                                     .. 1/6 (as sharer)
      Brother's son
                                     .. 1/6 (as residuary)
                              ..
(z) Widow
                                     .. 1/4 (as sharer)
                              ٠.
      Mather
                                         1/3 (as sharer)
                              ٠.
      Pat. uncle ..
                                     . 5/12 (as residuary)
(aa) Full sister (a)
                                     .. 1/2 (as sharer)
```

Pat. uncle's sons

Sir. 18-21, and 23-26. Some of the important points involved in the Table of Residuaries are explained in the notes appended to the illustrations.

.. 1/2 (as residuaries)

Classification of Residuaries.—All readuaries are related to the deceased through a nucle. The uterne brother and aster are related to the deceased through a female, that is, mother, and they do not therefore find place in the last of Residuaries. The Straypyah divides residuaries into three classes, viz., (1) residuaries in the right of another: these are the four female residuaries, namely, the daughter as a residuary in the right of the son, the son's daughter h. I. as an a residuary in the right of the son sample. The right of the son's son h. I. s., the full sister in the right of the son sanguine sister in the right of the consanguine sister in the right of the consanguine issuer, when they inherit as residuaries with others, namely, the full sister and consanguine issuer, when they inherit as residuaries with daughters and sons' daughters h. I. a. But if regard is to be had to the order of succession, residuaries may be divided into four classes, the first class comprising descendants of the deceased.

5. 52 father, and the fourth the descendants of the deceased's true grand father h. h. a. This classification has been adopted in the Table of Residuaries. The division of Distant Kindred into four classes proceeds upon the same basis.

Residuaries that are primarily Sharers. -It will be noticed on referring to the Tables of Sharers and Residuaries that there are six sharers who inherit under certain circumstances as residuaries. These are the father and true grandfather h. h. s., the daughter and son's daughter h. l. s., and the full sister and consanguine sister. Of these, only the father and true grandfather inherit in certain events both as sharers and residuaries (see ill. (p) above, and the note thereto). In fact they are the only relations that can inherit at the same time in a double capacity. The other four, who are all females, inherit either as sharers or residuaries. The circumstances under which they inherit as sharers are set out in the Table of Sharers. They succeed as residuaries and can succeed in that capacity alone, when they are combined with male relations of a parallel grade. Thus the daughter inherits as a sharer when there is no son. But when there is a son, she inherits as a residuary, and can inherit in that capacity alone not that when there is a son she is excluded from inheritance, but that in that event she succeeds as a residuary, the presence of the son merely altering the character of her heirship. Similarly, the son's daughter h. l. s. inherits as a residuary when there is an equal son's son. And in like manner, the full sister and consanguine sister succeed as residuances when they co-exist with the full brother and consanguing brother respectively. The curious reader may ask why it is that the said four female relations are precluded from inheriting as sharer when they exist with males of parallel grade. The answer appears to be this, that if they were allowed to inherit as sharers under those recumstances, it might be that no residue would remain for the corresponding males (all of whom are residuaries only), that is to say, though the females would have a share of the inheritance, the corresponding males, though of an equal grade, might have no share of the inheritance at all. To take an example : A dies leaving a husband, a father. a mother, a daughter, and a son. The husband will take 1/4, the father 1/6, and the mother 1/6. If the daughter were allowed to inherit as a sharer, her share would be 1/2, and the total of the shares would then be 13/12, so that no residue would remain for the son. It is, it seems, to maintain a residue for the males that the said females are precluded from inheriting as sharers when they co-exist with corresponding male relations.

The principle which regulates the successions of full and consanguine sisters as residuanes with daughters and sons' daughters h. l. s., is explained in the notes appended to ill (r).

Female residuaries.—There are two more points to be noted in connection with female residuaries, which are stated below:

- (1) The female residuaries are four in number, of whom two are descendants of the deceased, namely, the daughter and son's daughter h. l. s., and the other two are descendants of the deceased's father, namely, the full sister and consanguine sister. No other females can intered as a renductri.
- (2) All the four females inhent as residuaries with corresponding males of a parallel grade. But none of these except the son's daughter h. I. s. can succeed as a residuary with a male lower in degree than herself. Thus the daughter cannot succeed as a residuary with the son's son, nor the sister with the brother's son; but the son's daughter may inherit as a residuary not only with the son's son but with the son's son's son or other lower son's son or other lower son's son or other lower son's son or other lower son's son or soll.

Principles of succession among Sharers and Residuaries.—It will be seen from the Tables of Sharers and Residuaries that certain relations entirely exclude others from inheritance. This proceeds upon certain principles, of which the following two are set out in the Strajuyah:

(1) "However is related to the deceased through any person shall not inherit while that person is lyang".— (Sur. 27.) Thus the father excludes brothers and sisters. And since uterms brothers and systers are related to the deceased through the mother, the must follow that they should be excluded by the mother. A reference, however, to the Table of Sharrers will show that these relations are not excluded by the mother. The reason is that the mother, when she stands alone, is not outside to the whole inheritance in one and the same capa day as the father would be if he stood alone, but partly as a sharer and pertly by "Return' (Sur. 27; Shanityyah. 49). Thus if the father be the sole surviving heir he will succeed to the whole inheritance as a residuary. But if the mother be the sole her she will take if 3 as have, and the remaining 23 by Return (see a. 53 below). For this reason the mother does not exclude the uterms brother and asster from inheritanc with her.

(2) "The nearer in digite excludes the more remote". (Sir. 27.) The exclusion of the true granufather by the lather, of the true grandmother by the mother, of the son's son by the son, etc., rests upon this principle. These cases may also be referred to the first principle set out above.

It will have been seen that the daughter, though she is nearer in degree, does not oxclude the brother's so no rise son. This son, the graph a daughter and a brother's son haves the residue. The reason is that the daughter in this case inherits as a sharer, and the brother's son as a residuary, and the principle land down above applies only as between relations belonging to the same class of heirs. The above principle may, therefore, be read thus: "Within the limits of each class of heirs, the nearer in degree excludes the more remote".

Again, it will have been seen that the father, though nearer in degree, does not evelude the mother's mother or her mother; nor does the mother exclude the father's father or his father. The reason is that the above principle is to be read with further limitations, which we shall proceed to enumerate. These limitations are nowhere stated in the Srigiyyah nor in any other work of authority, but they appear to have been tautily recognised in the rules governing succession among Sharers and Residuaries.

There are five hers that are always entitled to some share of the inheritance, and the year in no case hable to exclusion. These are (1) the child, i.e., son or daughter, (2) father, (3) mother, (4) husband, and (5) wife (8ir. 27). These are the most favoured heirs, and we shall call them, for brovity's sake, Primary Hoirs. Next to these, there are three, namely, (1) duld of a son, h. i.s., (2) true grandfather h. h. s. and (3) true grandmother h. h. s. These three are the Substitutes of the corresponding primary heirs. The husband and wife can have no substitute. The following two lines indicate at a glance the primary heirs and their substitutes:—

Primary heirs . . Child. Father, Mother.
Substitutes . . Child of a son h. l. s. Tr. GF. Tr. GM.

The right of succession of the substitutes is governed by the following rules :--

(1) No substitute is entitled to succeed so long as there is the corresponding primary heir. To this there is an exception, and that is when there is no son, but a daughter

S. 52

Ss. 52, 53 and a son's daughter in which case the daughter takes 1/2, and the son's daughter (though a substitute) takes 1/6: see. Tab. of Sh., No. 8.

- (2) The child of a son h. l s. is always entitled to succeed, when there is no child,
- (3) The Tr. GF. is always entitled to succeed, when there is no father.
- (4) The mother's mother is always entitled to succeed, when there is no mother. The father's mother is always entitled to succeed, if there he no mother and no father.
- (5) All relations who are excluded by primary heirs are also excluded by their substitutes. Thus full and consangume sisters and uterine brothers and sisters are excluded by the child and the father. They are also excluded therefore by the child of a son h. i. s., and by the true grandfather (b).

Residue. The son, heng a residuary, is entitled to the residue left after satisfying the claims of sharers. At the same time it must have been seen that a son is always entitled to some share of the inheritance. To enable the son to participate in the inheritance in every case, it is necessary that some residue must always be left when the son to sone of the surviving hens, and this, in fact, salways so, for the shares are so arranged and the rules of succession are so framed that when the son is one of the heirs, some residue invariably remains. And since in the absence of the father the true granifather b. h. s. is entitled to some participation in the inheritance, it will be found that in every case where he is one of the surviving heirs some residue is always left. No case of "Increase" can therefore take place when these residuaries are amongst the surviving heirs.

53. Return. If there is a residue left after satisfying the claims of Sharers, but there is no Residuary, the residue reverts to the Sharers in proportion to their shares. This right of reverter is technically called "Return."

Exception.—Neither the husband nor wife is entitled to the Return so long as there is any other heir, whether he be a Sharer or a Distant Kinsman. But if there be no other heir, the residue will go to the husband or wife, as the case may be, by Return.

Illustrations.

(a) A Mahomedan dies leaving a widow as his sole heir. The widow will take 1/4 as sharer, and the remaining 3/4 by Return. The surplus 3/4 does not escheat to the Crown: Mahomed Arshad v. Sajida Banoo (c); Bafatan v. Bilauti Khanum (d); Mir Isub v. Isub (r).

(b)	Husband	• •	• •	• •	••	1/2
	Mother					1/2 (1/3 as sharer and 1/6 by Return)

⁽b) It may here be stated that though, according to the opinion of Abu Hanifa, the true grandiather eventies brothers and sisters whether full or consanguine, he does not evelude them according to the view of Abu Yusuf and Muhammad, but is put to his election as between certain shares (Sir.

40-42). But the latter view is not generally adopted, and it is unnecessary to set

(e) (1920) 44 Bom, 947, 58 I. C. 48, it out here (c) (1878) 3 Cal. 702. (d) (1903) 30 Cal. 683.

Note.—The husband is not entitled to the Return, as there is another sharer, the mother. The surplus 1/6 will therefore go to the mother by Return.

1.6

Note. In this and in disstrations (g) to (4) it will be observed that neither the hi-band nor wife is among the surviving heirs. The rule in such a case is to reduce the fractional shares to a common denominator, and to decrease the denominator of those shares so as to make it equal to the sum of the numerators. Thus in the present illustration, the original shares, when reduced to a common denominator, are 1,6 and 3/6. The total of the numerators is 1+3-4, and the ultimate shares will therefore be 1/4 and 3/4 respectively.

- (j) Full sister 1/2 = 3/6 increased to 3/5
 C. sister 1/6 , 1/5
 U. sister 1/6 , 1/5
 5/6 1
- (k) Mother 1/6 increased to 1/5

 Full sister . . . 1/2 = 3/6 , 3/5

 U. brother 1/6 , 1/6

 5/6 1

S.53 (l) Husbard 1/4 = 4/16Mother 1/6 increased to 1/4 of (3/4) = 3/16Daughter 1/2-3/6 , 3/4 of (3/4) = 9/16

11/12

Note.—In this and in ills. (in) to (r), it will be observed that either the husband or wife is one of the surviving hers. Since neither the husband nor wife is entitled to the Return when there are other sharers, has or her share will remain the same, and the shares of the other sharers will be increased by reducing them to a common denominator, and then decreasing the denominator of the original fractional shares on as to make it equal to the sum of the numerators, and multiplying the new fractional shares thus obtained by the resultee after deducting the husband's or wife's share. Thus in the present illustration the shares of the mother and daughter, when reduced to a common denominator, are 1/6 and 3/6 respectively. The total of the numerators is 1-3 3-4, and the new fractional shares will thus be 1/3 and 3/4 respectively. The residue after deducting the husband's share is 3/4, and the utilimate shares of the mother and daughter will therefore be 1/4 of 3/4 - 3/16 and 3/4 of 3/4 - 9/16 respectively.

(m)	ll'ıfe	 	 	1/8		— 4/32
	Mother	 	 	1/6 mereased	to 1/4 of (7/8)	= 7/32
	Daughter	 	 1/2-	3/6 ,,	3/4 of (7/8)	= 21/32
				19/24		1
. 11	W ife	 	 	1/8		⇒ 5/40

(s) Husband 1/2 Daughter's son 1/2

Note.—The daughter's son belongs to the class of distant kindred. The husband is not therefore entitled to the surplus by Return and the same will go to the daughter's son as a distant kinsman.

(t) Wife 1/4

Brother's daughter 3/4

Note.—The brother's daughter belongs to the class of distant kindred. The surplus will therefore go to her, as the wife is not entitled to the Return (f).

Sir. 37-40.

Residuaries for special cause.—A re-duary for special causes is a person who inherits from a freed man by reason of the manium-son of the latter (g). According to Mahomedan law proper, if a maniumtred slave diew without leaving any residuary heir by relation, the maniumtter is cuttiful to succeed to the residue in preference to the right of the shares to take the residue by Return (Evr. 25-29). But residuanse for special cause have no place in Mahomedan law as administered by the Courts of British India since the abolition of slavery in 1843.

Husband and wife.—The rule of law as stated in the exception as regards the rightof the husband and wife to Return is different from that set out in the Strappyah.

According to the latter authority, neither the husband nor wife is entitled to the Return is any case, not even if there be no other heir, and the surplus goes to the Public Treasury
(Six. 37). "But although that was the original jule, an equitable practice has prevailed in modern times of returning to the husband or to the wife in default of other shares; by blood and distant kindred," and this practice has been adopted by our Courts. See the cases eited in ill. (a) above.

"Return" distinguished from "Increase."—Return is the converse of Increase,
The case of Return takes place when the total of the shares is less than unity: the case of Increase, when the total is greater than unity. In the former case the shares undergo a ratable increase: in the latter, a ratable decrease.

Falker and true grandfatker.—When there is only one sharer, he succeeds to the whole inheritance, to his legal share as sharer, and to the surplus by Return. When the father is the sole surviving heir, he succeeds to the whole inheritance as a residury for he cannot inherit as a sharer when there is no child or child of a son h. l. s. (see Table of Sh., No. 1). The same remarks apply to the case of the true grandfather when he is the sole survivine heir.

D.—Distant Kindred.

- 54. Distant Kindred.—(1) If there be no Sharers or Residuaries, the inheritance is divided amongst Distant Kindred.
- (2) If the only sharer be a husband or wife, and there be no relation belonging to the class of Residuaries, the Ss. 54, 55 husband or wife will take his or her full share, and the remainder of the estate will be divided among Distant Kindred.

- Sir. 13. It will have been seen from the preceding section that a husband or wife, though a sharer, does not exclude distant kindred from inheritance when he or she is the sole surviving here. See s. 53 and ills. (s) and (i) to that section.
- 55. Four classes.—(I) Distant Kindred are divided into four classes, namely, (I) descendants of the deceased other than sharers and residuaries; (2) ascendants of the deceased other than sharers and residuaries; (3) descendants of parents other than sharers and residuaries; and (4) descendants of ascendants how high soever other than residuaries. The descendants of the deceased succeed in priority to the ascendants, the ascendants of the deceased in priority to the descendants of parents, and the descendants of parents in preference to the descendants of ascendants.
- (2) The following is a list of Distant Kindred comprised in each of the four classes:—
 - I. Descendants of the deceased:—
 - 1. Daughter's children and their descendants.
 - 2. Children of son's daughters h. I. s. and their descendants.
 - II. Ascendants of the deceased :-
 - 1. False grandfathers h. h. s.
 - 2. False grandmothers h. h. s.
 - III. Descendants of parents :-
 - 1. Full brothers' daughters and their descendants.
 - 2. Con. brothers' daughters and their descendants.
 - 3. Uterme brothers' children and their descendants.
 - 4. Daughters of full brothers' sons h. l. s., and their descendants.
 - 5. Daughters of con. brothers' sons h. l. s., and their descendants.
 - 6. Sisters' (f., c., or ut.) children and their descendants.
 - IV. Descendants of immediate grandparents (true or false):—
 - Full pat, uncles' daughters and their descendants.
 - 2. Con. pat. uncles' daughters and their descendants.
 - 3. Uterine pat, uncles and their children and their descendants.
 - 4. Daughters of full pat. uncles' sons h. l. s. and their descendants.

- 5. Daughters of con. pat. uncles sons h. l. s. and their descendants.
- 6. Pat. aunts (f., c., or ut.) and their children and their descendants.
- 7. Mat. uncles and aunts and their children and their descendants.

and

descendants of remoter ancestors h. h. s. (true or false).

(3) The order of precedence among Distant Kindred in each class and the rules by which such order is determined are given in secs. 56 to 66.

Sir 44-46. The Snapiyah does no, enumerate all relations belonging to the class of statar Kindred, but mentions only some of them. Hence it was thought at one time that "distant kindred" were restricted to the specie relations mentioned in the Snapiyyah. But this view has long since been rejected as erroneous, and it is now firmly established that all relations who are neither sharers nor residuaries are distant kindred (b).

Class I of Distant Kindred.

Preliminary Note.—When we come to Distant Kindred, we find that there are wo sets of rules for each class, one for determining the order of succession, and the other for determining the sharers. In each class we have first of determine which of the relations are entitled to succeed; this is done by applying certain rules which are called Rules of Exclusion. After so doing, we have to assign shares to those relations; this is done with the helio of certain other rules.

It is when we come to the class of Distant Kindred that we find a remarkable differ, ence of opinion between Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad, the two great disciples of Abu Hainfa. The doctine of Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad that is followed by the Hainati Sunnis in India. It is the doctine of Imam Muhammad that is followed in India, and this doctrine is much too complicated (i). Moreover, the doctrine of Imam Muhammad is followed by the author of the Sinaffyiah (i). The Fatawa Alampiri does not express any preference either way (i). Since the opinion of Abu Yusuf is not followed in India, we have confined ourselves in the following sections to the doctrine of Imam Muhammad, and the difference between the two systems is pointed out in the notes. It must not, however, be supposed that the two systems differ in all respects and at all stages. So long as the intermediate ancestors do not differ in their sexes or blood, there is no difference at all between the two systems. The difference comes in only in those cases where the intermediate ancestors are—of different sexes as where some are males and others in the same generation are females; or where they are

⁽h) Abdul Serang v. Putes Bibi (1902) 23 Cal 738. (b) Macnaghten, p. 9 (footnote); Baille's Moohummudan Law of Inheritance, p. 92; Rumsey's Moohummudan Law of Inherit ance, p. 65; Ameer All, Vol. 11, p. 78. (2) Str. 49-50, Shar, 95. (k) Ballile, 716, 717.

Ss. 55, 56

(u) of different blood, as where some are of whole blood and others in the same generation are of half blood.

Abu Yusuf declines to take any notice of the sex or blood of intermediate ancestors, or as they are called "roots." According to him, regard should be had to the sex and blood of the actual channats, or, as they are called, "branches." The result is that according to his doctrine, the property is to be divided in the same manner as is done among son's sons and son's daughters as residuaries, that is to say, per capita, each male claimant taking a share double that of each female claimant.

According to Imam Muhammad, regard should be had not only to the sex and blood of the actual claimants, but also of the intermediate ancestors.

Where the intermediate ancestors differ in their week, the two systems differ as to the shares to be allotted to the claimants. This difference in the shares manifests riself when claimants are descendants, whether they be descendants of the deceased as in class I, or of brother and sisters as in class III, or of uncless and aunts as in class IV.

Where the intermediate ancestors differ in blood, the two systems differ as to the order of succession. This difference in the order of succession manifests itself in class III when the surviving relations happen to be the descendants some of full or consargume brothers or susters, and some of uterine brothers or sisters. It cannot manifest itself in class I and class II, for there can be no difference of blood among the intermediate ancestors in those classes. No rean it manifest itself in class IV, where the claimnuts are the descendants of nucles and aunts.

Before we proceed further, we may observe that among Residuaries there cannot be any difference of blood or sex among intermediate ancestors as it may be among Instant Kindied.

- 56. Rules of exclusion.—The first class of Distant Kindred comprises such of the descendants of the deceased as are neither Sharers nor Residuaries. The order of succession in this class is to be determined by applying the following two rules in order (Sir. 47):—
 - Rule (1).—The nearer in degree excludes the more remote.
- Sir. 7. Thus a daughter's son or a daughter's daughter is preferred to a son's daughter's daughter. The daughter's son and the daughter's daughter are the nearest distant kindred, and they exclude all other distant kindred.
- Rule (2).—Among claimants in the same degree of relationship, the children of Sharers and Residuaries are preferred to those of Distant Kindred.
- Sir. 47. Thus a son's daughter's son, being a child of a sharer (son's daughter) success in preference to a daughter's daughter's son, who is the child of a distant kinswoman (daughter's daughter).

57. Order of succession.—The rules set forth in section 56 lead to the following order of succession among Distant Kindred of the first class:—

Ss. 57, 58

- (1) Daughters' children.
- (2) Sons' daughters' children.
- (3) Daughters' grandchildren.
- (4) Sons' sons' daughters' children.
- (5) Daughters' great-grandchildren and sons' daughters grandchildren.
- (6) Other descendants of the deceased in like order

Of the above groups each in turn must be exhausted before any member of the next group can succeed.

Note that No. (1) belongs to the second generation, Nos. (2) and (3) to the third generation, and Nos. (1) and (5) to the fourth generation. No. (2) excludes No. (3) by reason of a, 56, rule (2). For the same reason No. (4) excludes No. (5).

58. Allotment of shares.—After ascertaining which of the descendants of the deceased are entitled to succeed, the next step is to distribute the estate among them. The distribution in this class is governed by the following rules:—

Rule (1)—If the intermediate ancestors do not differ in their sexes, the estate is to be divided among the claimants per capita according to the rule of the double share to the male [Sir. 47].

Illustrations.

(a)	Daughter's son		 2/3
	Daughter's daughter		 1/3
(b)	Daughter's son s son		 2/3
	Daughter's son's daugh	itei	 1/3

(c) 2 sons of daughter A 4/5 (each taking 2/5)

1 daughter of daughter B .. 1/5

Note.—To divide the estate $per\ stripes$ is to assign 1/2 to the two sons, and 1/2 to the daughter, that being the portion of their respective parents, A and B.

(d) 2 sons of a daughter's daughter A . . . 4/6 (each 2/6 or 1/3)
 2 daughters of a daughter's daughter B . . . 2/6 (each 1/6).

Note.- To divide the estate $per\ stripes$ is to assign 1/2 to the two sons and 1/2 to the two daughters.

Doctrine of Abu Yasafi.—The distribution will be the same according also to Abu Yusuf. In each of the above cases it will be seen that the sexes of the intermediate ancestors are the same. But if the claimants be a daughter's daughter's son and a daughter's son's daughter, the case is one in which the intermediate ancestors differ in their sexes. In such a case also, according to Abu Yusuf, the rule to be followed is Rule (1), so that the former, being a male, will take 2/3 and the latter, being a female, will take 1/3; the reason being that according to Abu Yusuf regard is to be had solely to the sexes of the claimants [see "Prelimitary note," p. 53]. According to Imagin

- S. 58 Muhammad, regard should be had also to the sexes of the intermediate ancestors, and the distribution is to be made according to Rule (2) below, which, it will be seen, is a distribution pr. strpes, though not entirely such as in the Shiah law.
 - Rule (2)—If the intermediate ancestors differ in their sexes, the estate is to be distributed according to the following rules [Sir. 48-50]:—
 - (a) The simplest case is where there are only two claimants, the one claiming through one line of ancestors, and the other claiming through another line. In such a case, the rule is to stop at the first line of descent in which the sexes of the intermediate ancestors differ, and to assign to the male ancestor a portion double that of the female ancestor. The share of the male ancestor will descend to the claimant who claims through him, and the share of the female ancestor will descend to the claimant who claims through her, irrespective of the sexes of the claimants.

Illustration.

A Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter's son's daughter and a daughter's daughter's son, as shown in the following table:

	Propositus.
1st line	daughter	daughter
2nd line	son	daughter
3rd line	daughter	son

In this case, the ancestors first differ in their seves in the second line of descent, and it is at this point that the rule of a double portion to the male is to be applied. This is done by assigning 2/3 to the daughter's son and 1/3 to the daughter's son will go to his daughter, and the 1/3 of the daughter's daughter will go to his son. Thus we have

According to Abu Yusuf, the shares will be 1/3 and 2/3 respectively.

Note. Where the deceased leaves descendants in the fourth or remoter generation, the double share to the male at to be applied in rever successive line in which the intermediate ancestors differ in their sexes. See ill. (b) to sub-rule (c) below.

(b) The next case is where there are three or more claimants, each claiming through a different line of ancestors. Here again, the rule is to stop at the first line in which the sexes of the intermediate ancestors differ, and to assign to each male ancestor a portion double that of each female ancestor. But in this case the individual share of each ancestor does not descend to his or her descendants as in the preceding case, but the collective share of all the male ancestors is to be divided among all the descendants claiming through them, and the collective share of all the female ancestors is to be divided among their descendants, according to the rule, as between claimants in the same group, of a double portion to the male.

Mustrations

(a) A Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter s son's daughter, a daughter's daughter's son, and a daughter's daughter as shown in the following table:

	Propositus.
Γ
daughter	daughter	daughter
son	daughter	daughter
daughter	son.	danghter

In this case, the ancesters differ in there is an it is second line of descent. In that line we have one made and two females. The rule of the double share to the male is to be applied, first, in this line of descent, so that we have daughter's son . . . 1/2 daughter's daughter and the standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard standard s

```
```

The daughter's son stands alone, and therefore his share descends to his daughter. The two female ancestors, namely, the daughters' daughters, form a group, and then collective share is 1/2, which will be divided between their descendants, that is, the daughter's daughter's on and—daughter's daughter's daughter, in the proportion again of two to one, the former taking 2/3 > 1/2 = 1/3, and the latter 1/3. 1/2 = 1/6. Thus we have

```
daughter's son's daughter ... 1/2= 3/6
daughter's daughter's son ... 1/3=2/6
daughter's daughter ... 1/6=1/6
```

According to Abu Yusuf, the shares will be 1/4, 1/2 and 1/4 respectively.

(b) A Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter's daughter's son, a daughter's son's son and a daughter's son's daughter, as shown in the following table:
Propagate

	1 10300000
daughter	daughter	daughter daughter	son 	son l
son	son	daughter

[In the preceding illustration we had one male and two females in the first line in which the sexes differed. In the present case, we have one female and two males in that line.]

First ascertain what is the line of descent in which the sexes first differ. That line is the second line of descent.

Next, assume the relations in that line to be so many children of the deceased and determine their shares upon that footing. The shares therefore will be, daughter's daughter 1/5, and each daughter's son 2/5, the collective share of the two daughter's sons being 4/5. Assign the 1/5 of daughter's daughter to her son.

Lastly, divide the 4/5 of the two male ancestors between their descendants as if they were children of one ancestor, assigning a double portion to the male descendant. Thus, the daughter's son's son takes $2/3 \times 4/5 = 8/15$, and the daughter's son's daughter $1/3 \times 4/5 = 1/15$. Thus we have

```
daughter's daughter's son 1/5-3/15
daughter's son's son 8/15 daughter's son's daughter 4/15
```

According to Abu Yusuf, the shares will be 2.5, 2.5, and 1/5 respectively.

(c) A Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter's son's son, a daughter's son's son's daughter's daughter's daughter's daughter's daughter as shown in the following table: -

Here the ance-tors first differ in their sexes in the second line, and in that line we have two mades and two femiles. The collective share of the two mades is 4/6, and that of the two femiles is 2/6. The 4/6 of the daughters' sons will be divided between the daughter's son's son and the daughter's son's daughter, the former taking 2/3 *4/9= 8/18, and the latter 1/3 *4.6=4/18. The 2/6 of the daughter's daughters will be divided between the daughter's daughter's son and the daughter's daughter's daughter to former taking 2/3 *2/6 *4/18, and the latter 1/3 *2/6=2/18. Thus we have

```
        daughter's son's son
        8/18

        daughter's son's daughter 4/18

        daughter's daughter's son
        4/18

        daughter's daughter
        2/18
```

According to Abu Yusuf the shares will be 2/6, 1/6, 2/6 and 1/6 respectively.

Note.—When a person dies leaving descendants in the fourth or remoter generation, "the course indicated in the fabove rule] as to the first line in which the sexes differ is to be followed equally in any lower line; but the descendants of any individual or group once separated must be kept separate throughout, in other words they must not be united in a group with those of any other individual or group "(l). See ill. (b) to subrule (c).

(c) The last case is when there are two or more claimants claiming through the same intermediate ancestor. In such a case, there is this further rule to be applied, namely, to count for each such ancestor, if male, as many males as there are claimants claiming through him, and, if female, as many females as there are claimants claiming through her, irrespective of the sexes of the claimants.

Illustrations

(a) A Mahomedan dies leaving 5 great-grand children as shown in the following diagram:—

Here the ancestors first differ in their sex in the second line, and in that line we have one male and one female. The daughter's son will count as two males by reason of his having two descendants among the claimants, and the daughter's daughter will count as there females by reason of her having three descendants. Thus we have

The 4/7 of the daughter's son will go to his two sons. The 3/7 of the daughter's daughter will go to bee descendants, the son taking 2/4 3/7--6,28 and each daughter taking 1/4/3/7--3/80. Thus we have

According to Abu Yusuf, the shares will be as follows: --

Note.—When the deceased leaves descendants in the footh or renoter generation, the process indicated in the above rule is to be applied as often as there may be occasion to group the sexes. See the next illustration.

(b) Note.—The following case taken from the Strajiyyah illustrates the combined operation of sub-rules (a), (b) and (c), when the claimants belong to the fourth generation. See notes at the end of sub-rule (a) and sub-rule (b), and the note at the end of ill. (a) above.

A Mahomedan dies leaving 5 descendants in the fourth generation as shown in Se. 58, 59 the following diagram [Sir. 49]:-

daughter	daughter	daughter
son (S1)	daughter (DI)	daughter (D2)
daughter	daughter (D3)	son (S2)
2 daughters (D4, D5)	2 sons (83, S1)	daughter (D6)

Here the sexes first differ in the second line. SI having two descendants among the claimants will count as two males or four females. DI having two such descendants will count as two females. D2 having one such descendant only will count as one female. The estate will therefore be divided into 7 parts as follows:-

$$\begin{array}{c|c} SI = 1/7; \\ DI = 2/7 \\ D2 = 1/7 \end{array}$$
 3/7 (collective share of female ancestors).

SI being by himself, his share 4/7 will pass to his two descendants D4 and D5 in equal moreties, each taking 2.7.

The collective share 3.7 of D1 and D2 will descend to their immediate descendants D3 and S2, and here D3 having two descendants among the claimants will count as two females, and 82 having one such descendant only will count as one male, or two females. Hence the collective share 3.7 will be divided into 4 parts as follows:-

The share of D3 will pass to her two descendants S3 and S4, each taking 3.28. The share of $2 will pass to his descendants D6. The ultimate shares will therefore be -

D4
$$-1/7$$
; D5 $-1/7$, S3 $-2/7$, S1 $-2/7$; and D6 $=1/7$.

Class II of Distant Kindred.

- Order of succession.—(1) If there be no distant kindred of the first class, the whole estate will devolve upon the mother's father as being the nearest relation among Distant Kindred of the second class [see rule (1) below].
- (2) If there be no mother's father the estate will devolve upon such of the false ancestors in the third degree as are connected with the deceased through sharers, namely, the father's mother's father and the mother's mother's father, and of these two, the former, as belonging to the paternal side, will take 2/3, and the latter, as belonging to the maternal side, will take 1/3 [see rules (2) and (3) below].

Ss. 59, 60

Note that the father's mother and the mother's mother are sharers.

(3) If there be none of these, the estate will devolve upon the remaining false ancestors in the third degree, namely, the mother's father's father and the mother's father's mother. And as these two belong to the same (maternal) side, and as the sexes also of the intermediate ancestors are the same, the former, being a male, will take 2'3, and the latter, being a female, will take 1/3 according to sec. 58, rule (1) [Sir. 51-52].

Note that the two ances tors a entioned in sub-sec (3) are both related to the deceased through a distant kinsman, namely, mother's bither.

Rules of succession —Succession among Distant Kindred of the second class is governed by the following rules:—

- Rule (1). The nearer in degree excludes the more remote.
- Rule (2). Among claimants in the same degree, those connected with the deceased through sharers are preferred to those connected through distant kindred.
- Rult (3).—If there are claimants on the paternal side as well as claimants on the maternal side, assign 2/3 to the paternal side, and 1/3 to the maternal side. Then divide the portion assigned to the paternal side among the ancestors of the father, and the portion assigned to the maternal side among the ancestors of the mother, in each case according to the rules contained in sec. 53.

Doctrine of Abu Yasaf. It is not clear whether when the seves of the intermediate ancestors differ, there is the same difference of opinion between the two disciples as there is in class I. Any how, no such difference can arise until ancestors in the fourth degree are reached.

Class III of Distant Kindred.

60. Rules of exclusion.—If there be no Distant Kindred of the first or second class, the estate devolves upon Distant Kindred of the third class. This class comprises such of the descendants of brothers and sisters as are neither sharers nor residuaries. The order in succession in this class is to be determined by applying the following three rules in order [Sir. 52-54]:—

Rule (1).—The nearer degree excludes the more remote.

Thus the children of brothers and sisters exclude the grandchildren of brothers and sisters.

Ss. 60, 61

Rule (2).—Among claimants in the same degree of relationship, the children of Residuaries are preferred to those of Distant Kindred.

Thus a full brother's son's daughter, being the child of a residuary (full brother's son), is preferred to a full setter's daughter's son who is the child of a distant kinswoman (full saster's daughter). For the same reason, a consanguine brother's son's daughter is preferred to a full saster's daughter's son, though the former is of half blood and the latter of whole blood.

Rule (3).—Among claimants in the same degree of relationship, and not excluded by reason of Rule (2) above, the descendants of full brothers exclude those of consanguine brothers and sisters.

But the descendants of full sisters do not exclude the descendants of consanguine brothers or sisters, and the latter take the residue, if there be any, after allotting shares to the decendants of full sisters and of uterine brothers and sisters.

The descendants of uterine brothers and sisters are not excluded by descendants either of full or consanguine brothers or sisters, but they inherit with them.

Note particularly that the test of blood laid down in Rule (3) is not to be applied until after you have applied the test laid down in Rule (2). Among descendants of uncles and aunts these tests are to be applied in the reverse order: See notes to s. 63 under the head. "Rules of succession among descendants." [rules (3) and (4)].

- 61. Order of succession—The above rules lead to the following order of succession among Distant Kindred of the third class:—
 - Full brothers' daughters, full sisters' children and children of uterine brothers and sisters.
 - (2) Full usters' children, children of uterine brothers and sisters, consangume brothers' daughters and consangume asters' children, the consanguine group taking the residue (if any).
 - (3) Consangume brothers' daughters, consangume sisters' children, and children of uterine brothers and sisters.
 - (4) Full brothers' sons' daughters (children, of Residuaries).
 - (5) Consungume brothers' sons' daughters (children of Residuaries).
 - (6) Full brothers' daughters' children, full sisters' grandchildren, and grandchildren of uterine brothers and sisters.

- (7) Full sisters' grandchildren, grandchildren of uterine brothers and sisters, consanguine brothers' daughters' children and consanguine sisters' grandchildren, the consanguine group taking the residue (if any).
- (8) Consanguine brothers' daughters' children, consanguine sisters' grand-children, and grandchildren of uterine brothers and sisters.
- (9) Remoter descendants of brothers and sisters in like order.

Of the above groups each in turn must be exhausted before any member of the next group can succeed.

Among the descendants monitoned above, Nos. (1) to (3) are nephews and meces, and Nos. (4) to (8) are grandnephews and grand-neces. Note particularly that a full brother's son and a consanguine brother's son are residuaries; hence it is that they do not find any place in the above list Dotrine of Abn Yusuf,—Ac ording to Abn Yusuf also, there are three rules of exclusion, of which the first two are the same as those land down in the preceding section. The third rule of Abn Yusuf, which also is to be applied after applying the first two rules, is that descendants of full brothers and sisters exclude those of consanguine brothers and sisters, and the descendants of consanguine brothers and sisters exclude the descendants of uterine brothers and sisters. This difference arises from the fact that Abn Yusuf would have regard to the "blood" of the claimants while Imam Muhammad looks to the "blood" of the Roots. The result is that the order of succession according to Abu Yusuf is different from that according to Imam Muhammad.

62. Allotment of shares.—After ascertaining which of the descendants of brothers and sisters are entitled to succeed, the next step is to distribute the estate among them, and this is to be done by applying the following rules in order [Sir. 53-54]:—

Rule (1).—First, divide the estate among the Roots, that is to say, among the brothers and sisters (as if they were living) and in so doing treat each brother who has two or more claimants descended from him as so many brothers, and each sister who has two or more claimants descended from her as so many sisters. If there is a residue left after assigning their shares to the Roots, but there are no Residuaries among the Roots [that is, neither a full nor consanguine brother], apply the doctrine of Return as described in section 53. The hypothetical claimants being brothers and sisters, no case of Increase is possible at all [s. 51].

The relations constituting Distant Kindred of the third class are descendants of brothers and sisters, full consanguine and uterine. The brothers and sisters are therefore the Roots. Of these, uterine brothers and sisters always inherit as sharers, one taking 1/6, and two or more 1/3. Full and consanguine brothers always inherit as Ss. 61, 62 S. 62 residuaries. Full sisters inherit as sharers, if there are no full brothers, one taking 1/2, and two or more 2/3; but if there are full brothers, full sisters inherit as residuaries with them. The same remarks apply to consanguine sisters. See Tab. of Sh., nos. 9 to 12; Tab. of Res., nos. 5-7.

If the claimants be a uterine brother and a full brother, the former takes 1/6, and the latter the residue 5/6. But if the claimants be two or more descendants of a uterine brother, and two or more descendants of a full brother, the hypothetical share of the uterine brother will be 1/3, that being the share of two or more uterine brothers, and the hypothetical share of the full brother will be the residue 2/3.

If the claimants be a uterine sister and a full sister, the former will take 1/6, and the latter 1/2, and the residue 1/3 will go to them by Return, the former taking 1/4 and the latter 3/4. But if the claimants be 5 descendants of a uterine sister, and 9 desi-cendants of a full sister, the hypothetical share of the uterine sister will be 1/3, that being the share of two or more uterine sisters, and that of the full sister will be 2/3, that being the share of two or more uterine sisters, and that of the full sister will be 2/3, that being the share of two or more full sisters is call (b) to Rule (3) below.

If the claimants be a full brother and a full sister, they will inherit as residuaries, the former taking 2/3, and the latter 1/3. But if the claimants be 3 descendants of a full brother, and 4 descendants of a full sister, the full brother will count as three males, that is, 6 fomales and the full sister will count as 4 females. The property will then be divided into 10 parts, the hypothetical share of the full brother being 6/10, and that of the full sister 4/10 [compare ill. (a) to Rule (3) below]. The position of a consanguine brother and a consanguine sister is similar to that of a full brother and a full sister [compare ill. (c) to Rule (3) below].

As to the application of the doctrine of Return to the Roots, see ill. (d) to rule (3) below.

Rule (2)—After determining the hypothetical shares of the Roots, the next step is to assign its share to the uterine group. If there be only one claimant in that group, assign 1/6 to him, that being the hypothetical share of his parent. But if there be two or more claimants in that group, whether descended from a single uterine brother, or a single uterine sister, or two or more uterine brothers or sisters, assign 1/3 to them, that being the hypothetical share of their parent or parents, and divide it equally among them without distinction of sex.

Rule (3).—Lastly, divide the hypothetical shares of the full and consanguine brothers and sisters among their respective descendants as among Distant Kindred of the first class [see sec. 58].

Doctrine of Abu Yusuf.—According to Abu Yusuf, the estate is to be divided among the claimants per capita according to the rule of the double share to the male.

Illustrations.

(a) A Sunni Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter of a full brother, a son and a daughter of a full sister, a daughter of a consanguine brother, a son and a daughter of a consanguine sister, a daughter of a uterine brother, and a son and a daughter of a uterine sister, as shown in the following diagram:—

The children of the consanguine brother and sister are excluded from inheritance as there is a full brother's daughter [see s. 60, rule (3)]. The estate has therefore to be divided among the children of the full and uterme brothers and sisters.

As there are three claimants in the uterine group, the collective share of the uterine brother and sister is 1/3, and this will be divided among their three descendants equally without distinction of sex, each taking 1/9.

This leaves a residue 2/3, and this is to be divided in the first instance between the full brother and the full sister as residuaties, according to the number of claimants descended from each of them. The full brother, having only one descendant, counts as one male or two females. The full sister, having two descendants, counts as two females. The residue will therefore be divided into four parts, the full brother taking $2/4 \times 2/3 = 1/3$. and the full sister also $2/4 \times 2/3 = 1/3$.

The full brother's share 1/3 will go to his descendant. The full sister's share 1/3 will be divided between her two children according to the rule of the double share to the male as in class I of Distant Kindred, the sen taking $2/3 \times 1/3 - 2/9$, and the daughter taking $1/3 \times 1/3 - 1/9$.

Note.—On failure of children of full brother and sister, the residue will be divided in like manner among the children of consanguine brother and sister.

(According to Abu Yusuf, the whole estate will be divided among the children of the full brother and sister according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that the full brother's daughter will take 1/4, the full sister's son 1/2, and her daughter 1/4. On failure of children of the full brother and sister, the estate will be divided in like manner among the children of consanguism brother and sister. And on failure of them, it will be distributed in like manner among the children of the uterine brother and sister).

(b) A Sunni Mahomedan dies leaving five children of a uterine sister, and three children of a full sister, as shown in the following diagram:—

As there are five claimants in the uterine group, the share of the uterine sister is 13, and this will be divided among her five children equally without distinction of sex, each taking $1/5 \times 1/3 = 1/15$.

1 t 2

The full sister, having three descendants, will count as three sisters, and she will take 2/3, that being the share of two or more full sisters [see Tab. of Sh. No. 11]. This will then be divided among her three children according to the rule of the double share to the male as among Distant Kindred of the first class, so that each son will take 2/5 × 2/3-4/16, and the daughter will take 1/5 × 2/3-4/16, and the daughter will take 1/5 × 2/3-4/16.

[According to Abu Yusuf, the whole estate will be divided among the children of the lister according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that each son will take 2/5, and the daughter will take 1/5.]

(c) A Sunni Mahomedan dies leaving a uterine brother's daughter, a uterine sister's son, a full sister's son, and a consanguine brother's daughter, as shown in the following diagram:—

U. B.	u.s.	F. S.	С. В.
D (1/6)	S (1/6)	S (1/2)	D (1/6)

Here there is no descendant of a full brother; therefore the consanguine brother's daughter is not excluded from inheritance, and she will take what remains after the estate is divided among the other claimants.

As there are two descendants in the uterine group, the collective share of the uterms before and sates is 1/3, and this will be divided equally between their children without distinction of sex, each taking 1/6.

The full sister, having only one descendant, counts as one full sister, and her share therefore is 1/2. This will descend to her son.

This leaves a residue of 1/6 which will go to the consanguine brother as a residuary. This will descend to his daughter.

[According to Abu Yusuf, the whole estate will go to the full sister's son.]

(d) A Sunni Mahomedan dies leaving a uterine sister's daughter, and a son and a daughter of a consangume sister, as shown in the following diagram:—

The uterine sister has only one descendant; her share therefore in 1/6. The conanguine sister, having two descendants, counts as two consanguine sisters, and her share therefore in 2/3 (Tab. of Sh. No. 12). This leaves the residue 1/6, and since there is no residuary among the Roots, the residue will go to the uterms sister and consanguine sister by Roturn. The hypothetical shares will therefore be.

uterine sister
$$1/6 = 1/6$$
 increased to $1/5$ consanguine sister $2/3 = 4/6$,, , , 4/5

The uterine sister's share 1/5 will pass to her daughter.

The consanguine sister's share 4/5 will be divided between her son and daughter, the son taking $2/3\times4/5=8/15$, and the daughter $1/3\times4/5=4/15$.

Ss. 62, 63

[According to Abu Yusuf, the whole estate will go to the children of the consanguing sister, the son taking 2/3, and the daughter 1/3.]

(e) A Sunni Mahomedan dies leaving four grandnephews S1, S2, S3, and S4, and 3 grandnieces D1, D2, and D3, as shown in the following diagram:—

As there are two claimants in the atterine group, the collective share of the atterine brother and sister is 1/3, and thus will pass to D1 and S1, each taking 1/6.

This leaves a residue 2/3, and this is to be divided in the first instance between the consangume brother and sister as residuaries according to the number of claimants descended from each of them.

The consangume brother, having two claimants descended from him, counts as two indies or four females. The consangume sister, having three claimants descended from her, counts as 3 females. The residue will therefore be divided into seven parts, the consangume brother taking 1/7 · 2/3 8/21, and the consangume sister taking 3/7 · 2/3 = 6/21.

The consanguine brother's share 8/21 will be divided between his two descendants S2 and D2, S2 being a male taking $2/3 \times 8/21 - 16/63$, and D2 being a female taking $1/3 \times 8/21 - 8/63$.

The consangume sister's share 6/21 is to be divided in the first instance between her son and her daughter. The son, having two claimants descended from him, counts as two males or four females. The daughter, having only one claimant descended from her, counts as one female. The son will therefore take $4/5 \times 6/21$ 8/35, and the daughter will take $1/6 \times 6/21 = 2/35$.

The son's share 8/35 will be divided between his two children S3 and D3 according to the rule of the double share to the male, S3 taking $2/3 \times 8/35 = 16/105$, and D3 taking $1/3 \times 8/35 = 8/105$.

The daughter's share 2/35 will pass to her son S4.

The shares will therefore be-

D1-1/6; S1=1/6; $S2 \cdot 16/63$; D2-8/63; S3-16/105; $D3 \cdot 8/105$; and S4=2/35. The total of these shares is unity.

[According to Abu Yusuf, the whole property will be divided among the consurgine groups to the entire exclusion of the uterines, so that S2, S3, and S4 will each take 2/8 or 1/4, and D2 and D3 will each take 1/8.]

Class IV of Distant Kindred.

63. Order of succession.—(1) If there are no Distant Kindred of the first, second, or third class, the estate will devolve upon Distant Kindred of the fourth class in the order given below [Sir. 56-58]:—

Ss. 63, 64

- l'aternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the deceased, other than his full and consanguine paternal uncles who are Residuaries.
- (2) The descendants h. l. s. of all the paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the deceased, other than sons h.l.s. of his full and consanguine paternal uncles (they being Residuaries), the nearer excluding the more remote.
- (3) Paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the parents, other than the full and consanguine paternal uncles of the father who are Residuaries.
- (4) The descendants h. l. s. of all the paternal and maternof the full and consanguine paternal uncles of the father (they being Residuaries), the nearer excluding the more remote.
- (5) Paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the grandparents, other than the full and consanguine paternal uncles of the father's father who are Residuaries.
- (6) The descendants h. l. s. of all the paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the grandparents, other than sons h. l. s. of the full and consanguine paternal uncles of the father's father (they being Residuaries), the nearer excluding the more remote.
- (7) Remoter uncles and aunts and their descendants in like manner and order.
- (2) Of the above groups each in turn must be exhausted before any member of the next group can succeed.

Dustrine of Abu Yusuf.—The only difference between the two disciples as regards succession of the Dustant Kindred of the fourth class is as to the allotment of shares among the descendants, See see. 65 below.

- 64. Uncles and aunts.—To distribute the estate among the uncles and aunts of the deceased, proceed as follows:—
- (1) First, assign 2/3 to the paternal side, that is, to paternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such, and 1/3 to the maternal side, that is, to maternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such.

- (2) Next, divide the portion assigned to the paternal side, that is, 2/3 of the estate, among
 - (a) full paternal aunts in equal shares; failing them, among
 - (b) consanguine paternal aunts in equal shares; and, failing them, among
 - (c) uterine paternal uncles and aunts, according to the rule of the double share to the male.
- (3) Lastly, divide the portion assigned to the maternal side, that is 1/3 of the estate, among
 - (a) full maternal uncles and aunts; failing them
 - (b) consanguine maternal uncles and aunts; and, failing them, among
 - (c) uterine maternal uncles and aunts, according to the rule, in each case, of the double share, to the male.
- (4) If there be no uncle or aunt on the paternal side, the maternal side will take the whole. Similarly, if there be no uncle or aunt on the maternal side, the paternal side will take the whole.

Sir. 55, 56,

Note that no claimant on the paternal side excludes any claimant on the maternal side, and no claimant on the maternal side excludes any claimant on the paternal side.

Note that no claimant on the maternal side excludes any claimant on the paternal side.

Note particularly that full paternal uncles and consanguino paternal uncles are Residuaries. Hence we are not concerned with them here.

Doctrine of Abu Yusuf.—There is no difference between the two disciples as regards the succession of uncles and aunts.

Historians

			I temoni	arrons.
(a)	2/3	Full paternal aunt Cons. paternal aunt	::	::	::	2/3=	=6/9	(excluded by full paternal aunt)
	1/3	Full maternal uncle Full maternal aunt Cons. maternal uncle	.::	::	1/3			(excluded by full
(b)	2/3	Cons. paternal aunt Ut. paternal uncle	::		::		2/3	and aunt) (excluded by cons. paternal aunt).
	1/3	Full maternal aunt			• •	••	1/3	parenta dello,
(c)	2/3	Ut. paternal uncle Ut. paternal aunt	::	::	1/3
	1/3	Full maternal uncle Full maternal aunt	::	::	1/3

Ss. 64, 65 Note.- The result would be the same if the deceased left a uterine maternal uncle and aunt instead of a full maternal uncle and aunt.

rule of the double share to the male.

Rules of succession .- The present section is based upon the following rules :-

- (1) If there are claiments on the paternal side, together with claimants on the maternal side, the former will take collectively 2/3, and the latter 1/3, and each side will then divide its own collective share according to the
- (2) Among claimants on the same side, those of the full blood are preferred to those of the half blood, and consanguine relations are preferred to uterine relations.

Order of providy. The uncles and aunts may belong to the paternal side or they may belong to the maternal side. The two sides where logistics, and no claimant on either side eveludes any claimant on the other side. The order of succession among the uncles and aunts of the deceased is explained in the Table on p. 74 below.

- 65. Descendants of uncles and aunts.—If there are no uncles or aunts of the deceased, the estate will devolve upon the descendants of uncles and aunts, other than sons how low soever of full paternal uncles and consanguine paternal uncles who are residuaries. To distribute the estate among these relations, proceed as follows [Sir. 56-58]:—
- (1) First, assign 2/3 to the paternal side, that is, to descendants of paternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such, and 1/3 to the maternal side, that is, to descendants of maternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such.
- (2) Next, divide the portion assigned to the paternal side, that is, 2/3 of the estate, among--
 - (a) full paternal uncles' daughters; failing them, among
 - (b) full paternal aunts' children; failing them, among
 - (c) consanguine paternal uncle's daughters; failing them, among
 - (d) consanguine paternal aunt's children; and failing them, among

(e) children of uterine paternal uncles and aunts, the division among the members of each of the five groups above to be made as among Distant Kindred of the first class [see sec. 58].

Note that (a) excludes (b), the reason being that (a) are children of residuaries (full paternal uncles), while (b) are children of distant kindred (full paternal aunts).

Note also that a full paternal uncle's son and a convanguino paternal uncle's so are residuaries; hence they do not find any place in the above list.

- (3) Lastly, divide the portion assigned to the maternal side, that is, 1/3 of the estate among—
 - (a) children of full maternal uncles and aunts; failing them, among
 - (b) children of consanguine maternal uncles and aunts; failing them, among
- (c) children of uterine maternal uncles and aunts, the division among the members of each of the three groups above to be made as among Distant Kindred of the first class [see sec. 58].
- (4) If there be no children of paternal uncles and aunts, the children of maternal uncles and aunts will take the whole. Similarly, if there be no children of maternal uncles and aunts, the children of paternal uncles and aunts will take the whole
- (5) If there be no children either of paternal uncles and aunts or of maternal uncles and aunts, the estate will be divided among their grandchildren on the same principle. Failing grandchildren, it will be divided among remoter descendants, the nearer degree excluding the more remote.

The order of succession on each side is based on certain rules which are set forth below immediately after the illustrations.

Doctrine of Abu Yusuf.—The only difference between the two disciples as to the succession of descendants of uncles and aunts is that, according to Abu Yusuf, the portion assigned to each side is to be divided among the claimants per capita according to the rule of the double share to the male.

Illustrations.

(a) The claimants are those indicated in the lowest line of the following diagram :-Full : . .. ele (B)

uli pat. uncie (A)	Full pat. uncle () son (S1)	daughter (D1)
daughter	daughter
daughter (D2)	son (S2)

Here the first line in which the sex of the ancestors differs is the second line of descent. Therefore S1 takes 2/3, and D1 takes 1/3. Therefore, the share of D2 is 2/3 and that of S2 is 1/3.

According to Abu Yusuf, 1)2 leing a female will take 1/3, and S2 being a male will take 2/3.

(b) Suppose the surviving relatives to be as shown in the last line of the following diagram :--

Here all the descendants are equal in degree; and they are also the same in blood, that is, they are all descendants of uncles and aunts of the full blood. But D1 is a child of a residuary (full paternal uncle's son's son), while S1, D2, and D3 are children of distant kindred. Therefore D1 excludes S1. D2. and D3. and she will take the whole estate [see below "Rules of Succession"].

Suppose now that the surviving relations are S1, D2, and D3. In that case the distribution will be as follows :-

Here the seves differ first in the first line. As B has two claimants descended from him, he will count as two males or four fomales. C, having only one claimant descended from her, will count as one female. The estate will therefore be divided into five parts of which B will take 4/5 and C 1/5.

B's share 4/5 will be divided among his two descendants S1 and D2 according to the rule of the double portion to the male, so that S1 will take 2/3×4/5=8/15, and D2 will take 1/3 > 4/5=4/15. C's share 1/5 will descend to D3. Honce-

[According to Abu Yusuf, the shares will be 1/2, 1/4 and 1/4 respectively.]

Rules of succession among descendants .- To distribute the estate among descendants of uncles and aunts, apply the following rules in the order in which they are given below :-

Rule (1). - The nearer degree excludes the more remote.

Rule (2).—If both the paternal and maternal sides are represented, two-thirds are assigned to the paternal side and one-third to the maternal side.

S. 65

Rule (3).—Among claimants on the same side, those of the whole blood are preferred to those of the half blood, and consanguine relations are preferred to uterine relations. This rule applies both to the paternal and maternal sides, and it is to be applied separately to each side.]

Rule (4).—Among claimants on the paternal side, the children of residuary: her daughters, therefore, would be the children of a residuary, and they would be preferred to these of distant kindred. [Thus a full paternal uncle is a residuary; her daughters, therefore, would be the children of a residuary, and they would be preferred to the daughters of a full paternal aunt who is a distant kinswoman. Similarly, a consanguing paternal consumption paternal aunt has a residuary; but daughters of a consanguing paternal aunt. Again, a full paternal uncle's son is a residuary, his daughters therefore would be children of a residuary, and they would be preferred to the daughters of a consanguing paternal uncle's son would be preferred to the daughters of a consanguine paternal uncle's son would be preferred to the daughters of a consanguine paternal uncle's son would be preferred to the daughters. This rule cannot apply to relations on the maternal side, because none of the maternal uncles' is creditinery.

Rule (5).—After ascertaining which of the relations are entitled to succeed, the portion assigned to the paternal side is to be distributed among the members of that side as among Distant Kindred of the first class [s. 58]. The portion assigned to the insternal side is also to be distributed according to the sume principle [s. 58].

The whole of sec. 65 is based on the above rules.

Order of priority among descendants.—The descendants of uncles and aunts may been got the paternal side or they may belong to the maternal side. The two sides inherit loyether, and no channat on other side evolution any clammat on the other side. The Table given on the next page shows at a glance all uncles and aunts of the deceased and their descendants up to the third generation.

66. Other Distant Kindred of the fourth class.—If there are no descendants of uncles and aunts, the estate will devolve upon other Distant Kindred of the fourth class in the order of succession given in sec. 63 above, the distribution among higher uncles and aunts being governed by the principles stated in sec. 64, and that among their descendants by those stated in sec. 65 [Sir. 58].

E.—Successors unrelated in blood.

67. Successor by contract.—In default of Sharers, Residuaries, and Distant Kindred, the inheritance devolves upon the "Successor by contract," that is, a person who derives his right of succession under a contract with the deceased in consideration of an undertaking given by him to pay any fine or ransom to which the deceased may become liable.

Sir. 13; Hedaya, p. 517. The right of inheritance by reason of Wala dealt with in this section is taken away by the Slavery Act, 1843.

Ss. 65-67

Table of uncles and aunts of the deceased and their descendants up to the third generation

In the following Table F stands for 'tull, 'C for 'consanguine,' and U't for 'utwine,' P stands for 'paternal' and M for 'maternal.' E stands for 'uncle, and & for 'aunt.' The small letters stands for 'son,' d stands for 'daughter, and ch for 'children.' The italies indicate Residuaries; the rest are Destunt Klindred. Note that the maternal aide is not excluded by the Paternal side, but succeeds with members of that side:-

Date: 1-13. 9.9

		raverna	r avernal side - 2.5.			W.	daternal side—1/3.
Line of Us. and As	F. P. U.	F. P. A. (1)	C. P. C.	C. P. A. (2)	Ut. P. U. & A. (3)	F. M. U. & A. (i) C	U. P. U. & A. (3) F. M. C. & A. (3) C. M. U. & A. (4) U. M. U. & A. (41)	U. & A. (iii)
1st gen.	(C) -	ch (2)		i(3) ch (4)	ch (5)		(i) 	ch (iii)
2nd gen. s	d (1) ch (2)	ch (2)	d (3) ch (4)	(4) ch (4)	ch (5)	(i)		ch (iii)
3rd gen. s	d(1) ch(2) ch(2)	ch (2) s	d (3) (ch) 4 ch (4)	h (4) ch (4)	ch (5)	ch (i)	ch (ii)	ch (iii)

in the case of paternal uncles and sunts, by the Arabic numerals (1), (2) and (3), and in the case of maternal uncles and sunts by the Roman figures (1), (ii) and (iii). See a. 64, is generation.—If there be no uncles or aunts, the estate devolves upon their children. Of these, F.P.U. s. and C.P.U. s. are Residuaries. The vest are Distants The rest are Distant Kindred, and the order of succession among them is shown line of uncles and aunts. - In this line, F. P. U. and C. P. U. are Residuaries.

Kindred, and the order of succession among them is shown, in the case of children of paternal uncles and annie, by the Arabic numerals, (1), (2), (3), (4) and (5), and in the case of maternal uncles and sunts by the Roman figures (i), (i) and (ti). No. (I), being the child of a residuary, is preferred to No. (2), though they are both of full blood.
For the same reason, No. (3) is preferred to No. (4), though they are both consanguine relations. See s. 65. had generation.—If there be no children of uncles and sunts whether paternal or maternal, the estate devolves upon the grandchildren of uncles and aunts. Of Failing these, F. P. C. a. a. and C. P. U. a. a. are Residuaries. The rest are Destant Kindred, and the order of succession among them is shown in the same manner as in the for growing the child of a readoury; is preferred to the group constituted by No. (2) and No. (2), they being children of Distant Knodred, they are all of tall blood. For the same reason No. (3) is preferred to the group constituted by No. (4) and No. (4), though they are all consumptine relations. No. (1), No. (2) and No. (2) intheir toggeder. Rilling's No. (3), No. (4) and No. (4) intent together. Ralling these No. (5) successis.

3rd peneration.—This does not require any further explanation. All that requires to be noted is that No. (1) excludes the group constituted by No. (2), No. (2) and No. (2), and No. (3) excludes the group constituted by No. (4), No. (4) and No. (4). 68. Acknowledged kinsman.—Next in succession is the "Acknowledged Kinsman," that is, a person of unknown descent in whose favour the deceased has made an acknowledgment of kinship, not through himself, but through another.

Such an acknowledgment confers upon the "Acknowledged Kinsman" the right of succession to the property of the deceased, subject to bequests to the extent of the bequeathable third, but it does not invest the acknowledgee with all the rights of an actual kinsman.

- Sir. 13. The kinship acknowledged must be kin-hip through another, that is, through the deceased's father or his grandfuller. Thus, a person may ecknowledge another to be his brother, for that is kinship (through the father (m). But he may not acknowledge another to be his son, for that is kinship through himself. The acknowledgment by the deceased of a person as his son or daughter stands upon a different footing altogether and it is dealt with in the -hipsee on "Parentage."
- 69. Universal legatee.—The next successor is the "Universal Legatee," that is, a person to whom the deceased has left the whole of his property by will.
- Str. 13. It is to be noted that the prohibition against bequeathing more than one third of the not assets exists only for the benefit of the heirs. Hence a bequest of the whole will take effect if the deceased has left no known herr (a).
- 70. Escheat.—On failure of all the heirs and successors above enumerated, the property of a deceased Sunni Mahomedan escheats to the Crown.
- Str. 13. The rule of pure Mahomedan law in this respect is different, for, according to that rule the property does not devolve upon Government by way of inheritance as altimus horses, but falls into the but-ul-mal (public treasury) for the benefit of Marahanas.

F.—Miscellaneous.

71. Step-children.—Step-children do not inherit from stepparents, nor do step-parents inherit from step-children.

See Macnaghten, Precedents of inheritance, No. xxi.

72. Bastard.—An illegitimate child is considered to be the child of its mother only, and as such it inherits from its mother and her relations, and they inherit from such child (o).

⁽m) Tagore Law Lectures, 1873, pp. 92-93.
(n) Balllie's Mahomedan Law of Inheritance.
(o) Tagore Law Lectures, 1873, p. 123.

Illustration.

Ss. 72, 73 [A Mahomedan female of the Sunni sect dies leaving a husband and an illegatimate son of her sister. The husband will take 1/2 and the sister's son, though illegatimate will take the other 1/2 as a distant kinsman, being related to the deceased though his mother: Bafatun v. Balait Khanum (1903) 30 Cal. 683.]

An illegitimate child does not inherit from its putative father or his relations, nor do they inherit from such child.

73. Missing persons.—When the question is whether a Mahomedan is alive or dead, and it is proved that he has not been heard of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of him if he had been alive, the burden of proving that he is alive is on the person who affirms it.

Under the Hanafi law, a missing person is to be regarded as alto till the lapse of ninety years from the date of his birth. But it has been held by a Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court that this rule is only a rule of reaker, and not one of succession, and it must therefore be taken as superseded by the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act (p). The present section reproduces, with some verbal alterations, the provisions of s. 108 of the Evidence Act.

 ⁽p) Mazhar Alv v. Budh Singh (1884) 7 All.
 297; Mairaj v. Abul Wahul (1921) 43 All.
 673, 63 1. C. 286. See Also Moolla Casum

v. Moola Abdul (1905) 33 Cal, 173, 178 32 1. A. 177.

CHAPTER VIII.

SHIAH LAW OF INHERITANCE.

(Preliminary note.—The most authoritative text-book of the Shiah law is Sharaya-ul-Islam (q), the whole of which has been translated into French by M. Querry under the title Droit Massimum. The Se ond part of Ballile's Digest of Mahomedian Law, with the exception of the law book, is compost, as the author tells us in the Introduction (p. xxx) of ternals one from Shirax-a-ul-Islam).

Sa. 74, 75

- 74. Division of heirs. The Shiahs divide heirs into two groups, namely, (1) heirs by consanguinity, that is, blood relations, and (2) heirs by marriage, that is husband and wife.
- 75. Three classes of heirs by consanguinity.—(1) Heirs by consanguinity are divided into three classes, and each class is sub-divided into two sections. These classes are respectively composed as follows:—
 - (i) Parents;
 - (ii) children and other lineal descendants h. l. s.
 - II. (i) Grandparents h. h. s. (true as well as false);
 - (ii) brothers and sisters and their descendants h.l.s.
 - III. (i) Paternal, and (ii) maternal, uncles and aunt, of the deceased, and of his parents and grandparents h. h. s., and their descendants h. l. s.
- (2) Of these three classes of heirs, the first excludes the second from inheritance, and the second excludes the third. But the heirs of the two sections of each class succeed together, the nearer degree in each section excluding the more remote in that section [Baillie, Part II, 276, 280, 285].

As to the distribution of estate among the heirs, see s. 83 et seq.

Illustrations.

S. 75

[(a) A Shiah Mahomedan dies leaving a daughter's son, a father's mother, and a full brother.

By Hanafi law the father's mother as a sharer will take $1/\theta$, and the full brother as a cardinary will take $5/\theta$; the daughter's son, being a distant kinsman, will be entirely excluded from inheritance.

By Shah law the daughter's son, being an heir of the first class, will succeed to the whole inheritance in preference to the father's mother and the full brother, both of whom belong to the second class of hers.

(b) A Shiah Mahomedan dies leaving a brother's daughter and a full paternal uncle.

By Hanafi law the full paternal uncle, being a residuary, will take the whole property to the exclusion of the brother's daughter who is a distant kinswomen.

By Shiah law the brother's daughter, being an heir of the second class, will succeed in preference to the full paternal uncle who belongs to the third class of heirs.

(c) A Shiah Mahomedan dies leaving a full paternal uncle's son and a mother's father.

By Hanafi law the full paternal uncle's son, being a residuary, will succeed to the whole estate to the entire exclusion of the mother's father who is a distant kinsman.

By Shiah law the mother's tather, being an heir of the second class, will succeed in preference to the full paternal uncle's son who belongs to the third class of heirs.

(d) A Shiah Mahomedan dies leaving (1) a father, (2) a mother, (3) a daughter. (4) a son's son, (5) a brother, and (6) a paternal uncle. Which of these relations are entitled to succeed?

Here the first four relations belong to the first class of heirs, the fifth belongs to the second class, and the sixth belongs to the find class. The fifth and sixth are therefore excluded from inheritance. The father and mother belong to the first section of Class I, and they are both equal in degree. The daughter and son's son belong to the second section, and of these two the daughter, being nearer in degree, excludes the son's son. The only person therefore entitled to inherit are the father, the mother, and the daughter.

(e) The surviving relations are (1) a grandfather, (2) a grandmother, (3) a great grandfather, (4) a brother, and (5) a brother's son. Here all the relations belong to the second class of heirs, the first three belonging to the first section of that class, and the last two to the second section. The grandfather and grandmother exclude the great grandfather by reason of the rule that the nearer in each section excludes the more remote. For the same reason the brother excludes the brother's son. The only persons therefore entitled to inherit are the grandfather, the grandmother and the brother.

Note that parents do not exclude children, but inherit with them. If there be no children, parents inherit with grandchildren. Similarly, in the second class, bothers and sisters do not exclude grandparents, but inherit with them. If there be no brothers or sisters, the grandparents inherit with the children of brothers and sisters. In the same way in the third class paternal uncles and aunts do not exclude maternal uncles and aunts do inherit with them.

The above illustrations exemplify the fundamental distinction between the Sunni and the Shiah Law of Inheritance. Under the Sunni law, distant kindred are postponed to aharers and residuaries (s. 54); under the Shnah law, they inhert with them. The Sunnis prefer agnates to cognates; the Shnah prefer the nearest kinsman, whether they be agnates or cognates. In fact, the Shiah law does not recognize any separate class of hoirs corresponding to the "distant kindred" of Sunni law. All heirs under the Shiah law are either sharers or residuaries (s. 77).

76. Husband and wife.—The husband or wife is never excluded from succession, but inherits together with the nearest heirs by consanguinity, the husband taking 1/4 or 1/2, and the wife taking 1/8 or 1/4 under the conditions mentioned in the Table of Sharers on page 81 below.

As to the disability of a childle's widow to succeed to her husband's immovable property, see. s. 99 below.

- 77. Table of Sharers—Shiah Law.— (1) For the purpose of determining the shares of heirs, the Shiahs divide heirs into two classes, namely, Sharers and Residuaries. There is no separate class of heirs corresponding to the "Distant Kindred" of Sunni law.
- (2) The Sharers are nine in number. The Table on page 81 gives a list of Sharers together with the shares assigned to them in Shiah law.
 - (3) The descendants h. l. s. of Sharers are also Sharers.

Of the nine sharers mentioned in the Table, the first two are heirs by affinity. The next three belong to the first class of heirs by consanguinity [s. 75), and the remaining four belong to the second class. There are no sharers in the third class of heirs.

Note that the true grandfather h. h. s., the true grandmother h. h. s., and the son's depicter h. l. s., who are sharers according to Sunni law, are not sharers, but residuaries, according to Shiah law.

It is very important to note that the descendants of sharers are also sharers. This refers, of course, to the descendants of the (1) daughter, (2) uterine brother, (3) uterine sister, (4) full sister, and (5) consanguine sister. It does not refer to the descendants, if they can be called descendants at all, of the husband, wife, father or mother. The Shish juriest are not concerned with the descendants of these four relations.

- 78. Residuaries.—(1) All heirs other than Sharers are Residuaries.
- (2) The descendants h. l. s. of Residuaries are also Residuaries.

Ss. 78-80 Thus sons, brothers, uncles and aunts, are all residuaries. Their descendants, therefore, are also residuaries. For example, a son's daughter, being a descendant of a residuary (son), is also a residuary.

- Of the nine shares mentioned in the Table of Sharers, there are four who inherits cometimes as sharers, and sometimes as residuaries. These are the (1) father, (2) daughter, (3) full sister, and (4) consangune sater. As to the last three, it is to be observed that where any one of them would have, if living, inherited as a sharer, her descendants would inherit as sharers, and if she would have inherited as a residuary, her descendants would inherit as residuary, see 23.
- 79. Distribution of property.—(1) If the deceased left only one heir, the whole property would devolve upon that heir, except in the case of a wife. If the only heir be a wife she is entitled to no more than her Koranic share (one-fourth) and the residue (three-fourths) escheats to the Crown.

Baillie, Part II, 262. The reason of the exception in the case of a wife is that she is not entitled to the surplus by Return, not even if there be no other heir. If she is the solo heir, she takes 1]4, and the surplus passes to the Imam, now the Crown. Mr. Ameer Alı is of opinion that there being no machinery now to take charge of the Imam's share, the surplus should pass to the wife [Ameer Ali, Vol. II., P. 148, f. n. (3)].

If the only heir be a sharer, e.g., a husband, he takes his Koranic share (one-half) as abarer, and the residue by Return. If the only heir be a residuary, e.g., a brother, he takes the whole estate as a residuary. As to Sunni law, see s. Si

(2) If the deceased left two or more heirs, the first step in the distribution of the estate is to assign his or her share to the husband or wife. The next step is to ascertain which of the surviving relations are entitled to succeed, and this is to be done with the help of the rules laid down in sec. 75. The estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) is then to be divided among those entitled to succeed according to the rules of distribution applicable to the class to which they belong (ss. 83-97).

Note that the husband or wife, as the case may be, is always entitled to succeed whatever be the class to which the other claimants belong. The husband and wife always inherit as sharers, their shares being respectively 1/4 and 1/8 when there is a lineal descendant, and 1/2 and 1/4 when there is no lineal descendant. Since there are no lineal descendantes either in the second or third chase of heirs, it follows that when the husband or wife succeeds with the heirs of the second or third class, he or she takes his or her full share, that is, the husband takes 1/2, and the wife takes 1/4.

80. Principle of representation—The cardinal principle underlying the rules of the Shiah law of inheritance is the principle of representation. According to that principle the descendants of a deceased son represent the son, and take the

. . . .

TABLE OF SHARERS-SHIAH LAW [Sec. 77.]

(Baillie, Part II, 271-276, 381.)

Normal share Share as varied by Conditions under which the special circum-Sharers. of two share is inherited. stances. of one or more collectively. 1. Husband . . 1/4 When there is a lineal descen-1/2 when no such dantdescendant. 2. Wife 1/8 1/9 When there is a lineal descen-1/4 when no such dant. descendant. 3. Father (r) 1/6 When there is a lineal descen- If there to no lineal dant. descendant, tho father inherits as a residuary. (a) When there is a lineal des-1/3 in other cases, 4. Mother ... 1,6 cendant : or (b) when there are two or more full or consanguine brothers, or one such bro-ther and two such sisters, or four such sisters, with the father 2/3 When no son. With the son she 5. Daughter... 1/2 takes as a residuary.] Uterme brother 1/6 1/3 When no parent, or lineal descendant | see s. 75]. or sister 8. Full sister When no parent, or lineal des-[The full sister takes 1/2 2/3 cendant, or full brother, or as a residuary father's father [see ss. 75, 88] with the full brother and also with the father's father : see s. 88.1 Consan 1/2 When no parent, or lineal des- The consanguine cendant, or full brother or sister takes as a guine sissister, or consanguine brother residuary with the or father's father [see ss. 75, consanguine bro-881. ther and also with the father's father: see s. 88.]

Note.—The descendants h. l. s. of sharers are also sharers [s. 77.]

S. 80

Ss. 80, 81 portion which he, if living, would have taken. Similarly, the descendants of a deceased daughter represent the daughter, and take the portion which she, if living, would have taken. The same is the case with the descendants of a deceased brother, a deceased sister, a deceased uncle, and a deceased aunt (s).

The principle of representation is not confined in its operation to descendants only. It applies in the ascending as well as in the descending line. Thus great-grandparents take the portion which the grandparents, if living, would have taken; and the father's uncles and aunts take the portion which the deceased's uncles and aunts, if living, would have taken.

The application of this principle is shown in ss. 83, 85, 87, 88, 91 and 92.

First puragraph.—This does not mean that grandsons by a predeceased son inherit with sons or that granddaughters by a predeceased daughter inherit with daughters. Grandchildren succeed only in default of children: see s. 83 below.

81. Stirpital succession—Succession among descendants in each of the three classes of heirs (s. 75) is per stirpes, and not per capita (t).

This is repeating in other words the principle of representation described in the last section. Thus suppose a Shiah dies leaving two grandsons GS1 and GS2 by a predeceased son A and a grandson GS3 by another predeceased son B, as shown in the following diagram:—

By Shiah law the cetate is to be note onally divided first among the two sons A and B, so that each takes 1/2. A's share 1/2 descends to his two sons GS1 and US2, each taking 1/4. B's share 1/2 passes to his son GS3. The division, in other words, is according to the detailments. By Sunni law GS1, GS2 and GS3 take per capita, that is, each takes 1/3 without reference to the shares which their respective fathers, if living, would have taken. Under the Shiah law A's two sons represent A and stand in his place, and B's son represents B and stands in his place. Under the Sunni law there is no such representation (s. 42).

The above is an example of succession per stirpes among the descendants of sons. The descendants of daughters, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, granduncles and grandaunts also succeed per stirpes: see as. 83, 87, 91 and 92.

⁽e) Aga Sheralli v. Bai Kulsum (1908) 32 Bom. (t) Aga Sheralli v. Bai Kulsum (1908) 32 Bom. 540, 547, 548, 558.

82. Succession among descendants—The descendants of a person who, if living, would have taken as a Sharer, succeed as Sharers. The descendants of a person who, if living, would have taken as a Residuary, succeed as Residuaries.

This follows necessarily from the principle of representation described in s. 80. This suppose a Shah dies leaving a full brother's daughter and a uterine brother's son as shown in the following dangame—

The uterine brother, had he survivel, would have taken as a sharer has Koramo sharo 1/6 [see Table of 8h., No. 6]. The full brother, had he survivel, would have taken 5/6 as a residuary. The uterme brother's son, being, the descendant of a sharer, will succeed as a sharer, and representing as he does his father, take his father's sharer 1/6. The full brother's daughter, being the descendant of a residuary, and representing as she does her father, take her father's portion 5/6. Under the Sunni law, both a full brother's daughter and a uterme brother's son are distant kindred of the third class. According to Milhammad, the former would take 5/6, and the latter 1/6 exactly as in Shah law [see s. 62]. According to Abu Yusuf, the former entirely excludes the latter [see notes to s. 6], "Dot time of Abu Yusuf,

Having described the mode of distribution in s. 79, and having explained the principle of representation in s. 80, and its two corollaries in ss. 81 and 82, we proceed to enumerate the special rules by which succession in each of the three classes of heirs mentioned in s. 75 is governed.

Distribution among Heirs of the First Class.

- 83. Rules of succession among heirs of the first class.—The persons who are first entitled to succeed to the estate of a deceased Shiah Mahomedan are the heirs of the first class along with the husband or wife, if any [s. 79 (2)]. The first class of heirs comprises parents, children, grandchildren, and remoter lineal descendants of the deceased. The parents inherit together with children, and, failing children, with grandchildren, and, failing grandchildren, with remoter lineal descendants of the deceased, the nearer excluding the more remote [s. 75]. Succession in this class is governed by the following rules:—
- Father.—The father takes ¹/₆ as a Sharer if there is a lineal descendant; as a residuary, if there be no lineal descendant [see Tab. of Sh., No. 3].
- (2) Mother.—The mother is always a Sharer, and her share is 1/6 or 1/3 [see Tab. of Sh., No. 4].

Ss. 82, 83

- S. 83
- (3) Son.—The son always takes as a Residuary.
- (4) Daughter.—The daughter inherits as a Sharer, unless there is a son in which case he takes as a Residuary with him according to the rule of the double share to the male [see Tab. of Sh., No. 5].
- (5) Grandchildren.—On failure of children, the grandchildren stand in the place of their respective parents, and they inherit according to the principle of representation described in ss. 80, 81, and 82, that is to say—
 - (i) the children of each son take the portion which their father, if living, would have taken as a Residuary, and divide it among them according to the rule of the double share to the male;
 - (ii) the children of each daughter take the portion which their mother, if living, would have taken either as a Sharer or as a Residuary and divide it among them also according to the rule of the double share to the male.
- (6) Remoter lineal descendants.—Succession among remoter lineal descendants is governed by the same principle of representation, that is to say, great-grand children take the portion which their respective parents, if living, would have taken, and divide it among them according to the rule of the double share to the male, and great-great-grand children take the portion which their respective parents, if living, would have taken, and divide it among them also according to the same rule.

Baillie, Part II, 276-279.

Mode of distribution among husband or wife and heirs of the first class :-

first, assign his or her share to the husband or wife [see Tab. of Sh., Nos. 1-2]; next, assign their shares to such of the claimants as can inherit as sharers only; next, divide the residue, if any, among the residuaries;

lastly, if there be no residuary, and the sum total of the shares is less than unity, apply the Doctrine of Return as stated in ss. 93 to 96; and if the sum total exceeds unity, proceed as stated in s. 97.

Illustrations.

(a) Husband 1/2 (as sharer)

Mother 1/3 (as sharer)

Father 1/6 (as residuary)

Note.—Under the Sunni law, the mother takes $1/3 \times 1/2 = 1/6$, and the father 1/3 as a residuary [see Tab. of Sh., Sunni law, No. 5].

(b)	Wife	 		 	1/4 (as sharer)
	Mother	 		 	1/3 (as sharer)
	Father		,		5/19 (as roudnary)

Note.—Under the Sunni law, the mother takes $1/3 \times 3/4 = 1/4$, and the father 1/2 as a residuary [see Tab. of Sh., Sunni law, No. 5].

Note.—If instead of a son, there was a son's daughter, she would have taken 2/3 as representing her father.

(d)	Father	 		 1/6 (as sharer, because there are daughters)
	Mother			 1/6 (as sharer)
	9 daughtor			9/2 (nu shamurs)

Note. -- The shares would be the same if we substitute daughters' sons or daughters' daughters for daughters.

(e) A Shiah dies leaving a grandson GSI and a granddaughter GDI by a prodeceased son 1, a granddaughter GD2 by another prodeceased son B, a grandson GS2 and a granddaughter GD3 by a prodeceased daughter X, and a grandson GS3 by another predeceased daughter Y, as shown in the following diagram:—

Here the two daughters X and Y, if living, would have taken as residuaries with the two sons A and B according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that A and B would each have taken 2/6, and X and Y would each have taken 1/6.

A's share 2/6 will pass to his son and daughter according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that GS1 will take $2/3 \times 2/6 = 2/9$, and GD1 will take $1/3 \times 2/6 = 1/9$.

B's share 2/6 will pass to his daughter GD2.

X's share 1/6 will be divided between her son and her daughter according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that G82 will take $2/3 \times 1/6 = 1/9$, and GD3 will take $1/3 \times 1/6 = 1/18$.

Y's share 1/6 will pass to her son GS3.

The shares will thus be 2/9+1/9+2/6+1/9+1/18+1/6=1.

According to the Hanafi law GS1, GD1 and GD2 are residuaries, and they exclude GS2, GD3, and GS3 who are d. k. GS1 will take 1/2, and GD1 and GD2 will each take 1/4,

If in the case put above, the deceased left also a wife, the wife will first take her share 1/8, and the remaining 7/8 will be divided among the six grandchildren in the same proportions.

Distribution among Heirs of the Second Class.

- 84. Rules of succession among heirs of the second class— If there are no heirs of the first class, the estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) devolves upon the heirs of the second class. The second class of heirs comprises grandparents h. h. s. and brothers and sisters and their descendants h. l. s. [s. 75]. The rules of succession among the heirs of this class are different according as the surviving relations are.
 - (1) grandparents h. h. s., without brothers or sisters or their descendants;
 - (2) brothers and sisters or their descendants, without grandparents or remoter ancestors;
 - (3) grandparents h. h. s., with brothers and sisters or their descendants.

The first case is dealt with in s. 85. The second case is dealt with in ss. 86 and 87. The third case is dealt with in s. 88.

- 85. Grandparents h. h. s., without brothers or sisters or their descendants. If there are no brothers or sisters, or descendants of brothers or sisters, the estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) is to be distributed among grandparents according to the following rules:—
- (1) If the deceased left all his four grandparents surviving, the paternal grandparents take two-thirds; and divide it between them according to the rule of the double share to the male, and the maternal grandparents take ¹/₃, and divide it equally between them, as shown below:—

2/3 Father's father Father's mother	::		$2/3 \times 2/3 = 4/9 8/18$ $1/3 \times 2/3 = 2/9 - 4/18$
1/3 Mother's father Mother's mother			$1/2 \times 1/3 - 1/6 = 3/18$ $1/2 \times 1/3 = 1/6 = 3/18$

(2) If there is only one grandparent on the paternal side, he or she takes the entire \(\frac{2}{3}\). Similarly, if there is only one grandparent on the maternal side, he or she takes the entire \(\frac{1}{3}\), as shown below:—

(a)	Father's father	 	 	2/3
	Mother's father])
	Mother's mother	 	 	1/3 (each taking 1/6

(b)	Father's father Father's mother Mother's mother	2/3 1/3	 $2/3 \times 2/3 = 4/9$ $1/3 \times 2/3 = 2/9$ -3/9
(c)	Father's father		 2/3

Ss. 85. 80

- (3) If there are no grandparents, the property will devolve according to the same rules upon remoter ancestors of the deceased, the nearer excluding the more remote.

Baillie, Part II, 281, 283.

- V86. Brothers and sisters, without any ancestor.—If the deceased left no ancestors, but brothers and sisters of various kinds, the estate (mains the share of the husband or wife, if any) will be distributed among them according to the same rules as those in Hanafi law. The said rules are as follows:—
 - (i) Brothers and sisters of the full blood exclude consanguine brothers and sisters.
- (ii) Uterine brothers and sisters are not excluded by brothers or sisters either full or consangune, but they inhert with them, their share being 1/3 or 1/6 according to their number [see Tab. of Sh., Nos. 6 and 7].
 - (iii) Full brothers take as Residuaries, so do consanguine brothers.
- (iv) Full sisters take as sharers [see Tab. of Sh., No. 8], unless there be a full brother in which case they take as Residuaries with him according to the rule of the double share to the male. Consanguine sisters also take as sharers [see Tab. of Sh., No. 9] unless there be a consanguine brother with them in which case they take as Residuaries with him according to the same rule.

Baillie, Part II, 280.

Illustrations.

Note.—The shares of the several heirs in the following illustrations are the same both in Sunni and Shiah law. The illustrations are given to familiarize the student with combinations of heirs that are common in Shiah law:—

(a)		• •	••		• •	• •			(as sharer) '
	Full (or cons.)	sıster	• •	• •	• •	• •	••	1/2	(as sharer)
(b)	Wife							1/4	(as sharer)
	Full brother		٠.		••	••	••	3/4	(as residuary)
(c)	Husband							1/2	(as sharer)\
	Full brother					2/3×(1	/2) =	1/3)	/n = ===id====
	Full sister	••				1/3×(1	/2) —	1/6	(as residuaries)
(d)	Wife							1/4	(as sharer)
	Ut. brother							1/6	(as sharer)
	Cons. Brother					2/3×(7	/12)=	7/18	(as residuaries)
	Cons. sister					1/3 > /7	/12)-	7/36	(as residuaries)

- S. 87 Bescendants of brothers and sisters, without any ancestor.—If there are no brothers or sisters of any kind, and no ancestors, but there are children of brothers and sisters, the estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) will devolve upon them according to the principle of representation described in ss. 80, 81 and 82, that is to say—
 - (1) The children of each full or consanguine brother will take the portion which their father, if living, would have taken as a Residuary, and they will divide it among them according to the rule of the double share to the male; and the children of each full or consanguine sister will take the portion which their mother, if living, would have taken either as a Sharer or as a Residuary, and they will divide it among them according also to the rule of the double share to the male.
 - (2) The children of each uterine brother will take the portion which their father, if living, would have taken as a Sharer, and they will divide it equally among them; and so will the children of each uterine sister.
 - (3) If there are no children of brothers or sisters, the estate will devolve upon the grandchildren of brothers and sisters according to the principle of representation, that is to say, the grandchildren of full or consanguine brothers and sisters take the portion which their respective parents, if living, would have taken and divide it among them according to the rule of the double share to the male, and the grandchildren of uterine brothers and sisters take the portion which their respective parents, if living, would have taken, and divide it equally among them without distinction of sex.

Baillie, Part 11, 284.

Illustrations.

Cons. brother's son .. 0 (excluded by full brother's daughter)

(b) Suppose the claimants to be as shown in the second line of the following diagram, that is to say,— Ss. 87, 88 two sons and a daughter of a full brother, BI;

- a daughter of another full brother, B2;
- a son and a daughter of a uterine brother, UB;
- a daughter of a uterine sister, US;

First, assign their respective shares to the brothers and sisters thus :---

UB and US 1/3 (as sharers), each taking 1/6;

B1 and B2 2/3 (as residuaries), each taking 1/3.

Next assign portions to their children thus:-

US's share 1/6 will go to her daughter D4;

UB's share 1/6 will be divided equally between $3 and D3, each taking 1/12;

B2's share 1/3 will go to his daughter D2:

B1's share 1/3 will be divided among his two sons and his daughter according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that S1 will take $2/5 \times 1/3 = 2/15$, S2 will also take 2/15, and D1 will take $1/5 \times 1/3 = 1/15$.

The shares will thus be 2/15+2/15+1/15+1/3+1/12+1/12+1/6=1.

Suppose that in the case put above the children of the brothers and sisters had all profeccased the propositus, and that St had left a son and a daughter, that SS also had left a son and a daughter, and the remaining five nephews and merces had each left a son. In that case the share of SI, that is, 2/15, would be divided between his son and his daughter according to the rule of the double share to the male, the son taking 2/3×2/15=4/45, and the daughter 1/3×2/15=2/45. The share of S3, that is, 1/12, would be divided equally between his son and daughter, they being descendants of a uterine brother, so that each would take 1/24. The sons of S2, D1, D2, D3, and D4, would take their respective parents' portion.

- 88. Grandparents and remoter ancestors with brothers and sisters or their descendants.—(1) If the deceased left grandparents, and also brothers or sisters, the estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) is to be distributed among grandparents and brothers and sisters, according to the following rules:—
 - (a) A paternal grandfather counts as a full or consanguine brother, and a paternal grandmother counts as a full or consanguine sister.

- (b) A maternal grandfather counts as a uterine brother, and a maternal grandmother counts as a uterine sister.
- (2) On failure of grandparents, the remoter ancestors of the deceased stand in the place of the grandparents through whom they are respectively connected with the deceased. On failure of brothers or sisters, their descendants stand in the place of their respective parents.

Baillie, Part 11, 281, 391-392; Wilson, s. 468,

The effect of the above rules is that when among heirs of the second class you find a single brother or sister, full consanguine, or uterine, what you have to do is to substitute for grandparents so many brothers and sisters according to the above rules, and then assign shares to grandparents as if they were so many brothers and sisters, as is done in the following librarations:—

Note.—Here the maternal grandmother counts as a uterine sister, so that the case is the same as if we had a uterine brother and a uterine sister; these take 1/3 between them as sharers.

Note.—Pirats substitute brothers and sisters for grandparents, so that we have 2 full brothers, 2 full sisters, no utcrine brother and one uterine sister. The uterine brother and sister take 1/3 between them as sharers. The residue 2/3 is to be divided between full brothers and 2 full sisters as residuaries according to the rule of the double share to the mule. Each brother therefore takes 2/6×2/3-4/18, and each sister 1/6×2/3-2/18. The result would be the same if matead of a full brother and a full sister in the above case, there were a consanguine brother and a consunguine sater.

```
(c) Uterine brother ... ... = 1/9 literine sister ... ... = 1/9 Mother's mother (=uterine sister) ... = 1/9 1/3 as sharers.
```

	Father's father (=con. brother) = $1/3$ Father's mother (= con. sister) = $1/6$ Con. sister
	.—Substitute "uterine sister" for "mother's mother", so that we have one uterine brother and two uterine sisters. Next as there is a consumpuine sister, substitute "consanguine brother" for "father's inther" and "consanguine sister" for "father's mother." The uterine brother and the two uterine sisters take collectively 1/3 as sharers. The residue 2/3 is to be divided between one consangine brother and two consanguine sisters as residuares according to the rule of the double share to the male. The brother therefore takes 2/1×2/3=1/3, and each sister takes 1/4×2/3=1/6.
. ,	Husband
(g)	Wife
Note	 In the above case, it is all the same whether you count the paterna grandfather as a full brother or as a consanguine brother; in either case he takes as a residuary.
(h)	$Full \ brother's \ son \ . \ . \ . \ . \ (1/2 \ being \ his father's share)$ $Father's \ father \ (-full \ brother) \ . \ . \ . \ 1/2$
Note	.—The above illustration is taken from Baillie, Part II, pp. 327-328, 392.
	Distribution among Heirs of the Third Class.

- 89. Order of succession among heirs of the third class.—
 (1) If there are no heirs of the first or second class, the estate (minus the share of the husband or wife, if any) devolves upon the heirs of the third class in the order given below:—
 - Paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the deceased.
 - (2) Their descendants h. l. s., the nearer in degree excluding the more remote.
 - (3) Paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the parents.
 - (4) Their descendants h. l. s., the nearer in degree excluding the more remote.
 - (5) Paternal and maternal uncles and aunts of the grandparents.

Ss. 89, 90

- (6) Their descendants h. l. s., the nearer in degree excluding the more remote.
- (7) Remoter uncles and aunts and their descendants in like order.
- (2) Of the above groups each in turn must be exhausted before any member of the next group can succeed.
- Exception—If the only claimants be the son of a full paternal uncle and a consanguine paternal uncle, the former, though he belongs to group (2), excludes the latter who is nearer and belongs to group (1).

Baillie, Part 11, 285-286, 329-332.

Exertion to sub-sec. (2).—The Shiahs are the followers of Ali. Ali was a cousin of the Prophet. He was also the son-unlaw of the Prophet, having been married to his favourite daughter Fatima. The Shiahs maintain that on the death of the Prophet the Chilphate (successorship to the Prophet) ought to have gone first to Ali, on the ground that he was the neutrest make here of the Prophet. But the Prophet had also left a consanguine paternal uncle (named Abbas), and Ali was but a cousin of the Prophet, being the son of a full paternal uncle (Abu Tabels) of the Prophet. All therefore could not be the neutrest make here, unless the son of a full paternal uncle was entitled to succeed in preference to a consanguine uncle. To uphold, however, the claim of Ali and that of the lineal descendants of the Prophet through Fatima, the Shiash had to hold that the son of a full paternal uncle was entitled to succeed in preference to a consanguine paternal uncle, and this accounts for the exception to sub-sec. (2) above.

No sharers in the third class of herrs.—The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heirs of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \
The heir of the third class are all residuaries. \

- 90. Uncles and aunts.—To distribute the estate among uncles and aunts proceed as follows:—
 - (1) First, assign ²/₃ of the estate to the paternal side, that is, to paternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such, and ¹/₃ to the maternal side, that is, to maternal uncles and aunts, even if there be only one such.
 - (2) Next, divide the portion assigned to the paternal side (that is ²/₃ of the estate) among the paternal uncles and aunts exactly as if they were brothers and sisters of the deceased, that is to say:—
 - (i) assign to uterine paternal uncles and aunts-
 - (a) if there be two or more of them, \(\frac{1}{3}\) to be equally divided among them;
 - (b) if there be only one of them, 1:

S. 90

- (ii) divide the remainder among full paternal uncles and aunts according to the rule of the double share to the male, and, failing them, among consanguine paternal uncles and aunts according to the same rule.
- (3) Lastly, divide the portion assigned to the maternal side, among the maternal uncles and aunts as follows:—
 - assign to uterine maternal uncles and aunts—
 - (a) if there be two or more of them, \frac{1}{3} to be equally divided among them;
 - (b) if there be only one of them, \frac{1}{6};
 - (ii) divide the remainder equally among full maternal uncles and aunts, and, failing them, among consanguine maternal uncles and aunts.
- (4) If there be no uncle or aunt on the maternal side, the paternal side takes the whole. Similarly, if there be no uncle or aunt on the paternal side, the maternal side takes the whole.

Baillie, Part II, 285, 286, 329.

```
Note.- In working out examples, proceed in the order given in this section.
```

```
2/3 \begin{cases} Full \ pat. \ uncle & ... \ 5/6 \times 2/3 - 5/9 \\ Cons. \ pat. \ uncle & ... \ 0 \\ Ut. \ pat. \ uncle & ... \ 1/6 \times 2/3 = 1/9 \end{cases}
                                                          (excluded by full pat. uncle)
       2/3 | Full pat. aunt
             | Full pat. aunt | ... 2/3 | Cons. par. uncle | ... 0 (excluded by full pat. aunt)
(b)
                                   .. 1/3
        1/3 Ut. mat. aunt
              Full pat, uncle
(c)
                                   .. 2/3 (takes a double share, being a male)
              Full pat. aunt .. 1/3
              Full mat. uncle .. 5/6
(d)
              Ut. mat. uncle
                                    .. 1/6 (being only one)
        2/3 \begin{cases} \textit{Cons. pat. uncle} & ... & 5/6 \times 2/3 = 5/9 \\ \textit{Ut. pat. uncle} & ... & 1/6 \times 2/3 = 1/9 \\ \textit{Ut. mat. aunt} & ... & ... = 1/3 \end{cases}
(e)
                                           .. =1/3
       (f)
```

g) Full mat. uncle . . 1/2
Full mat, aunt . . 1/2

Note. - Maternal uncles and aunts take equally without distinction of sex.

Note.—The above result is in accordance with rule (3) above, namely, that full maternal nucles and aunts take equally without distinction of sex. This proposition, however, is not free from doubt. There is another possible view, namely, that full maternal nucles and aunts take equally only if there are no uterine maternal nucles and aunts [as in it!, ac]), and that if there be any such uncles or aunts (as in the above illustration), they take according to the rule of the double share to the male. According to this view, the full maternal nucle in the above illustration is entitled to $2/3 \times 2/3$ 4/9, and the full maternal aunt to $1/3 \times 2/3 - 2/9$. The same remarks apply to consanguane maternal nucles and aunts. See Baillie, Part II, pp. 285-286, and querry's Translation of the Sharya-ul-blam, as 211-219; Amer Ali, Vol. II, pp. 141-143.

91. Descendants of uncles and aunts.—If there are no uncles or aunts of any kind, children of deceased uncles and aunts take the portion of their respective parents according to the principle of representation described in ss. 80, 81 and 82, the children of each full or consanguine paternal uncle or aunt dividing their parent's share among them according to the rule of the double share to the male, and the children of each of the remaining uncles and aunts, that is, of uterine paternal uncles and aunts, and of maternal uncles and aunts, whether full consanguine, or uterine, dividing their parent's share equally among them.

If there are no children of uncles and aunts, the grandchildren of uncles and aunts take the portion of their respective parents according to the same principle.

Baillie, Part II, 287.

Note.—In working out examples, first ascertain the hypothetical shares of uncles and aunts.

(a) The surviving relations area son and a daughter of a uterine paternal uncle, and a daughter of a full paternal aunt, as shown in the following diagram:—

91-93

The uterine uncle takes 1/6. The aunt of the full blood takes the residue 5/6. The uterine uncle's share 1/6 is to be divided equally between his son and daughter. The aunt's share 5/6 goes to her daughter.

- .. 2/3 (the portion of the paternal side)
- Maternal aunt's son . . . 1/3 (the portion of the maternal side)

 (c) The surviving relations are (u)—

(b) Paternal uncle's son

- a great-granddaughter of a full paternal uncle. D1.
 - a great-grandson and a great-granddaughter of another such uncle, S1 and
 - a great-granddaughter of a full paternal aunt, D3

The two uncles take each twice as much as the aunt, so that each uncle takes 2/5 and the aunt takes 1/5. The first uncle's share 2/5 goes to his descendant D.

The second uncle's share 2/5 is to be divided between his two descendants S1 and D2 according to the rule of the double share to the male, so that S1 takes $2/3 \times 2/5 - 4/15$, and D2 takes $1/3 \times 2/5 - 2/15$.

The aunt's share 1/5 passes to her descendant D3.

According to Hanafi law, the shares will be stated in ill. (b) to s. 65 above.

92. Other heirs of the third class.—If there are no descendants of uncles or aunts, the estate will devolve upon the other heirs of the third class in the order of succession given in sec. 89, the distribution among higher uncles and aunts being governed by the principles stated in sec. 90, and that among their descendants being governed by the principles stated in sec. 91.

Baillie, Part 11, 287, 331, 332.

93. Doctrine of "Return." If there is a residue left after satisfying the claims of Sharers, but there are no Residuaries, in the class to which the Sharers belong, the residue reverts, subject to three exceptions noted in ss. 94, 95 and 96, to the Sharers in the proportion of their respective shares.

Baillie, Part II, 262.

Note.—In working out examples, follow the rules given in the notes appended to ill. (f) and ill. (l) to sec. 53.

(u) Aga Sheralls v. Bas Kulsum (1908) 32 Bom. 540.

Ss.
92_9	5

(a)	Mother	 	 1/6 increased to 1/4
	Daughter		 1/2=3/6 ,, 3/4
	Brother	 	 0 (excluded, as being an heir of the second

Note.—By Hanafi law, the brother would have taken the residue 1/3.

(b) Mother		٠.		1/6	increased	to 1/5
Father				1/6	,,	1/5
Daughter				1/2 = 3/6	,,	3/5
Note - By Hans	of low	the	father	would be	ve taken	the residue	1/6

Note.—By Hanafi law, the father would have taken the residue 1/6 as a residuary

Note.—Baillie, Part II, 335-336. If there was a full sister instead of a consanguine sister, the uterine sister would have been excluded from participating in the Return. See a. 96 below.

94. Husband and wife and "Return"—Neither the husband nor wife is entitled to the Return if there is any other heir. If the deceased left a husband, but no other heir, the surplus will pass to the husband by Return. If the deceased left a wife, but no other heir, the wife will take her share 1/4, and the surplus will escheat to the Crown; in other words, the surplus never reverts to a wife.

Baillie, Part II, p. 262. See s. 79 and the notes thereto.

(a)	Wife		 	1/8 `		==5/40
	Father		 	1/6 increased	to 1/5×(7/8)	=7/40
	Mother		 	1/6		=7/40
	Daughter		 	1/2=3/6 ,,	$3/5 \times (7/8)$	=-21/40
	75 11	c 1

Note.—By Hanafi law, the residue 1/24 would go to the father as a residuary.

(b)	Husband .	 	1/4 🗸	=4/16
	Father	 	1/6 increased to 1/4×(3/4)	=:3/16
	Daughter 1	 ••	1/2(3/6) , 3/4×(3/4)	=9/16

Note.-By Hanafi law, the residue 1/12 would go to the father as a residuary.

- 95. Mother when excluded from "Return" —If the deceased left a mother, a father, and one daughter, and also—
 - (a) two or more full or consanguine brothers, or
 - (b) one such brother and two such sisters, or
 - (c) four such sisters,

the brothers and sisters, though themselves excluded from inheritance as being heirs of the second class, prevent the mother from participating in the /Return, and the surplus reverts to the father and the daughter in the proposition of their respective shares. This is the only case in which the mother is excluded from the Return.

Ss. 95-97

96. Uterine brothers and sisters when excluded from "Return". If there are uterine brothers or sisters, and also full sisters, the uterine brothers and sisters are not entitled to participate in the Return, and the residue goes entirely to the full sisters. This rule does not apply to consanguine sisters. Consanguine sisters and uterine brothers and sisters divide the Return in proportion to their shares.

Baillie, Part II, 335-336.

(a)	Uterine brother Full sister		••	1/6 1/2 (as sharer)+1/3 (by Return) =5/6
(b)	Uterane brother Uterane sister	:-	•:	} 1/3, each taking 1/6
	Full sister			1/2 (as sharer)+1/6 (by Return)=2/3
(c)	Wife			1/4=3/12
	Uterine sister			1/6=2/12

Note. The wife is not entitled to the "Return" (s. 94). The uterino sister is excluded from the "Return" by the full sister, and the latter takes the whole "Return."

.. 1/2 (as sharer)+1/12 (by Return)=7/12

Consangume sister.—There is a conflict of opinion whether a consanguine sister is entitled to the whole "Return" in the absence of a full sister. The author of the Sharaya-ul-Islam is of opinion that she is not. The author of the Kafi is of opinion that she is. See s. 93, ill. (c).

- 97. Doctrine of Increase.—The Sunni doctrine of "Increase" is not recognised in the Shiah law. According to the Shiah law, if the sum total of the shares exceeds unity, the fraction in excess of the unity is deducted invariably from the share of—
 - (a) the daughter or daughters; or
 - (b) full or consanguine sister or sisters.

Baillie, Part II, 263, 396.

(a)	Husband		 1/4 = 3/12	=3/121
•	Daughter		 1/2=6/12 reduced to (6/1	2-1/12)=5/12
	Father	 	 1/6-2/12	=2/12
	Mother	 	 1/6=2/12	=2/12

Note.—Here the excess over unity is 1/12, and this is to be deducted from the daughter's share.

Ss. 97-100

```
(b) Husband
                  .. 1/4 \approx 3/12
                                                         =3/12
                 .. 2/3-8/12 reduced to (8/12-3/12)
                                                         =5/12 (each 5/24)
    2 daughters
                 .. 1/6 =2/12
                                                         =2/12
    Father
                 .. 1/6=2/12
                                                          =2′/12
    Mother
                         15/12
                                                               1
                                                         =3/6=1/2
(c) Husband
                  .. 1/2=3/6
    2 full (or cons.)
     sısters
                  .. 2/3=4/6 reduced to (4/6-1/6)
                                                         =3/6=1/2 (each 1/4)
                         7/6
                         .. 1/2
(d) Husband
     Uterine sister or brother 1/6
    Full (or cons.) sister . . 1/2 reduced to (1/2-1/6)=1/3
                            7/6
```

Reason of the rule.—The reason of the rule laid down in this section is stated to be that since a full sister, when co-cristing with uternues, got at the full benefit of the "Return" (a. 93), it is but fair that when the sum total of the shares exceeds unity, she should bear the deficit. But what then of the consenguine sister? A cocording to the Sharaya-ul Ialam, a consenguine sister is not entitled to the whole "Return" when she co-exists with uterines. Why then should she bear the deficit?

97A. Escheat.—On failure of all natural heirs, the estate of a deceased Shiah Mahomedan escheats to the Crown (v).

Baillie, Part 11, 301, 362-363. See s. 79,

Miscellaneous.

98. Eldest son. The eldest son, if of sound mind, is exclusively entitled to the wearing apparel of the father, and to his Koran, sword and ring, provided the deceased has left property besides those articles.

Baillie, Part II, 279.

99. Childless widow.— A childless widow takes no share in her husband's lands, but she is entitled to her one-fourth share in the value of trees and buildings standing thereon, as well as in his movable property including debts due to him though they may be secured by a usufructuary mortgage or otherwise.

Baillie, Part II, 296; Mir Ali v. Sajuda Begam (a), Umardaraz Ali Khan v. Wilayat Ali Khan (*); Muzaffar Ali v. Parbati (a); Aga Mahomed Agfer v. Koolsom Beebes (z); Durga Due v. Navod Ali Khan (a); Syed Ali v. Syed Muhammad (b).

The expression "lands" in this section is not confined to agricultural land only; it includes lands forming the site of buildings (c);

100. Illegitimate child—An illegitimate child does not inherit at all, not even from his mother or her relations nor do they inherit from him.

Baillie, Part II, 305; Sahebzadee Begam v. Himmut Bahadoor (d).

```
(a) Museumant Kharmidi (1923) 6 Pat. 509, (b) (1923) 6 A. A. (c) (1923) 6 A. B. 57, 65 I. C. 19, (28) A. A. (b) I. C. 433, (29) A. P. 321. (c) (1923) 6 A. B. 57, 65 I. C. 19, (28) A. A. (c) (1923) 6 A. B. 60. (c) (1933) 6 A. B. 6
```

CHAPTER IX.

WILLS

[The leading authority on the subject of wills is the Hedaya (Guide), which was translated from the original Arabic into Persian by four Moulvees or Mahomedan lawyers, and from Persian into English by Charles Hamilton, by order of Warren Hastings, when Governor-General of India. The Hedaya was composed by Sheik Burhan-ud-Deen Ali who flourished in the twelfth century. The author of the Hedaya belonged to the Hanafi School, and it is the doctrines of that school that he has principally recorded in that work. The Fatawa Alamgiri, another work of great authority, was compiled in the seventeenth century by command of the emperor Aurungzebe Alumgeer. It is "a collection of the most authoritative futwas or expositions of law on all points that had been decided up to the time of its preparation." The law there expounded is again the law of the Hanafi sect, as the Mahomedan sovereigns of India all belonged to that sect. The first part of Baillie's Digest of Mahommedan Law is founded chiefly on that work. Both the Hedaya and Fatawa Alamgiri deal with almost all topics of Mahomedan law, except that the Law of Inheritance is not dealt with in the Hedava. The Hedava is referred to in this and subsequent chapters by the abbreviation Hed., and the references are given to the pages of Mr. Grady's Edition of "Hamilton's Hedaya." The leading work on Shiah law is Sharaya-ul-Islam, for which see the preliminary note to s. 74 above.]

101. Persons capable of making wills.—Subject to the limitations hereinafter set forth, every Mahomedan of sound mind and not a minor may dispose of his property by will.

S. 101

Hed., 673; Baillie, 627. The age of majority as regards matters other than marriage, dower, divorce and adoption, is now regulated by the Indian Majority Act IX of 1875. Sec. 3 of the Act declares that a person shall be deemed to have attained majority when he shall have completed the age of eighteen years. In the case, however, of a minor of whose person or property a guardian has been appointed, or of whose property the superintendence has been assumed by a Court of Wards, the Act provides that the age of majority shall be deemed to have been attained on the minor completing the age of twenty-one years.

Minority under the Mahomedan law terminates on completion o the fifteenth year; therefore, before the passing of Act IX of 1875, a Mahomedan who had attained the age of fifteen year was competent to make a valid disposition of his property (Ameer Ali, Vol. I, 10). But this rule of Mahomedan law, so far as regards matters other than marriage, dower and divorce (adoption not being recognised by that law), must be taken to be superseded by the provisions of the Majority Act, for the Act extends to the whole of British India (a. 1), and applies to every person domicided in British India (a. 3). Hence minority in the case of Mahomedans, for purposes of wills, gifts, wakfs, etc., terminates not on the completion of the fifteenth year (c).

Shiah law: suicide.—A will made by a person after he has taken poison, or done any other act towards the commission of suicide, is not valid under the Shiah law: Baillie,

(4) (1000) 01 411 01

Sa. 101-103 Part II, 232. In Maskar Husen v. Bodha Bibi (f), the deceased first made his will, and then took poison, and it was held that the will was valid, though he had contemplated suicide at the time of making the will.

102 Form of will immaterial.—A will (wasiat) may be made either verbally or in writing.

"By the Mahomedan law no writing is required to make a will valid, and no particular form, even of verbal declaration, is necessary as long as the intention of the testator is sufficiently ascertained" (g). In a recent case before the Privy Council a letter written by a testator shortly before his death and containing directions as to the disposition of his property, was held to constitute a valid will (h). The mere fact that a document is called tamlik-nama (assignment) will not prevent it from operating as a will, if it possesses the substantial characteristics of a will (i). But where a Mahomedan executed a document which stated inter alia "I have no son, and I have adopted my nephew to succeed to my property and title," it was held by the Privy Council that the document did not operate as a will, as there was a complete absence of intention to give in words. Their Lordships said: "He says he has no son, and he adopts somebody who may succeed. His son may succeed, any other person may succeed, if it is in the nature of a testamentary gift." The document, it was held, was not in the nature of a testamentary gift: nor did it operate as a gift inter vivos, for there was no delivery of possession to the nephew in the lifetime of the deceased. The effect of the document was merely to declare the nephew in general terms to have the right to the entire property belonging to the deceased after his death, and such a declaration has no effect in Mahomedan law (1). The mere fact that the donor reserves the usufruct for himself does not render the transaction a will (1).

A Mahomedau will, though in writing, does not require to be signed (t); nor, even if signed, does it require attestation (m). The reason is that a Mahomedau will does not require to be in writing at all.

103. Bequests to heirs —A bequest to an heir is not valid unless the other heirs consent to the bequest after the death, of the testator (n). Any single heir may consent so as to bind his own share (o).

Explanation.—In determining whether a person is or is not an heir regard is to be had, not to the time of the execution of the will, but to the time of the testator's death.

Illustrations.

[(a) A Mahomedan dies leaving him surviving a son, a father, and a paternal gradidater. Here the grandfather is not an "heir," and a bequest to him will be valid without the assent of the son and the father.

(1)
(9)	Muhomed Altaf v. Ahmed Buksh (1876) 25	(1)	Aulla Bibi v. Alaudden (1906) 28 All. 715.
	W. R. 121.	(m)	In re Aba Satar (1905) 7 Bom. L.R. 558
(h)	Mazhar Husen v. Bodha Bibi (1898) 21 All.	' '	[Cutchi Memon will]; Sarabai v. Mahomed
	91.		(1919) 43 Bom. 641, 49 I. C. 637 [Cutchi
(i)	Sarad Kasım v. Shaista Bıbi (1875) 7 N.		Memon will).
	W. P 313; Ishri Singh v. Baldeo (1886)	(m)	Shek Muhammad v. Shek Imamudin (1865)
	11 I.A. 135, 141-143, 10 Cal. 792, 800-802,	٠,	2 B. H. C. 50 : Ahmad v. Bai Bibi (1916)
(1)	Jeswant Singjes v. Jett Singjes (1844) 3 M. I.		41 Bom. 377, 39 I. C. 83, [Bhagdari pro-
127	A. 245, 258; Macnaghten, p. 124, case 54.		perty),
(k)	Mahomed v. Fakhr Jahan (1922) 49 I. A.	(0)	Salaries v. Fatima (1928) 1 Rang. 60, 68.
٠-,	195, 44 All. 301, 68 I. C. 254, ('22) A. P.C.	(0)	71 I. C. 763, ('22) A.P. C. 391 [P. C.]

S. 103

(b) A, by his will, bequeaths certain property to his father's father. Besides the father's father, the testator has a son and a father living at the time of the will. The father dies in the lifetime of A. The bequest to the grandfather cannot take effect, uniess the son assents to it, for the father being dead, the grandfather is an "heir" at the time of A's death. (c) A, by his will, bequeaths certain property to his brother. The only relatives of the testator living at the time of the will are a daughter and the brother. After the date of the will, a son is born to A. The son, the daughter and the brother all survive the testator. The bequest to the brother is valid, for though the brother was an expectant heir at the date of the will, he is not an "heir" at the death of the testator, for he is excluded from inheritance by the son. If the daughter and the brother had been the sole surviving relatives, the brother would have been entitled to succeed as a "residuary" and the bequest to him could not then have taken effect, unless the daughter

- (d) A bequeaths certain property to one of his sons as his executor upon trust to expend such portion thereof as he may think proper "for the testator's welfare hereafter by charity and pilgrimage," and to retain the surplus for his sole and absolute use. The other sons do not consent to the legacy. The bequest is void, for it is "in reality an attempt to give, under colour of a religious bequest," a legacy to one of the heirs; Khajooroonissa v. Rowshan Jehan (1876) 2 Cal. 184, 3 I. A. 291. If the bequest had been exclusively for religious purposes, and if those purposes had been sufficiently defined, it would have been valid to the extent of the bequeathable third.
- (e) A Mahomedan leaves him surviving a son and a daughter. To the son he bequeaths three-fourths of his property, and to the daughter one-fourth. The daughter may not consent to the disposition and she is entitled to claim a third of the property as her share of the inheritance; [see Fatima Bibee v. Ariff Ismailjee (1881) 9 C. L. R. 66.1

Hed., 621; Baillie, 625, as to Explanation. Under the Mahomedan law a bequest to an heir is not valid without the consent of the other heirs (p). The policy of that law is to prevent a testator from interfering by will with the course of devolution of property according to law among his heirs, although he may give a specified portion, as much as a third, to a stranger (q). The reason is that a bequest in favour of an heir would be an injury to other heirs masmuch as it would reduce their legitimate share, and "would consequently induce a breach of the ties of kindred" (Hed., 671). But this cannot happen if the other heirs, "having arrived at the age of majority," consent to the bequest. The consent necessary to give effect to the bequest must be given after the death of the testator, for no heir is entitled to any interest in the property of the deceased in his lifetime. It does not matter that the heir consenting to a bouncet to a co-heir is an insolvent at the time when the consent is given (r).

Where a bequest is made to an heir subject to a condition which is void as being repugnant to the Mahomedan law, e.g., that the legatee shall not alienate the property bequeathed, and the other heirs consent to the bequest, the legatee will take the property absolutely as he would have done if he were a stranger (s). Similarly where a bequest is made to an heir subject to the condition that in the event of his death the property shall go to X, and the other heirs assent to the legacy, the condition attached to the legacy being void, he will take the property absolutely (t). See s. 138 below.

assented to it : Baillie, 625; Hed., 672.

⁽p) Bafatun v. Bilaiti Khanum (1903) 30 Cal. 683.

⁵⁹ I. C. 296.

⁽s) Abdul Karim v. Abdul Qayum (1906) 28 All. (e) Abdul Karim v. Abdul Qayum (1906) 28 All Star (1876) 2 (a) 184, 196, 3 I. A. 201, 307. (c) Azi-un-Nisa v. Chine (1920) 42 All. 593, (d) Nasir Ali v. Sughra Bib. (1920) 1 Lah. 302.

103, 104

Bequests to heirs and strangers.—See notes to s. 104 under the same head.

Bequest of remainder.—A bequeaths the rents of a house to one of his sons for life. and after his death to a charitable society for the benefit of the poor. The other sons do not consent to the legacy. The bequest to the son being void for want of assent of the other sons, the subsequent bequest also does not take effect (u).

Shiah law .-- According to the Shiah law, a testator may leave a legacy to an heir so long as it does not exceed one-third of his estate. Such a legacy is valid without the consent of the other heirs. But if the legacy exceeds one-third, it is not valid unless the other heirs consent thereto; such consent may be given either before or after the death of the testator (v): [Baillie, Part II, 244]. In Fahmida v. Jafri (w), the High Court of Allahabad laid it down as a broad proposition of law that where a bequest to an heir exceeds one-third and the other heirs do not consent to the bequest, the bequest is void in its entirety. Fahmida's case was followed by the same High Court in Amrit Bibi v. Mustafa (w2) But in the first case the bequest was of the entire property to one heir (daughter) to the exclusion of the other heir (another daughter). In the second case also the bequest was substantially of the whole of the testator's property to one heir (testator's widow) to the exclusion of the other heir (daughter's daughter), and the Court treated it as a case of entire exclusion of the daughter's daughter. In the latest Allahabad case on the subject (x), the testatrix had two daughters, and it was not clear whether the bequest to one of them exceeded one-third. In any event the finding of the Court was that each of the two daughters had a portion of the estate bequeathed to her. On these facts the Court refused to apply the rulings in the two earlier cases, and upheld the bequest. As to the decision in the earlier cases it was said that it should be confined to cases where the whole estate was bequeathed to one heir and the other heirs were excluded entirely from inheritance. This, it is submitted, is the correct view. The only authoritative text on the subject is that in Sharaya-ul-Islam, where it is said : "If a person should make a will excluding some of his children from their shares in his succession, the exclusion is not valid." The text further goes on to say that the better view is that the words of exclusion." are quite futile and of no efficacy whatever": [Baillie, Part II, 238]. The meaning of this text is that a bequest of the entire property to one heir to the exclusion of other heirs is void in its entirety, not that every bequest exceeding one-third to an heir to which the other heirs do not consent is void in its entirety.

104. Limit of testamentary power.—A Mahomedan cannot by will dispose of more than a third of the surplus of his estate after payment of funeral expenses and debts. Bequests in excess of the legal third cannot take effect. unless the heirs consent thereto after the death of the testator (v).

⁽w) Fatima Bibes v. Ariff Ismailjee (1881) 9 C. L. R. 56, with facts slightly altered, (v) Husein Begam v Muhammad Mehdi (1927) 49 All. 547, 100 I. C. 673, (27) A.A., 340, dissenting from Fabridia v. Jafri (1909) 30 All. 183 where it was held that the consent must be given after

⁷⁷ I. C. 66, ('24)

ad Mehdi (1927)

S. 104

Baille, 625. "Wills are declared to be iswful in the Koran and the traditions; and all our doctors, moreover, have concurred in this opinion" (Hed., 671). But the timit of one-third is not laid down in the Koran. This limit derives senction from a tradition delivered by Abec Vokass. It is said that the Prophet paid a visit to Abec Vokass while the latter was ill and his life was despaired of. Abec Vokass had no heirs except a daughter, and he asked the Prophet whether he could dispose of the whole of his property by will to which the Prophet replied saying that he could not dispose of the whole, nor even two-thirds, nor one-half, but only one-third (Hed., 671). But though the limit of one-third is not prescribed by the Koran, there are indications in the Koran that a Mahomedan may not so dispose of this property by will as to leave his heirs destitute. See Sale's Koran, pp. 60-61, 95-96, and Preliminary Discourse, vs. 98.

It will be seen from this and the preceding section that the powers of a Mahomedan to dispose of his property by will are limited in two ways, first, as regards the persons to whom bequests can be made, and, secondly, as regards the extent to stokich he can bequest his property. The only case in which testamentary dispositions are binding upon the heirs is where the bequest does not exceed the legal third and it is made to a person who is not an heir. But a bequest inexess of the legal third and it is made to a person who is not heirs; a similarly, a bequest to an heir may be rendered valid by the consent of the other heirs. The reason is that the limits of testamentary power exist solely for the benefit of the heirs, and the heirs may, if they like, forego the benefit by giving their consent. For the same reason, if the testator has no heirs, he may bequeath the whole of his property to a stranger (see Baillie, 625).

As to the consent of heirs to a legacy exceeding the legal third, it is to be remembered that the consent once given cannot be resonated (Hed., 671). The consent meed not be express: it may be signified by conduct showing a fixed and unequiveous intention. A bequeaths the whole of his property, which consists of three houses, to a stranger. The will is attested by his two sons who are his only heirs. After A's death the legatee enters into possession and recovers the rents with the knowledge of the sons and without any objection from them. These facts are sufficient to constitute consent on the part of the sons, and the bequest will take effect as against the sons and persons elaiming through them (a).

Beguests to heirs along with strangers.—It bequests are made to heirs and also to strangers, the bequests to the heirs are invalid unless assented to by the other heirs, but the bequests to strangers are valid to the extent of one-third of the property. A bequestals 1/3 of his property to S, a stranger, and 2/3 to H, one of his heirs. The other heirs do not assent to the bequest to H. The result is that S will take 1/3 under the will, and the remaining 2/3 will be divided among all the heirs of A (a). Similarly if A bequeaths the whole of his property to his wife and a stranger, and the bequest to the wife in not assented to by the other heirs of A, the stranger will take 1/3 under the will (that being the maximum disposable under the will), and the remaining 2/3 will be divided among the heirs of A (b).

Bequests for pious purposes.—Such bequests, like bequests to individuals, can only be made to the extent of the bequeathable third.

⁽a) Daulatram v. Abdul Kayum (1902) 26 Bom. 497. Soc also Sharifa Bbd v. Gulam Mahomad (1892) 16 Mad. 43. (b) (1920) 42 All. 497, 47.

Ss. 104-108

Commission to executor.—A commission to an executor by way of remuneration is "a gratuitous bequest, and. . . certainly not in any sense a debt." It is therefore subject to the rules contained in this and the preceding section (c).

Cutchi Memons.—A Cutchi Memon may dispose of the whole of his property by will; it is so by custom (d).

Shiah law.—Under the Shah law, the consent necessary to validate a bequest exceding the legal third may be given either before or after the death of the testator; i Baillie, Part II. 233.

105 Abatement of legacies.—If the bequests exceed the rlegal third, and the heirs refuse their consent, the bequests abate in equal proportions.

Hed., 766; Baillie, 636-637.

Shiah Iau.—The Shah law does not recognize the principle of rateable distribution. Under that law if a testator bequesths 1/3 of his estate to A, 1/4 to B, and 1/6 to C, and the herrs reture to confirm the bequests A, the legates first named, takes 1/3, and B and C take nothing: Baille, Part II, 235. But if, instead of 1/3, 1/12 was given to A, then A would take 1/12, and B would take 1/4, but C, who is last in order would not be entitled to anything, as 1/12 1/4 exhausts the legal third.

106. Bequest to unborn person.—A bequest to a person not yet in existence at the testator's death is void; but a bequest may be made to a child in the womb, provided it is born within six months from the date of the will.

The legatee, according to Mahomedan law, must be a person competent to receive the legacy (Baillie, 624); he must therefore be a person in existence at the death of the testator (c). As to bequests to a child in the womb, see Hed., 674.

107. Lapse of legacy.—If the legate does not survive the testator, the legacy cannot take effect, but it will lapse and form part of the estate of the testator.

Ameer Ali, 3rd cd., Vol. I, p. 507. Compare the Indian Succession Act, 1925, s. 105, which, however, does not apply to Mahomedans.

Shiah law.—Under the Shiah law, the legacy would, in such a case, pass to the heirs of the legatee, unless it is revoked by the testator; but if the legatee should die without leaving any heir, the legacy would pass to the heirs of the testator (f). Baillie, Part II, 247.

108. Subject of legacy.—It is not necessary for the validity of a bequest that the thing bequeathed should be in existence at the time of making the will; it is sufficient if it exists at the time of the testator's death.

⁽c) Asy Mahomed Juffer v. Koolean Bether (1807) 25 Cal. D. 18; Salegre v. Fettine (1907) 25 Cal. D. 18; Salegre v. Fettine (1908) 1 Rang. 60, 71 LC, 753, (22) APC. (f) Hunard Began v. Mithemmal Mehal (1927) 4 Section (1907) 4 S

WILLS. 105

Baillie, 624. The reason is that a will takes effect from the moment of the tostator's death, and not earlier. The subject of a gift, however, must be in existence at the time of the gift: see s. 136.

Ss. 108-111

- 108A. Alternative bequest.—A bequest in futuro or a contingent bequest is void (ss. 136-137), but not an alternative bequest.
- A Cutch Memon, who has no son at the date of his will, bequestlas the residue of his property in effect as follows: "Should have a son, and if such son be alive at my death, my executors shall hand over the residue of my property to him; but if such son dies in my lifetime leaving a son, and the latter is dive at my death, then my executors shall hand over the residue to him. But if there he no son or grandson alive at my death my executor shall apply the residue to charity." The testator dies without having ever had a son. The residue will got otherty as a freeted by the will. The gift is not conditioned in future, but it is an absolute (if in the alternative: Advocate-General v. Junbabai (1917) 41 Bom 181, 244-245.
- 109. Revocation of bequests.—A bequest may be revoked either expressly or by implication.

Hed., 674; Baillie, 628. Revocation is express, when the testator revokes the bequest in express terms, either oral or written. It is implied, when he does an act from which revocation may be inferred.

It is doubtful whether, if a testator deny that he ever made a bequest, the denial operates as a revocation; but the better opinion seems to be that it does not: Hed., 675; Baille, 630.

- 110. Implied revocation—A bequest may be revoked by an act which occasions an addition to the subject of the bequest, or an extinction of the proprietary right of the testator.
- [(a) A bequest of a piece of land is revoked, if the testator subsequently builds a house upon it.
- (b) A bequest of a piece of copper is revoked, if the testator subsequently converts it into a vessel.
- (c) A bequest of a house is revoked, if the testator sells it, or makes a gift of it to another.]

Hed., 674, 675; Baillie, 628-629. The illustrations are taken from the Hedaya.

111. Revocation by subsequent will.—A bequest to a person is revoked by a bequest in a subsequent will of the same property to another. But a subsequent bequest, though it be of the same property, to another person in the same will does not operate as a revocation of the prior bequest, and the property will be divided between the two legatees in equal shares.

Hed., 675 : Baillie, 630.

- 111A. Probate of Mahomedan will .- (1) A Mahomedan will may, after due proof, be admitted in evidence, though no probate has been obtained (q).
- (2) Except as regards debts due to the estate [s. 38], the executor of a Mahomedan will may establish his right to any part of the estate of the testator without taking out probate of the will (h). [Indian Succession Act. 1925. s. 213 (2)].

The same rule applies to wills of Cutchi Memons (i) and Khojas (j).

As to vesting of estate in an executor, see s. 30 and notes thereto.

- 111B. Letters of administration.—Except as regards debts due to the estate of the deceased [s. 38], no letters of administration are necessary to establish any right to the property of a Mahomedan who has died intestate [Indian Succession Act, 1925, s. 212 (2)].
- 112. Executor need not be a Moslem.—It is not necessary that the executor of the will of a Mahomedan should be a Mahomedan.
- A Mahomedan may appoint a Christian, a Hindu, or any non-Moslem to be his executor: Moohummud Ameenooden v Moohummud Kubeerooden (k): Henry Imtach v. Zuhooroonnisa (l).
- 113. Powers of executors.—The powers and duties of executors of a Mahomedan will are determined by the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, in so far as they are applicable to Mahomedans. See sec. 30 and notes thereto.
- Per Sargent, C. J., in Shaik Moosa v. Shaik Essa (m). The Probate and Administration Act, 1881, applied amongst others to Mahomedans. Before the passing of that Act the powers and duties of Mahomedan executors were determined by the Mahomedan law: after the passing of that Act, they were determined by the provisions of that Act, The Probate and Administration Act has been repealed and re-enacted by the Indian Succession Act, 1925.

When there are several executors, the powers of all may, in the absence of any direction to the contrary in the will, be exercised by any one of them who has proved the will: Indian Succession Act, 1925, s. 311. But if no probate has been obtained they must all act jointly; none of them is entitled to represent the estate alone or to exercise any of the powers of an executor alone (n).

⁽g) Shatk Moora v. Shatkh Etea (1884) 8 Bom. 241, 255; Sakina Biber v. Lifesment John 241, 255; Sakina Biber v. Lifesment John Charles v. Sakina Biber v. Lifesment John Lill. 708, 58 I. C. 270; Mahomed Yuani v. Kamedi (1920) 22 Born. Lill. 708, 58 I. C. 270; Mahomed Yuani v. Kamedi Vill. 708, 58 I. C. 270; January V. Born. 231, 70 I.C. 270; C. 270; J. 1. 302. 47 Born. 231 70 I.C. 280, (222) A. B. 302, supra. But see 87

Cal. 839, 844, 8 I.C. 655, supra.
(i) Haji Ismail, in the matter of the will of (1860) 6 Bom. 452.
(j) (1920) 22 Bom. L.R. 708, 58 I.C. 270, supra.

⁽m) (1884) 8 Bom. 241, 256. (n) (1884) 8 Bom. 241 255-256, supra.

CHAPTER X.

DEATH-BED GIFTS AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

114. Gift made during death-illness.-Gifts' made by a Mahomedan during marz-ul-maut or death-illness cannot take effect beyond a third of his estate after payment of funeral expenses and debts, unless the heirs give their consent. after the death of the donor, to the excess taking effect; nor can such gifts take effect if made in favour of an heir, unless the other heirs consent thereto after the donor's death(o).

Explanation .-- A marz-ul-maut is a malady which induces an apprehension of death in the person suffering from it and which eventually results in his death.

Hed., 684, 685; Baillie, 551-552.

Marz-ul-maut (p).—It is an essential condition of marz-ul-maut, that is, death-illness that the person suffering from the marz (malady) must be under an apprehension of maut (death). "The most valid definition of death-illness is that it is one which it is highly probable will issue fatally" (Baillie, 552). Where the malady is of long continuance, as, for instance, consumption or albuminuria, and there is no immediate apprehension of death, the malady is not marz-ul-maut; but it may become marz-ul-maut if it sub, sequently reaches such a stage as to render death highly probable, and death does in fact ensue (q). According to the Hedaya, a malady is said to be of "long continuance" if it has lasted a year; a disease that has lasted for a year does not constitute marz-ul-maut, for "the patient has become familiarized to his disease, which is not then accounted as sickness" (Hed. 685). But "this limit of one year does not constitute a hard-and-fast rule, and it may mean a period of about one year" (r). In short, a gift must be deemed to be made during marz-ul-maut, if as observed by the Privy Council, it was made "under pressure of the sense of the imminence of death" (s).

In Sarabai v. Rabiabai (t), it was laid down that in order to establish marz-ul-maut the following conditions must be present :--

(1) there must be proximate danger of death, so that there is a preponderance of apprehension of death;

Jajur (1996) S. V. V. N. 7 [1008, Sanutum, sanutum, asthma—not marz-ul-maut]; Mahammad Gulshers Khan v. Mariam Begum (1881) S. All. 781 [lingering lilness—no marz-ul-maut]; Sarabat v. Rabiabat (1906) 30 Bom.

537 [prilyids not age of murrol (2012)] 318 [prilyids not marked (2012)] 31 [prilyid] consumption (2012)] 31 [prilyid] consumption (2012)] 31 [prilyid] [prilyid] (2012)] 40 [pri

1. U. 148. 40 All. 288, 243-244, 51 I. C. 638, supra, 31 Cal. 319, at p. 326, supra. 51 Cal. 12, 2 44, LA. 167, 177. (1960) 50 Bom. 537, 551; (1907) 31 Bom. 264, supra; (1922) 40 Cal. 477, 490, 67 I.C. 77, (22) A. C. 429.

Ss. 114-116

- (2) there must be some degree of subjective apprehension of death in the mind of the sick person; and
- (3) there must be some external indicia, chief among which would be inability to attend to ordinary avocations.

Shiah Law.-The same is the rule of Shiah law (u).

Sale.—The provisions of this section do not apply to a transfer for consideration, e.g., a sale (v). A transfer of property made by a husband to his wife in lieu of dower is in effect a aud.e, though the transaction may be described as a gift (ve). On the other hand, a transaction, though in reality a gift, may be described as a sale to evade the provisions of the law relating to marz-ul-maul. Such a transaction will be governed by the law relating to marz-ul-maul.

115. Conditions necessary for its validity.—A gift made v during marz-ul-maut is subject to all the conditions necessary for the validity of a gift including delivery of possession by the donor to the donec.

Bailie, 551. As to the conditions necessary for the validity of gifts, see the chapter on Gifts below. Nee also the cases cited in the preceding section. A death-bed gift is essentially a gift, though the limits of the donor's power to dispose of his property by such a gift are the same as the limits of his testamentary power. It is therefore subject to all the conditions of a gift, including delivery of possession by the donor to the done before the death of the donor.

116. Death-bed acknowledgment of debt—An acknowledgment of a debt may be made as well during death-illness as "in health."

When the only proof of a debt is an acknowledgment made during death-illness, the payment of the debt is to be post-poned until after the liquidation of debts acknowledged by the deceased while he was "in health" and debts proved by other evidence. But an acknowledgment of a debt made during death-illness in favour of an heir does not constitute any proof of the debt, and no effect is to be given to it at all.

Hed., 436, 437, 438, 684, 685; Baille, 693-694. This section is to be read with that part of sec. 29 which refers to priority of dobts.

⁽w) Ehurshed v. Feigaz (1914) 86 All. 289, 237 I. (w) Ecohea v. Abedunnesea (1914) 42 Cal. 361, C. 253, C. 253. (281 Abmad v. Rahim Bibl (1918) 40 All. 238, 244-245, 51 I. C. 638. supra.

CHAPTER XI.

GIRTS.

117. Hiba or gift—A hiba or gift is "a transfer of property, made immediately, and without any exchange," by one person to another, and accepted by or on behalf of the latter 117.

Hedaya, 482; Baillie, 515. See Transfer of Property Act, 1882, s. 122, and also s. 129.

- 118. Persons capable of making gifts.—Every Mahomedan of sound mind and not a minor may dispose of his property by gift.
 - Hedaya, p. 524. As to minority, see notes to s. 101.
- 119. Gift with intent to defraud creditors.—A gift made with intent to defraud the creditors of the donor is voidable at the option of the creditors. But such intention is not to be inferred from the mere fact that the donor owed some debts at the time of the gift (y).

Under the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, sec. 53, if the effect of a gift is to defeat oredators, the gift may be presumed to have been made with intent to defeat the crubitors. It is not clear whether such intent may be presumed under the Mahomedan law. Sec. 53 of the Transfer of Property Act does not overrule any rule of Mahomedan law to the contrary [see 8.2 (d) of that Act].

- 120. Gift to unborn person.—A gift to a person not yet in existence is void (z).
- 121. Extent of donor's power.—A gift, as distinguished from a will, may be made of the whole of the donor's property, and it may be made even to an heir.

"The policy of the Mahomedan law appears to be to prevent a testator interfering by will with the course of the devolution of property according to law among his hears, although he may give a specified portion, as much as a bird, to a stranger. But it also appears that a holder of property may, to a certain extent, defeat the policy of the law by giving in his lifetime the whole or any part of his property to one of his sons provided he complies with ecetain forms" (a).

It need hardly be stated that a Mahomedan may dispose of the whole of his property by gift in favour of a stranger, to the entire exclusion of his heirs.

(y) Axim-un-nissa v. Dale (1871) 0 Mad. H. C. 455, 468-460; Abdool Hye v. Meer Mahomed (1886) 11 1.A. 10, 10 Cal. 616; Macnaghten p. 217 (case 15), p. 510 (case 44); Ameer Ali, Vol. 1, pp. 16-10; Abdul Cadur v. Turner (1884) 9 Dom. 158; Mahomed Shah v. Official Trustee of Bengal (1909) 36 Cal. 431, 2 1. C. 291.

(a) Khayo-comusaa v. Rutshan Jeham (1879) 2 Cal. 184

Sa. 122, 123 122. Gift of actionable claims and incorporeal property.—
Actionable claims and incorporeal property may form the subject of gift equally with corporeal property (b).

[A gift may be made of debta, negotiable instruments, or of Government promissory none (c); of malikana (d) or of zemmatar (c) rights; also of property let on lease (f), and property under attachment (g). Similarly, a gift may be made of a right to receive a specified share in the offerings that may be made by pilgrims at a shrine (h). In short a gift may be made of anything which comes within the definition of the word "mad!" that is, property (i).]

"Hiba in its literal sonse signifies the donation of a thing from which the dones may derive a benefit: "Hed., 482. "Gilt, as it is defined in law, is the conferring of a right of property in something specific, without an exchange." Baillie, 515.

The cases cited in para. I above would not have arisen at all, had it not been for the wrong notion which prevailed at one time that khas or physical possession was necessary in all cases to constitute a vaild gift. Conformably to that notion, it was contended in those cases that corporeal property alone could form the subject of gifts, that being the only kind of property that is capable of khas or physical possessions. But that notion has long since been rejected as erroneous, and it has been held that when the subject of gift is not capable of physical possession as n in the case of choses in action and incorporeal rights, the gift may be completed by any act on the part of the donor showing a clear intention to divest himself of the ownership in the property. Note that debts, negotiable instruments and Government promisery notes are all choses in action, or, to use the language of the Transfer of Property Act, actionable claims. See a 126 below.

- 123. Gift of equity of redemption.—(1) A gift may be made by a mortgagor of his equity of redemption.
 \(\times \)
- (2) There is a conflict of opinion whether a gift of an equity of redemption, where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property at the date of the gift, is valid. The High Court of Bombay has held that it is not (j). On the other hand, it has been held by the High Court of Calcutta, that it is valid (k). The latter, it is submitted, is the correct view.

The Bombay High Court does not hold that an equity of redemption could not form the subject of a gift in any case. What it does hold is that a gift of an equity of redomption is not valid if the mortgaged property at the time of gift is in the possession of the mortgagee. The ground of the Bombay decisions is that delivery of possession by the donor to the donee is a condition essential to the validity of a gift, and the mortgager cannot deliver possession if the mortgager is in possession. It is true that delivery of possession by the donor to the donee is necessary to validate a gift. But it is equally well established that when the subject of a gift is not capable of actual possession, the gift may be perfected by appropriate acts on the part of the donor which may have the effect of transferring the ownership to the donee (s. 126). When the mort-gagor himself is in possession of the mortgagod property, a gift of the equity of redemption is not valid unless he delivers possession of the property to the donee. But where the mortgagoe is in possession, the mortgagor cannot deliver possession to the donee, and the gift, it is submitted, may in that event be completed by some other appropriate method. The Bombay decisions, it is submitted, are not sound. The correctness of these decisions was questioned by the High Court. of Allahabad (l), and they have been disserted from by the Ceptath High Court.

123, 124

The following is a peculiar c was it owns six anmoveable properties. He mortgages three with possession to M. He then makes a g(if of all the six properties to D and puts him in possession of the three properties not mortgaged to M. Is the gift to D of the equity of redemption of the three properties in the possession of M valid? The High Court of Bombay has held that it is, the reason given being that the deed of gift should be looked at as a whole m.

124 Gift of property held adversely to donor.—A gift of property in the possession of a person who claims it adversely to the donor is not valid, unless the donor obtains and delivers possession thereof to the donee [ill. (a)], or does all that he can to complete the gift so as to put it within the power of the donee to obtain possession [ill. (b)].

(a) A executes a deed of gift in favour of B, conferring upon him the propriotary right to certain lands then in the possession of Z, and claimed by Z adversely to A. A dies without acquiring possession of the lands. After A's death, B sues Z to recover possession from him. The suit must fail, for the gift was not completed by delivery of possession to B. Meerely v. Tajudin (1888) 13 Bom. 156; Rahim Buksh v. Muhammad Hassen (1888) 11 All. 1; Macnaghten, p. 201, case 6; Fakir Ninar v. Kandassumy (1912) 35 Mad. 120, 128-131, 14 I. C. 993.

(b) A executes a deed of gift of immoveable property in favour of B. At the date of the gift the property is in possession of C who claims to hold it adversely to A. B suse C to recover possession of the property from him, joining A in the suit as a party defendant. A by his written statement admits B's claim. C contends that the gift is void, inasmuch as A was out of possession at the date of the gift, and no possession was vere given to B. The gift is valid though no possession was delivered by the donor to the donoe. Their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "But it must be observed that in this case the dispute as to the validity of the gift is not between the donor and shown of the privy Council said of the complete the gift and is a party to the suit, and admits the gift to be complete."

Ss. 124, 125 Kalidas v. Kanhaya Lal (1884) 11 Cal. 121, 11 I. A. 218, a case under the Hindu law, followed in Mahomed Buksh v. Hoosein Bibi (1888) 15 Cal. 684, 701-702, 15 I. A. 81, a case under the Mahomedan law. In the last-mentioned case their Lordships of the Privy Council observed as follows:—

"In this case it appears to their Loriahips that the lady [donor] did all she could be prefect the contemplated gift, and that nothing more was required from her. The gift was attended with the utmost publicity, the hibanamah itself authorizes the donees to take possession, and it appears that in fact they did take possession. Their Loriships hold, under these circumstances, that there can be no objection to the gift on the ground that Shahzadi [doner] had not possession, and that she herself did not give possession at the time".

Following the above observations, it has been held that a gift of immovable property by a parchaser at a sale in execution of a decree, though made before confirmation of the sale and before acquisition of possession by him, is valid, if the donce is authorized to obtain possession (a). See Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, 8,65.

125. Writing not necessary.—Writing is not essential to the validity of a gift either of movable or of immovable property (a).

Sa. 122-129 (Chapter VII) of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, deal with gifts by a 123 of the Act is to provided that a gift of immovable property must be effected by a registered instrument signed by the donor and attested by at least two witnesses, and that a gift of movable property may be effected other by a registered instrument signed as aforessid or by delivery. But the provisions of a 123 do not apply to Mahomedan gifts (so a 120 of the Act). A gift under the Mahomedan law is to be effected in the manner prescribed by the Mahomedan law (a 126). If the formalities are prescribed by that law (a 126) are complied with, the gift is valid even though it is not effected by a registered instrument and though, where effected by an instrument, the instrument is not attested (p). But if the formalities are not complied with, the gift is not valid even though it may have been effected in the manner prescribed by a. 123 of the Transfer of Property Act. See notes to a 120.

The Issu of gifts in Louer Burnat.—Sec. 123 of the Transfer of Property Act, which requires a gift of immovable property to be made by a registered instrument, as extended to the Pogu District in 1904, but a 129, which saves the rules of the Mahomedan law of gifts including the requirement of delivery of possession [a. 126 below], was not so extended in terms. In a recent case their Lordships of the Privy Council held that the Local Government was not authorized by a. 1 of the Transfer of Property Act, and did not appear to have intended, to extend a 123 part from a 129; in other words, the extending of s. 123 in the District did not operate as an exclusion of s. 120. The result is that a gift by a Mahomedan for immovable property situated in the Pogu District is not compleke, unless (1) it is effected by a registered matrument as required by a 123 of the Transfer of Property Act, and (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2) it is accompanied by delivery of possession as required by Mahomedan law (2).

⁽n) Mirza Abid v. Munnoo Bibi (1927) 2. Luck. 495, 100 I. C. 72 (27) A. O. . 61. (o) In Kumar-unnesa Babi v. Hussaini Bibi (1880) 3 All. 287, the Privy Council upheld a verbal gift. See also Bailile, 509.

 ⁽p) Karam Ilahi v. Sharf-ud-Din (1916) 38 All.
 35. I.C. 14.
 (q) Ma Mi v. Kailander Amma. (1927) 54 I. A.
 22, 5 Rang. 7, 100 I.U. 32, ('27) A. PC. 22,

GIFTS. 113

125A. Relinquishment by donor of ownership dominion. It is essential to the validity of a gift that the 125A-126 donor should divest himself completely of all ownership and dominion over the subject of the gift (r), .

- "A gift cannot be nuplied. It must be express and unequivocal, and the intention of the donor must be demonstrated by his entire relinquishment of the thing given, and the gift is null and void when he continues to exercise any act of ownership over it": Macnaghten, p. 51, s. 8.
- 125B. Gift how constituted -A gift is constituted by a Aleclaration of gift by the donor, by acceptance of the gift. express or implied, by or on behalf of the donee, and by delivery of possession of the subject of the gift by the donor to the donee as mentioned in sec. 126.

Baillie, 515; Hedava, 482.

- 126. Delivery of possession.—(1) It is essential to the validity of a gift that it should be accompanied by a delivery of possession such as the subject of the gift is susceptible of (s). As observed by the Judicial Committee in a recent case, "the taking of possession of the subject-matter of the gift by the donee, either actually or constructively," is necessary to complete a gift (t).
- (2) Registration :-- Registration does not cure the want of delivery of possession. [See cases cited in the illustration].

Illustration.

[A executes a deed of gift of a dwelling house belonging to him in favour of B. The deed is duly registered, but possession is not delivered to B. The gift is incomplete, and therefore void; Mogulsha v. Mahamed Saheb (1887) 11 Bom. 517; Ismal v. Ramji (1889) 23 Bom. 682; Vahazullah v. Boyapati (1907) 30 Mad. 519.]

Hedaya, 482; Baillie, 520-522.

Registration.—It has been stated above (s. 125) that writing is not necessary to the validity of a gift. But if there be an instrument of gift, the instrument, in order that it may be admissible in evidence, must, if it relates to ammonable property, be registered, not under the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, for those provisions do not apply to Mahomedan gifts [see s. 125 above], but under the Registration Act, 1908 : see Registration Act, s. 17 (a) and s. 49.

⁽r) Musemmat Bibi v. Shelkh Wahld (1928) 7 Pat. 118, (22) A.P. 183, (s) Sadik Hussin v. Katim Ali (1916) 43 I A. 212, 221-222, 38 All. 627, 645-646, 36 I. 104; Rhojoroomsta v. Rozekhan Jrhan (1876) Z. 61. 184, 197, 3 I. A. 201, 307; Chaudhri Mehdi Hasan v. Muhammad Hasan (1006) 28 All. 4394, 49, 33 I.A. 68, 75; Tara Prasana v. Shandi Bibi (1022) 49 Cal. 68, 75 I.C. 319, (22) A.C. 422. Mohammad v. Fakhr Jahan (1022) 40 I. A. 195, 209, 44 All. 301, 315, 68 I.C. 254, (22) A. P. C. 281.

Constructive possession.—Where a donor makes a wift of the corpus of a propert √ 126, 126A but reserves the usufruct to himself and continues in physical possession of the property, the payment by the donce of Government revenue after the date of the gift in respect of the property amounts to constructive possession of the property on the part of the dones and the gift is completed by such possession (").

> Burden of proof .- " By the Muhammadan law a holder of property may in his lifetime give away the whole or part of his property if he complies with certain forms; but it is incumbent upon those who seek to set up such a transaction to show very clearly that those forms have been complied with. It may be by deed of gift simply [that is hibal, or by deed of gift coupled with consideration, that is, hiba-bil-iwaz [as to which see s. 141]. If the former, unless accompanied by delivery of the thing given, so far as it is capable of delivery, it is invalid. If the latter (in which case delivery of possession is not necessary), actual payment of the consideration must be proved, and the bona fide intention of the donor to divest himself in presents of the property, and to confer it upon the donee must also be proved " (v).

> A declaration by the donor in the deed of gift that possession has been given binds the heirs of the donor (w).

> Subsequent delivery of possession .- A gift is not complete unless possession is taken at the time of gift, that is at the time of declaration and acceptance (x). Possession taken at a subsequent period is not effective, unless it was taken with the donor's consent (x2.)

The law of gifts in Lower Burma .- See notes under the same heading to s. 125 above.

126A. Gift through the medium of trust. -(1) A gift may be made through the medium of a trust. The same conditions are necessary for the validity of such a gift as those for a gift to the donce direct with this difference that the gift should be accepted by the trustees [s. 125 B.], and possession also should be delivered to the trustees (y) [s. 126].

(2) A Mahomedan cannot through the medium of a trust settle property for the benefit of persons who are incapable of taking under a gift, nore can he through the medium of a trust create an estate not recognized by the law of gifts governing the sect to which he belongs. Thus neither a Sunni nor a Shiah can make a gift in favour of an unborn person: so he cannot through the medium of a trust settle property in favour of an unborn person. And since a life-estate is not recognized by the Sunni law, a Sunni and the Hussin v. Hashim dis (1916) 3.

⁷⁸ I. C. 222, (24) A. A. 307. (22) Macnar iden, p. 50, s. 4, and case 14, p. 215.

1. A. 212, 216-224, 38 All. 627, 642-645;

1. A. 212, 216-224, 38 All. 627, 642-645;

(1904) 28 Bonn. 292, 724-227 [6 Khola. caset]. Jámobol v. Schan (1910) 34 Bonn. 604, 6 11. 5. 13; Casamally v. Currinshind (1911) 36 Bonn. 214, 256-260, 12 11. C. 225-260, 12 11. C.

CIPTS. 115

cannot through the medium of a trust create a valid lifeestate. But the Shiah law recognizes life-estates and vested 126A 127 remainders. A Shiah may therefore create such estates through the medium of a trust, but not in favour of unborn ... persons. The only mode of creating successive life-interests in favour of unborn persons is by way of wakf. deed must in that case comply with the requirements of a valid wakf (z).

[A, a Shiah Mahomedan, executes a dead purporting to transfer certain immovable. properties to B, C and D as trustees for the benefit of his wife and children. The deed is executed by A and it is registered. It is not executed by B, C and D or any of them. None of the properties is transferred to the names of the trustees, and A continues to be in receipt and enjoyment of the rents as before. Here there is no acceptance of the trust by the trustees, nor is there any delivery of possession to the trustees. The gift is therefore void: Sadik Husain v. Hashim Ali (1916) 43 I. A. 212, 218-224, 38 All. 627, 642-648, 36 I. C. 104].

The introduction of trustees is merely the employment of machinery whereby the gift is carried into effect (a). Acceptance of a trust by trustees is indicated by their executing the deed of trust. In the case put above, the deed was not executed by the trustees, and hence there was no acceptance.

As in the case of a gift to the donce direct, so in the case of a gift through the medium of a trustee, the donor should divest himself of all control over the corpus of the property. If he does not do so, the gift is invalid (b).

- 127. Delivery of possession of immovable property.—(1) Where donor in possession .- A gift of immovable property of which the donor is in actual possession is not complete, unless the donor physically departs from the premises with all his goods and chattels, and the donee formally enters into possession (c).
 - (2) Where property let out to tenants.—A gift of immovable property which is in the occupation of tenants may be completed by a request by the donor to the tenants to attorn to the donee (d).
 - (3) Where donor and donee both reside in the property.— No physical departure or formal entry is necessary in the case of a gift of immovable property in which the donor and the donee are both residing at the time of the gift! In such a case the gift may be completed by some overt actiby the donor Mirza Hasim v. Bindancen(1928) 6 Rang 343.

42 Cal. 933, 938, 30 I.C. 686, supra.
Mirza Hashim v. Bindancem (1928) 6 Rang.
343, [where the condition that the trustees should not sell the property without the ⁽c) Macnaghten, p. 231, Proc. XXII. (d) Shaik Ibhram v. Shaik Suleman (188 thaik Ibhram v. Shaik Suleman (1884) 9 Born. 146, 150; Bibi Khaver v. Bibi Rukhta (1905) 29 Born. 489, 477; Khajooroonusta v. Roushan Jehan (1878) 2 Cal. 184, 197 3 I. A. 291, 308.

Ss. 127, 127A

indicating a clear intention on his part to transfer possession and to divest himself of all control over the subject of the gift (e). This rule has been applied mainly to cases in which the donor stands in loco parents to the done (f).

Illustration to sub-section (3).—A Mahomedan lady, who had brought up her nephew as her som, executed a deed of grit in favour of the nephew of a house in which they were both residing at the time of the grit. The donor did not physically depart from the house either at the time of the grit or at any subsequent period, but continued to live in the house with her nephew. The property was transferred to the name of the nephew, and the rents were recovered in his name. Held that the grit was complete, though there was no formal delivery of possession: Humera Blus, Norma-van-pass (1905) 28 All, 147.

127A. Gift of immovable property by husband to wife.—
The rule laid down in sec. 127 (3) applies to gifts of immovable property by a wife to the husband (g), and by a husband to the wife, whether the property is used by them for their joint residence (h), or is let out to tenants (i). The fact that the husband continues to live in the house or to receive the rents after the date of the gift will not invalidate the gift, the presumption in such a case being that the rents are collected by the husband on behalt of the wife and not on his own (j).

Gift from husband to wife. -In Amina Bibi v. Khalija Bibi (k), the gift was from a husband to the wife, and the gift consisted of a house in which the husband and wife lived together, and of a chawl (adjoining the house) which was let out to tenants. Sir M. Sausse, C.J., said: "In my opinion, the relation of husband and wife and his legal right to reside with her and to manage her property rebut the inference which in the case of parties standing in a different relation would arise from a continued residence in the house after the making of the hiba (gift), and in the husband, generally receiving the rents of the chawl annexed to the house." In Ma M. v. Kallander Annual (I). the gift was by a husband to the wife, and mutation of names was duly effected in public records and the wife's name was entered as proprietress. Dealing with this case their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "It must therefore be taken that mutation was effected by Moideen [husband] himself, and in the case of a gift of immovable property by a Mahomedan husband to his wife, once mutation of names has been proved, the natural presumption arising from the relation of husband and wife existing between them is that the hisband's subsequent acts with reference to the property were done on his wife's behalf and not on his own."

^[18] Wiles Stellatt allat 100 01 1118 (WH. [O] Shuth I Brisma (11884) 9 1000. 1461; Abrid Majudikhara V Husenbre (1920) 22 1000 1. kl. 2, 29, 55 1.0, 505. (J. 1002) 1. kl. 2, 200 1. kl. 2, 200 1. kl. 2, 1000 1. kl. 2, 200 1. kl. 2, 1000 1. kl.

⁽f) Macronathero p. 51, 8. 0, 10 (Macronathero p. 51, 8. 0, 10 (Macronathero p. 61, 8. 0, 10 (Ma

GIFTS. 117

128. Delivery in case of incorporeal property and actionable claims.—When the subject of the gift is incorporeal property or an actionable claim, the gift may be completed by any act on the part of the donor showing a clear intention on his part to divest himself in prasenti of the property, and to confer it upon the donee.

Ss. 128, 129

- [(a) A gift of Government promissery notes may be completed by endorsement and editory to the donce · Nancab Umjud Alleythan v. Muhumdee Begam (1867) 11 M.I.A. 517, 544
- (b) A gift of zamudari rights, held ander Covernment, may be completed by mutation of names in the books of the Collecter Supper Almad Khan v. Kadr. Begam (1895) 18 All. 1.
- (c) A hands over to his wife a recipt passed to him by a bank in respect of money deposited by him with the bank, and says, "after taking a bath 1 will go to the bank and transfer the papers to your name." The receipt contains in the margin the words "not transferable. A dies before the transfer is effected. The gift is indecomplete: Aga Makmed Juffer v. Kondom Rethee (1897) 25 Cal. 9, 17. The receipt being "not transferable," the donor's right to receive the money from the bank cannot be transferred by a mere delivery of the receipt.]

As regards delivery of possession, a distinction ought to be drawn between cases where, from the nature of the subject of the gift, actual possession could not be given to the donce. Thus whore lands are let on leases, no kha or actual possession could be given to the donce. Thus whore lands are let on leases, no kha or actual possession could be delivered. In such a case a gift of the lands is valid though possession is notel-divered (m). "There is no doubt that the principle of Mahomedan law is that possession is nocessary to make a good gift, but the question is, possession of what? If the doner does not transfer to the donee, refar as he can, all the possession which he can transfer, the gift is not a good one. As we have said above, there is, in our judgment, nothing in the Mahomedan law to present the gift of a right to property. The donor must, so he as it is possible for kim, transfer to the donee that which he gives, namely, such right as he himself has; but this does not imply that where a right to property forms the subject of a gift, the gift will be invalid unless the donor transfers what he himself does not possess, namely, the corpus of the property. The must evidence the reality of the gift by divesting himself so far as he can, of the whole of what he gives "(n).

129. Gift to a minor by father or other guardian.—No change of possession is necessary in the case of a gift by a father to his minor child or by a guardian to his ward (o).

Hed., 484; Baillie, 538; Macnaghten, p. 51, s. 9. "Where there is on the part of a father or other guardian a real and bone file intention to make a gift, the law will be satisfied without change of possession, and will presume the subsequent holding of the property to be on behalf of the minor:" 15 Beng. L.R. 67, 78, L.R. 2 I. A. 87, 104.

⁽m) Mullick Abdool Guffoor v. Muleka (1884) 10 Cal. 1112.

²¹ All. 165, 170-171.
(o) Ameeroonissa v. Abadoonissa (1875) 15 Beng.
L. R. 67, 78, 2 I. A. 87, 104; Fatima 34b5
v. Ahmad Baksh (1904) 31 Cal. 899, 330.

Ss. 129-132 The guardian referred to in this section is the guardian of the property of a minor. The following persons are entitled in order to the guardianship of the property of a minor, namely, (1) the father, (2) his executor, (3) the father's father and (4) his executor. No change of possession is necessary in the case of a gift by a father to his minor son, for the father himself as the person to receive possession as the guardian of his son. Similarly no change of possession is necessary in the case of a gift by a grandfather to his minor grandson if the father is deed, for the grandfather is then the person to take delivery on bohalf of his grandson as his guardian. But if the father is alive and has not been deprived of his rights and powers as guardian, there must be a cloivery of possession by the grandfather to the father as guardian this minor sons, otherwise the gift is not complete. The more fact that the minors have always lived with their grandfather and have been brought up and maintained by him will not constitute him guardian of their property so as to dispense with delivery of possession (p).

The mother is not in law the guardian of the property of her infant child therefore, a gift by a mother to her infant child does require transfer of possession from her to the child's father, and, if the father be dead, to his executor, and lif there be no executor, to the child's father's father, and if he be dead, to his executor. Full tif there be none of these, no change of possession is necessary in the case of a gift by a mother to her infant child, or in the case of a gift by any other person to a minor under his card (s. 130).

- 130. Gift to a minor by a person other than his father or guardian.—A gift to a minor or to a lunatic by a person other than his father or guardian may be completed by delivery of possession to the father or guardian.
- "When the donce is a minor, or meane, the right to take possession for him beload to his guardian, who is first his father, then his father's executor, then his grandfather, then his executor." If there be none of these, possession may be taken for the munor by any person under whose power he may happen to be (a. 262 B): Baillie, 539; Iled., 484; Macaughten, p. 51, s. 10. Of course, no change of possession is necessary where the guardian himself is the donor (a. 129).
- 131. Gift to a bailee.—Where the subject of the gift is already in the possession of the donee as bailee, the gift may be completed by declaration and acceptance, without formal delivery of possession.
- [(a) A gift of a property in the possession of a bailee, lessee, pledgee, or mortgagee may be completed without formal transfer of possession: Hed., 464; Baillie, 522.
- (b) A makes a gift of a house to a servant in his employ for the collection of rents. There is no evidence of any "overt act showing transfer of possession of the property." The gift is void, for a servant or an agent for the collection of rents cannot be said to be in "possession" of the house of which he collects the rents: Valsyat Hossein v. Maniarm (1879) 5 C. L. R. 91.1
- 132. Mushaa defined.—Mushaa is an undivided share in property either movable or immovable.

GIFTS. 119

133. Gift of mushaa where property indivisible.—A. Sa. valid gift may be made of an undivided share [mushaa] in 133, 134 property which is not capable of partition.

[4, who owns a house, makes a gift to B of the house and of the right to use a staircase held by her jointly with the owner of an adjoining house. The gift of A's undivided share in the staircase, though it is a gift of a mushan, is said, for a staircase is not capable of division: Kasim Hussin v. Shaif-in. Nissa (1883) 5 All. 285.]

134. Gift of mushaa where property divisible.—A gift of an undivided share (mushaa) in property which is capable of division is invalid (fisid), but not void (b-fid). The gift being invalid, and not void, it may be perfected and rendered valid by subsequent partition and delivery to the done of the share given to him [ill. (a)].

Exceptions.—A gift of an undivided share (mushaa), though it be a share in property capable of division, is valid from the moment of the gift, even if the share is not divided off and delivered to the donee, in the following cases:—

- (1) where the gift is made by one co-heir to another [ill. (b)]:
- (2) where the gift is of a share in a zemindari or taluka [ill. (e)];
- (3) where the gift is of a share in freehold property in a large commercial town [ill. (d)];
- (4) Where the gift is of shares in a land company (q).

[(a) A makes a gift of her undivided share in certain lands to B. The share is not wided off at the time of gift, but it is subsequently separated and possession thereof is delivered to B. The gift, though invalid in its inception, is validated by subsequent delivery of possession: Muhammad Mumtaz v. Zubeida Jan (1889) 11 All. 460, 16 I. A. 206; Mahomed v. Coorerbai, 6 Bonn. L. R. 1043; Mohib Ulah v. Abdul Khalik (1908), 30 All. 260; Abdul Azis v. Fath Mahomed (1911) 38 Cal. 518, 9 I. C. 635.

- (b) A Mahomedan female dies leaving a mother, a son and a daughter as her only heirs. The mother may make a valid gift of her undivided share in the inheritance to the son, or to the daughter, or jointly to the son and daughter: Mahomed Bakeh v. Hosseinis Bibi (1888) 15 Cal. 684, 701, 15 I. A. 81.
- (c) A, B and C are co-sharers in a certain zemindari. Each share is separately assessed by the Government, and has a separate number in the Collector's books, and the proprietor of each share is entitled to collect a definite share of rents from the royst. A makes a gift of his share to Z without a partition of the zemindari. The gift is valid, for it is not a gift strictly of a muchau, the share being definite and marked off from the rest of the property: Ameronates v. Abadooniese (1875) 15 B. L. R. 07, 2

- S. 134 I. A. 87; Abdul Aziz v. Fatch Mahomed (1911) 38 Cal. 518, 9 I.C. 635; Jiwan v. Imliaz (1878) 2 All. 93; Kasım v. Sharıf-un-Nissa (1883) 5 All. 285.
 - (d) A, who wan a house in Rangoon, makes a gift of a third of the house to B. The profit is valid, the property being situated in a large commercial town: Ibrahim Goolan Ariff v. Nation (1997) 35 Cal. 1, 34 1. A. 167.
 - (c) A, a partner in a firm, makes a gift of his share of the partnership assets to B. The gift is not valid unless the share is divided off and handed over to B: Hedaya 483: Buille. 529-530.1

Hed., 483-484; Baille, 523-530. "A gift of part of a thing which is capable of different control of the said part is divided off and separated from the property of the denor; but a gift of part of an indivisible thing is valid," the reason beneft that the thing being indivisible, a complete seisin is altogether impracticable, and hence an incomplete seisin must necessarily suffice, since this is all that the thing admits of; Hed., 483.

The term snashna is derived from shayan, which signifies confusion. An undivided share is called mushna, because of the confusion that is likely to arise in the enjoyment of the property if a gift were made of an undivided share in the property by one co-sharer to a stranger. No such confusion can arise, if the gift is by one co-sharer to another co-sharer. Hence the rule of the Hanafi saw that when property held by several co-sharers is capable of partition, the gift of an undivided sharein that property in favour of a stranger does not take offset until the share is divided off from the rest of the property, and possession thereof is delivered to the donce. "Seisin in cases of gift is expressly ordained, and consequently a complete seisin is a necessary condition:" Hed., 483.

In Muhammad Mumbaz v. Zubuida Jan, upon which illustration (a) is based, their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "The doctrine relating to the invalidity of gift of mushau is wholly unadapted to a progressive state of society, and ought to be confined within the strictest rules." This principle was applied by their Lordships of the Privy Council in the case cited in Ill. (d).

In a Madras case (r), Benson, J., observed that the doctrine of muchas did not apply in the Madras Presidency, but it was held in a later case that that view was erroneous (s).

The rule laid down in this section applies to gifts and not to transfers for consideration (t).

Devce to get over doctrine of mushas.—It has been held by the High Court of Allshabad that though a valid gift cannot be made of an undivided share (mushau) in property which is capable of division, the difficulty may be overcome by the donor selling the undivided share at a fixed price to the person to whom the gift is intended to be made, and then releasing that person from payment of the dobt representing the price (u), If this decision were correct, delivery of possession in the case of a gift could be dispensed with in every case by the donor making a pretence of a sale to the donor and afterwards releasing the donor from the obligation to pay the price.

Shiah law.—A gift of an undivided share is valid, though it be a share in property bapable of partition (v); Baillie, Part II, 204.

⁽r) Albob Koya v. Musa Koya (1901) 24 Mad. 518. (1927) 40 All. 518. (1927) 40 All. 518. (1927) 40 All. 518. (1927) 40 All. 519. (1927) 40 All. 519. (1927) 40 All. 519. (1928) 41 All. 419. (1928) 42 All. 42

GIFTS. 121

135. Gift to two or more dones.—A gift of property which is capable of division to two or more persons without dividing it is invalid, but it may be rendered valid if separate possession is taken by each done of the portion of the property given to him. This rule does not apply to the case mentioned in the third Exception to s. 134 (2). nor, it is conceived, to the cases mentioned in the other Exceptions.

[A makes a gift of a house to B and C without making any division of the property at the time of gift. Subsequently B and C divide the projectly and each takes possession of the portion allotted to him with the consent of the donor. Is the gift valid? According to Macnaghten [p. 50, s. 7, p. 20]. case 5], it is not, the reason given being that the division should have taken place simultaneously with the transfer. According to Bullie (p. 524), the gift is not void in its inception and it may be rendered valid by subsequent division between the doness. The latter seems to be the better opinion. See also Hedaya, p. 485]

Shiah law. - Under the Shiah law a gift of property to two or more donces is valid though no division is made either at the time of gift or subsequently: Baillie, Part II, 205.

136. Gift in futuro.—A gift cannot be made of anything to be performed in futuro [ills. (a) and (b)], nor can it be made to take effect at any future period whether definite [ill.(c)] or indefinite.

[(a) A makes a gift to B of 'the fruit that may be produced by his palm tice this year.' The gift is void as being a gift of future property: Buillie, 516.

Note.—It is assumed in ill. (a) that the palm tree belongs to 1; hence A cannot make a gitt of the fruits that may be produced without at the same time making a gift of the tree, and this explains ill. (b), assuming that the Jaghir village in that case was alreable and divisible. But if the tree does not belong to A, and all that he is entitled to is the right to receive the fruits when produced, there is not the sightest reason why A cannot make a valid gift of the right, and this explains ill. (d).

(b) A Mahomedan executes a deed in favour of his wife purporting to give to the wife and her hears in perpetuity Rs. 4,000 every year out of his share of the income of certain Jaghir villages. The gift is void, as being a gift of a portion of the future revenue of the villages: Amid Niesa v. Mir Nurraddin (1800) 22 Bom. 480. If the Jaghir be alienable and partible, the gift should be of the donor's share in village and not merely his share of the income. But if the Jaghir be not alienable or partible, and all that the donor is entitled to is a specified share of the income, the donor, it is submitted, may make a valid gift of his share of the income. See ill. (d) below and the note to ill. (a) above.

(c) A executes a deed of gift in favour of B, containing the words "so long as I tive, I shall enjoy and possess the properties, and I shall not sell or make gift to any one, but after my death, you will be the owner." The gift is void, for it is not accompanied Ss. 136-138 by delivery of possession and it is not to operate until after the death of A: Yusuf Ali v. Collector of Tipperath (1882) 9 Cal. 133. See also Chekkene Kutti v. Ahmel (1886) 10 Mad. 196, at p. 199.

(d) A is entitled to receive a specified share in the offerings made by pilgrims at a certain shrine. A may make a valid gift of the right to receive such share. Here the thing gifted is "the right of the donor to receive a fixed share in the offerings after they have been made" (see s. 122): Ahmxt-ud-Din v. Ilahi Bakhsh (1912) 34 All. 465, 14 l. C. 587; Anuari Begum v. Nizam-ud-Din Shah (1896) 21 All. 105, at pp. 170-171. See note to ill. (a) above.]

Macnaghten, p. 50, ss. 3 and 5; Baillie, 516; Chekkone Kutti v. Ahmed (1887) 10
Mad. 196, 199 [future in lefinite period]. The rule set forth in this section is based on the principle that the object of the gift must be in existence at the time of the gift:
Buillie. 516.

137. Contingent gift.—A gift cannot be made to take effect on the happening of a contingency (y).

"A gift must not be dependent on any thing contingent, as the entrance of Zeyd, or the arrival of Khald" [Brillie, 515-516, 549-550]. A gift by a Shiah Mahomedan to A for his life, and, in the event of the death of A without beaving male issue, to B, is as regards B a contingent gift, and therefore void (2). In a Privy Council case a gift was made by a Shiah Mahomedan to his wife for life and after her death to such of his children as may be living at his death. Their Lordships observed that the gift to the children was contingent, but they refrained from expressing any opinion as to its validity (4). As to alternative bequests, see a. 108A.

138. Gift with a condition.—When a gift is made subject to a condition which derogates from the completeness of the grant, the condition is void and the gift will take effect as if no condition were attached to it.

[6] Liffe-estate. -A makes a gift of a house to B during the life of B. The condition that A shall have the house for life is void, and he takes an absolute interest in the property as if no condition were attached to the gift. "An Amree [gift for life] is nothing but a gift and a condition; and the condition is invalid.": Hedaya, 489. "Notiter gifts nor charties are affected by being accompaned with an invalid condition, because the Prophet approved of Amrees [gifts for life], but held the condition annexed to thom by the grantor to be voud.": Hedaya, 488; Baillie, 517.

Note.—Under the Hanafi law a grantee of a life-estate takes an absolute an estate (b). The same rule applies to a testamentary gift; thus a beguest to A for life operates as an absolute bequest of the property to A (c). The creation of a life-interest is allowed by the Shiah law (d); and so also, it would seem, by the Shaffei law (e). See s. 44 above.

(c)

 ⁽y) Macnaghten, p. 50, s. 3; Balille 515-516; Abdul Karım v. Abdul Kayum (1906) 28 All 312, 345.
 (z) Cusanully v. Currimbhai (1911) 36 Bom. 214, 257-258, 12 I. C. 225.

⁽a) Sadik Husain v. Hashim Ali (1916) 43 I. A. 212, 219-220; 38 All. 627, 643-644, 36 I.C.

⁽b) Nizamudin v. Abdul Gafur (1888) 13 Born. 264, 275, affirmed on appeal to P.C. subnomine; Abdul Gafur v. Nizamudan (1892) 17 Born. 1, 5, 19 I. A. 170, 178; as to the total chapters on a Mahore of Denkine.

Abdul Latif (1913) 37 Born. 447, 458, 17 i. C. 889; Abdoola v. Mahomed (1905) 7 Born. L. R. 306; Mahomed Shah v. Official Trustes of Bengal (1909) 36 Cal. 431, 2 1.C. 292; Suleman v. Dorab Ale (1882) 3 I.A. 117, 122. Abdul Karim v. Abdul Gayum (1908) 28 All.

 ⁽d) Banco Begum v. Mir Abed Ali (1908) 32
 Bom. 172; Siraj Husain v. Mushaf Husain (1921) O. C. 321.

 (e) Mahomed Irahim v. Abdul Latif (1913) 37
 Bom. 447, 458, 17 J. O. 689.

GIFTS. 123

(b) A makes a gift of Government promissory notes to B, on condition that B should return a fourth part of the notes to A after a month. The condition is void and B takes an absolute interest in the notes: see Baillie, 547; Hed., 488. [Here the condition relates to the return of a part of the corpus.]

Ss. 138, 139

- (c) A makes a gift of his mansion to B on condition that he shall not sell it, or that he shall sell it to a particular individual, or that B shall give some part of it in issue or exchange. The condition is void, and B takes an absolute estate in the manson; Baillie, 547; Moutri Muhammad v. Fatima Bhil (1886) 12 I.A. 159. See s. 139.
- (d) A makes a gift of certain property to B. It is provided by the deed of gift that B shall not transfer the property. The certaint against alteration is void, and B takes the property absolutely: Babu Lat v. Glansham Das (1922) 44 All. 633, ('22) A. A. 205, 70 I. C. 81. See Transfer of Property Act, 1882, s. 10.]

Hed., 488-489; Baillie, 546-549. "When one has made a git and stipulated for a condition that is fésid or invaled, the gift is valid and the condition void". Baillie, 546. In the illustration to the settion, the condition is fésid. The condition in the illustration to s. 139 has been held not to be fésid.

Life-estates may be created by wakf .- See s. 160 below.

139. Condition in the nature of a trust.—Where property is transferred by way of gift, and the donor does not reserve dominion over the corpus of the property nor any share of dominion over the corpus, but stipulates simply for and obtains a right to the recurring income during his life, the gift and the stipulation are both valid. Such a stipulation is not void, as it does not provide for a return of any part of the corpus as in s. 138, ills. (b) and (c). The stipulation may also be enforced as an agreement raising a trust, and constituting a 'valid obligation to make a return of the proceeds during the time stipulated. It was so held by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Nawab Umjad Ally v. Mohumdee Begam (f) [ill. (a)] which was a Shiah case and in Mohammad Fakhr Jahan (g) which was a Sunni case.

The principle of the above decision has been extended by the Indian Courts to cases in which the gift was made subject to the condition that the done shall pay the income to a person or persons nominated by the donor during the life of such person or persons [ills. (b) and (c)].

⁽f) (1867) 11 M. I. A. 517, 547-548; Mirza Hahim v. Bindanem (1928) 6 Rang. 343 [where it was held that the donor had not divested himself completely of all dominion over the property in that the deed of trust contained a condition that the trustees should not self the property without the consent of the donor, and that the reservation of a literature by the donor to himself was therefore invalid.

Ss. 139-140

- [(a) A transfers and endorses Government promissory notes into the name of his son B, and delivers them to B as a gift, with a condition that B should pay the income thereof to A during his life. Both the gift and the condition are valid, and B is bound to pay the income to A during A's life: Nauso Unijud Ally v. Mohumdes Begam (1867) III. M. I. A. 517, 547-548, 8 bilan case. The same principle applies to a gift by a Sunni Mahomodan: Mohammad v. Fakhr Jahan (1922) 49 I.A. 195, 44 All. 301, 68 I. C. 254, (22) A.P.C. 281.
- (b) A makes a gift of his house to his son B with a condition that B should give the meome of one-third of the house to A's grandson C during C's life. Both the gift and the condition are valid, and B is bound to pay the meome to C during C's lifetime: Lali Jan v. Muhummad (1912) 34 All. 478, 16 I. C. 105, a Sunm case.
- (e) A make-a gift of certain property to her son B with a condition that B should pay out of the meomet hereof Rs. 40 overy year to C during C's life, and divide the remaining meome equally between him (B) and D during D's life. Both the gift and the condition are valid, and B is bound to pay Rs. 40 per annum to C and divide the remaining meome equally between himself and D until D's death: Taesikalbhai v. Inativnji Begum (1916) 41 Bon. 372, 39 1. C. 96, a Sunn case.
- (d) A Mahomedan lady transfers certain immovable properties by way of gift to been rephows upon condition that they should pay her Ra. 900 overy year for her maintenance. She also reserves a right of residence for herself in a portion of one of the properties. The deed of gift contains a stipulation that if the payments are not regularly made, shoshould be at liberty to recover them by a suit. This is not a valid gift, for the payment of Ra. 900 is not made dependent upon the profits of the corpus being sufficient to most t, as in life (a), (b) and (c); the consideration for the transfer is the promise to make the payment is any cent: Saifuddin v. Mohuddin (1927) 54 Cal. 754, 707, 105 1. C. 67, (273 A. C. 808).
 - Note The transaction in each of the illustrations (a), (b) and (c) is in substance a
- 139A. Gift over.—A gift of property to A and B in equal shares with a condition that if either of them died without leaving male issue his share should go to the other, is valid according to the Shiah law (h.)

According to the Nunn law, the condition would be void, and A and B would each take his share of the property absolutely, and it would descend on his death to his heirs; see a. 138.

140. Revocation of gifts.—A gift may be revoked by the donor at any time before delivery of possession. The reason is that before delivery there is no complete gift at all.

A gift may be revoked [Expln. II] even after delivery of possession, except in the following cases:—

(1) when the gift is made by a husband to his wife or by a wife to her husband; GIFTS. 125

(2) when the donee is related to the donor within the S. 14 prohibited degrees;

- (3) when the donee is dead:
- (4) when the thing given has passed out of the donee's possession by sale (i), gift or otherwise;
- (5) when the thing given is lost or destroyed;
- (6) when the thing given has increased in value, whatever be the cause of the increase (i);
- (7) when the thing given is so changed that it cannot be identified, as when wheat is converted into flour by grinding (j);
- (8) when the donor has received something in exchange '(iwaz) for the gift [see ss. 140 and 141].

Explanation I.—A gift may be revoked by the donor, but not by his heirs after his death.

Explanation II.—Once possession is delivered, nothing short of a decree of the Court is sufficient to revoke the gft. Neither a declaration of revocation by the donor nor even the institution of a suit for resuming the gift is sufficient to revoke the gift. Until a decree is passed, the donce is entitled to use and dispose of the subject of the gift.

Hed. 485; Baillee, 533-537. The reason why a gift to a person other than a husband or wife or to a person other than one related within the prohibited degrees may be roveked is thus stated in the Hedaya, p. 186; "The object of a gift to a stranger is a return;—for it is a custom to send presents to a person of high rank that he may protect the donor; to a person of inferior rank that the donor may obtain his services; and to a person of equal rank that he may obtain an equivalent;—and such being the case it follows that the donor has power of annulment, so long as the object of the deed is not answered, since a gift is capable of annulment.

A gift made in favour of any of the persons mentioned in cls. (1) and (2) of this section cannot be revoked at all, not even if the done has expressly reserved to himself a right of revocation. In all other cases a gift is revocable, unless the power of revocation has come to an end by the happening of any of the events mentioned in cls. (3) to (8). If no such event has happened, the donor may revoke the gift, even though he may have declared that he would not revoke it. The reason is that, except in the cases mentioned in cls. (1) and (2) the power of revocation is inherent in the donor of every gift (8). Contrast sec. 126 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, which does not apply to Mahomedan gifts.

⁽t) Wali Bandi v. Tabeya (1919) 41 All. 534, 50 I.C. 919; Maulani v. Moula Bakhsh /1924) 46 All. 260, 78 I.C. 222, [24] A.A. 307, Magbul v. Ghafur-un-nessa (1914) 36 All.

 333, 24 1.C. 225.

 (k) Cassamally v. Currimbhat (1911) 36 Bom.
 214. 251-256, 12 1.C. 225.

140, 141

- The Shiah law differs from the Hanafi law in the following particulars :—
 - (a) a gift to any blood relation, whether within the prohibited degrees or not, is irrevocable after delivery of possession;
 - (b) a gift by a husband to his wife, or by a wife to her husband, is, according to the better opinion, revocable (Bailhe, Part II, 205-206).
 - (c) a gift may be revoked by a mere declaration on the part of the donor without any proceedings in Court [Baillie, Part II, p. 205. f.n. (10)].
- 141. Hiba-bil-iwaz (gift with exchange) .- (1) A hiba-biliwaz, as distinguished from a hiba or simple gift, is a gift for a consideration. It is in reality a sale, and has all the incidents of a contract of sale. Accordingly possession is not required to complete the transfer as it is in the case of a hiba, and an undivided share (mushaa) in property capable of division may be lawfully transferred by it, though it cannot be done in the case of a hiba (l). Two conditions, however, must concur to make the transaction valid, namely, (1) actual payment of consideration (iwaz) on the part of the donee, and (2) a bona fide intention on the part of the donor to divest himself in præsenti of the property and to confer it upon the donee. The adequacy of consideration is not material; but whatever its amount, it must be actually and bona fide paid (m). Such a transaction is called the hiba-bil-iwaz of India as distinguished from "true" hiba-bil-iwaz dealt with in the notes below. It was introduced by the Muslim lawyers of India as a device for effecting a gift of mushaa in property capable of division (n).
- (2) The High Court of Calcutta has held that the transaction being a sale, it must, where the property is immovable and is of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards, be effected by a registered instrument as required by sec. 54 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (o).

[(a) A and B, two Mahomedan brothers, own certain villages which are held by them as tenants-in-common. A dies leaving his brother B and a widow W. Some time after A's death, B executes a deed whereby he grants two of the villages to W. Two days after the date of the grant, but as a part of the same transaction, W executes a ^{25;} Chaudhari Mehdi Hasan v. Muham-mad Hasan (1906) 28 All. 439, 33 I. A. 68; Mohanlal v. Mahmud (1922) 44 All. 580, 67 I.O. 67, (22) A.A. 347.

⁽n) Baillis, p. XXXV. Abbas Ali v. Karim Baksh (1909) 18 C.W.N. 160, 4 I.O. 466; Sarifuddin v. Mohiuddin (1927) 54 Cal. 754, 105 I.O. 67, ('27) A.O. 808.

GIFTS. 127

S. 141

writing whereby in consideration of the grant to her of the two villages she gives up her claim to her husband's estate in favour of B. The transaction is a hiba-bil-ineax, and it is valid though possession may not have been delivered: see Muhammad Faiz v. Ghulam Ahmad (1831) 3 All. 400, S. I. A. 25.

- (b) A Mahomedan executes a deed in favour of his wife whereby he grants certain immovable property to her in lies of her dower. Possession of the property is not delivered to the wife. The transaction is nevertheless valid as a his-bi-livaez: Muhammad Esuph v. Pattamsa Ammal (1889) 23 Mad. 70; Futch Ali v. Muhammad (1928) 9 Lah. 428. (28) A.1. 516.
- (c) A Mahomedan fady, who owns an undivided share (usbiat) in certain immovable properties which are capable of divisions, occuste a deed whereby she transfer her share in the properties by way of gift to her two nephews in consideration of the nephews paying Rs. 990 to her every year for her maintenance. The deed provides that if they fail to make the payments regularly, she should be at libertly to recover them by a suit. The deed is duly registered. The transaction is valid as a hibs-til-invax, though it is a transfer of a musbas. 2 Sarfyuddin . M shaulten (1927) 56 cd. 754, 105 f.C. 67, (27) A.C.886.]

True nature of transaction.—Though a transaction may be described in the plaint as Naba-Ni-waz, it is open to the plaintift to show that it was in fact a simple hiba, provided that the point is raised at an early stage of the proceedings (p. 1).

Consideration.—It has been held by the High Court of Bombay that whatever is a valid consideration for a contract within the meaning of sec. 2, cl. (d), of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, is a valid consideration also for a hish-bit-inex. It has accordingly been held that where a Mahomedan dies leaving two brothers and a daughter, and each bother relinquishes his share in the estate of the decessed in favour of the daughter in consideration of the other charge in the consideration of the other doing so, the transaction is a hiba-bit-inex, the relinquishment by one brother being consideration for relinquishment by the other, and delivery of possession to the daughter is not necessary to validate the transaction (n).

A gift "in consideration of your being my cousin" is not a gift for a consideration or a hibs bit-least. Such a transaction is a hibs or gift simple, and delivery of possession is necessary to validate the gift (r). Similarly a gift "for having with cordial affection and love rendered service to me, and maintained and treated me with kindness and indigence, and shown all sorts of favour to me," is a hibs or gift simple. Such a transaction is not a hibs-bit-least, there being no ivez or consideration, and delivery of possession is necessary to validate the gift (e).

Adequacy of consideration—In Khojooroonisa v. Rouehan Jehan (I) which is the leading case on the subject, their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "Undoubtedly, the adequacy of the consideration is not the question. A consideration may be per feetly valid which is wholly inadequate in amount when compared with the thing given. Some of the cases have gone so far to say that even a gift of a ring may be a sufficient consideration; but whatever its amount, it must be actually and bona fide paid." It would som to follow from this that however small the consideration of a hibs-bili-user may be, the transaction would be valid if the consideration was actually and bona fide paid. But a different view was taken by the ligh Court of Bombay in a case in which the consideration for a grant was Ra 10. No attempt was made to ascertain whether

⁽p) Senjuddia v. Isab (1922) 49 Cal. 161, (*22) () Jafar Ali v. Ahmed (1888) 5 Bom. H. O. A. C. 283, 70 L. C. 203, () Muhammadusia v. Rienheler (1905) 29 Bom. 408; : Ahldbeit v. Abdulla (1909) 31 Bom. 271. | Ali l. 1. () [181] 1 Ali l. 1. () (1876) 2 Cal. 184, 197, 3 I. A. 291.

Ss. 141, 142 the amount was actually and bone fide paid, and the Court came to the conclusion from the mere fact that the consideration was only Rs. 10 that the transaction could not be sustained as a hibs-hi-irora (w). It is submitted, with great respect, that this view of the law is erroneous. It has in fact been held that even a copy of the Koran is a good consideration for a hibs-hi-trust (p).

Intestion to transfer in presents.—Where property was tansferred to a donce subject to a reservation of the possession and enjoyment to the donor and his wife during their lives, it was held by their Lordships of the Privy Council that there was no intention on the part of the donor to divest himself in present of the property, and that the transaction could not be upheld as a Robe-Releaser (ive).

True hiba-bil-iwaz. -Hiba-bil-iwa. means, literally, a gift for an exchange. It is of two kinds, one being the true hiba-bil-iwaz, that is, hiba-bil-iwaz as defined by the older jurists, and the other the hiba-bil-iwaz of India. In the former there are two acts namely, (1) the kiba, which is followed by (2) an independent and uncovenanted iwaz (return-gift), that is, an area not simulated for at the time of the hiba. In the latter there is only one act, the waz or exchange being involved in the contract of gift as its direct consideration [Baillie, 122]. In the true hiba-bil-waz, the hiba and waz are both governed by the law of gitts. There must be delivery of possession both of the hiba and swaz, and they are both subject to the doctrine of mushaa. The donor may even after delivery revoke the gitt [s 140] at any time before the waz is delivered to him, but after delivery of the waz neither party can revoke his gift. The transaction consists of two distinct acts of donation between two persons each of whom is alternately the donor of one gift and the donce of the other. Thus if A makes a gift of a ring to B and delivers it to him, and B, without having stipulated for it, subsequently makes a gift of a watch to A, saying that it is the imaz or return for the gift of the ring, and delivers the watch to him, the transaction is a true hiba-bil-weiz, and neither A nor B can revoke the gift. But if B delivers the watch to .1 without saying that it is the iwaz or roturn for his gift, the transaction does not amount to a hiba-bil-iwaz. The case is then one of two hibus, and either party may revoke his hibu [s. 140]. If A makes a gift of a ring to B saying, "I have given this to you for so much," it is a hiba-bil-incat of India. It is in reality a sale, while a true hiba-bil-near is not a sale either in its inception or completion (+).

142. Hiba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz.—Where a gift is made with a stipulation (shart) for a return, it is called hiba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz. As in the case of hiba (simple gift), so in the case of hiba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz, delivery of possession is necessary to make the gift valid, and the gift is also revocable-[s. 140]. But the gift becomes irrevocable on delivery by the donee of the ivazz (return) to the donor (y).

⁽u) Rujabai v. Ismail (1870) 7 Bom. H. C., O.C. 27, 80.

Abbas Als v. Karim Baksh (1909) 13 Cal. W. N. 160, 4 I. C. 466.
 Chaudhari Medhi Hasan v. Muhammad Hasan (1906) 28 All. 439, 453, 33 I. A. 68 (it was also found that no consideration passed from the doneo to the donor);

 ⁽z) Baille, 122-123, 541-543; Rahim Bake
 v. Muhammad Hasan (1888) 11 All.
 Sarifuddin v. Mohiuddin (1927) 54 Ca
 754, 106 1.0, 67, (27) A.C. 808.
 (y) Baille, 643-644; Hedaya, 488; Mogulaha

Mahamad Sahet (1887) 11 Bom. 517 (having regard to the decision that posses alon was necessary the transaction in wrongly described in the judgment as hide-bit-ired;

GIFTS. 129

The main distinction between the hiba-bit-waz of Indua, and hiba-ba-shart-ut-waz is that delivery of possession is not necessary in the former case, while it is necessary in the latter case.

Ss. 142-144

The main distinction between hiba-bil-wez as defined by the older juriets and hiba-ba-shart-di-wez as that in the former case the way proceeds columnally from the dones of the gift, while in the latter case it is expressly stapidated for between the parties. The former bears the character of a gift throughout and does not partake of the character of a sale either in its inception or completion, while as regards the latter, it is a gift in its first stage, but it partakes of the character of a sale after procession has been taken by the dones of the thing given and by the dones of the way, so that the transaction, when completed, is exposed to shapf or pre-emption and either party may return the thing delivered to him for a defect. These two ordereds, namely, the tight of pre-emption, and the right to return a thing for a order, we doe of the medients of the contract of sale in the Mahomedan Iaw. As hibs-ba-shart-da-way is not common in India, it is useless to pursue the matter further. As to the medients of she in Mahomedan Iaw, the students is referred to Baille's Digest, 2nd ed., Introduction to the Chapter on Sale, pp. 775-783.

See ills. (a), (b) and (c) to s. 139, and notes,

143. Areast.—The grant of a license, resumable at the grantor's option, to take and enjoy the usufruct of a thing, is called Areast (z).

Hedaya, 178.

A hiba is a transfer of memership without consideration. A hiba-hi-lines is a transfer of omership for a consideration. An areal is not a transfer of occarethip, but a temporary linease to enjoy the profits so long as the grantor pleases. A hiba is revocable except in certain cases (8, 140). A hiba-hi-lines is not revocable in any case. An areast is revocable in very case.

144. Sadakah.—A Sadakah is a gift made with the object of acquiring religious merit. Like hiba, it is not valid unless accompanied by delivery of possession; nor is it valid if it (consists of an undivided share in property capable of division [s. 134]. But unlike hiba, a sadakah, once completed by delivery, is not revocable; nor is it invalid, because it is made to two or more persons jointly, provided the doness are poor persons [s. 135.]

Ballie, 534-55i; Hed., 480. The distinction between hibs and saddach lies in the object with which it is made. In the case of hibn, the object is to manifest affection towards the done, or to win his regard or esteem; in the case of saddach, the object is "to acquire merit in the sight of the Lord." A gift, it is said, may amount to a saddach, even if it be made to rich relations, provided the object is to acquire religious merit.

Ss. But it is doubtful whether the Courts would enter upon any inquiry as to the motive with which a gift is made. It is therefore best to describe a sadakah as a gift for a religious, prous or charitable purpose.

145. Marumakkattayam law.—Where a gift is made by a Mahomedan husband governed by the makattayam law to his wife who is governed by the marumakkattayam law and to her children, the property becomes the exclusive property of the donees with the incidents of tarwad property subject to marumakkattayam law, and on the death of the wife it does not pass to her heirs under the Mahomedan law (α) .

⁽a) Pattatherwatt v. Mannamkunnysi (1908) 31 Mad. 228.

S. 146

CHAPTER XII.

WAKES

146. Wakf as defined in the Wakf Act.-Wakf, as defined in the Wakf Validating Act, 1913, [s. 2, cl. (1)] means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mussalman law as religious, pious or charitable.

Walf as defined by Mahomoran parists. The term walf literally means detention. The legal meaning of wakt, according to Abu H anfa, is the detention of a specific thing in the ownership of the wakit or appropriator, and the devoting or appropriating of its profits or usufruct in charity or other good objects. According to the two disciples Abu Yusuf and Muhammad, walf signifies the extinction of the appropriator's ownership in the thing dedicated and the detention of the thing in the implied ownership of God. in such a manner that its profits may revert to or be applied for the benefit of mankind. Baillie, 557-558. See Hedaya, 231, 234.

Referring to the definition of "wakf" in the Wakf Act, the Judicial Committee observed in a recent case that it was a definition for the purposes of the Act, and not necessarily exhaustive (b).

"Any property." The above is the definition of "wakf" as given in the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act VI of 1913. It is clear from that definition that a wakf may be created of any property, whether it be movable or immovable. Before that Act, it was settled law that a wakf may be made of immovable property, but it was not settled whether a wakf may be made of movable property. According to the Calcutta, Bombay and Madras High Courts, a wakf cannot be made of movable property, unless the movable was accessory to immovable property, as, for instance, it was cattle attached to agricultural land, or unless the wakf of movables was allowed by custom (c). On the other hand, according to the Allahabad High Court, a wakf could be created of movable property, e.g., come or shares in a company (d). This distinction is still important, for the Wakf Act is not retrospective, in other words, it does not apply to wakfs created before the Act came into force, that is, 7th March 1913 (see s. 160 below).

Wakf of property subject to a mortgage or a lease.—A wakf may be made of property, though it may be subject to a mortgage (c) or a lease; Baillie, 563-564. See s. 123 above.

"Permanent dedication."-A Mahomedan conveys immovable property to trustees upon trust out of the income thereof to feed the poor for a period of five years, and to reconvey the property to him at the end of five years. This is not a valid wakf for the appropriation is not permanent, but for a limited period only: Baillie, 565.

v Mahomed (1909) 33 Mad. 118, 4 I.C. 136. Abu Sauyd v. Bakar Alı (1901) 24 All. 190 Shahazadı v. Khaja Hossain (1869) 12 W.R. 498; Janjıra v. Mahommad (1922) 49 Cal. 477, 483, 67 I.C. 77, ('22) A. C. 429.

 ⁽b) Ma Mi v. Kallander Ammal (1927) 54 1 A. 23, 27, 5 Rang. 7, 100 I C. 22, ('27) A. R.
 (c) Kulaum Bibee v. Goolam Hoosein (1905) 10 Cal. W. N. 449; Fatunaba v. Gulam Husen (1907) 9 Bom. L.R. 1337; Kadar Ibrahm

S. 146. Religious, pious or charitable purpose.—The following are instances of religious, pious or charitable objects:—

- (1) mosques and provision for imams to conduct worship therein (f).
- colleges and provision for professors to teach in colleges (g).
- aqueducts, bridges and caravenserais (h).
- (4) distribution of alms to poor persons, and assistance to enable poor persons to perform the pilgrimage to Mecca (1);
- (5) celebrating the birth of Ali Murtaza (j);
- (6) keeping tazias in the month of Muharram (j), and provision for camels and duldul for religious processions during Muharram (k);
- (7) repairs of imambaras (j);
- (8) celebrating the death aumvarsaries (barss) of the settler and of the members of his family (j);
- (9) performance of ceremonies known as kadam sharif (l);
- (10) burning lamps in a mosque (m);
- (11) reading the Koran in public places, and also at private houses (m);
- (12) performance of annual fulcha of the settlor and of members of his family (n). [The ceremony of fulcha consists in the rectal of prayers for the welfare of the souls of deceased persons, accompanied with distribution of alms to the poor];
- (13) expenses in connection with the family mausoleum, daily breakfasts during Ramzan (a).

The following objects have been held to be neither religious nor charitable :-

- (1) maintaining a private tomb, as distinguished from the tomb of a saint (p).
- (2) reading the Koran at tombs or graves (q);

(f) Baillie, 574.

[Mr. Ameer Ah is of opinion that both these objects are valid; see his Mahomedan Law, Vol. 1, p. 389.]

19 All. 211; Biba Jan v Kalb Husain (1909)

Where some objects are not legally recognized.—A wakt is not rendered wholly invaind merely because some of the objects of the endowment are not such as are regarded by the Mahomedan law as being proper objects of a wakt (r).

Whether the objects of walf must be certain.—According to the English law the objects of a trust, whether public or private, should be certain, otherwise the trust is void for uncertainty. The leading English case on public trusts is Marie v, The Bishop of

(A)	Hedaya, 240.		the report, Mazhar Husain v Abdul
(1)	Hedava, 240		(1911) 33 All 400, 9 I C. 753, Stan-
(1)	Biba Jan, v. Kalb Husain (1909) 31 All, 136,		lev, ('.J., dubitante , Mutu Ramanadan v.
	1 1 C 763 , Sayed Innaul v Hamedy		Yava Levras (1917), 44 I.A 21, 27, 40 Mad.
	Begum (1921) 6 Pat. L. J. 218, 235-236,		116, 122, 39 I C 235, See also Salebhai
	62 I C 455		v. Safiabu (1912) 36 Bom. 111, 12 I. C.
(L)	Syed Ali Zamin v. Syed Muhammad Akba.		702.
	Alt (1928) 7 Pat. 426, ('28) A.P.	(0)	Syed Ali Zamin v. Syed Muhammad Akbar
	441.	١ ٠ ′	Ali (1928) 7 Pat. 426, ('28) A. P.
(1)	Phul Chand v. Akbar Yar Khan (1896) 19		441.
	All. 211.	(p)	Kaletoola v. Nuseerudeen (1894) 18 Mad.
(m)	Mazhar Husein v. Abdul (1911) 33 All. 400,		201 ; Zooleka Bibi v. Syed Zynul Abedin
	9 I.C 753		(1904) 6 Bom. L.R. 1058.
(n)	Luchmeput Singh v. Amir Alum (1882) 9 Cal.	(9)	Kaleloola v. Nuseerudeen (1894) 18 Mad. 201.
	176; Phul Chand v Akbar Yar Khan (1896)	(r)	7 Pat. 426 458, ('28) A.P 441 supra.

WAKES 133

146-148

Durham (s). In that case it was held by Lord Eldon that a bequest for " such objects of benevolence or liberality as the executor should most approve of " was too vague to be enforced. It has similarly been held that a trust for "charitable or benevolent purposes "(t) or for "purposes charitable or philanthropic" (u), or for "such charitable or public purposes as my trustee thinks proper " (v), is void for uncertainty, Following this principle, it has been held by the Privy Council that a gift by a Hindu to dharam, an expression equivalent to "charitable religious or philanthropic purposes," is void for uncertainty (ie). In an old Bombay case the High Court expressed the opinion that a bequest by a Khoja Mahomedan to dharam is void for uncertainty (1). In a Punjab case it was held that a wakf for such charitable objects as the trustees should think proper and for such purpose as that 'he settler should obtain certain bliss therefrom, was void for uncertainty (y) Mr. Ameer Ah is of opinion that the principle of Morice v. The Bishop of Durham is not applicable to walfs (z). On the other hand, Sir Roland Wilson is of opinion that that principle does apply to wakfs (a). Mr Tyabji takes the same view as Mr. Ameer Ah (b) The point, however, should not present much difficulty since the passing of the Wakf Act. Wakf as defined in that Act is a dedication for " religious, pious or charitable" purposes recognised by the Mussalman law (see s. 161 below). Whatever purpose, therefore, is "religious, pious or charitable 'according to the Mahomedan law, can form the subject matter of a valid wakf. In a recent Allahabad case it was held that a dedication of a portion of a Mahomedan's property for the reading of fateka and for Umar-i-Khair (charitable purposes) including the maintenance of his poor relations and dependants, is not void for uncertainty (c). As to the expression "khvyrat," see the undermeationed case (d).

Personal grant.-A grant to a person and his heirs subject to the condition that the income should be used in perpetuity for an imambara is valid (e).

147. Persons capable of making wakfs.-Every Mahomedan of sound mind and not a minor may dedicate his property by way of wakf.

Baillie, 560. See as to majority notes to s. 101 above.

148. Form of wakf immaterial.—A wakf may be made either verbally or in writing. It is not necessary to constitute a wakf that the word " wakf" should be used in the grant (f).

(Note that the provisions of the Indian Trustees Act II of 1882 do not apply to wakfs, see s, 1 of the Act.)

A wakf may be created by an Indenture of Trust in the English form in which case the legal estate in the wakf property becomes vested in the trustees (q); or the founder of the wakf may simply appoint mutawallis to superintend and manage the wakf ^{(1804) 10} Ves. 522. In re Riland (1881) W. N. 173. In re Macduff (1896) 2 Ch. 463.

Blair v. Duncan [1902] A. C 37. Runchordas v. Parvalibai (1899) 23 Bom. 725, 26 1 A. 71 725, 26 1 A. 71
(g) Gangabhai v. Thewar (1863) 1 Bom H C.

Gangabhai V. Theor (1805) 1 200 L. 7. O. C. 71. Shahab-ud-Din V. Sohan Lai (1907) Punj. Rec. No. 75. See also Advorde-General V. Hermunj (1905) 20 Bom. 375. A. Hermunj (1905) 20 Bom. 375. Wilson, a. 322, pp. 344-345. Tyabji, p. 352, pp. 344-345.

⁽c) Mukarram v Anjuman-un-Nissa (1923) 45 All 152, 60 l.C 836, (24) A A. 223. (d) Advocate-tieneral v. Jimbobu (1917) 41 Bom. 181, 282-284, 31 l.C. 106 (e) Muhammad Raza v. Yadgar (1924) 51 l.A.

uhammad Raza v. Yadgar (1924) 51 I A. 192, 51 Cal. 446,80 J.C.645, ('24)A PC. 109. (f) Jewan Das v. Shah Koobeer-ood-Din (1840) 2 M. 1 A 390; Saliq-un-Nissa v Mati

² M. i A 300; Saliq-un-Nossa v Matis Ahmad (1903) 25 All, 418 [Shihal law]; Muhammad Hamid v. Muen Mahmud (1923) 50 1.A., 92, 104, 4 Lah. 15, 28, (*22) A.PC. 384, 77 I.C. 1009. Ram Charan v. Fatinn Begam (1915) 42 Cal. 933, 938, 27 I.C. 442.

S. 148_151 property in which case the property does not vest in the mutawallis (h). In the latter caseas much as in the former, the mutawallis are entitled to sue for possession of the wakf property in the hands of third parties (i). See s. 163A and notes thereto.

149. Wakf may be testamentary or inter vivos.-A wakf may be created by act inter vivos or by will [s. 150].

It was held at one time that a Shiah cannot create a wakf by will, but it has since been held by the Privy Council that a Shiah may create a wakf by will as well as by an act inter rires (1).

A wakf created by will is not invalid merely because it contains a clause providing that the wakf should not operate if any child should be born to the testator in his lifetime. The reason is that a testator has the power in law to revoke or modify his will at any time he likes, and he may therefore revoke a wakf created by will even without reserving any express power in that behalf (k).

150. Limits of power to dedicate property by way of wakf.-A Mahomedan may dedicate the whole or any part of his property by way of wakf. But a wakf made by will or during marz-ul-maut cannot take effect to a larger amount than the bequeathable third without the consent of the heirs. , Hed., 233; Baillie, 612. The same is the rule of Shiah law (1).

A testamentary wakf is but a bequest to charity, and it is therefore governed by the provisions of s. 104 above relating to wills.

- 151. Delivery of possession and registration.—(1) A wakf inter vivos is completed, according to Abu Yusuf, by a mere declaration of endowment by the owner. This view has been adopted by the High Courts of Calcutta (m), Rangoon (n), and Bombay (a). According to Muhammad, a wakf is not complete, unless, besides a declaration of wakf, a mutawalli (superintendent) is appointed by the owner and possession of the endowed property is delivered to him [Hed., 233; Baillie, 550]. This view has been adopted by the High Court of Allahabad (v).
- The founder of a wakf may constitute himself the first mutawalli (superintendent). The founder and the muta-

⁽h) Muhammad Rustam Ali v Mushtaq Husain (1920) 47 I A. 224, 42 All 609, 57 I C. (i) (1920) 47 1 V. 224, 42 All. 609, 57 T.C. 329,

^{(1) (1) (1)} suprat (3) Baqur Ali Khan v. Anjuman Ara Begam (1902) 25 Ali 236, 30 I A 94 (2) Muhumund Ashan v Umurdaraz (1906) 28 Ali 633; Abdul Kurim v Shofiabnissa

⁽I) Ah Husain v. Fazal (1914) 36 All 431, 23 T C 201

⁽m) Doc dem Jan Bibi v Abdulla Barber (1838) Fulton, 345, Janjira v. Mohammad

^{(1922) 49} Cal. 477, 485-488, 67 I C 77,

^{(1922) 49 (2), 477, 485-488, 67} I C 77, (485-488, 67 I C 77, (485-488, 67 I C 77, 485-488, 67 I C 78, 485-walli being the same person, no transfer of physical possession is necessary, whichever of the two views is upheld. But if the view of Muhammad is to prevail, as held by the Allahabad Court, the question arises whether there must be a mutation of the property into the name of the founder as mutawalli 1/2 as indicative of a transfer of possession. The High Court of Allahabad has held that it is not (r). This view, it is submitted, is incorrect. In a recent Privy Council case, where the question arose as to the validity of a Shiah wakf, their Lordships held that delivery of possession being necessary under the Shiah law, the wakf was invalid as there was no mutation of the property into the name of the founder as . Tmutawalli (s).

S. 151

(3) Where by a wakfnama the owner of an immovable property dedicates the property to God and constitutes himself the first mutawalli (superintendent), and reserves to himself the power of appointing mutawallis jointly with him or after his death, but the wakfnama does not purport to transfer the ownership to trustees as in the case of an English Indenture of Trust, the wakfnama does not require registration (t).

Intention .-- Where there is neither a declaration of walf nor delivery of possession, a mere intention to set apart property for charitable purposes is not sufficient to create a wakf, even though it may be followed by actual appropriation, as in the case of a definite sum of money, by applying the interest to the intended purpose (u).

If a wakf inter circs is created by a document, and establishes by its terms a religious or charitable trust, evidence is not admissible to show that the settler had no intention to give effect to the trusts, and that the trusts were not in fact given effect to (v). But such evidence is admissible if the walf is not created by a document (w), or, if it is created by a document, the language employed in the document is ambiguous (x).

Shigh law. -Under the Shigh law, a wakf inter vivos cannot be created by a mere declaration; there must also be delivery of possession [Baillie, Part 11, 212]. The possession given must be such as the case admits. Thus where the wakif is to be the first mutawalli, there must be a mutation of the property into his name as mutawalli, otherwise the wakf will be void (y).

⁽²⁾ Abold Pality V. Judobon (1911) 14. Born.
(a) Liu, 239, 300, 11 1 C. 988; Althomound
(b) Liu, 232, 300, 11 1 C. 988; Althomound
(c) Liu, 232, 227, 42 All, 600, 612, 57 Liu,
(c) Liu, 232, 227, 42 All, 600, 612, 57 Liu,
(d) Liu, 232, 227, 42 All, 600, 612, 57 Liu,
(d) Liu, 232, 233, 41 Liu, 233, 41 Liu,
(d) Liu, 233, 41 Liu, 234, 41 Liu,
(d) Liu, 234, 41 Liu, 41 Liu,
(e) Liu, 234, 42 Liu, 42 Liu,
(e) Liu, 234, 42 Liu, 42 Liu,
(e) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(e) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(e) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu, 234, 42 Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,
(f) Liu,

⁽u) Banubi v. Narsingrao (1907) 31 Bom 250, (r) Kulsom Bibee v. Golam Hossein (1905) 10 C. W. N. 449, 481 . Luchmiput v. Amir Alum (1882) 9 Cal. 170, 181.

⁽a) Salaq Rum v. Annad Khan (1906) All. W.N. 150; Zooleka Bibi v. Surd Zunul Abedun (1904) 6 Hom. I. R. 1058, 1067. (z) Kulsum Biber v. Italam Hossein (1905) 10 C. W. N. 449, 484.

- 152. Revocation of wakf .- (1) A testamentary wakf, 152-154 that is a wakf made by will, may be revoked by the owner at any time before his death (z) [s. 149].
 - A testamentary wakf, being no more than a bequest for religious or charitable purposes, may be revoked like any other bequest, see s. 109 above. A wakf-created beduring marz-ul-mant stands on the same footing (a): see s. 114 above.
 - Where at the time of creating a non-testamentary wakf, the wakif reserves to himself the power of revoking the wakf, the wakf is invalid.

Baillie, 565; Hedaya, 234; Fatmabai v. The Advocate-General of Bombay (1882) 6 Bom. 42, 51; Assochar v. Noorbur (1906) 8 Bom. L. R. 245, 250-251; Pathukutti v. Avathalakutti (1890) 13 Mad. 66, 73-74; Ashna Bibe v. Awaljadi (1917) 44 Cal. 698,

(3) But it is stated by Mr. Ameer Ali, on the authority of Radd-ul-Mukhtar, that the wakif can, in the case even of a non-testamentary wakf, reserve to himself, at the time of the dedication, the power to alter the beneficiaries of the trust either by adding to their number or excluding some, or to increase or reduce their interest in it | Ameer Ali, vol. I. 4th ed., p. 426, paragraph headed "Power to alter beneficiaries"]. In other respects a non-testamentary wakf once completed; cannot be altered or revoked.

Hedaya, 231-232; Bailhe, 558; Galum Hwssara v. Aji Ajum (1860) 4 Mad. H. C. 44; Hatatomniosa v. Afzal (1870) 2 N.-W. P. 420 [a Shinh case]. Molur Rahim v. Karagundas (1923) 50 1. A. 84, 90, 50 Cal. 329, 335, 71 I. C. 646, (23) A.-P.C. 44.

153. Wakf of mushaa.—A mushaa or an undivided share in property may, according to the more approved view, form the subject of a wakf, whether the property be capable of division or not.

Exception.—The wakf of a mushaa for a mosque or for a tomb is not valid.

Hed., 233; Baillie, 573. The approved opinion above referred to is that of Abu Yusuf. According to Muhammad, the wakf of a mushaa in property capable of partition is not valid, for he holds that delivery of possession by the endower to a mulaualli is a condition necessary to the validity of a wakf & see s. 151 above. See as to mushaw ss. 132-134 above.

- 154. Contingent wakf not valid .- It is essential to the validity of a wakf that the appropriation should not be made to depend on a contingency.
- A Mahomedan wife conveys her property to her husband upon trust to maintain herself and her children out of the income, and to hand over the property to the children on their attaining majority, and in the event of her death without leaving children, to devote the meome to certain religious uses. This is not a valid walf, for it is contangent on the death of the settlor without leaving issue; Pathkudii v. Auchlackskii (1888) 13 Mad. 66; Casamally v. Carrimbhoy (1911) 36 Bom. 214, 258, 12 I. C. 225.

⁽z) Muhammad Ahsan v. Umardaraz (1906) | 28 All, 633. (a) Sayed Abdula v. Sayad Zain (1889) 13 Bom. 555, 560.

137 WAKES.

Baillie, 564. The same is the rule of Shiah law : Baillie, Part 11, 218 ; Sye la Bibi v. Mughal Jan (b).

154, 155

As to an alternative bequest to charity, see s, 108A above.

155. Reservation of life-interest to settlor.-Where the settlor is a Hanafi Mahomedan, he may reserve a life-interest to himself in the income of the wakf property or in a portion of the income. He may provide for his maintenance during his lifetime or for the payment of his debts out of the income. See the cases cited in the illustrations and Wakf Act, sec. (3), cl. (b).

(a) A Hanafi Mahomedan female conveys her house to her husband upon trust to pay the income of the house to her during her lit; and from and after her death to devote the whole of it to certain charitable purposes. This is a valid walf, though the charitable trust is not to come noto effect until after the founder's death : Hedaya, 237; Doe dem Jan Beebee v. Abdoolah (1838) Fulton's Rep. 345; Fatmabibi v. Advocate-General of Bombay (1881) 6 Bom. 42, 51-52; Cassamally v. So. Currembhoy (1912) 36 Bom, 214, 12 I. C. 225 , Muhammad Zain v. Nui-ul-Hasan (1923) 45 All. 682, 74 I. C. 142; Ma E Khin v. Manng Sen (1924) 2 Rang. 495, 88 I. C. 167, ('25) A. R. 71

(b) A Hangfi Mahomedan executes a deed of wakf by which he directs that the income of the property dedicated should in the first instance be applied for the payment of his debts, and after the debts are paid, towards certain religious and charitable purposes. This is a valid wakf, though the charitable trust is not to come into operation until after all the debts have been paid: Luchmiput v. Amir Alum (1882) 9 Cal. 176; Janjira v. Mohammad (1922) 49 Cal. 477, 483, 67 J. C. 77, ('22) A. C. 429 [a. case under the Wakt Act). Such a wakf is not valid under the Shiah law: see below " Shiah law."]

Wakf Act.—The present section is substantially a reproduction of s. 3, cl. (b) of the Wakf Act. That section applies to Hanafi Sunnis only. It does not apply to Sunnis of other sects, nor does it apply to Shiahs.

Provision for settler's residence.-It would seem that a provision for the residence of the settlor during his lifetime in the endowed property is not invalid (c).

Shiah law. -According to the Hanan law, the settlor may reserve the usufruct of the endowed property to himself for his life. According to the Shiah law a wakf is not valid unless the settlor divests himself of the property from the date of the creation of the wakf (d). Hence a settler cannot, according to that law, reserve to himself a life-interest in the income or any portion thereof [Baillie, Part II, 218-219]. It has been held by the High Court of Allahabad that if the settlor reserves the whole income to himself, the wakf is wholly void; but if he reserves a portion of the income, e.g., one-third, the wakf is void as to one-third only of the corpus, but valid as to the remaining two-thirds (c). In a recent case their Lordships of the Privy Council expressed ⁽b) (1902) 24 All. 231. The actual devision in this case cannot be supported since the Prhys Council ruling in Bonger Add. In the Prhys Council ruling in Bonger Add. Soc. 30 I. A. 94.

 (c) 30 I. A. 94.
 (d) 8ce Mulamand Mafty v. Mulammad Abdul (1927) 49 All. 391, at p. 395, 99 I. C. 1032, (227) A. A. 253.

⁽d) Alt Raza v. Sanwal Das (1919) 41 All 34. 48 1. C. 212.

⁽⁶⁾ Haji Kalub v. Mehrum Bibee (1872) 4 N. W. P. 155; Hamid Als v. Mujawar Husain (1902) 24 All. 257

155_158A

a strong opinion that even if the settlor reserved a life-interest to himself in a portion of the income, the wakf was wholly void (f). But a wakf can validly provide that the wakif while holding the office of mutawalli shall enjoy the salary which the deed properly assigns for the mutawallis generally (g). Though a wakif under the Shiah law cannot reserve any life-interest to himself, he may create a life-interest in favour of another person, e a., his wife (h.)

Again, according to the Shigh law, a wakf is not valid, if it provides for the payment of the settlor's debts.) The reason is that according to that law the settlor should divest himself of all interest in the endowed property, and reserve nothing for himself either directly or indirectly (i): Baillie, Part II, 218-219.

- 156. Wakf by immemorial user.—When land has been used for time immemorial for a religious purpose, e.g., for the purpose of a burial ground, then the land is by user wakf. though there may be no evidence to show when or how it was originally set apart for that purpose (i).
- 157. Wakf property cannot be alienated or attached.-When property is dedicated by way of wakf, the ownership is deemed to be transferred from the dedicator to the Almighty, and all proprietary rights of men are thenceforth extinguished in the property (k). The property therefore cannot alienated (1) except in the cases mentioned in secs. 168 and 169, nor can it be attached in execution of a personal decree against the mutawalli (m), nor can it pass to the heirs of the dedicator on his death.

Hed., 231, 232; Bailhe, 558-560; Mutu Ramanandan v. Yara Levvai (n); Kutayan v. Mammanna (o).

158. Doctrine of cypres.—Where a clear charitable intention is expressed in the instrument of wakf, it will not be permitted to fail because the objects, if specified, happen to fail, but the income will be applied for the benefit of the poor or to objects as near as possible to the objects which failed (v).

Shut law .- The same is the rule of Shut law : Bailte, Part 11, 216.

158A. Suit for declaration that property is wakf.-A suit for a declaration that property belongs to a wakf can be

⁽f) Abads Requis v. Kanız Zamab (1927) 64 1. A. 33, 6 Pat. 259, 90 1 U. 669, (27) (9) 54 1. A. 33, 60 I. C 1052, (27) A. PC. 2, sepra (b) Muhammad Ahsan v. Umanlurz (1906) 28 All 633, (t) Hayad Ali v. Mujarar (1002) 21 All. 257, ⁽j) Court of Wards v. Hahi Baksh (1912) 40 Cal. (1) Sey Jewan Doss Sahu v. Shah Kubeeruddin.

^{(1410) 2} M 1 A 300
(1800) 4 Sharmar V. Hannife ad-elin (1910) Iah.
J. 55
(am) Shah Mohrmand V. Mohammad (1927)
3 Mohrmand Jennid V. Mohammad (1927)
43 All 508, 62 J. C. 994.
(a) (1917) 44 J A. 21, 40 Man, 11, 20 J C. 285.
(b) (1917) 44 J A. 21, 40 Man, 11, 20 J C. 285.
(c) (V. W. N. 440, 494-485; Shirbhair V. Bat Sefdon (1912) 86 Bonn. 11, 12 J. C. 7029.

WAKES. 139

maintained by Mahomedans interested in the wakf without the sanction of the Advocate-General. The provisions of sec. 92 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, do not apply to such a suit. That section applies only to suits claiming any of the reliefs specified in it (q).

Family Settlements by way of Wakf.

History of the Wakf Act.—In order to understand what follows, wakfs may be divided into two classes, riz., (1) public and (2) parvate. A public wakf is one for a public religious or cliaritable object. A private wakf is one for the benefit of the sattlors, family and his descendants, it is really a wakf in favour of nuborn descendants, and is technically called neaf-fadiciavida. In .vs. earlier cases it was laid down that "to constitute a valid wakf there must be a deducation of property salely to the worship of Gol or to religious on to chartable ourspesse" (i), no their words that a private wakf could not be recognised by a Coact of faw. But this extreme view was rejected (s), and private wakfs came to be recognised wheet to certain limitations. The question is to what extent they were recognised before the Misselman Wakf Validating Act VI of 1913, and to what extent they are recognised under that Act. We proceed to answer this question, divident the private wakfs into two classes:—

- 1. Walf in favour of the settlor's descendants, including inhorn persons, without any treat for the poor or for other religious or charabile purposes, as where a Mahometan settles properly for the benefit of his descendants without declaring that in the event of the extinction of the family, the meome shall be applied for the benefit of the poor of or other charatable object. Such a trust was invalid before the Walf Act (t). It would also be invalid under the Walf Act: see the proviso to s. 3 of the Walf Act reproduced in sec. 161 below.
- 11. Walf is fluour of the selflor's descendants, including values persons, containing also a trust for the poor or for other religious or charatible objects. According to the Privy Council decisions prior to the Walf Act, such a walf is valid, if "there is a substantial dedication of the property to charitable uses at some period of time or other" (a). But if the primary object of the walf be the aggrandiscient of the family, and the gift to charity is illusory whether from its small amount or from its uncertainty and remoteness, the walf in favour of the lamily is invalid and no effect can be given to it. 'It was so held by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in the year 1804 in Adult Pata Mahomed v. Raumagu (v). Under the Walf Act, such a walk would be perfectly valid, whether the gift to charity was substantial or illusory. See ss. 3 and 4 of the Walf Act reproduced in sec. 161 below

In Abdul Fata Mahomed's case referred to above, the income of the wakf property was to be applied in the first instance for the benefit of the settlor's descendants from generation to generation, and the trust in favour of charity was not to come into operation until after the extinction of the whole line of the settlor's descendants. Their ⁽q) Abdul Rahim v. Mahomed Barkat Alı (1928) 55 I. A. 98, 55 Cal. 519.

⁽r) Abdul Ganee v. Hussen Maya (1872) 10 Bom. H. C. 7; Mahomed Hamidulla v. Lotful Huq (1881) 6 Cal. 744.

⁽a) Luchmiput v. Amir Alum (1882) 9 Cal. 176; Mahomed Ahenulla v. Amerchand Kundu (1889) 17 Cal. 498, 509, 17 I. A. 28.

⁽t) Abdul Ganee v. Hussen Miya (1873) 10 Bom. H.C. 7; Nizammuddin v. Abdul Gafur(1888) 13 Bom. 264, affirmed by the Privy Council on appeal sub-nomino Abdul Gafur v. Nizammuddin (1892) 17 Bom. 1, 19 I. A.

¹³ Bom. 204, annihed by the Privy Council on appeal sub-nomine. Adul Cafur v. Azammuddin (1892) 17 Bom. 1, 10 I. A. 170. (u) Mahomed Ahaamulla v. Amarchand Kundu (1899) 17 (2a. 1, 498, 509, 17 I. A. 28, (c) (1894) 22 Cal. 619, 634, 22 I. A. 76.

Sa. Lordships of the Privy Council held that the gift to charity was illusory, and that the 158A, 159 sole object of the settler's was to create a family settlement in perpetuity, and that the provision for the settler's family was therefore invalid. In the course of the judgment their Lordships said:--

"As regards precepts, which are held up as the fundamental principles of Mahomedan law [see see, 24], their Lordships are not forgetting how far law and religion are mixed up together in the Mahomedan communities; but they asked during the argument how it comes about that by the general law of Jalam, at least as known in India, simple grits[high] by a private person to remote unborn generations of descendants, succession that is of indicable life-interests are forbidden; and whether it is to be taken that the very same dispositions, which are illegal when made by ordinary words of gitt, become legal if only the settlor says that they are made as realf in the name of God, or for the sake of the poor. To those questions no answer was given or attempted, nor can their Lordships see any."

The decision of the Privy Council in Abul Fata Mahamet's case caused considerable dissatisfaction among the Mahamedian community in India. There is no doubt, we fire as the Fataura Alamguri [Baillee, p. 576 et seq.] goes, that a family settlement with an ultimate gift to the poor, is valid as a wald. Such a settlement may be in Tavour of inhorn persons: it may create successive [Jerniteris in Havour of such persons; it may be "a per petulg) of the worst and most pernicious kind," but all this, so the community argued, was allowed by their own law. The Government of India was thereupon put into motion, with the result that an Act was passed in 1913, called the Mussalman Awakf Validating Act, the object being to remove the disability created by that decision. But the Act, it has been held, is not retrospective, and it is therefore necessary to state what the law was before the passing of the Act.

159. Law relating to private wakfs before the Mussulman Wakf Validating Act.-To constitute a valid wakf, it was not necessary, even before the Wakf Validating Act, 1913, that the tendowment should be solely for religious, pious or charitable uses (w). A valid wakf could be created even before that Act in favour of the settlor's descendants including unborn persons (x), provided that there was a substantial dedication to charity [ills. (a) and (e)]. But if the real object was to make a family settlement - which would otherwise be invalid under the Mahomedan law of cession, the wakf would be invalid. This so where the gift to charity is illusory, [ill. (e)] or is too remote [ill. (d)]. The test of the validity of a wakfnama executed before the Act is whether it constitutes a substantial v dedication of the properties to charity, not whether there is a gift to charity to a substantial amount (y). In construing the wakfnama regard should be had to the effect rather than the language of the wakfnama (2).

WAKFS. 141

S. 159

Under the Waki Act a Mahomedan may settle the whole muome of the endowed property for the maintenance and support of himself and his descendants from generation to generation, provided that there is an ultimate gift to charity [a. 161]. Prior to the Act, such a well was invalid as being illusory. See the cases cited in the illustrations below,

- Note. In the following illustrations the expression "old law" means the law between the Walf Act. Every walf of the kind now under consideration which was held to be valid under the old law would also be valid under the Walf Act.
- [(a) A Mahomedan conveys certain property to a mutawalli, I B., with a direction to defray out of the profitz of the endowed banks, the expenses of a mosque, to give alms to mendicants, to clineate poor students, 11d to utilize the surplus for the marriages, burnals, and circumverson of the wembers of I B's family. Here there is a substantial dedication to charity. The gaint to charit is non too-remotes at its in Ill. (d), for it is not postponed until the extinction of the whole line of the descendants of A. B. The wakt is therefore valid: Muchamod Hing v Pulmaj (1870) 13 W. R. 235; Decks Prusad v. Inant I Illah (1892) 14 All. 375.

Note.—In Muchanol Hing's case, Komp, J., said: "We are of opinion that the merecharge upon the profits of the estate of certain items which must in the course of time necessarily cease, being confined to one fundly, and which after they lapse will lowe the whole property intact for the original purposes for which the endowment was made, does not reader the endowment invalid under the Mahomedan law." This was approved by the Pray Council in the case creted in III. (c) below.

- (b) A executes a document purporting to settle as "wakf" immovable properties on his wife, daughter and descendants of the daughter. The deed does not contain any provision for the application of the income in the event of the family becoming extinct. This is not a valid wakf under the old law, as there is no git to charity: Abdul Gafur v. Nizamandia (1888) 13 Som. 264, affirmed on appeal by the Privy Council, sub nomine. Nizamaddii v. Abdul Gafur (1892) 17 Bom. 1, 19 LA. 170; Abdul timee v. Hussen Miya (1873) 10 Bom. H.G. 7. It would not be a valid wakf even under the Wakf Act: see notes to s. 160 under the hand, "The ultimate benefit for the poor should be reserved expressly or implicitly."
- (c) A Mahomedan executes a document purporting to be a sulfiguran which begins with a deducation of his entire properties for certain religious purposes, namely, for defraying the expenses of a mosque and two schools, and for sulfir wird. The deducation is qualified by the worlds "in the manner provided by the following paragraphs," and these paragraphs contain provisions for the appointment of the settlors sons and descendants as mutawallis and for their salary, and for the maintenance and support of his family and descendants from generation to generation. The only provision for religious, purposes is that the mutawallis should continue to perform them according to existon, and this requires a revy small expendature compared to the income. The effect, of the deed as a whole is that, while it professes to deducate as wald properties bringing in an annual income of about Rs. 12,000, it leaves it to the members of the family, who are as mutawallis to retain the control and management, to spend a small amount for religious purposes, and to take as much as they like for themselves and the members of the family for all time on account of salary as maintenance. This is not a valid wakf under the old law, for the main purpose of the settlement is the apprantisement of the settlor's family, and the gift to charity is illusory. Mahomed Ahsanulla v. Amarchand Khamla (1889) 17 Cal. 498, 17 I. A. 28: Mijib-un-nissa v. Abdur Rahim (1900) 23 All. 233, 28 I. A. 15 [where the income to be devoted to charity was left entirely to the mutawalli for the time being]; Muhammad Munnaev. Nazus Bibl (1903) 27 All.

S. 159

320, 32 I. A. 86; Frairr Rahm v. Mahomed Oberlul (1903) 30 Cal. 666; Ballamd v. Ata
Ullah Khni (1927) 64 I. A. 379, D Lah. 230, 133 I. C. 618, C. 27 A. PC. 191 [annual income
Rs. 1,558—Rs. 146 per annum to be applied to charity and the rest to go to settlor's descendants—wakf held to be invalid]; Rukeya Banus v. Najura Banu (1928) 55 Cal. 448, 105 I. C. 647, C28) A. C. 130, Cannual income Rs. 1,000—Rs. 436 per year to be applied to charity and the rest to go to settlor's descendants—wakf held to be invalid]. [All these would be valid wakfa under the Wakf Act).

Note. In Mahomed Absumilla's case their Lordshaps of the Privy Council observed: "If indeed it were shown that the eastemagn uses were of such magnitude as to exhaust the meane or to absorb the bulk of it, such a circumstance would have its weight in ascertaming the intention of the grantor." Accordingly, where a Mahomedan desheated certain property, of which the average annual monome was Rs. 850, to the performance of futchs and kedam shard recremones, and it was found that according to the custom prevailing in the country the amount required for the ceremones was Rs. 500 per annum, it was held by the High Court of Allahabad that the dedication to religious purposes was substantal and that the wakf was therefore valid: Phil Chand v. Akbar Yar Khau (1860) 19 Ml. 211.

(4) Two Mahomedan brothers execute a deed purporting to make a wald of all their minovable properties for the beneit of their children and their descendants from generation to generation, and, on total fadure of all their descendants, for the beneit of widows, orphane, leggars and the poor. The provision for the estitor's children and their descendants is void according to the old law, for the gift to the poor is loo remote, and it is not to take effect until the total extinction of all the descendants of the settlor Adult I feat Mahomed v. Ramamagu (1894) 22 (Au. 619, 22 L. A. 76. [This is expressly declared to be a good wakf under the Wakf Act: see s. 4 of the Act reproduced in see, 161 below.

In the above case their Lordships of the Pray Council said: "If a man were to settle a crore of rupees, and provide ten for the yoor, that would be at once recognised as illusory. It is equally illusory to make a provision for the poor under which they are not entitled to receive a rupee till after the total extinction of a family: possibly not for hundreds of years; possibly not until the property had vanished away under the wasting agencies of litigation or malfeasance or misfortune; certainly not as long as there exists on the earth one of those objects whom the donors really cared to maintain in a high position. Their Lordships agree that the poor have been put into this sottlement incredy to give it a colour of putly, and so to legalize arrangements meant to severe for the aggrandeement of a finally."

(c) Two Mahomedan brothers execute a deed whereby they settle lands of the value of Rs. 20,000 in trust to apply an indeterminate portuon of the income for the due performance of customary fatcha for ancestors and to alms giving and to apply the residue of the income in perpetuity for the benefit of the settler's sons and their descendants without power of alienation. The amount required for fatches and alms giving is estimated by the Court at Rs. 500 per annum. The total income of the trust estate is estimated at Rs. 1,500, tearing a balance of Rs. 900 for the benefit of the settler's descendants.

S. 159

It was held by their Lordships of the Privy Council that though only two-fifths of the income would be devoted to the charity, and three-fifths would go to the family, the effect of the deed was to give the property in substance to charitable uses, and that the deed was therefore valid. Their Lordships said : "But these figures may vary. They are not fixed and unalterable. The meome may fluctuate or decrease permanently, and the needs of the charity may expand even. The paramount purpose of the grantors was evidently to provide for all the needs of those charities up to the limit of the trust funds, the meome received from the land. Those needs are the first burden upon that income. It is the residue, which may be a dwindling sum, that is given to the family. The contention that, because the share of the income going to the family is at present larger than that going to the charities, the effect of the deed is not to give the property in substance to the family, and that therefore it is invalid as a deed of wakf, is, their Lordships think, entirely ansourd": Matr Ramanantan v. Yara Lerrai (1917) 44 I. A. 21, 40 Mad. 116, 39 I C. 235.]

Failure of family trasts ats effect spon subsequent trasts for chardy. Suppose that the gift to charge is too remote as in ill. (d), and the trusts in favour of the settlor's family are thereupon declared to be rayalid, does the failure of the family trusts involve the failure of the subsequent gift to charity so as to entitle the settler or his heirs to recover back the settled properties from the mutawalli? In Fatma Bibi v. The Advocate-General (a), the High Court of Bombay held that even if the trusts in favour of the family were not enforceable, the subsequent trust for charity did not fail with them, but that it was accelerated and took effect immediately, and the settlor was not therefore entitled to get back the properties. That case was decided 13 years before the decision of the Privy Council referred to in ill. (d) above, and the Court was inclined to the view that the trusts for the settler's family were valid. Since the Privy Council decision, however, it could well be said of the settlement that was before the Bombay High Court that "the poor had been put into the settlement merely to give it a colour of piety." and if the trusts in favour of the tamily are youd on that ground, there is no reason why the gift for the poor, which is merely colourable, should be enforced by the Court. The question now under consideration did not arise in any of the cases before the Privy Council, but in two of them the decree of the High Court, which was affirmed by the Privy Council, proceeded on the assumption that the walf was wholly invalid and that the settler's heirs were entitled to immediate possession of the endowed properties from the mutawalli (b). In a recent case also before the Privy Council, where there was no substantial dedication to charity, the wakf was held to be invalid, no question was raised whether the gift to charity was good whether or it came into operation immediately (b2).

Failure of family trusts its effect upon concurrent trusts for charity. Suppose that there is a concurrent gift to charity; suppose further that it is illusory and that the trusts in favour of the family are declared to be invalid. Should effect be given to the concurrent gift to charity? This question has been answered in the affirmative, but there is a differonce of opinion as to the extent to which effect should be given to it as will appear from the following illustration :---

A Mahomedan executes a deed purporting to be a walfaama providing for that payment of Rs. 75 per annum out of the income of the property to the poor, and Rs. 400 per annum to his children and their descendants "from generation to generation." Here

⁽a) (1881) 6 Bom 42. (b) Mahomed Ahsanulla v.

Schomed Ahsanulla v. Amarchand Kundu (1889) 17 Cal. 398, 17 1. A. 28 [where it was held that the wakf being void, a creditor of one of the heirs was entitled to attach his share in the endowed property]; Mu-hammad Munavar v. Razu Bibi (1905)

²⁷ All. 320, 32 I. A. 86 [decree for the share of the endowed property, the wakf being void]. (62) (1927) 54 I. A 372, 9, Lah. 203, 103 I.C. 518, ('27) A. PC. 191.

Ss. 159, 160

the gift to charity is illusory by reason of its smallness. The family trusts, therefore, fail, but the gift to charity is valid, according to the Calcutta (c) and Bombay (d) High Courts, to the extent of Rs. 75 per annum; according to the Madras High Court, it is valid to the extent of the cutive income (Rs. 400) of the property (e). The Madras decision, it is submitted, is a result of the misapplication of the Mahomedan doctrine of cupres (f) | sec s. 158].

Family arrangement based on an invalid wakf .- A executes a deed of wakf. After A's death some of his heirs bring a suit against the mutawalli and other heirs to set aside the wakf on the ground that the gift to charity is illusory. The suit is compromised and an agreement is made whereby the members of the family agree that the wakf is valid and that allowances fixed thereunder should be paid out of the income to named members of the family and upon the death of any of the named persons to his heirs. The agreement being for consideration, it is enforceable as constituting a valid charge upon the property, although the wakf is invalid (g).

Limitation. As to the period of limitation for a suit to recover possession of endowed property on the ground that the wakf is void, see the undermentioned cases (h).

160. Law relating to private wakfs under the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act 1913, is not retrospective (i), that is to say, it does not apply to wakfs created before the date on which it came into force [7th March 1913]. By the said Act it is provided in effect as follows :-

(1) It is competent to a Mahomedan to create a wakf for the maintenance, and support wholly or partially of his family, children, or 'descendants, including unborn persons, and, where the person creating a wakf is a Hanafi Mussalman, also for his own maintenance and support during his lifetime or for the purposent of his deaths out of the rents and profits of the property dedicated, provided that the ultimate benefit is in such a case "expressly or impliedly" reserved for the poor or for any other purpose recognized by the Mahomedan law as a religious, pious or charitable purpose of a permanent character.

(c) Bikani Miya v. Shuk Lal (1892) 20 Cal 116, 204, 225, following Mahomed Absamulla v Amarchand Kundu (1889) 17 Cal, 498, 511.

(d) Mahomed v. Mahomed (1903) 5 Bom. L. R. 624, Abdul Rajak v. Jimbabar (1911) 14 Bom. L. R. 295, 302, 14 I. C. 988, following

17 Cal 498, supra (r) Ramanadhan v Vada (1910) 34 Mad. 12, 18-20, 6 1 C 1, s. c. on app to P. C. (1917) 44 1 A 21, 40 Mad 116, 93 1 C, 235.

(f) See Mathar Hustin v. Abdul (1011) 33 All. 400, 405-406, 413, 9 1, C. 753. (g) Rhugh Noleman v. Narab Sir Salimullah (1922) 10 1 4 153, 40 (a) 820, 69 1, C. 138 (22) A. PC, 107. (h) Mahamed Ibrahm v. Abdul Latif (1912) 37 Botth. 447, 460-463, 17 1, C. 889, Muhamad Munavar v. Razia Bibi (1905) 27 All 320. 324, 32 I. A. 86, in appeal from 21 All. 320; Abdul Ganee v. Hussen Maya (1873)10 Bom, H (7, 15-16.

hiyeh Solehman v. Nawab Sir Salimullah (1922) 49 I. A. 153, 40 Cal. 820, 69 I. C. 138 (22) A PC. 107 . Balla Mal V. Ata Ullah Khan (1927) 54 I. A. 372, 9 Lah, 203, 103 Kham (1927) 54 i. A. 372, 0 lash, 203, 103 1, C 518, (277, 3) P. C 191; Amer Bub. v. Azzabida (1914) 39 Bonn, 563, 29 I.O. (1914) 19 Cat., N. N. 76, 70, 27 I. C, 196; Mahamed Buksh v. Berna Aymer (1916) 38 Cat., 158, 32 I.C., 701, Africa Rema-sion, 1918, 2018, 2018, 2018, 2018, 2018, 2018, 224, 40 Mad, 116, 121, 80 I. C, 255; Wattowell, Ing. v. Muhamad (1919) 44 II. 1, 81 I. v. 94; Rubya, Banu v. Nayrer Banu (1928) 55 Cat., 448, 101 I.C., 647 (28) A. C, 180 WAKES. 145

S. 160

(2) No such wakf is to be deemed to be invalid merely because the ultimate benefit for the poor or for such purposes as aforesaid is postponed until after the extinction of the family children or descendants of the person creating the wakf [Wakf Act, ss. 3-4].

See the illustrations to s. 159 above.

As under the Privy Council decisions, so under the Wakf Act, it is absolutely necessary to the validity of a walf that there should be an ultimate dedication of the whole property to charity. But while according to the Privy Council decisions, a wakf is not valid unless the concurrent gift to charity was substantial, a wakf created after the passing of the Wakf Act is valid even if there be no concurrent wift to charity at all. The result is that a Mahomedan may now create a wakf for the benefit of his descendants in perpetuity, and may not give any portion of the income to charity so long as any of his descendants is in existence, provided there is an ultimate gift to charity. This is in accordance with the view of Mahomedan law as taken by West, J., in Fatma Bdu v. The Advocate-General (i) by Farran, J., in Amendal v. Shark Hussain (k), and by Ameer Ah, J., in Bikani Miya v. Shuk Lal (1). In the former case, West, J., said :

"If the condition of an ultimate dedication to a pious and unfailing purpose be satisfied, a wakf is not made invalid by an intermediate settlement on the founder's children and their descendants. The benefit these successively take may constitute a perpetuity in the sense of the English law; but according to the Mahomedan law, that does not vitiate the settlement, provided the ultimate charitable object is clearly designated."

It need hardly be stated that the view taken by West, J., Farran, J., and Ameer Ali J., was disapproved by the Privy Council in Abdul Fata Mahomed v. Rasamaya (m), See ill. (d) to s. 159.

The ultimate benefit for the poor should be reserved expressly or impliedly. -- According to Vbu Hanifa and Muhammad, it is necessary for a wakf to be complete that the ultimate benefit for the poor should be expressly reserved. According, however, to Abu Yusuf, such benefit may be reserved unpliedly, and this can be done by the mere use of the word "wakf". Thus according to Abu Yusuf, if a person simply says "I give this land by way of wakf to Zeyd," the wakf is complete, and Zeyd has the usufruct for his life, and after his death, the income will go to the poor, though the poor are not expressly mentioned (n). The Fatawa Alumgiri declares a preference for the opinion of Abu Yusuf (a). In the first case cited in ill. (b) to s. 159, the High Court of Bombay held that the opinion of Abu Hanifa and Muhammad was to be preferred to that of Abu Yusuf. and it accordingly held that there being no express provision for the ultimate gift to charity, the deed was not valid as a wakf. This decision was upheld by the Privy Council on appeal (p). Is it intended by the word "impliedly", which occurs in s. 3 of the Wakf Act, to give effect to the opinion of Abu Yusuf? If so, the wakf in the Bombay case above referred to [ill. (b) to s. 159] would be a valid walf under the Walf Act. In a recent Rangoon case it was held that a more declaration of wakf without specifying the objects of the trust is valid, the presumption being that the property was dedicated for religious and charitable purposes (q).

⁽j) (1881) 6 Bom 42, 53. (k) (1887) 11 Bom. 493.

^{(1893) 20} Cal. 116, 132-177. (1894) 22 Cal 619, 22 I. A. 76. Heda) a, p. 234.

Baillie's Digest, p. 558. Abdul Gafur v. Nizamuddin (1892) 17 Bom. 1, ^{19 1} A. 170. (q) Ma E Khin v. Maung Sein (1924) 2 Rang. 495, 511, 88 J. C. 167, ('25) A. R. 71.

S 161 Text of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913.— The following is the text of the Wakf Act 6 of 1913, which came into force on 7th March 1913 :-

An Act to declare the rights of Mussalmans to make settlement of property by way of "wakf" in favour of their families, children and descendants.

Whereas doubts have arisen regarding the validity of wakfs created by persons professing the Mussalman faith in favour of themselves, their families, children and descendants and ultimately for the benefit of the poor or for other religious, pious or charitable purposes; and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:

Short title and (1) This Act (r) may be called the Mussalmans Wakf Validating Act, 1913.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

2. In this Act unless there is anything repugnant in the subject Definitions. or context.

- (1) "Walf" means the permanent dedication (s) by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognised by the Mussalman law as religious, pious or charitable (t).
- (2) " Hanati Mussalman" means a follower of the Mussalman faith who conforms to the tenets and doctrines of the Hanafi school of Mussalman law.
- 3. It shall be lawful for any person-professing the Mussalman faith to ereate a wakf which in all other respects is in accordance with the Power of Mussalmans to create certain provisions of Mussalman law (u), for the following among other Wakis. purposes: -
 - (a) for the maintenance and support wholly or partially of his family, children or descendants, and
 - (b) where the person creating a walf is a Hanafi Mussalman, also for his own maintenance and support during his lifetime or for the payment of his debts out of the rents and profits of the property dedicated (v).

Provided that the ultimate benefits is in such cases expressly or impliedly (w) reserved for the poor or for any other purpose recognised by the Mussalman law as a religious, pious or charitable purpose of a permanent character (x).

4. No such wakf shall be deemed to be invalid merely because the benefit reserved therein for the poor or other religious, pious or charitable purpose Wakis not to be in-valid by reason of of a permanent nature is postponed until after the extinction remoteness of beneof the family, children or descendants of the person creating the fit to poor, etc.

```
wakf (y).
(r) The Act is not retrospective: (1914) 39 Bom.
563, 26 I C, 906, (1914) 19 Cal. W N 76,
79, 27 I.C, 96.
```

⁽a) According to the Privy Council decisions in 17 Cal 498 and 22 Cal, 619, the dedication to charity should be substantial. It need not be so under the Act See ss. 159 and 160, and the notes thereto. (t) See s 146.

⁽u) See ss. 146 to 151,

⁽v) This is not a new provision. It is in accordance with the law as settled before the Act. It is inserted here to give a completeness to the matter dealt with in the sections, See s. 155 and the notes thereto.

see s. 155 and the notes thereto.

(re) See notes to s. 160.

(2) The state of the

147 WAKES.

5. Nothing in this Act shall affect any custom or usage whether local or prevalent among Mussalmans of any particular class or sect. 161-163B

- 162. Succession per stirpes.—In the case of a wakf in favour of descendants as contemplated by s. 3 of the Wakf Act, the succession is per stirpes, and not per capita, contrary to the general rule of the Hanafi law of inheritance (z).
- 163. Sons and daughters take equal shares.—In the case of such a wakf as is referred to in sec. 162, males and females take equal shares, unless it is otherwise expressly provided (a).
 - As to descendants in the femals line see the undermentioned cases (b)
- J 163A. Family settlements: Shiah law.—It has been held by the High Court of Allahabad that a valid wakf may be created in favour of the settlor's descendants, including unborn persons, provided that there is a substantial dedication of the 1 properties to charity (c).

According to the Shiah texts, a wakf, though exclusively for the benefit of the settlor's descendants including unborn persons, is valid. There need not be any ultimate dedication to a religious or charitable purpose of a permanent character, and where there is none such, the settled property would revert to the heirs of the settler upon the extinction of the whole line of beneficiaries: Baillie, Part 11, 218. In the Allahabad case referred to above, no Shiah authority was cited, and the Court seems to have assumed that the principle laid down by the Privy Council decisions as to the Hanafi law of walds applied also to the Shigh law of wakfs.

Of Mutawallis or Managers of Wakf property.

163B. Mutawalli.—A mutawalli is a superintendent or manager of wakf property. If appointed by an indenture of trust in the English form, the wakf property vests in him as a trustee. If appointed orally or by an informal writing called wakfnama, he is more like a receiver appointed over property than a trustee and he has no estate in the property which he is appointed to manage; he possesses powers over it but not an interest in it (d).

A by a wakfnama appoints himself the first mutawalls of an immovable property dedicated by him to charity, and appoints B and C to succeed him as mutawallis. After A's death, his heirs take possession of the property, and refuse to deliver possession of ⁽²⁾ Macnaghten, 341; Sayad Muhomed v. Sayad Gohar (1881) 6 Bom. 88, 90-91.

(a) Macnaghten, 342; Baille, 555 et seq. (6) Abdul Ganee v. Husen Miya (1873) 10 Bom. H. C. 7, at p. 14; Shekh Karimodin v. Nawedo Mrs Sayad (1885) 10 Bom. 119.
(c) Hamd Alv v. Miyawar Husen (1902)

²⁴ All. 2577. (d) Muhammad Rustam Ali v. Mushtaq Husein
 (1920) 47 I. A. 224, 42 All 600, 57 I. C
 329, Norum Das v. Huga Abdur Rakhan
 (1920) 47 Cal. 866, 879, 58 J. C. 705;
 I'daw v. Baluzam (1921) 48 I. A. 302, 44
 Mad. 831, 65 I. C. 161, ('22) A. PC. 123.

163B-165

the property to B and C alleging (1) that the wakf is not valid, and (2) that the wakf property is not vested in B and C. The Court finds that the wakf is valid. B and C are entitled to a decree for possession, though they are not trustees appointed by an Indenture of Trust and though the wakf property is not vested in them as such (e).

The question as to which of two or more rival claimants is entitled to act as mutawalli may be referred to arbitration. The appointment of a person as mutawalli by an arbitrator is not invalid (f).

164. Who may be mutawalli.—(1) Subject to the provisions: of sub-s. (2), the founder of a wakf may appoint himself (q), or his children and descendants (h), or any other person, even a female (i) or a non-Moslem (i), to be mutawalli of wakf property.

But where the wakf involves the performance of religious, duties, such as the duties of a sajjadanishin (spiritual preceptor)[s. 175], a muezzin (crier), a khatib (reader of sermons), or an Imam in a mosque, neither a female (k) nora non-Moslem (l) is competent to perform those duties, though they may perform such of the duties attached to the wakf as are of a secular nature.

(2) Neither a minor (i.e., one who has not attained puberty) nor a person of unsound mind can be appointed mutawalli (m). But where the office of mutawalli is hereditary. and the person entitled to succession is a minor, the Court may appoint another person, to discharge the duties of mutawalli during the minority of the person entitled thereto (n).

Where the mutawalliship goes with the office of sajjadanishin, a woman cannot succeed to the mutawalliship either solely or jointly with another, the reason being that the office of sajadanishin is a priestly office involving the performance of spiritual and religious duties which, according to Mahomedan law, cannot be performed by a woman (o)

165. Appointment of new mutawalli.—(1) Where property is devoted to religious or charitable purposes, it is usual

⁽e) (1920) 47 1. A. 224, 42 All, 609, 57 I C. 329,

⁽a) (1993) 47 I. A. 224, 12 All. 000, 57 I. C. 223, (b) Mozicus N. Rate (1924) 46 All 850, 81 I. C. (c) Mozicus N. Rate (1924) 46 All 850, 81 I. C. (c) Mozicus N. Rate (1924) 41 I. Rate (1924) 41 I. Rate (1924) 42 I. Rate (1924) 42 I. Rate (1924) 42 I. Rate (1924) 43 I. Rate (1924) 47 I. A. 224, 42 All. 000, [b] Horin (1920) 47 I. A. 224, 42 All. 000, [b] Holling, 601, World All v. Ashruff Hausen (1924) 42 II. A. Ashruff Hausen (1924) 43 II. A. Ashruff Hausen (1925) 43 II. A. Ashruff Hausen (1925) 43 II. A. Ashruff Hausen (1925) 43 II. A. Ashruff Hausen (1925) 43 II. A. (1935) 43 III. A. (1935) 43 I

⁽²⁾ Amer Al, Vol. 1, 151 main Sterriff (1989) 4
(3) Harter Rick Tomobhis Hussain Sheriff (1989) 4
(1980) 3 Mad. 93 Mayerer of a durgal,
All American Reports Marie Hussain Sheriff (1980) 4
(1980) 3 Mad. 93 Mayerer of a durgal,
All American Reports Marie Hussain (1981) 4
(1981) 43 Cal. 118.
(1) Malling of Sheriff (1982) 34 Cal. 118.
(2) Malling of Jerna 1, Machon Kerim (1891) 10 Cal. 203, 229-229; Kept Hussain V. Mr. (2) (1981) 10 Cal. 203, 229-229; Kept Hussain V. Mr. (2012) 428-229; Kept Hussain Sheriff (1981) 10 Cal. 203, 229, app. 8 [pt al. Marie Cal. 203, 229, app. 8 [pt al. 2] (2)
(2) Kenter Sheriff (1982) 9 Pat. 819 (23) 4

anız v. Saiyid (1923) 2 Pat. 819 ('23) A. P. 241, 77 I. C. 209,

149 WAKES.

for the founder to lay down rules for succession to the office of mutawalli. If no such rules are laid down, the power of appointment is vested in the founder during his life (p).

- (2) Where any person appointed a mutawalli dies, or refuses to act in the trust, or is removed by the Court, or the office of mutawalli otherwise becomes vacant, and there is no provision in the deed of wakf regarding succession to the office. a new mutawalli may be appointed (q)--
 - (a) by the founder of the wakf (r);
 - (b) by his executor (it any);
 - (c) if there be no executor, the mutawalli for the time being may, on his death-bed, appoint his own successor subject, however, to the provisions of s. 166 below:
 - (d) if no such appointment is made, the Court may appoint a mutawalli. In making the appointment the Court must have regard to the following rules :---
 - The Court should not (even if it be assumed) that it has the power to do so) disregard the directions of the founder except for the manifest benefit of the endowment (s):
 - (ii) the Court should not appoint a stranger, so long as there is any member of the founder's family in existence qualified to hold the office (t):
 - (iii) where there is a contest between a lineal descendant of the founder and one who is merely related to the founder but is not his lineal descendant, the Court is not bound , to appoint the lineal descendant, but it has a discretion in the matter, and in the exercise of that discretion it may appoint such relation in preference to the lineal descendant(u):

⁽p) Syed Ali v, Syed Muhammad (1923) 7 Pat.
488; Shah Ohnlem, v, Mohammad (1873) 8 Hild. B. Co. B. Grand (1872) 8 Hild.
(g) defected closed School (1872) 6 Hild.
(1900) 37 Cal. 283; 3; 17. 419, Phatharbut v, Haji Muss (1913) 38 Mad. 491, 21 I C.
594.

⁽r) Rupphan v. Dhanno (1927) 49 All. 435, 90 f. C. 1045, (27) A. A 277.
(s) Rhugh Salamulda v. Abril Khair (1909) 37 (vl. 263, 268, 37 f. C. 419.
(9) 9 H. H. C. 10, stypt.
(4) Shaher Banoo v. Aga Mahomed (1907) 34 Cal. 118, 34 f. A. 46.

S. 165

(iv) the right of management of religious institutions such as Khankahs attached to Dargahs, is to be decided according to the prevailing usage, that usage being taken as an indication of the direction of the founder (v).

Baillie, 603-604; Macnaghten, p. 70, sec. 6, p. 344, Case X.

Clause (d), sabed, (m).— In Mahair Banoo's, Aga Mahomed, cited in cl. (ni), the founder was a Shah, and his lineal descendant who claimed to be appointed mutavailit was a founde of the Babisech. The Court refused to appoint her mutawalli, saying that though she was not disqualified from acting as a mutawalli, she being a female could at best discharge many of her duties only by deputy, and being a Babi she might not take a zedous interest in carrying out the religious observances of the Shah school for which the trust was founded, and the Court appointed as mutavalla a relation of the founder though he was not a lineal descendant of the founder. Their Lordships of the Privy Council after stating that their attention had been called to the earlier texts said: "The authorities seem to their Lordships to fall far short of establishing the absolute right of the lineal descendants of the founder of the endowment, in a case like the present, in which that founder has not prescribed any fine of devolution."

Powers of Court. -As regards the management of public religious or charitable trusts, their Lordships observed in Mahomed Ismail v. Ahmed Moola (v) as follows:

"It has further been contended that under the Mahomedan law the Court has no discretion in the matter [i.e., appointment of trustees of the mosque in question] and that it must give effect to the rule laid down by the founder in all matters relating to the appointment and succession of trustees or mutawallis. Their Lordships cannot help thinking that the extreme proposition urged on behalf of the appellants is based on a misconception. The Mussalman law, like the English law, draws a wide distinction between public and private trusts. Generally speaking, in case of a wakf or trust created for specific individuals or a determinate body of individuals, the Kazi, whose place in the British Indian system is taken by the Civil Court, has, in carrying the trust into execution to give effect so far as possible to the expressed wishes of the founder. With respect however, to public religious or charitable trusts, of which a public mosque is a common and well known example, the Kazi's discretion is very wide. He may not depart from the intentions of the founder or from any rule fixed by him as to the objects of the benefaction, but as regards management, which must be governed by circumstances, he has complete discretion. He may defer to the wishes of the founder so far as they are conformable to changed conditions and circumstances, but his primary duty is to consider the interests of the general body of the public for whose benefit the trust is created. He may in his judicial discretion vary any rule of management which he may find either not practicable or not in the best interests of the institution." In the case cited above the dispute was as regards the management of a Sunni mosque in Rangoon. The Sunnis of Rangoon are some of them Randherias and some of them Soorties. The mosque was founded by a Randheria, it was subsequently rebuilt and improved with money the bulk of which was supplied by Randherias, and the management had been for about 50 years in the hands of Randherias. It was not alleged that they had mismanaged the trust. Under these circumstances their Lordships held that all other conditions

⁽r) Ismailmya v. Wahadani (1912) 36 Bom. 308, 14 | C 469.

⁽ic) (1916) 43 1. A. 127, 134, 43 Cal. 1085, 1100, ³⁵ I. C. 30. See also Ibrahim Esmael v. Abdool Carrim (1908) 35 I. A. 151, 164 [a case from Mauritius].

WAKES. 151

being equal, the Randheria section was perfectly entitled to manage and act as trustees of the mosque.

165-167

166. Mutawalli may appoint successor on his death-bed.-In the absence of any provision in the deed of wakf, or of any evidence of usage regarding the devolution of the office of mutawalli, the mutawalli for the time being may, on his deathbed, nominate his successor: but such appointment cannot be made if the founder is alive or if he has left an executor competent to make the appointment (a). [See s. 165.]

The appointment of a specessor by a mutawallican only made while on death-old or in death-illness. mutawalli has no power to renounce the office and transfer it to another person while he is in good health (as distinguished from being on death-bed or in death-illness), unless such a power was expressly conferred upon him by the founder. But a mutawalli may appoint a deputy, whenever he likes, to help him in the management, e.g., in collecting the rents or other proceeds of the endowed property and expending them for the purposes of the endowment (y).

A mutawalli may appoint even a stranger as his successor in office, he is not bound to appoint a member of the family of the founder (z).

167. Office of mutawalli not hereditary.—The Mahomedan law does not recognize any right of inheritance to the office of mutawalli (a).

Where there is a vacancy in the office of mutawalli, and the Court is called upon to appoint a mutawalli, the Court will ordinarily appoint a member of the founder's family in preference to a stranger, and a senior member in preference to a junior member. But, where no such appointment is to be made, and the suit is merely one to oust the defendant from the office of mutawalli, the detendant being already in possession and enjoyment of the office, the Court will not oust the defendant from the office merely because the plaintiff is the elder brother and the defendant a younger brother, or because the plaintiff is a member of the founder's family and the defendant is a stranger. The reason is that according to Mahomedan law no right of inheritance attaches to the office of mutawalli. The office, however, may be hereditary by custom. But such a custom, being opposed to the general law, must be supported by strict proof. The mere fact that three persons from the family of the plaintiff were successively mutawallis is not sufficient to prove that the office devolved by heredity (b).

⁽²⁾ Baille, 604; Prom. , Abdool. Ravin (1801)
Buille, 604; Prom. , Schole Ribe, Vole
Zunul Abedin (1904) 6 Bom. L. R. 108s
Chair (1904) 8 Bom. L. R. 108s
Khair (1909) 87 Cal. 283, 277-277, S. L. V.
S. Cal. (1809) 87 Cal. 283, 277-277, S. L. V.
S. Cal. (1832; Amer-All, 3rd ed., Vol. I, pp.
355-356. Sec. Sullan Ahmad v. Abdul
Cani (1919) 60 Cal. 13, 18.

⁽z) Sheikh Amir Ali v Syed Wazir (1905) 9 C W N. 876. W. N.876.
 Machaghten, D. 344, case X; Sayad Abdulla
 V. Sayad Zan (1889) 13 Bom. 555, 561;
 Phatmaha V. Hay Mwa (1913) 38 Mad.
 491, 21 J. C. 964; Attmannessa v. Abdul.
 Sobhan (1916) 43 Cal. 467, 32 L. C. 21.
 [b] 13 Bom. 555, sayar; 38 Mad. 491, 21 L. C.

^{964,} supra.

Ss. 168, 169

- Mutawalli cannot mortgage or sell.—(1) A mutawalli has no power, without the permission of the Court, to mortgage, sell or exchange wakf property or any part thereof, unless he is expressly empowered by the deed of wakf to do so.
- A mortgage of wakf property, though made without the previous sanction of the Court, is not void if made for a justifying necessity, and may be retrospectively confirmed by the ('ourt (c).

Baillie, 605. Where the rate of interest on a mortgage is excessive, the Court may award interest to the mortgagee at a lower rate.

Permission of Court, how to be obtained .- It was held by the Calcutta High Court in a case decided in 1909 that a mutawalli, desirous of obtaining the sanction of the Court for a sale, mortgage, or lease of wakf property, must proceed by way of suit, and not by an application under the Trustees Act 27 of 1866, the reason given being that the Trustees Act applies only to trusts in the English form constituted by persons of purely English domicile or by persons governed by the Indian Succession Act, and that it does not apply to Mahomedans (d). But this decision was disapproved in recent cases where it was held that the sanction may be obtained on an application and that no suit 13 accessary (c). In Bombay it would seem that leave may be obtained on an application under the Trustees Act (f).

Unauthorized alienation - period of limitation .- A mutawalli sells or mortgages or grants a lease of wakf property without the sanction of the Court. What is the period after which the possession of the alience becomes adverse against the waki? This question has been considered in the undermentioned cases (q).

- 169. Power of mutawalli to grant leases.-A mutawalli should not lease wakf property, if it be agricultural, for a term exceeding three years, and, if non-agricultural, for a term exceeding one year —
 - (a) unless he is expressly authorized by the deed of wakf to do so :
 - (b) or, where he has no such authority, unless he has obtained the leave of the Court to do so (h): such leave may be granted even though the founder may have expressly prohibited the grant of a lease for a longer term.

⁽c) A imai Chand v. Golam Hussern (1909) 37 Cal. 179, 3 I C 353 Sec. Afina v. Hamid-ud-Din (1919) I Lah. L. J. v.

⁽d) Halima Khatun in re, (1909) 37 Cal. 870, 71 C. 33.

⁽e) Pakrunnessa v. District Judge (1920) 47 Cal. 592, 56 1 C. 475, Habibar v. Naidannessa (1924) 51 Cal. 331, 77 1. C. 949, ('24) A. C. 473.

⁽f) See Kahandas v Narandas (1881) 5 Bom. 154, and Lang v. Moolji (1919) 21 Bom. L. R. 1111, 54 I. C. 455, where it was held, on a petition for appointment of new trustees that the Act applied to Hindus in trustees that the Act applied to Hindus in Bombay, "Iddus V. Balustami (1921) 48 I. A. 302, 44 Mad. 831, 65 J. C. 163, (23) A. P.C. 123, Jobins Holium V. Naragam Dan (1923) 59 I. A. A. 84, 50 Vib. 328, 71 I. C. 684, (23) A. P.C. 44 (mortrager), Subbruga V. Mahamad (1923) 50 I. A. 255, 46 Mad. 1923, 50 I. A. 255, 46 Mad. 1924, (23) A. P.C. 175 John American Conference (1920) 36 C. 36 Mathematican Conference (1920) 38 C. 36 Mathematican Conference (1920) 38 C. 36 ⁽h) Woozatunnissa, in the matter of (1908) 36 Cal.

WAKFS. 153

Baillie, 606-607. As to limitation in the case of unauthorized leases, see Vidya Varuthi v. Balusami (1921) 48 I. A. 302, 44 Mad. 831, 65 I. C. 161. Ss. 169-173

170. Allowance of officers and servants.—The mutawalli has no power to increase the allowance of officers and servants attached to the endowment, but the Court may in a proper case increase such allowance.

Ameer Alı, vol. I, 369

- 171. Remuneration of mutawalli.—The founder may provide for the remuneration of the mutawalli whether the mutawalli be the founder himself or some other person. Such remuneration may be a fixed sum of it may be the residue of the income of the wakf property after defraying the expenses necessary for the maintenance of the wakf (a). If no provision is made by the founder for the remuneration of the mutawalli, the Court may fix a sum not exceeding one-tenth of the income of the wakf property (j). If the amount fixed by the founder is too small, the Court may increase the allowance, provided it does not exceed the limit of one-tenth (k).
- 172. Removal of mutawalli.—A mutawalli may be removed by the Court on proof of misfeasance or breach of trust, or if it be found that he is otherwise unfit to hold the office, though the founder may have expressly directed that the mutawalli should not be removed in any case. The founder has no power, after delivery of possession, to remove a mutawalli, unless he has expressly reserved such power in the deed of walf.

Baille, 608; Macnaghten, p. 79, s. 5. Gulam Husain v. Ap. Ajam (1869) 4 Mad. H. C. 44; Afracate-General v. Fatima (1870) 9 Bom. H. C. 19, 23-24 [a Shath case]; Hudutom-nissa v. Sepad Afrod (1870) 2 N. W. P. 422 [a Shath case]. A founder, who is himself a matanealli, may be removed by the Court on the ground of misconduct.

173. Personal decree against mutawalli—(1) No portion of the corpus of wakf property can be attached and sold in execution of a personal decree against the mutawalli, not even if there be a margin of profit coming to him after the performance of the duties attaching to his office. But the surplus profit that may remain in the hands of the mutawalli for his own benefit may [probably] be attached (1).

⁽¹⁾ Sayld Innail v. Hunedi Bepim (1921) 6 Pat.
L. J. 181, 233-234, 621, (t. 45.5.
(j) Mobiuddin v. Saynduddin (1893) 20 Cal. 310, 821.

Ss. (2) The office of mutawalli cannot be attached in execu-173, 174 tion of a personal decree against him (m).

In Bishen Chinal v. Nulri Hussein (1887) 15 Cal. 329, 15 L. A. I, it was contended on behalf of the decree-holder that as some surplus always remained in the hands of the trustee after the performance of the trusts, he (the decree-holder) was entitled to attach so much of the corpus as was represented by the surplus income. But it was held by their Lordships of the Privy Council confirming the decision of the Calciutta High Court, that "the corpus of the state cannot be sold, nor can any specific portion of the corpus of the estate by the council confirming the decision of the corpus of the estate by taken out of the hands of the trustees because there may be a margin of profit coming to him after the performance of all the religious duttes."

Miscellaneous.

174. Public Mosques.—Every Mahomedan is entitled to enter a mosque dedicated to God, whatever may be the sect or school to which he belongs, and to perform his devotions according to the ritual of his own sect or school. But it is not certain whether a mosque appropriated exclusively by the founder to any particular sect or school can be used by the followers of another sect or school.

Ma-Ullah v. Azim-Ullah (1889) 12 Ml. 494; Janga v. Ahmad-Ullah (1889) 13All. 419; Fazi Karım v. Mealla Baksh (1891) 18 Cal. 448, 18 l. V. 59; Abdus Subhan v. Korban Ali (1908) 35 Cal. 294; Muala Bakhsh v. Amir-nd Din (1920) 1 Lah. 317, 67 l. C. 1900.

In the first of these cases, it was held by the High Court of Allahabad, that a mosque dedicated to God is for the use of all Mahomedans, and cannot lawfully be appropriated to the use of any particular sect. This ruling was reterred to by their Lordships of the Privy Council in Fazl Karim's case, but they declined to express any opinion on it, stating that the facts of the case before them did not properly raise that question. In Abdul Subhan's case, the High Court of Calcutta doubted whether a special dedication of a mosque to any particular sect of Mahomedans would be in accordance with Mahomedan Ecclesiastical law. The view taken in Ala-Ullah's case was followed by the High Court of Labore in Maula Bakhsh's case. The point cannot therefore be said to be quite sottled. But when a mosque is not appropriated to any particular sect, there is no doubt that it may be used by any Mahomedan for the purposes of worship without distinction of sect. Thus a Shafer may join in a congregational worship, though the majority of worshippers in the congregation may be Hanais; and he cannot be prevented from taking part in the service, because according to the Shafei practice he pronounces the word amen (amen) in a loud voice and the Hanafi practice is to mutter the word softly. Similarly, Mahomedians of the Amd-bid-hadis or Wahabi sect have the right to worship in a mosque built primarily for the use of Hanafis and generally used by them, though their views in the matter of ritual differ from those of the Hanafis. But there is nothing in the Mahomedan law to entitle the members of a new sect to pray as a separate congregation behind an Imam chosen by themselves (n).

As to management of mosque, see notes to s. 165, "Powers of Court."

⁽m) Sarkum v. Rahaman Buksh (1896) 24 Cul. | (n) Hakim Khalil v. Malik Israfi (1917) 2 Pat. 83, 91. | L. J. 108, 37 L. C. 302.

WAKFS. 155

175. Sajjadanishin; Khankah.—A sajjadanishin is the head of a khankah, a Mahomedan institution analogous in many respects to a math where Hindu religious instruction is dispensed. He is the teacher of religious doctrines and rules of life, and the manager of the institution and the administrator of its charities, and has, ordinarily speaking, a larger right in the surplus income than a mutawalli (o). But this does not mean that in every case the whole income from a khankah is at the disposal of the sajjadanishin. At certain shrines the members of the founder's family other than the sajjadanishin are entitled to share in the surplus offerings which remain after payment of expenses (p).

The word "sapadanishin" is derived from sepinda, that is, the cap et used by Maho, medians for prayer, and not in, that is sitting. The sapadinshin takes precedence on the capter during prayers [Buille, p. 608, f.m. (1]). The office of a mutawalli is a secular office; that of a sapadanishin is a spinitual office, and he has certain spiritual functions to perform. A person may hold the office both of a mutawalli and a sapadanishin at the same time. A sapadanishin may, like a mutawalli (s. 167) appoint his own successor. As to the distinction between the two offices, see the undermentioned cases (q). A minor cannot act, and he therefore cannot be appointed a supplanishin (i). Property given for the upkere plot buildings and the school connected with a bhankali cannot be attached in execution of a personal decree against the sapidanishin (i).

175A. Kazi.—The Mahomedan law does not regard the office of Kazi as hereditary (t). A claim to such a right, though supported by custom, is not one that can be recognised by a Civil Court (n).

A Kazi may be appointed by the Government (r) or by some internal arrangement among the Mahomedans of each locality (w).

175B. Takia —A takia is a religious institution recognized by law, and an endowment to a takia is us valid a wakf as to a khankah (x) [s. 175].

"Takn." means literally a resting place. The word is now used to denote the place where a fakir (holy person) resides and imparts religious instruction to his disciples and others.

(0)	 1 idya Varuthi v. Balusami (1921) 18 I A 302, 312, 44 Mad. 831, 841, 65 I C 161, (23) A PC. 123; Zooleka Biba v Syed Zynul Abedin (1904) 6 Bom L. R 1058. 	(t)	Jamal Walad Ahmed v. Jamal Walad Jalal (1877) 1 Bom 633, Daudsha v Ismalsha (1878) 3 Bom 72, Baba Kakaji v. Nasar- udin (1893) 18 Bom 103.
(p)	Muhammad Hamid V Mian Mahmud (1923), 50 T. A 92, 105-106, 4 Lah 15, 29, ('22) A. PC, 384.	(4) (r)
(q)	Peran v. Abdool Karım (1891) 19 Cal. 203; Secretary of State v. Mohiuddin. (1900) 27 Cal. 674.	(10)	Ummar v Rudan Khan (1912) 37 Mad. 228, 25 I C. 898, Sec 50 Bom. 133, at p 146, 93 I.C. 135,
(r)	(1891) 19 Cal 203, 219-220, supra.	1	('26) A B. 153 zupra.
(#)	Shah Mohammad v. Mohammad (1927) 2 Luck. 109, 100 I C. 241, ('27) A.O. 113.	(x)	Hussain Shah v. Gul Muhammad (1925) 6 Lah. 140, 88 I. C. 816, ('25) A L. 420.

Law relating to the protection, enforcement and administration of endowments.

- S. 176 The following is a list of enactments which provide for the protection, enforcement and administration of public endowments:—
 - (i) Official Trustees Act 2 of 1913.
 - (ii) Charitable Endowments Act 6 of 1890, ss. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8.
 - (iii) Religious Endowments Act 20 of 1863, s. 14.
 - (iv) The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, ss. 92-93.
 - (v) Charitable and Religious Trusts Act 13 of 1920.
 - (vi) Mussalman Wakf Act 42 of 1923.

CHAPTER XIII.

PRE-EMPTION.

177. Pre-emption.—The right of shufaa or pre-emption is a right which the owner of an immovable property possesses to acquire by purchase another immovable property which has been sold to another person.

Hed., 547; Baillie, 475; Golond Dound v. Irandullah (1885) 7 All. 775, 799,

"A right of pre-emption is not a right of re-puchase, but is simply a right entiting the pre-emptor to be substituted by the vendee as purchase; and to stand in his shose in respect of all the rights and obligations arising from the side under which he derives his title. A previou, who chooses to pre-empt, therefore, must take upon him the burden of the obligations subject to which the sale was made as well as the benefits accruing therefrom. In other words, he can get no more than that for which the vendee bargainch." I mortgages his property to B to secure repayment of Rs. 50. A then sells the property, subject to the mortgage, to C for Rs. 200. D claims the right to pre-empt by offering Rs. 200 to C. G accepts Rs. 200, and delivers possession of the property to B. B then suce D to enforce his mortgage. D contends that he had no notice of the mortgage when he claimed the right of pre-emption and that he is not therefore bound to pay the mortgage-debt. This contention cannot be upheld, for D stands in the shoes of C. and C's nurshes was subject to B's mortgage (a).

178. Law of pre-emption not applied in Madras Presidency.—
The Mahomedan law of pre-emption is applied by the Courts of British India to Mahomedans as a matter of "justice, equity and good conscience," except in the Madras Presidency where the right of pre-emption is not recognised at all [unless by local custom as in Malabar (z)]. The reason given by the Madras High Court in the earliest case on the subject for refusing to recognise the right is that the law of pre-emption places a restriction upon liberty of transfer of property, and is therefore opposed to" justice, equity and good conscience". The right of pre-emption in that case was claimed on the ground of vicinage(a).

In a recent Rangoon case the parties were Madras Mahomedans by origin and the right of pre-emption was claimed on the ground of co-ownership. The High Court of Rangoon upheld the plaintiff's claim for pre-emption on the ground that the case was covered by sec. 13, sub-a ction (1), of the Burma Liws Act (6).

See notes to s. 5 above.

⁽y) Tespal v. Girdhari Lal (1908) 30 All, 130.

⁽z) Krishna Menon v. Kesavan (1897) 20 Mad 305.

⁽a) Ibrahim v. Muni Mir Udin (1870) 6 H.M.C.

^{26.} (b) Syed Ebrahim v. Syed Khan (1926) 4 Rang. 13, 95 I.C. 83, ('26) A.R. 79.

Ss. 179-180A

179. Special Acts.—The law of pre-emption in Punjab is regulated by the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878, and in Oudh by the Oudh Laws Act, 1876. These acts apply to Mahomedans as well as non-Mahomedans, with the result that the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Pre-emption do not apply even to Mahomedans in those places except on the footing of local custom (c).

180. Pre-emption among Hindus.—The right of pre-emption is recognized by custom among Hindus who are either natives of, or are domiciled in (d). Behar (e), and certain parts of Gujarat, such as Surat, Broach and Godhra (f), and it is governed by the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Pre-emption except in so far as such rules are modified by such custom (q).

Where the existence of any such custom is generally known . and judicially recognized, it is not necessary to assert or prove it (h).

The explanation lies in the fact that under the Mahomedan Law, non-Mahomedans are as much entitled to exercise the right of pre-emption as Mahomedans (Baillie, 477). Accordingly, during the Mahomedan rule in India, claims for pre-emption were entertained by the Courts of the country, whether they were preferred by or against Hindus, In this wise, the Mahomedan law of pre-emption came to be the customary law of Behar and Gujarat. But the law of pre-emption as applied to Hindus in those places was the Hanah law, the Mahomedan sovereigns of India being Sunins of the Hanali sect, and the same law is now applied to them in cases of pre-emption. But it is a necessary condition of the application of the Mahomedan law of pre-emption to Hindus in Behar and Gujarat that they should be either natives of, or domiciled in, those places. It is not enough that the party is a Hindu and owns immoveable property in those places. Thus in a recent Calcutta case the right of pre-emption was denied to a Hindu who was a co-sharer of certain immoveable property in Behar, but who was neither a native of; nor domiciled in, that place (i). See notes to s. 180A below.

180A. Pre-emption by contract.—(1) Rights of pre-emption may be created by contract between the sharers in a village (j).

⁽c) Wilson's Dujest of Anglo-Muhammedan Law,

⁽⁹⁾ Parasath Auth - Dhanari (1985) 24 (3) 1988 (2) Parasath Auth - Dhanari (1985) 24 (3) 1989 (3) Parasath Auth - Dhanari (1985) 25 (3) 1989 (4) Goodhandan - Landar Lall - Janala Korr (1912) 30 (2014) 35, 39 1.4 (10.1) 51 (6.30) (4) Goodhandan - Landar (1980) 61 18 (1980) (1914) 38 1980 [183, 185-188] 24 (7.20) Jacquiran - Kalidari (1921) 45 1980, 4014 Jacquiran - Kalidari (1921) 45 1980, 4014 and not articultural handle, Goldelbar - Partab (1916) 18 190 [18 1, 8 103] Partab (1916) 18 190 [18 1, 8 103] 35, 1 (7.20)

⁴⁰ Bum. 558, 32 I C 933 [not ln Khanden, Notarian V Senset Narigal (1917) 41 [1917] 44 [1917] 44 [1917] 44 [1917] 44 [1917] 44 [1917] 44 [1917] 45

(2) A Mahomedan vendor may agree with a Hindu purchaser that the Mahomedan Law of pre-emption applying between the vendor and his co-sharer also a Mahomedan. should be applicable to the purchase. Where such a contract is entered into, and the vendor informs his co-sharer about it, and the co-sharer makes the 'demands' as required by law [s. 186] he is entitled to pre-emption against the purchaser, though the purchaser may be a Hindu (k).

Ss. 180A, 181

Introduction of the law of pre-emption into India In Digamber Singh v. Ahmad (1), their Lordships of the Privy Council said. Pre-emption in village communities in British India had its origin in the Mahomedan lay as to pre-emption, and was apparently unknown in India before the time of the Moghul rulers. In the course of time customs of pre-emption grew up and were adopted among village communities. In some cases the sharers in a village adopte I or followed the rules of the Mahomedan Law of pre emption, and a such cases the custom of the village follows the rules of the Mahomedan law of pre-emption. In other cases, where a custom of pre-emption exists, each village community has a custom of pre-emption which varies from the Mahomedan law of pre-emition and is peculiar to the village in its provisions and its incidents. A custom of pre-emption was doubtless in all cases the result of agreement amongst the share-holders of the particular village, and may have been adopted in modern times and in villages which were first constituted in modern times. Rights of pre-emption have in some provinces been given by Acts of the Indian Legislature. Rights of preemption have also been created by contract between the sharers in a village. But in all cases the object is as far as is possible to prevent strangers to a village from becoming sharers in the village. Rights of pre-emption when they exist are valuable rights, and when they depend upon a custom or upon a contract, the custom or the contract, as the case may be, must if disputed, be proved.".

- 181. Who may claim pre-emption.—The following three classes of persons and no others, are entitled to claim preemption, namely :-
 - (1) a co-sharer in the property (m) | shafi-i-sharik | ; , '
 - (2) a participator in immunities and appendages, such as a right of way or a right to discharge water (n) [shafi-i-khalit]: and
 - (3) owners of adjoining immoveable property (a) [shafi-i jar |, but not their tenants (p), nor persons in possession of such property without any lawful title (a) [Baillie, 481].

 ⁽k) Silaram v. Sayad Sirajul (1917) 41 Bom. 636, 650-651, 42 I C 32.
 (l) 37 All. 129, 140-141, 42 I A. 10, 18, 28 I. C.

^{34. (}m) Jadu Lai v. Janki Korr (1912) 39 Cal 915, 39
1.A. 101, 15 1. C. 650; Syed Ebruhun v. Syed Khan (1926) 4 Rang, 13, 95 1. C. 83, (26) A.B. 79 [co-heirs].

⁽n) Karım v. Priyo Lal (1905) 2 All 127. (a) Azir Ahmad v. Nazır Ahmad (1928) 50 All. 257, 103 f C 897, (27) 504. Abdul Shakur v. Abdul (afur (1910) 7 All. L J. 641, 6 1 C 858.

Gooman Singh v. Tripool Sing (1867) 8 W.R. 437. Beharee Ram v. Shoobudra (1868) 9 W.R. 455.

S. 181

The first class excludes the second, and the second excludes the third. But when there are two or more pre-emptors belonging to the same class, they are entitled to equal shares of the property in respect of which the right is claimed [Baillie, 500].

Exception.—The right of pre-emption on the ground of vicinuge does not extend to estates of large magnitude, such as villages and zemindaris, but is confined to houses, gardens, and small parcels of land (r). The right, however, may be claimed by a co-sharer (s).

[6a] A, who owns a piece of land, grants a building lease of the land to B. B builds a house on the land, and sells it to C. A is not entitled to pre-emption of the house, though the land on which it is built belongs to hun, for he is not a co-slarer, nor a participator in the appendages of the house, nor an owner of adjoining property: Pershads Lat s. Irskad AR (1807) 2 N. W. P. 100.

(b) A owns a house which he sells to B. M owns a house towards the north of A's house, and is entitled to a right of way through that house. N owns a house towards the south of A's house, separated from A's house by a party wall, and having a right of support from that wall. Both M and N claim pre-emption of the house sold to B. Here M is a patterpator in the appendages, while X is merely a neighbour, for the right of collateral support is not an appendage of property. M is therefore entitled to pre-emption in preference to X: see Hameholdian v. Jupidian (1899) 24 Bom. 444; Karam v. Prop. Lot (1965) 28 All. 127. It is miniaterial that M's right of way has not been perfected by precemption under the Elsements Act. In such a matter the rules of Mahamedan law are to be applied, and that law does not preservibe any period which would give a person the right to enjoy or minimute, when as a right of way (f).

Note. In the above illustration, the house owned by M is a dominant heritage, and the pre-empted house is a servient heritage, for M has a right of way through it. But M would not the less be a "Patteipiator in the appendages," if the pre-empted property was the dominant heritage and his property was the servient heritage: Chand Khan v. Niumat Khan (1893) 3 B. L. R., A. C. 296. And M would still be "participator," if his house and the pre-empted house were both dominant tenements, having a right of easement against a third property: Mahatab Singh v. Ramtahal (1898) 6 Beng. L. R. at p. 43.

(e) A is the owner of a plot of land. B and C own a piece of land adjoining it. The land owned by B and C is divided by a Lankha road. The public have a right of passage over that road, but the land along which the road runs belongs to B and C. B and C sell the land to D. A is entitled to pre-empt the whole of the land belonging to B and C, and not merely the portion on his side of the road; Aziz Ahmad v. Nazz-Ahmad (1928) 50 All. 257, 103 I. C. 897, (27) A. A. 504.]

Hed., 548-550; Badhe, 481-484, 500.

⁽r) Mahomed Hossern v. Mohsin Alt (1870) 8 B. L. R 41, 50, Abdul Rahm v. Kharag Stock (1892) 15 All 101, Munne Lal v. Hayra Jan (1910) 33 All 28, 7 L. C 404. (a) Sularan v. Sayad (1917) 41 Bom 636, 622-653, 42 L. C 32; Jadu Lal v. Jank Koer

^{(1912) 39} Cal. 915, 39 I. A 101, 15 I. C. 659, [Mahal], Neud-ud-Dru, v. Lataf-ua-Nissa (1922) 44 All, 114, 64 I. C. 456, ('22) A.A. 391 (Formidan') Baldeo v. Badri Nath (1909) 31 All. 519, 2 I. C. 458.

Right of pre-emption arises from ownership .- The right of pre-emption cannot be resisted on the ground that the pre-emptor was not in possession of his own property at the date of the suit. It is ownership, and not possession, that gives rise to the right (v). 181,' 182

Pre-emptors of same class.-When pre-emption is claimed by two or more persons on the ground of participation in a right of way, all the pre-emptors have equal rights, although one of them may be a contiguous neighbour (v). The reason is that the Mahomedan law does not recognize degrees of nearness in the same class of preemptors (w). But nearness may be recognized by custom (x).

Tree with overhanging branches.-The fact that the branches of a tree project over the land of a neighbour does not give the owner of the tree any right as a shuft-t-khalit on a sale of that land (u).

Villages and zemindaries.- The reason why the right of pre-emption cannot be claimed when the contiguous estates are or large in agritude is that the law of pre-emption "was intended to prevent vexation to holders of small plots of land who might be annoyed by the introduction of a stranger among them." But this principle applies only when the right of pre-emption is claimed merely on the ground of circumge. It does not apply where the right is claimed by a co-sharer. See the section.

Females .-- A female is not precluded from maintaining a suit for pre-emption if she by law is entitled to inherit, even though it may be a widow's estate (z). But a female entitled to maintenance only is not entitled to pre-empt (a).

Sale by one of several co-sharers to another. - See s. 185 below.

Shiah law.—By the Shiah law the only persons entitled to the right of pre-emption re co-sharors; Baillie, Part II, 179; Qurban v. Chote (b), and that too if the number of co-sharers does not exceed two (c).

182. Sale alone gives rise to pre-emption.—The right of pre-emption arises only out of a valid (d), complete (e), and bona fide (f) sale. It does not arise out of gift (hiba), sadaka (s. 144), wakf, inheritance, bequest (q), or a lease even though in perpetuity (h). Nor does it arise out of a mortgage even though it may be by way of conditional sale (i); but the right will accrue, if the mortgage is foreclosed (i). The right arises even if the property sought to be pre-empted is sold by anofficial receiver or by an order of the Court (k). It has been

(a) Sakina Bibee v. Amiran (1889) 10 All 472 (c) Karina Bakh v. Khuda Bakh (1849) 10 All 472 (c) Karina Bakh v. Khuda Bakh (1849) 16 All 472 (c) Karina Bakh v. Khuda Bakh (1849) 16 All 472 (c) Karina Bakh v. Khuda Bakh (1840) 16 All 472 (c) Karina V. Karina Khuda (1841) 16 All 472 (c) A. A. 101; i. Vageshar v. Ram Harnkh (1924) 6 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 4 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 4 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 4 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 4 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 4 All 473 (c) 10 (c) 1

⁽b) (1890) 22 All 102. (c) Abbar Alt v. Maya Ram (1890) 12 All. 229, Husen Babar v. Mahjacud-Haq (1925) 18 All 19 All ^{989.}Balille, 471.

Dewanultualla v. Kazem Molla (1887) 15
Cal. 184.

⁽i) Gurdad v. Teknarayan (1865) B. L. R. Sup Vol. 106. (j) Batul Beyum v. Mansur Alı (1901) 24 All. 17. (k) Brij Narain v. Kedar Nath (1923) 45 All. 186.

S. 182 held by the High Court of Allahabad that a transfer of property by a husband to his wife in lieu of dower is a sale, and is therefore subject to a claim for pre-emption (1). On the other hand, the Chief Court of Oudh has held that the transaction amounts to a hiba-bil-iwaz, and no claim for pre-emption can therefore arise (m).

> Explanation I.-According to the Mahomedan law a sale is an exchange of property for property with the mutual consent of the parties, the exchange consisting in payment of price by the purchaser to the vendor and delivery of possession by the vendor to the purchaser. The execution of an instrument of sale is not necessary (n). According to the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, s. 54, a sale of property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards is not complete unless made by a registered instrument. It has been held by a Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court that, although the rules of the Mahomedan Law of Sale have been superseded by the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, the question whether a sale is complete so as to give rise to the right of pre-emption is to be determined by applying the Mahomedan law, and if a complete sale is effected under that law as where the price is paid and possession is delivered, the right of preemption will arise, though the sale may not be complete under the Transfer of Property Act (a). On the other hand, some judges have expressed the opinion that the right of pre-emption does not arise until after registration as required by the Transfer of Property Act (p). In Jadu Lal v. Janki Koer (q), Brett, J., suggested that a solution of the problem was to be found in determining in each case what was the intention of the parties as to the date when the sale should be considered as complete. The rule suggested by Brett., J., was adopted by some judges in Calcutta (r) and Patna (s) and also by the High Court of Bombay in Sitaram v. Sayad Sirajul (t). The decision of the Bombay Court in ⁽l) Fida Ali v Muzaffur Ali (1882) 5 Ali 65 , Nathu v Shadi (1915) 37 Ali 522, 29 i. C. 495, doubted by Mr. Ameer Ali, Vol. I ,

^{408,} doubted by Mr. Amere Ali, Vol. 1, 419 ed.), pp. 23 Musemma Zelavida (1926), (2016), pp. 24 Musemma Zelavida (1926), (2016), (2016), (2016), (2016), (2016), (2016), (2016), (2017), (2016), (2017

S. 182

Sitaram's case was affirmed on appeal by the Judicial Committee. In the course of the judgment their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "You are to look at the intention of the parties [that is, the vendor and the vendee] in determining what system of law was to be taken as applying and what was to be taken to be the date of the sale with reference to which the ceremonies were performed" (u). In a later case the High Court of Bombay followed the Full Bench decisions of the Allahabad High Court (v).

Explanation II.—It has been held by the High Court of Allahabad that the right of pre-emption arises not only when a complete contract of sale, without any option to the vendor, has been made (w).

The importance of the question now under consideration arises in this way. A halomedian is not critical to pre-emption unless he makes the "demands" routined haw (a. 186). These demands should not be made before the sale is complete. They should be made after the sale is complete, and immediately after the pre-emptor hears of the sale, that is, a completed sale. Now a sale according to the Mahomedian law is completed by payment of the pirce by the purchaser to the vendor and by delivery of possession by the vendor to the pirce haser. But a sale under the Transfer of Property Act is not complete unless made by a registered matriment. Hence the view taken by some Judges that the 'demands' should be made after registration of the sale-deed. But if this view be accepted, the vendor and vendee, with a view to defeat the pre-emptor, may not execute and register a sale-deed, and may complete the transaction by payment of price and delivery of possession so as to deprive the pre-emptor of the right of pre-emption. Hence the rule suggested by Brett, J., and approved by the Judcical Committee, namely, to assertiain in each case what was the intention of the parties as to the date when the sale should be considered as completed.

A agrees to sell his house to B in January 1918 for Rs. 300. On 1st February 1918 B pays the purchase-money to A, and obtains possession of the house from A. The sale-deed is registered on 1st March 1918. The pre-emptor comes to know of the payment of price and delivery of possession on 15th February 1918, but he does not make the "demand" (s. 189) until 2nd March 1918, being the date on which he first comes to know of the registration. Is he entitled to pre-emption? (1) No, according to the Allalabad 1llph Court (x), for the sale, according to that Court, became complete on payment of the price and delivery of possession, and the pre-emption having failed to make the "demand" on 15th February when he first came to know of it, the right of pre-emption is lost by delay. (2) If the sale be regarded as complete on regularation, the pre-emption is entitled to pre-emption, for he made the 'demands' before registration, they would have been promature, and he would not have been entitled to pre-emption unless he made the "demands" again immediately after he came to know of registraunless he made the "demands" again immediately after he came to know of registration. (3) According to the rule now laid down by the Judicial Committee, the intention of the parties is the sole guide. Therefore, if in the case put above, possession was not given and no part of the price was paid till registration, the intention of the parties would be taken to be that they did not regard the sale to be complete till registration, and the 'demands' in such a case should be made immediately after the preemptor hears of the registration (y). But if the contract of sale says, "I have agreed to sell you my share for Rs. 29,000, Rs. 1,000 paid down, and the remainder payable in two quick instalments, and that a formal deed of sale shall be executed and registered," and the agreement further contemplates a notice of the transaction to be given by the vendor to his co-sharer on the same day, and provides that if the co-sharer elects to purchase the vendor's share, the vendor should immediately return the Rs. 1,000 to the purchaser, it is the date of the agreement that is to be taken as the date of the sale and it is with reference to that date that the co-sharer (pre-emptor) should perform the necessary ceremonies (z).

⁽a) Sizeron v. Jiral Hasen (1921) 45 Born. (c) Abdulle v. Imadi (1922) 46 Born. 1. C. 913, (22) A. B. 1924. (c) Shoulle v. Imadi (1922) 46 Born. (c) L. 013, (22) A. B. 1924. (c) (304) 19 All. 344, 347.

S. 182, 183

Lease in perpetuity. A lease even though in perpetuity does not give rise to the right of pre-emption. But a transaction, though in form a lease, may in truth and substance be a sale, as where the property is of the value of Rs. 2,000 and a lease is given for 99 years under which Rs. 1,950 are paid as premium and Re. 1 is reserved as annual rent. In such a case the pre-emptor is entitled to pre-emption, though the transaction is in form a lease. The Mahomedan law does not recognise the device of dressing up a transaction of sale in the garb of a lease so as to defeat the right of preemption (a). See s. 192 below.

183. Ground of pre-emption to continue up to decree -The right in which pre-emption is claimed—whether it be coownership, or participation in appendages, or vicinage-must exist not only at the time of sale, but at the date of the suit. for pre-emption (b), and it must continue up to the time the decree is passed (c). But it is not necessary that the right should be subsisting at the date of the execution of the decree (d) or at the date of the decree of the appellate Court (e). The reason is that the crucial date in these cases is the date of the decree of the Court of first instance (f).

Thus if a plaintiff, who claims pre-emption as owner of a contiguous property, sells his property to another person after institution of the suit, he will not be entitled to a decree, for he does not then belong to any of the three classes of persons to whom the right of pre-emption is given by law: see s. 181 above. But once the decree is passed, the plaintiff does not forfeit the right of being put into possession of the preempted property in execution of the decree, although he may have alienated the property before execution or alienated it before the date of the decree of the appellate Court. It

⁽y) 35 Cal 575; 41 Cal 943, 950, 954, 23 I.

⁽z) (1921) 45 Bom. 1056, 48 I. A. 475, 64 I. C. 826, supra.

Muhammad v. Muhammad (1918) 40 All.
322, 44 I. C. 227.

^{322, 44 1.} C. 227.
Jank Prasad v. Ishar Das (1899) 21 All. 374.
Ram Gopal v. Piars Lal (1899) 21 All. 441;
Tafazzul v. Than Singh (1910) 32 All. 567,
6 1. C. 426; Nurn Mian v. Ambica Singh
(1917) 44 Cal. 47, 34 1. C. 869.

⁽d) Ram Sahas v. Gaya (1884) 7 All. 107.

⁽e) Baldeo Mısir v. Ram Lagan (1923) 45 All. 709. (24) A.A. 82, 77 I. C. 604; Umrao v. Lachhman (1924) 46 All. 321, 79 I. C. 217, (24) A.A. 448.

⁽f) (1923) 45 All. 709, 710, 77 I. C. 604, ('24) A.A. 82, supra; Hajs Sullan v. Masitu (1926) 48 All. 680, 98 I. C. 744, ('26) A.A. 749; Sri Thalus Radhika v. Bohra Shiam (1923) 45 All. 561, 74 I. C. 382, ('23) A.A. 528, need hardly be mentioned that a plaintiff does not forfeit his right of pre-emption merely because he had on a previous occasion mortgaged his own share on which his right of pre-emption depends (q).

Se. 183, 184

184. Doubt as to whether buyer should be a Mahomedan.-According to the Allahabad decisions, it is not necessary to enforce the right of pre-emption, that the buyer should be a Mahomedan (h). According to the Calcutta (i) and Bombay (i) decisions it is necessary, except in the cases mentioned in ss. 180 and 180A, that the buyer should be a Mahomedan: But all the three Courts are agreed that the seller and the pre-emptor should both be Mahomedans (k).

There are no Madras decisions, because in Madras the law of pre-emption is not applied even as between Mahomedins [s. 178].

The vendor should be a Mahomedan. Hence no right of pre-emption can be claimed by a Mahomedan when the vendor is a Hindu or a European, though the vendor may be a Mahomedan.

The pre-emptor also should be a Mahomedan, the reason being that if he is a Mahomedan and subsequently wants to sell the pre-empted property, he is bound to offer it to his Mahomedan neighbours or partners before he can sell it to a stranger. But a non-Mahomedan is not subject to any such obligation, and he can sell it to any one he likes. The law of pre-emption contemplates both a right and an obligation, and if a non-Mahomedan were allowed to pre-empt, it would be allowing him the right without the corresponding obligation. This is the principle underlying the decision of the Allahabad High Court in Ourban's case (1), where it was held that a Shiah Mahomedan could not maintain a claim for pre-emption based on the ground of vicinage when the vendor is a Sunni. The decision was based on the ground that by the Shiah law a neighbour as such has no right of pre-emption, and that if he were allowed to preempt, he might sell his house to any one he liked, and his Sunni neighbours could not successfully assert any right of pre-emption against him.

The vendee also, according to the Calcutta High Court, should be a Mahomedan, Hence a Mahomedan cannot obtain pre-emption of property sold by a Mahomedan to a Hindu. According to that decision, the right of pre-emption is not a right that attaches to the land, but is merely a personal right. If it were a right attaching to the land, it might be claimed, even against a Hindu or any other non-Mahomedan purchaser "We cannot, . . . in justice, equity and good conscience, decide that a Hindu purchaser in a district in which the custom of pre-emption does not prevail as amongst Hindus, is bound by the Mahomedan law, which is not his law, to give up what he has purchased to a Mahomedan pre-emptor." On the other hand, it has been held by the Allahabad High Court that it is not necessary that the vendee should be a Mahomedan and that pre-emption can therefore be claimed even against a Hindu purchaser. According to that Court, a Mahomedan owner of property is under an obligation ⁽g) Ujagar Lal v. Jia Lal (1896) 18 All, 382. (h) Gobind Dayal v. Inayatulla (1885) 7 All. 775; Abbas Ali v. Maya Ram (1889) 12 All. 229.

Kudratulla v. Mahimi Mohan (1869) 4 Beng. L. R. 134. Sitaram v. Sayad Sirajul (1917) 41 Bom. 636, 649-650, 42 1. C. 32; Mahomed v.

Narain (1916) 40 Bom. 358, 32 I. C. 933. (k) Ducarka Dass v. Hassain Bakhsh (1878) 1 All. 564 (Hindu vendor); Poorno Singh v. Hurrychurn (1872) 10 B. L. R. 117 (Euro-All. 102 (Shish pre-emptor against Sunni vendor); Qurban v. Chote (1899) 22 All. 102 (Shish pre-emptor against Sunni vendor and Sunni vendee). (I) (1899) 22 All. 102.

Se 184, 185 imposed by the Mahomedan law to offer the property to his Mahomedan neighbours or partners before he can sell it to a stranger, and this is an incident of his property which attaches to it whether the vendee be a Mahomedan or a Non-Mahomedan. The Bombay High Court had adopted the view taken by the High Court of Calcutta. According to the Calcutta and Bombay High Courts, the right of pre-emption may be enforced against a Hindu vendee, in those cases only where the right is recognised by custom as stated in s. 180, or is created by contract as stated in s. 180A.

- 185. Pre-emption in case of sale to a shaft .-- Where there are two or more shafis of the same class, and the sale is made by one of them to another, the other shafis are entitled to claim pre-emption of their share against the shafipurchaser (m). Similarly, where the sale is made to a shaft and a stranger, the other shaft are entitled to claim preemption of their share against the shafi-purchaser and the stranger (n).
- [(a) A, B and C are co-sharers in certain property. A sells his share to B. C is entitled to claim pre-emption of one-half of the property: Enatellah v. Kowsher .Hi (1927) 54 Cal, 266, 98 I, C. 220, ('26) A. C. 1153
- (b) A, B, C and D own each a house situate in a private lane common to all the four houses. A sells his house to B. Here B, C and D are "participators in the appendages" of the house sold, the appendage being the right of way. C and D are each entitled to claim pre-emption of a third of the house. Amir Hasan v. Rahim Bakshh (1897) 19 All. 466.
- (c) A, B and C are co-sharers in certain property, A sells his share to B and S C is entitled to claim pre-emption of one-half of the property: Salignam v. Raghubardyall (1887) 15 Cal 224 1

It was at one time held by the High Court of Calcutta (a), that where there are several co-sharers, and one of them sells his share to another, none of the other co-sharers is entitled to claim pre-emption against the purchaser. The ground of the decision was thus stated by Garth, C. J.: "The object of the rule (of pre-emption) . . . 18 to prevent the meonyenence which may result to families and communities from the introduction of a disagreeable stranger as a co-pareener or near neighbour. But it is obvious, that no such annovance can result from a sale by one co-parcener to another." A different view was taken by the High Courts of Allahabad and Bombay, one of the grounds of the decisions being that the rule laid down in the Hedaya, that "when there is a plurality of persons entitled to the privilege of shuffu, the right of all is equal," applies as much when the sale is made to a shaft as when it is made to a stranger A Special Bench of the Calcutta High Court has now taken the same view as that taken by the Allahabad and Bombay High Courts (p).

⁽m) Amir Hatan v Rahmi Hakhih (1897) 19 All
460, Abdidiah v. Amente-ulih (1890) 21
All 2022 Wahammad Fadve v. Kerhali
A. A. 157, dissenting on 14th point from Bailet v. Balarianti (1990) 31 All, 151;
Zu-ud-Dan v. Abul (1923) 45 All, 487,
77 I C. 27; Nadr. Husain v. Sadq.
Husain (1925) 47 All 324, 326, 36 I. C.
580, (23) A.A. 301; Vibralia v. Jamair ram (1920) 44 Born. 887, 58 I. C. 279 [F B.]; Ennatullah v. Koresher Alt (1927) 54 Cal. 266, 98 I. C. 220, (29) A. C. 1153, overruling Ialla Novbut Als v. Lalla Jeson Lall (1878) 4 Cal. 831. (n) Salugram v. Raghubar (1888) 15 Cal. 224.

⁽o) (1878) 4 Cal. 831, supra.

⁽p) (1927) 54 Cal. 266, 98 J.C. 220, ('26) A.C. 1153 supra.

- 186. Necessary formalities to be observed.—No person is S. 186 entitled to the right of pre-emption unless-
- (1) he has declared his intention to assert the right immediately on receiving information of the sale. This formality is called talab-i-mowasibat (literally, demand of jumping, that is, immediate demand); and unless
- (2) he has with the least practicable delay affirmed the intention, referring expressly to the previous talab-i-mowasibat (a), and made a formal demand—
 - (a) either in the presence of the buyer, or the seller, or on the premises which are the subject of sale (r). and
 - (b) in the presence of witnesses specifically called to bear witness to the demand being made (s). This formality is called talab-i-ishhad (demand with invocation of witnesses).

Explanation I.—The talab-i-movasibat should be made after the sale is completed. It is of no effect if made prior to the completion of the sale [s. 182].

Explanation II.—It is not necessary that the talab-imowasibat or talab-i-ishhad should be made by the pre-emptor in person. It is sufficient if it is made by a manager or duly authorised agent of the pre-emptor (1). When the preemptor is at a distance, it may be made by means of a letter (u).

Explanation III.—If the talab-i-ishhad is made in the presence of the buyer, it is not necessary that the buyer should then be actually in possession of the property in respect of which pre-emption is claimed (v).

Explanation IV.—Where there are two or more buyers and the talab-i-ishhad is not made in the presence of the vendor

⁽⁴⁾ Royab Ali v. Chunds Chura (1890) 17 (3).

54; Muborah Husenu v. Kantz Bano (1904)
27 All. 190; Jaduz Lal v. Jamish Kore (1912)
38; Ali v. Januz Lal v. Jamish Kore (1912)
39; Ali v. Januz Lal v. Ja

⁽¹⁾ Abats Beginn v. Inam Regam (1877) 1 All. 201, 71, 1 C. 460, ('23) A.A. 251. (Abats Beginn v. Inam Regam (1877) 1 All. 251; All Mukanmad v. Mukammad (1860) 18 All 309 Jada Lat v. Janki Keer (1912) 30 Cal. 015, 30 1. A. 101, 15 1. C. 650; Harshar v Shro Prazad (1884) 7 All. 41 [pre-employ bound by acts and omissions ⁽v) Syed Wayd v. Lalla Hanuman (1869) 4 Beng, L.R. A. C. 139; Muhammad v. Muhammad (1916) 38 All. 201, 33 I. C. 349. (v) Als Muhammad (1869) 18 All.

S. 186 or on the property sought to be pre-empted, the demand must be made to all the buyers (w). If it is made only, to one buyer the pre-emptor can only get a decree in respect of the share of that buyer (x) [s. 191 A].

> Explanation V.—No particular formula is necessary either for the performance of talab-i-mowasibat or talab-i-ishhad so long as the claim is unequivocally asserted (y).

Explanation VI.—Where the pre-emptor makes the talal. i-mowasibat in the presence of witnesses, and asks them to accompany him to the buyer to bear witness to the talab-i-ishhad, L and they accompany him to the buyer, and the pre-emptor makes the talab-i-ishhad in their presence and calls their attention to it, the condition laid down in sub-sec. (2) (b) will be deemed to be complied with. It is not necessary in such a case to ask the witnesses in express terms to bear testimony to the talab-i-ishhad (z.)

Hed., 550, 551; Baillie, 487-490. The talab-1-movesibal and the talab-i-ishhad are conditions precedent to the exercise of the right of pre-emption (a). The talab-1ishhad is as indispensable as the talab-i-more sibat (b). It is stated in the Hedaya (p 550) that "the right of shuffa (pre-emption) is but a feeble right, as it is the disseising of another of his property merely in order to prevent apprehended inconveniences (see notes to s. 185 above). Hence the formalities must be strictly observed, and there must be a clear proof of their observance (c). A petition by the pre-emptor to the sul registrar praying that the registration of the sale-deed may be stayed cannot be treated as a talab-1-mowasibat, there being no assertion of the right of pre-emption (d). The talab-1moreasibal should be made as soon as the fact of the sale is known to the claimant. Any unreasonable or unnecessary delay will be construed as an election not to pre-empt (e). A delay of twelve hours was held in an Allahabad case to be too long (f). And it was held in a Calcutta case that where the pre-emptor, on hearing of the sale, "entered his house, opened his chest, took out Rs. 47-4" (evidently to tender the amount to the buyer). and then performed the talab-i-mowasibat, he was not entitled to claim pre-emption. for the delay was quite unnecessary (g) [s. 187].

It is not necessary to the validity of talab-i-movasibat that it should be performed in the presence of witnesses. It is enough if the pre-emptor makes known his intention in some way. But it is of the essence of tabib-i-isshad that it should be performed before witnesses (h). It is also necessary when the talab-i-ishhad is made that the pre-emptor

⁽e) Aluman v. 1h. Humin. (1923) 45 All. 440, 78
1. C. 1029, (223) A.A. 355.
(2) Madmund Askers v. Bahmatinlah (1927)
(3) Jay Deb v. Mahmatinlah (1927)
(4) Jay Deb v. Mahmatinlah (1921) A. 1024
(5) Mahmatin Nazav. Mahhatin (1912) 34
(6) Mahmatin Nazav. Mahhatin (1912) 44
(7) Mahmatin Nazav. Mahhatin (1912) 45
(8) Mahmatin Nazav. Mahhatin (1912) 46
(8) Sist, 101 D. 139, (27) A.A. 259.
(9) Donanden Prashad v. Hamidari (1917) 44
(7) A. 103, 68, 44 LA, 80, 82, 30 D. C. 08.
(6) Mahmatin v. Mahatin Prashad (1917) 39 All.
132, 50 L. C. 11.

 ⁽c) Jadu Singh v. Rajkumar (1870) 4 B. L. R., A. C. 171.
 (d) Kheyah v. Mullick (1916) 1 Pat. L. J. 174,

³⁴ I. C. 210.

Barjaath v. Ramdhari (1908) 35 Cal. 402, 35 I. A. 60. Ali Muhammad v. Tal. Muhammad v. ıd v. Taj Muhammad (1876)

Jarfan Khan v. Jabar Meah (1884) 10 Ct.1. 383.

Jadu Singh v. Rajkumar (1870) 4 B. L. R. A. C. 171.

should refer expressly to the fact of the talab-i-mowasibat having been previously made (i).

186-187

The talab-i-ishhad may be combined with the talab-i-mowasibat. Thus if at the time of talab-i-movasibat, the pre-emptor has an opportunity of invoking witnesses in the presence of the seller or the buyer or on the premises to attest the talab-i-mowasibat, and witnesses are in fact invoked to attest it, it will suffice for both the talabs (demands). This, however, is the only case in which the talab-i-ishhad may be combined with the talab i-mowasibat (j).

The talab-i-movasibat may be made by using some such words as "I do claim my shuffa" (right of pre-emption) [Hed., 551]. The talab-i-ishhad may be made by the pre-emptor saying, "such a person has bought such a house of which I am the shafee; I have already claimed my privilege of shaffer, and now again claim it : be therefore witness thereof" [Hed., 551]. But no purticular form is necessary [Hed. 551|; what the law requires is that the demand must be to that effect and no more. It has thus been held that the requirements of a talab-1-1shhad are complied with, if the pre-emptor states in the presence of the vendor, or the vendee, or on the land sold, and in the presence of witnesses, "I have claimed pre-emption; I still claim it: bear witness therefore to the fact " (k). If there are several purchasers, it is not necessary that the names of all the purchasers should be enumerated at the time either of the first or the second demand. Thus where a pre-emptor claimed the right of preemption against five purchasers, and the form used was "whereas Jagdeb Singh and others have purchased the property and I have claimed pre-emption," etc., and this was proclaimed in the presence of two of the purchasers and at the empty doors of the other three, it was held that the demand was properly made, and that there was nothing equivocal in the formulation of the claim (1).

Explanation I.—See s. 182, Expln. II and notes thereto.

- 186A. Transfer of property by purchaser after demands.-When once a pre-emptor has made the "demands" required by law [s. 186], a transfer by the purchaser of the property sought to be pre-empted will not affect the rights of the pre-emptor. and the pre-emptor is not bound to make fresh "demands" against the transferce (m).
- 187. Tender of price not essential-It is not necessary to the validity of a claim of pre-emption that the pre-emptor should tender the price at the time of the talab-i-ishhad [sec. 1861; it is sufficient that he should then declare his readiness and willingness to pay the price stated in the deed of sale, or. if he has reasonable grounds to believe that the price named in

⁽i) Mubarak Husnin v. Kaniz Bano (1904) 27 All. 160; Sadiq Ali v. Abdul (1923) 45 All. 290, 71 I.C. 460, (23) A.A. 251. (j) Ballile 490; Nathu v. Shadi (1915) 37 All. 523, 29 I. C. 405; Ruijad Ali v. Chundi Churn (1800) 17 (Sal. 543 [F.B].

(k) Macanghten, p. 183.

(l) Jog Deb v. Mahomed (1905) 32 (Sal. 982.

(m) Mahamad Abdul v. Muhamad (1924) 48

All. 889, 79 I.C. 1053, ('24) A.A. 806.

187-190

the sale deed is fictitious, such sum as the Court determines to have been actually paid by the buyer (n).

188. Death of pre-emptor.—If the pre-emptor dies pending the suit for pre-emption, the suit may be continued by his legal representatives.

A sucs B for pre-emption. A dies before obtaining a decree in the suit. According to the Hanafi law, the right to sue is extinguished and the suit cannot be prosecuted by A's heirs (a). According to the Shigh and the Shafer law, the right to sue is not extinguished, and the suit may be continued by A's heirs [Baille, II, 190; Hed. 561]. According to the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, s. 89 (now Indian Succession Act 39 of 1925, s. 306], the right is not extinguished, and the suit may be continued by A's legal representative, that is, his executor or administrator. That Act applies to Mahomedans, and the effect of a recent Bombay decision is that whatever be the sect to which the parties belong, the rule applicable to cases of this kind is that laid down in the said Act, that is to say, if A dies leaving a will the suit may be continued by his executor, and if he dies intestate it may be continued by his heirs on obtaining letters of administration (p).

189. Right lost by acquiescence.—The right of preemption is lost if the pre-emptor enters into a compromise with the buyer, or if he otherwise acquiesces in the sale (q). But a mere offer by a pre-emptor to purchase from the buyer at the sale-price, made with the object of avoiding litigation, does not amount to acquiescence (r).

189A. Right lost by joinder of plaintiffs not entitled to pre-empt.- If a plaintiff who has a right of pre-emption joins with himself as co-plaintiff a person who has no such right he is not entitled to claim pre-emption, and the suit must be dismissed. But it is not so where he joins with himself as co-plaintiff a person who, but for his failure to make the necessary demands [s. 186], would have been entitled to pre-empt (s).

190. Right not lost by refusal of offer before sale. - As the right of pre-emption accrues after the completion of sale. it is not lost because before the completion of sale the

⁽a) Baillie, 494, Herra Lali v. Moorat Lali (1860)
11 W R 273, Lupp Pranad v. Dole Pranad
(1841) 10 Cul 1008, Keria Bakat V. Bole Pranad
(1844) 10 Cul 1008, Keria Bakat V. Rhole
Kish (1801) 16 All 247, 248 Ser Jopet
Songh v. Britiser Pranad (1921) 43 All. 137,
(b) India Pranad (1921) 43 All. 137,
(c) Baillie, 1, 505-509; Muhammad Husain
A. Aurata-nanasa (1897) 20 All. 88.
(g) Songham All 10 Cul 10

¹⁸ I. A 475, 479, 64 I C. 826. See also Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, O. 22

Code of Civil Frocoure, 2007, 0.1., 1. (g) Habib-un-nusa v Barkat Alt (1886) 8 Alt. 275, Annr Hardar v Alt Ahmad (1925) 47 All. 635, 88 I.C. 234, (25) A.A. 424

 [[]n] Inlinor],
 [n] Muhammad Nasir-ud-din v. Abdul Hasam (1894) 16 Ali. 300; Muhammad Yunnus v. Midammad Yusy (1887) 19 Ali. 334.
 [a) Deerka Singh v. Shibo Shankar (1920) 48 Ali. 310 98; [C. 1007, (27) A. A. 163; Mahamba Tokh Narajum v. Ram Rachhyu (1920) 5 Pat. 96, 90; 10; 806, (28) Ali. 743.

property was offered to him and he refused to buy (t) [s. 186, $\frac{5s.}{190-191B.}$ Expln 11.

- 190A. Right not lost by previous notice of sale .-- As the right of pre-emption arises after the completion of sale, it is not lost because the pre-emptor had notice that the property was for sale and he did not offer to purchase it (u) |s.186, Expln. 1].
- 191. Suit for pre-emption-what the claim must include. Every suit for pre-emption must include the whole of the property subject to pre-emption conveyed by one transfer to one stranger (v).

The principle of denying the right of pre-emption except as to the whole of the property sold is that if the pre-emptor were allowed to split up the bargain, he would be at liberty to take the best portion of the property and leave the worst part of it with the vendee (w). "The right of pre-emption was never intended to confer such a capricious choice upon the pre-emptor "(x). But where the purchaser himself sells part of the property to another, the pre-emptor is entitled to pre-emption in respect of that portion which remains with the purchaser (y).

Limitation. A suit to enforce the right of pre-emption must be instituted within one year from the date when the purchaser takes physical possession of the property, or, where the subject of the sale does not admit of physical possession, when the instrument of sale is registered (Limitation Act, 1908, sch. 1, art. 10). If the subject of sale does not admit of physical possession and there is no registered instrument the suit will be governed not by art. 10, but by art. 120 (z). When the person entitled to pre-emption is a minor, the right may be claimed on his behalf by his guardian, but the suit must be instituted within the aforesaid period, and the period of limitation will not be extended by reason of the pre-emptor's minority [Limitation Act, 1908, s. 8].

When pre-empted properly vests in pre-emptor.-See Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, O. 20, r. 14. Upon a pre-emption decree, the property and the right to mesne profits therefrom, vest in the pre-emptor only from the date when he pays the amount of the purchase price finally decreed; until that time, the original purchaser retains possession and is entitled to the rents and profits (a).

- 191A. Sale to two or more persons.-Where the property is sold to two or more persons, the pre-emptor may pre-empt the share of any one of them (b).
 - 191B. Decree for pre-emption not transferable.—A decree for pre-emption is not transferable so as to entitle the ⁽t) Abadi Hayan v, Juam Beyum (1877) 1. All 251. Kanhan Jal v. Ralka Prasad (1905) 27 All. 670. (u) Muhammad Askari v. Rahnatullah (1927) 40 All. 716, 1061. C. 771 (27) A.A. 548. (v) Sheebharus v. Jusch Ran (1886) 8 All. 462. 49 Daya Braad v. Muna (1886) 8 All. 462.

⁽y) Ude Ram v. Atma Ram (1924) 5 Lah. 80, (2) 80 ft. 2(24) A.R. 3431. (2) 81 ft. 2(24) A.R. 3431. (3) 10 ft. 2(24) A.R. 3431. (4) 11 ft. 3(24) A.R. 3431. (5) 12 ft. 3(24) A.R. 3431. (6) 12 ft. 3(24) A.R.

⁽b) Muhammad Askari v. Rahmatullah (192 49 All. 716, 105 I.C. 771, ('26) A.A. 548

- transferee to obtain possession of the property in suit in 191B-193A execution of the decree (c).
 - 192. Legal device for evading pre-emption.-When it is apprehended that a claim for pre-emption may be advanced by a neighbour, the vendor may sell the whole of his property excluding a portion, however small, immediately bordering on the neighbour's property, and thus defeat the neighbour's right of pre-emption.

Hed. 563; Baillie, 512, et seq. Fabrication is not one of the devices permissible under the Mahomedan law for defeating the right of pre-emption (). See notes to s. 182. " Lease in perpetuity."

- 193. Sect-law as governing pre-emption.—(1) If both the vendor and pre-emptor are Sunnis, the right of pre-emption is to be determined according to the Sunni law, and if both the parties are Shighs (e), the right of pre-emption is governed by the Shiah law (f).
- (2) If the vendor is a Sunni, and the pre-emptor is a Shiah, the right of pre-emption is, according to the Allahabad High Court, governed by the Shiah law, on the principle of reciprocity explained in the notes to sec. 184 above (a).
- (3) If the vendor is a Shiah, and the pre-emptor is a Sunni, then, according to the Allahabad High Court, the right of pre-emption is governed by the Shiah law (h); but according to the Calcutta High Court, it is governed by the Sunni law (i).
- (4) The personal law of the buyer is immaterial in these cases (j).
- 193A. Points of distinction between the Sunni and the Shiah law of pre-emption.—(1) According to the Shiah law, no right of pre-emption exists in the case of property owned by more than two co-sharers (k).

⁽c) Ramasahai v Gaya (1884) 7 All 107, 111; Nadir Ali v Wali (1924) 5 Lah 486, 85, i C 182 (25) Al. 202, Mehr Khan v. Ghilam (1921) 2 Lah. 282, 64 I. C. (d) Jada Lal v. Janki Koer (1908) 35 Lal. 575, affind. in (1912) 39 Cal. 915, 39 I A. 101, 15 I C. 6 9.

⁽e) See Gobind Dayal v. Inayatullah (1885) 7 All.

⁽f) Abbas Ali v. Maya Ram (1888) 12 All. 229.

 ⁽q) Qurban v. Chot. (1899) 22 All. 102.
 (h) Per Khan v. Fayyaz (1914) 36 All. 488, 25 I C.

Per Khan V. Faque (1914) 30 Ali. 488, 20 1 C.
445.
Jog Deb V. Mahomed (1905) 32 Cal. 982.
Gobind Dayal V. Inagutullah (1885) 7 All. 775.
Jog Deb V. Mahomed (1905) 32 Cal. 1982.
But Ree Kndertslidb V. Maham Moham
But Ree Kndertslidb V. Maham Moham
Abbaa Ali V. Magu Rom (1889) 12 All. 220:
Husan Bakah V. Mahuzu-Uling (1925)
47 All. 944, 88 L.C. 972, (25) A. A. 550.

(2) The Shiah law does not recognize the right of pre- S. 193 A emption on the ground of vicinage (1), or on the ground of " participation in the appendages."

Baillie, Part II, 175-179. A, a Sunni, sells his land to B. A's neighbour C, who is a Shiah, sucs A and B for pre-emption. According to the Allahabad High Court, the law to be applied is the Shiah law, and under that law a neighbour as such has no right of pre-emption. C is not therefore entitled to pre-empt. But it we deny C the right to pre-empt by applying his own law [Shigh law] to him it is but fair that when C sells his own property, we should apply the same law, so that if his neighbour is a Sunni and he claims the right of pre-emption on the ground of ricinage, we should not allow his Sunni arighbour the right of pre-emption. This is the line of reasoning followed by the Allahabad High Court in the cases referred to in sec. 193, sub-secs, (2) and (3). The tendency of the Calcutta High Court is to apply in all cases the Sunni law of pre-emption except perhaps in cases where both the vendor and preemptor are Shiahs The reason given by that Court is that the law of pre-emption in force in this country is the Sunni bix of pre-emption.

(I) Qurban v. (hote (1899) 22 All. 10.

CHAPTER XIV.

MARRIAGE, DOWER, DIVORCE AND PARENTAGE.

A .-- MARRIAGE.

Ss. 194. Definition of marriage.—Marriage (nikah) is defined in the beat contract which has for its object the procreation and the legalising of children.

Hed., 25; Baillie, 4.

Mula or temporary marrings.—The Shah law recognizes two kinds of marriages namely, (1) permanent, and (2) muta or temporary (s. 206 B.) The Sunni law does not recognize muta marriage at all (Baille, 18).

- 195. Capacity for marriage.—(1) Every Mahomedan of sound mind, who has attained puberty, may enter into a contract of marriage.
- (2) Lunatics and minors who have not attained puberty may be validly contracted in marriage by their respective guardians [ss. 207-211].

Explanation.—Puberty is presumed, in the absence of evidence, on completion of the age of fifteen years.

Bailhe, 4; Hed., 529. Note that the previsions of the Indian Majority Act, 1875, do not apply to matters relating to marriage, dower, and divorce. See notes to s. 101 above.

When consent to a marriage is obtained by force or fraud, such marriage is invalid unless ratified (m).

esential to the validity of a marriage that there should be a proposal made by or on behalf of one of the parties to the marriage, and an acceptance of the proposal by or on behalf of the other, in the presence and hearing of two male or one male and two female witnesses, who must be sane and adult Mahomedans. The proposal and acceptance must both be expressed at one meeting; a proposal made at one meeting and an acceptance made at another meeting do not constitute a valid marriage.

⁽m) Abdul Lalif v. Niyaz Ahmed (1909) 31 All. 343, 1 I C. 538 [wife's illness concealed].

Hed., 25, 26; 4, 5, Baillie, 10, 14. The usual form of proposal is, "I have married myself to you," and that of acceptance is, "I have consented."

Ss. 196-199

Shiah law.—According to the Shiah law the presence of witnesses is not necessary in any matter regarding marriage: Baillie, Part II, 4.

Registration of marriages.—As to registration of Mahomedan marriages, see the Kazi's Act, 1880, and Bengal Act I of 1876 read with Act VII of 1905.

197. Absence of witnesses —A marriage contracted without witnesses as required by s. 196 is invalid (fasid), but not void (batil).

Baillie, 155. As to invalid marriages, see ss. 204A and 206 below.

198. Number of wives. It is not lawful for a Mahomedan to have more than four wives at the same time. Where a Mahomedan who has four wives marries a fifth wife, the marriage is not void (batil), but invalid (fasid).

Baillie, 30, 154 (fourth class). '' It is not lawful for a man to marry the wife of another.' Ballie, 38. As to invalid marriages, see ss. 204A and 206 below 198A. Polyandry not allowed.—It is not lawful for a woman to have more than one husband at the same time.

Bailie, 154 (sixth class).

199. Marriage with women undergoing iddat—It is not lawful for a Mahomedan to marry a widow or a divorced woman before the expiration of the period of iddat which it is incumbent upon her to observe on the death of her husband and on divorce. Where such a marriage does take place, the marriage is not void (batil), but merely invalid (tasid).

Explanation.—The iddat of a woman arising on divorce is three courses, if she is subject to menstruation; if not, it terminates at the expiration of three months from the date of divorce. The iddat of a woman arising on widowhood, if she is not pregnant at the time of her husband's death, is four months and ten days, and, if pregnant, four months and ten days or until delivery, whichever is longer (n).

Hed., 128, 129; Baillie, 38, 151, 352-358. Iddat is prescribed for the establishment of legitimate descent and the prevention of "confusion of blood." As to invalid marriages, see ss. 204A and 206 below. As to marriage during iddat consequential on husband's apostasy, see a. 237 below.

Ss. 199A, 200

- 199A. Marriage between a Sunni and a Shiah.—A Sunni male may contract a valid marriage with a Shiah female (o), and a Shiah male may contract a valid marriage with a Sunni female (p).
- The rights and obligations of the wife would be governed by the law to which she belonged at the three or her marriage. See s. 23.
- 200. Difference of religion—(1) A Mahomedan male may contract a valid marriage not only with a Mahomedan woman, but with a Kitabia, 'that is, a Jewess or a Christian, but not with an idolatress or a fire-worshipper. But if he does marry an idolatress or a fire-worshipper, the marriage is not void (batil), but merely invalid (fasid) (q).
- (2) A Mahomedan woman cannot contract a valid marriage except with a Mahomedan. But if she does marry a non-Mahomedan, whether he be a Kidabi (that is, a Christian or a Jew) or a non-Kidabi (that is, an idolater or a fire-worshipper), the marriage is not void (batil), but merely invalid (fasid).

Hed., 30, Barbe, 40-42, 151, 153.

As to void and invalid marriages, see ss. 204-A, 205-A, and 206.

Kitab means a book, that is, a book of revealed religion. Kitabi means a male who believes in Christianity or Judasan. Kitabia is a feinale who believes in either of these religions. The question whether a Buddhist woman can be regarded as a Kitabia arose in a case before the Prvy Conneil, but it was not decided (r). In the same case their Lorishings of the Prvy Conneil expressed the opinion that in all cases where, according to Mahomedian law, unbelief or difference of creed is a bar to marriage with a true believer (i.e., a Mussulman), such marriage will be valid if the alien in religion embraces the Mahomedian faith. Profession of such faith, whether with or without conversion, is necessary and sufficient to remove the dissolutive. But such profession must be made before or at the time of the ceremony (s).

Where either party to a contract is a Christian, the marriage must be solemnized in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Christian Marriage Act XV of 1872, otherwise the marriage is void (see s. 4 of the Act). If the marriage is solemnized in accordance with those provisions, it will be valid though it be the marriage of a Mahometian with a Christian. But if the marriage is not so solemnized, it is void though it may have been solemnized according to Mahomedian rites (f).

Shah kiw.—According to Shiah law, a female Mahomedan may not lawfully marry a non-Moslem husband, nor can a male Mahomedan marry a woman who is not a Kitabia. Even if she is a Kitabia, the majority of the Asan-Asharyas hold that the only form of marriage that can be contracted with her is mutu marriage (s. 252A); Baillie, Part II, 29; Tyabji, s. 51.

```
(a) Ngud Grodan Hossein v. Mrsst. Nelabh
Hegum (1866) 6 W.R. 88; Ayrt Hano v.
Mahammad (1925) 47 All. 823, 89 LC.
600, (25) 1, 1, 720
(p) Nasrat Husain v. Hamidan (1882) 4 All.
```

990

 ⁽p) Nasrat Husain v. Hamidan (1882) 4 All. 205.
 (q) Husan v. Panna Lal (1928) 7 Pat. 6, 103 I. C.

⁽r) Abdul Razuck v. Aga Mahomed Juffer (1893) 21 I. A. 56, 61-65, 21 Cal. 666, 674. (s) (1803) 21 I. A. 56, 64-21 Cal. 666, 673-674, supra. (t) Sec Skinner v. Durga Prasad (1904) 31 All.

201. Prohibited degrees of consanguinity.—A man is prohibited from marrying (1) his mother or his grandmother how high soever; (2) his daughter or grand daughter how low soever; (3) his sister whether full, consanguine or uterine; (4) his niece or great niece how low soever; and (5) his aunt or great aunt how high soever, whether paternal or maternal. A marriage with a woman prohibited by reason of consanguinity is void (batil).

201-240

Hed., 27; Baillie, 24. As to void marriages, see ss. 204A and 205A below.

202. Prohibited degrees of affinity.—A man is pro-hibited from marrying (1) his wife's mother or grandmother how high soever; (2) his wife's daughter or grand daughter how low soever; (3) the wife of his father or paternal grandfather how high soever; and (4) the wife of his son, or of his son's son or daughter's son how low soever. A marriage with a woman prohibited by reason of affinity is void (batil).

Hed., 28; Baillie, 24-29, 151. As to void marriages, see ss $204\mathrm{A}$ and $205\mathrm{A}$ below.

203. Prohibition on the ground of fosterage.—Fosterage is amuch a bar to a lawful marriage as consanguinity, except in the case of certain foster relations, such as a sister's foster mother, or a foster sister's mother, or a foster son's sister, or a foster brother's sister, with any of whom a lawful marriage may be contracted. A marriage with a woman prohibited by reason of fosterage is void (batil).

Hed., 68, 69 ; Baillie, 30, 154, 194. As to void marriages, see ss. 204A and 205A below. $\underline{\ }$

204. Women who cannot be lawfully joined together.—It is 'not lawful for a man to have two wives at the same time who are so related to each other that, if one of them had been a male, they could not have lawfully intermarried. But there is a conflict of decisions whether the marriage with the second of the two wives in such a case is void (batil) or invalid (fasid), the High Court of Calcutta holding that it is void (u), and the High Courts of Bombay (v) and the Chief Court of Oudh (w) holding that it is invalid.

(u) Airunnissa v. Karimunnissa (1895) 23 Cal. 130. (v) Taibi v. Mosela Khan (1917) 41 Bom. 485. (v) Musammat Kanuza v. Hasan (1926) 1 Luck. 71, 92 I. C. 82, C. 201 A. O. 231. Ss. 204, 204A.

Hed., 28, 26; Ballille, 31, 153. Thus it is not lawful for a man to marry his wyfo's sister in his wife's lifetime. According to the Calcutta High Court, such a marriage is vord, and the issue is illigitimate (a. 205A). According to the High Court of Bombay and the Chief Court of Oudh, such a marriage is merely invalid, and the issue is not illigitimate (a. 206). The Calcutta decision, it is submitted, is not correct.

There is, of course, nothing to prevent a man from marrying his wife's sister after the death or divorce of the wife: Baillie, 33.

- 204A. Distinction between void (Path) and invalid (Fasid) marriages -(I) A marriage which is not valid may be either void (batil) or invalid (fasid).
- (2) A void marriage is one which is unlawful in itself, the prohibition against the marriage being perpetual and absolute. Thus a marriage with a woman prohibited by reason of consanguinity (s. 201), affinity (s. 202), or fosterage (s. 203) is void, the prohibition against marriage with such a woman being perpetual and absolute (x).
- (3) An invalid marriage is one which is not unlawful in itself, but unlawful "for something else," as where the prohibition is temporary or relative, or when the invalidity arises from an accidental circumstance, such as the absence of witnesses. Thus the following marriages are invalid, namely-
 - (a) a marriage contracted without witnesses (ss. 196-197);
 - (b) a marriage with a fifth wife by a person having four wives (s. 198);
 - (c) a marriage with a woman who is the wife of another (s. 198A);
 - (d) a marriage with a woman undergoing iddat (s. 199);
 - (e) a marriage prohibited by reason of difference of religion (s. 200):
 - (f) a marriage with a woman so related to the wife that if one of them had been a male, they could not have lawfully intermarried (s. 204).

The reason why the aforesaid marriages are invalid, and not void, is that in cl. (a) the invalidity arises from an accidental circumstance; in cl. (b) the objection may be removed by the man divorcing one of his four wives; in cl. (c) the objection may be removed by a divorce of the woman by her first husband; in cl. (d) the impediment ceases on the expiration of the period of iddat; in cl. (e) the objection may be removed by the wife becoming a convert to the Mussalman, 204A-206 Christian or Jewish religion, or the husband adopting the Moslem faith; and in cl. (f) the objection may be removed by the man divorcing the wife that is related within the prohibited degrees to the new wife, e.g., if a man has two wives A and B, and he marries C who is a sister of A, he may make C lawful to himself by divorcing A.

⁽r) Women within the prohibited degree are called Mooharum.

Baillie, 150-155. Abu Hanifa does not recognise the distinction set out above between void and invalid marriages. But the distraction is recognised by his two disciples Abu Yusuf and Imam Muhammad. According to Abu Hamfa, no marriage is void, not even a marriage with a woman probabiled by reason of consanguality, affinity or fosterage, for, according to him, "all the daughters of Adam being qualified for procreation, which is the primary object of marriage, are fit subjects for that contract" (i.e., contract of marriage) Baillie, 151, 154-155. A marriage with a woman prohibited by reason of consanguinty, affinity or fosterage, is, according to Abu Hamfa, merely invalid, the result being that if there be offspring of the marriage, they are legitimate and entitled to inherit to their father; see Baillie, 150, and s, 206 below. The omnion of Abu Hanifa is not likely to be adopted by any Court in British India.

Shigh law.—The Shigh law does not recognize the distinction between invalid and void marriages. According to that law a marriage is either valid or void. Marriages that are invalid under the Sunni law are void under the Shiah law.

205. Effects of a valid (sahih) marriage —A valid marriage confers upon the wife, the right of dower, maintenance, and residence in her husband's house, and imposes on her the obligation to be faithful and obedient to her husband, and to admit him to sexual intercourse. It creates between the parties prohibited degrees of relation and reciprocal rights of inheritance

Bailhe, 13. It may be noted that a Mahomedan husband does not by marriage ; acquire any interest in his wife's property (y).

205A Effects of a void (batil) marriage.—A marriage that is void does not create any civil rights or obligations between the parties. The offspring of a void marriage are illegitimate.

Baillie, 156. Sce ss. 201-204A, and notes to s. 204A.

- 206. Effects of an invalid (fasid) marriage -(1) An invalid : marriage has no legal effect before consummation.
 - (2) If consummation has taken place, the wife is entitled to dower "proper" (s. 220) or specified (s. 218), whichever is less, and children conceived and born during the subsistence of the marriage are legitimate as in the case of a valid

- marriage (z). But an invalid marriage does not, even after 206, 206A consummation, create mutual rights of inheritance between the parties.
 - (3) An invalid marriage may be terminated by a single declaration on either side [see s. 230].
 - (4) The wife is bound to keep the iddat of divorce, but not the iddat of death [see s. 199].

Baillie, 156-158, 694. See ss. 197-200, 204 and 204A.

A marriage with a widow before the expiration of the period of uldat is not void, but arcrely invalid (s. 199). The High Court of Lahore has held that such a marriage is illegal (?) and that the wife is not entitled to restitution of conjugal rights against her husband (a).

- 206A. Presumption of marriage —(1) Marriage will presumed, in a case of prolonged and continual cohabitation as husband and wife, without the testimony of witnesses (b). But though prolonged cohabitation may give rise to the presumption of marriage, the presumption is not necessarily a strong one, and it does not apply in a case where the woman, before she was brought to the house of her alleged husband, was a prostitute (c). The presumption may also be rebutted by showing that the conduct of the parties was inconsistent with the relation of husband and wife (d).
- (2) Marriage may also be presumed from an acknowledge ment made by either party that he or she was married to the other, and assented to by the other (e), unless the case is one where the marriage would be unlawful by reason of any of the rules laid down in ss. 198 to 204 (f).
- '(3) Where a man has acknowledged the paternity of a child, it will be presumed that he was lawfully married to the mother of the child, unless there is an insurmountable obstacle to such a marriage as in the cases mentioned in ss. 198 to 204 (a).

⁽z) Ihsan v. Panna Lat (1928) 7 Pat. 6, 103 I. C 43.1 (28), A. P 19

⁽a) Jhanda v Mst Husain Bibi (1923) 4 Lah. 192, 73 l. C. 590, (23) A. L. 949

⁽b) Macnaghten, p. 58, s. 13, Khajah Hidayat v. Rai Jan (1844) 3 M. I.A. 205, Mahomed Banker v. Shurfoon-nissa (1860)8 M. I. A.

Hanker v. Santyson (1910) 37 I A. (c) Ghazarfar v. Kantz Fatema (1910) 37 I A. 105, 100, 32 All, 345, 350, 6 I, C 674, Jariut-oli-Butool v. Hoseinee Begum (1867)

^{642-643, 00 1. 0. 00...} [9] Rallie, 408. (g) Khajooroonissa v. Rousshan Jehan (1876) 3 I. A. 201, 311-312, 2 Cal. 186, 199-200; Imambandi v. Mutaudda (1918) 45 I. A. 73, 81-82, 45 Cal. 878, 880-800, 47 I. C. 513, Sce also ss 247 and 249.

MARRIAGE. 181

✓206B Muta marriage —(1) The Shiah law recognises 'S. 206B. two kinds of marriage, namely, (1) permanent, and (2) muta or temporary.

- (2) A Shiah of the male sex may contract a mula marriage with a woman professing the Mahomedan, Christian or Jewish religion, or even with a woman who is a fire-worshipper, but not with a woman following any other religion. But a Shiah woman may not contract a mula marriage with a non-Moslem (h).
- (3) It is essential to the validity of a muta marriage that (1) the period of cohabitation should be fixed, and this may be a day, a month, a year or a term of years (i), and that (2) some dower should be specified (j). When the term and the dower have been fixed, the contract is valid. If the term is fixed, but the dower is not specified, the contract is void. But if the dower is specified, and the term is not fixed, the contract, though void as a muta, may operate as a "permanent" marriage (k).
 - (4) The following are the incidents of a muta marriage:—
 - (a) a muta marriage does not confer on the wife any right or claim to her husband's property, but children conceived while it exists are legitimate and capable of inheriting from their father (l);
 - (b) where the cohabitation of a man and a woman commences in a muta marriage, but there is no evidence as to the term for which the marriage was contracted and the cohabitation continues, the proper inference would in default of evidence to the contrary, be that the muta continued during the whole period of cohabitation, and that children conceived during that period were legitimate and capable of inheriting from their father (m):
 - (c) a muta marriage is dissolved ipso facto by the expiry of the term. No right of divorce is recognized in the case of a muta marriage, but the hus⁽h) Baillie, Part II, 29, 40.

 (i) Baillie, Part II, 42.

⁽j) Baillie, Part II, 41.

⁽k) Ballie, Part II, 42-43; Querry Vol. I., pp

⁽l) Ballile, Part II, 44: Shoharat Singh Bibi (1915) 17 Bom. L.R. 13, 24 [P. C.].

⁽m) (1915) 17 Born. L. R. 13, 24 J. C. 46 [the cohabitation in this case way years].

Ss. 206B-207.

- band may at his will put an end to the contract of marriage by "making a gift of the term" (hiba-imuddat) to the wife, even before the expiration of the fixed term (n);
- (d) if a muta marriage is not consummated, the woman is entitled to half the dower. If the marriage is consummated, she is entitled to full dower, exen though the husband may put an end to the contract by giving away the unexpired portion of the term. If the woman leaves her husband before the expiry of the term, the husband is entitled to deduct a proportionate part of the dower (o);
- (c) a woman married in the muta form is not entitled to maintenance under the Shiah law (p). But it has been held that she is entitled to maintenance as a wife under the provisions of s. 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code (q).

The Sunni law does not recognize muta marriages at all [Baille, 18].

The expression "permanent" in sub-sec. (1) is used in comradistinction to "temporary." No Mahomedan marriage, either among Sunnis or Shiahs, is permanent in the sense in which a Christian or a Parsi marriage is, for the husband may divorce the wife at any time he likes.

Marriage of Minors.

207. Marriage of minors.—A boy or a girl who has not attained puberty (in this Part called a minor), is not competent to enter into a contract of marriage, but he or she may be contracted in marriage by his or her guardian.

A boy or a girl who has attained puberty, that is, completed the age of fifteen years, is at liberty to marry any one he or she likes, and the guardian has no right to interfere if the match be equal: Macnaghten, p. 88, ss. 14-16. See s. 195 above.

Provision for benefit of manors in contemplation of marriage.—A has a daughter D B has a so S. Both D and S are minors. A and B contract for the marriage of D with S. Prior to the marriage B executes an agreement with A that in consideration of D's marriage with S, he (B) will pay to D Rs. 500 per month for Kharck-i-pandan (iderally, beetle-leaf expenses), and charges accretain properties of his with the payment. Some time after the marriage B discontinues the payments. Is D entitled to recover the arrears of the allowance from B: It has been held by the Privy Council that she is, ⁽q) Luddun v Mirza Kumar (1882) 8 Cal. 736, This decision is of doubtful authority, because, as stated in Sharaya-ul-Islam, "the name of a seife does not in reality apply to a woman contracted in moota" [Baillie, Part II, 344].

 ⁽n) Baillie, Part 11, 43, Mahomed Abid Ali v, Luddun (1887) 14 Cal 276
 (o) Baillie, Part II, 41, (1887) 14 Cal, 276, 284-285, supra

^{285,} supra (v) Baillie, Part 11, 97,

though according to the English common law she is not, she not being a party to the contract. Their Lordships observed that in India and among communities circumstanced as the Mahomedans, among whom marriages are contracted for minors by parents and guardians, it might occasion serious injustee if the common haw doctrine was applied to agreements or arrangements on entered into in connection with such contracts (r).

Ss. 207-209

208. Guardianship in marriage (jabr).—The right to dispose of a minor in marriage belongs successively to the (1) father, (2) paternal grandfather how high soever, and (3) brother and other male relations on the father's side in the order of inheritance enumerated in the Table of Residuaries. In default of paternal relations, the right devolves upon the mother, maternal uncle or aunt and other maternal relations within the prohibited degrees. In default of maternal kindred, it devolves upon Government.

Hed., 36, 39. The fact that a guardian has been appointed by the Court of the person of a minor does not take away the power of the guardian for the marriage to dispose of the minor in marriage. But the minor being in such a case ward of the Court, the guardian for the marriage should not dispose of the minor in marriage without the sanction of the Court to the pronosed marriage of

A postasy of guardum for marinage.—It is doubtful whether the right to dispose of a minor in marriage is lost by the apostasy of the guardian from the Mahomedan fatth-Under the original Mahomedan law an apostate has no right to contract a minor in marriage (Hed., 392). It is enacted, however, by Act XXI of 1850, that no law or insage shall millet on any person who renounces his religion any "forefeiture of rights or property," and it was accordingly held by the High Court of Bengal in Muchoo v. Arzoon (t) that a Hindu father is not deprived of his right to the enstedy of his children by reason of his convert on to Christianty. In a subsequent case, however, decided by the same Court, but without any reference to Muchou's case, it was held that a Mahomedan, who had become a convert to Judaism, was disqualified by reason of his apostasy from disposing of his daughter in marriage (u). In a recent Bombay case, it was held, following Muchoo's case, that a Hindu convert to Mahomedanism is not disqualified from giving his son in adoption to a Hindu (v). It is submitted that the right to contract a minor in marriage is a "right" within the meaning of the above Act, and that the decision in Muchoo's case is the correct one.

Shuth luv...-The only guardians for marriage recognised by the Shiah law are the father and the paternal grandfather how high seever: Baillie, Part II, 6. See notes to 1 s. 210.

209. Marriage brought about by father or grandfather.— ! When a minor has been disposed of in marriage by the father or father's father, the contract of marriage is valid and binding, and it cannot be annulled by the minor on attaining puberty. But where a father or father's father has acted negligently or ⁽r) Khwaja Mahomed Khan \ Husaini Begam (1910) 37 1.A. 152, 32 All. 410, 7 1.(*. 237. (s) Monijan \ District Judge, Birbhum (1914) 42 (al. 351, 25 1. (. 229.

⁽t) (1866) 5 W. R. 235. (u) In the matter of Marin Bibs (1874) 13 B.L.R. 160

⁽¹⁾ Shamsing v. Santabai (1901) 25 Born, 551.

Sa. 209-211 wickedly, e.g., where the minor is married to a lunatic, or the contract is to the manifest disadvantage of the minor, the contract is voidable at the option of the minor on attaining pulberty.

Hed., 37, Baillie, 50; Amir Ali, Vol. II, p. 420. See s. 210 below.

It has been held by the High Court of Allahabad that a Shiah girl given in marriage by her father to a Sunni husband has an option of repudiation on attaining puberty unless it has been ratified by consummation or otherwise, the reason given being that it would be contarry to all rules of equity or justice to force such marriage on her if on attaining puberty she considers the marriage to be regignant to her religious sentiments (e).

210. Marriage brought about by other guardians: Option of puberty. When a marriage is contracted for a minor by any guardian other than the father or father's father, the minor has the option of repudiating the marriage on attaining puberty. This is technically called the "option of puberty." (khyar-ul-bulugh).

The right of repudiating the marriage is lost, in the case of a female, if after attaining puberty and after being informed of her right of repudiation, she does not repudiate without unreasonable delay (x). But in the case of a male, the right continues until he has ratified the marriage either expressly or impliedly as by payment of dower or by cohabitation.

Hed. 38; Baillie, 50-52; Macnaghten, p. 58, s. 18.

Shuth line. -According to the Shuth law, a marriage brought about by a person other than a father or grandfather is wholly ineffective until it is ratified by the minor on attaining puberty (v). See notes to s. 208, "Shuth law."

211. Effect of repudiation.—When the "option of repudiation" is exercised, the marriage is dissolved from the moment Vof repudiation. But the marriage is valid until repudiation, and in the event of the death of either party before repudiation, the other is entitled to all the rights of inheritance.

Hed. 37, 38; Bailhe, 51. It is stated both in the Hedaya and the Fatawa Alungiri that the repudiation should be confirmed by a decree of the Court, and that until then the parties have mutual rights of inheritance. In a Calcutte assa (z), however, Amer Ali, J., observed that the decree of the Court was needed only to provide judicial evidence in order to prevent disputes, and held that a girl who had been disposed of in marriage during her minority by her mother, and who repudiated the marriage on attaining puberty and then married another person, was not guilty of bigamy, though the repudiation was not confirmed by a judicial order.

⁽e) Azı Baro v. Mishammadı (1925) 47 All. 823, (r) Bamillah v. Xur Mishammadı (1922) 44 All. 61, 63 I. C. 702, (223) AA 155. (g) Misha Johan v. Mishammadı (1922) 44 All. (g) Rodal Airrat v. Queen-Empress (1891) 19 Ca

212. Marriage of lunatics.—The provisions of sections 207 to 211, relating to the marriage of minors, apply mutatis mutandis to the marriage of lunatics.

Ss. 212-216

Baillie, 50-54.

Maintenance of Wives.

- V213. Husband's duty to maintain his wife.—The husband is bound to maintain his wife (unless she is too young for matrimonial intercourse) (a), so long as she is faithful to him and obeys his reasonable orders. But he is not bound to maintain a wife who refuses herself to him (b), or is otherwise disobedient (c), unless the refusal or disobedience is justified by non-payment of prompt (s. 221) dower (d).
- 214. Order for maintenance—If the husband neglects or refuses to maintain his wife without any lawful cause, the wife may sue him for maintenance in a Civil Court, but she is not entitled to a decree for past maintenance, unless the claim is based on a specific agreement (e). Or, she may apply for an order of maintenance under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1908, section 488, in which case the Court may order the husband to make a monthly allowance for hor maintenance not exceeding fifty rupees.

Shaffei law.—According to the Shaffei school, the wife is entitled to past maintenance though there may be no agreement in respect thereof (f).

√215. Maintenance during iddat.—The wife is entitled to: maintenance during the iddat consequent upon divorce (g), but a widow is not entitled to maintenance during the iddat consequent upon her husband's death (h).

As to the period of iddat, see s. 199 above. When an order is made for the maintenance of a wife under s. 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code it will cease to operate in the case of divorce, on the expiration of the period of iddat, but not earlier (i.)

Judicial Proceedings.

216. Suit for restitution of conjugal rights.—(1) Where a wife without lawful cause ceases to cohabit with her

(a) Baillie, 441. (b) Baillie, 442.	(g) Hed, 145; Ballile, 450. (h) Aga Mahomad Jaffer v. Koolsom Beebee
(b) Baillie, 442.
(c) A. v. B. (1896) 21 Bom. 77, at p. 82.	(1897) 25 Cal. 9
(d) Baillie, 442.	(s) In re Abdul Als (1883) 7 Bom. 180; In the
(e) Abdul Futteh v. Zabunnessa (1881) 6 Cal. 631	matter of Din Mahammad (1882) 5 All.
(f) Mahamed Haji v. Kalımabı (1918) 41 Mad.	226 ; Shah Abu v. Ulfat Bibi (1896) 19 All.
211, 42 I. C. 517.	50.

- S. 216 husband, the husband may sue the wife in a Civil Court for the restitution of conjugal rights (i).
 - (2) Cruelty when it is of such a character as to render it unsafe for the wife to return to her husband's dominion is a valid defence to such a suit. "It may be, too, that gross failure by the husband of the performance of the obligation, which the marriage contract imposes on him (s. 205) for the benefit of the wife, might, if properly proved, afford good grounds for refusing to him the assistance of the Court" (k).
 - (3) An agreement entered into before marriage by which it is provided that the wife should be at liberty to live with her parents after marriage is void, and does not afford an answer to a suit for restitution of conjugal rights (l). Similarly, an agreement, entered into after marriage between a husband and wife who were for some time prior to the date of the agreement living separate from each other, providing that they should resume cohabitation, but that if the wife should be unable to agree with the husband, she should be free to leave him, is void and does not constitute a defence to the husband's suit for restitution of conjugal rights (m).
 - (4) Non-payment of prompt dower (s. 221) is a defence to a suit for restitution of conjugal rights (n). But it is a defence in this sense only that the Court will not in such a case pass an absolute decree for restitution against the wife, but one conditional upon payment of the dower (o). If the marriage is consummated, non-payment of prompt dower is no defence at all to the suit (p),
 - (5) A false charge of adultery by a husband against his wife is a good ground for refusing a decree for restitution of conjugal rights (q). But if the charge is true, and it was made at a time when the wife was actually living in adultery, Moonshee Buzloor Ruheem v. Shumsoonnissa Begum (1867) 11 M.L.A. 551. (k) Moonshee Busloor Ruhem v. Shumsoonnissa Begum (1867) 11 MTA 551; Meherally v Sakerkhanoboi (1905) 7 Bom. L. R 602, 608, Husaim Began v. Muhammud (1907) 29 All. 222; Homid Husain v. Kubra Begum (1918) 40 All 332, 44 I. C.

Abdul v. Hussenbi (1904) 6 Bom. L. R. 728, Imam Ali v. Arfatuanisa (1913) 18 Cal. W. N. 693, 21 1 C. 87, Fatima Bibi v.

Nur Muhammad (1920) 1 Lah 597, 60 L C.

⁽m) Mehreally v. Sakerikhanodni (1905) 7 Bom. IX. 600 (m) Mehreally v. Sakerikhanodni (1905) 7 Bom. IX. 600 (m) Mehreally v. Sakerikhanodni (1901) 35 Bom. 386,11 (* 558)
60 Abril v. Hussenh (1904) 6 Bom L. 228, Mehreally v. Sakerikhanodni (1905) 7 Bom. (1905) 7 Bom. (1906) Mehreally v. Sakerikhanodni (1905) 7 Bom. (2) Lucik, 482, (101, 10, 261/27) A. 0, 154, Janus Betev. Neparre (1905) 3 W. R. 93.

it is no ground for refusing a decree for restitution of conjugal rights (r).

216-217

- (6) In a recent case, where the parties belonged to the Mussalman Kharwa community of Broach, the High Court of Bombay refused to pass a decree for restitution of conjugal rights against the wife, on the ground that the husband having been expelled from the caste, the wife was not bound to live with him (s).
 - 216A. Suit for jactitation of marriage -A suit will lie between Mahomedans in British India for jactitation of a marriage (t).
 - Jactitation is a false pretence of being married to another. "There can be no doubt that unless a man is entitled by means of the Civil Courts to put to silence a woman who falsely claims to be his wife, the man and others may suffer considerable hardship and his heirs may be harassed by false claims after his death " (u).
 - 216B. Suit for breach of promise to marry.—In a suit by a Mahomedan for damages for breach of promise to marry the plaintiff is not entitled to damages peculiar to an action for breach of promise of marriage under the English law, but to a return merely of presents of money, ornaments, clothes and other things (v).

B.—Dower.

217. Dower defined -- Mahr or dower is a sum of money or other property which the wife is entitled to receive from the husband in consideration of the marriage.

See Baillie, 91, and per Mahmood, J., Abdul Kadir v. Salima (1886) 8 All 149, at p. 157.

Marriage under the Mahomedan law is a civil contract (s. 194), and it is likened to a contract of sale. A sale is a transfer of property for a price. In the contract of marriage the "wife" is the property, and the "dower" is the price, see the Allahabad case cited above. In his book on Muhammadan Jurisprudence (p. 334) Mr. Abdur Rahim says that dower is not a consideration proceeding from the husband for the contract of marriage, but is an obligation imposed by the Mahomedan Law as a mark of respect for the wife.

Under the Mahomedan Law, a husband may divorce his wife at any time he likes without assigning any reason. The object of dower is to serve as a check upon the capricious exercise by the husband of his power to dissolve the marriage at will. To ⁽r) Jamiruddin v. Sahera (1927) 54 Cal. 363, 101 I. C. :60, ('27) A. 't. :579. (s) Bai Juna v. Kharıca Jına (1907) 31 Bonu. 366. (t) Mir Azmat Ali v. Mahmud-ul-nissa (1897 20 All. 96.

⁽u) (1897) 20 All. 96, 97, supra.

Abdul Razak v. Mahomed (1918) 42 Bom. 499, 38 I. C. 771; Macnaughten, 250. See also Mahomed Abid Ali v. Luddun (1887) 14 Cal. 276 [mula marriage].

Ss. 217-219 attain this end, it is usual to split the amount of dower into two parts, one payable on demand, and the other payable on the dissolution of the marriage by death or divorce: vsee s. 221. See notes to s. 194 above.

- 218. Specified dower.—(1) The husband may settle any amount he likes by way of dower upon his wife, though it may be beyond his means, and though nothing may be left to his heirs after payment of the amount. But he cannot in any case settle less than ten dirams.
- (2) Where a claim is made under a contract of dower, the Court should, unless it is otherwise provided by any legislative enactment, award the entire sum provided in the contract.

Hed., 44; Bailhe, 92; Sugra Bıbi v. Masuma Bibi (1877) 2 All. 573; Banoo Begum v. Mir Aun Ali (1907) 9 Bom. L. R. 188; Basir Ali v. Hafiz (1909) 13 Cal. W. N. 153, 4 L. C. 462.

Diram.—The money value of 10 dirams is something between three and four rupces (v).

- "Unless it is otherwise provided by any legislative enactment."—The law to be applied by the Courts in Oudh and Ajimer Merwara is that where a claim is made by a wife under a contract of dower, whether in her husband's lifetime or after his death, the Court should allow such amount only as appears to be reasonable with reference to the means of the husband, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the contract [Oudh Laws Act 1876, s. 5; Ajimer-Merwara Laws, Regulations 3 of 1877, s. 32.]
- A, a resident of Agra (outside Oudh), is married to B in Lucknow in the province of Oudh. After the marriage B goes and results with her husband A in Agra. B then suce A for her dower in the Agra Court. A contends that the amount of dower fixed at the time of marriage is excessive, and that it should be reduced, having regard to the provisions of the Oudh Lawa Act. Has the Agra Court power to reduce the amount? No. The mere fact that the marriage was celebrated in Oudh does not give jurisdiction to the Court of Agra to administer the law engeted by the Oudh Lawa Act (x).
- Shiah law. Under the Shiah law, there is no fixed legal minimum for dower: Baillie Part 11, 67, 68.
- 219. Dower may be fixed after marriage.—The amount of dower may be fixed either before or at the time of marriage, or even subsequent to the marriage (y).

When the husband is a minor, his father has the power to make a contract of dower on his behalf, and such contract is binding on the husband, though it may be made on his behalf after marriage (2).:

 ⁽w) Jama Bibi v. Abdul Samad (1909) 32 All.
 (x) Rikin Heynes v. Muhammad (1910) 32 All.
 (x) Rikin Heynes v. Muhammad (1910) 32 All.
 (z) Rikin Heynes v. Muhammad (1910) 32 All.
 (z) Bais Ali v. Haft (1909) 13 Cal. W. N. 153, 47. C. 492.

DOWER. 189

220. "Proper" dower.—If the amount of dower is not fixed (s. 218), the wife is entitled to "proper" dower (mahr.i-mis), even though the marriage may have been contracted on the express condition that she should not claim any dower. In determining what is "proper" dower, regard is to be had to the amount of dower that may have been settled upon other female members of the wife's father's family, such as her father's sisters.

Hed., 45, 53; Baillie, 92, 95,

- Shiah law.—The proper dower under the Shuh law should not exceed 500 dirams (Baille, Part II, 71). As to diram, see notes to 218.
- 221. Dower "prompt" and "deferred. "(1) The amount of dower is usually split into two parts, one called "prompt," which is payable on demand, and the other called "deferred," which is payable on dissolution of marriage by death or divorce.
- (2) Where it is not settled at the time of marriage whether the dower is to be prompt or deferred, then according to the Shiah law, the rule is to regard the whole as prompt (a), but according to the Sunni law, the rule is to regard part as prompt and part as deferred, the proportion referable to each class being regulated by custom, and, in the absence of custom, by the status of the parties and the amount of the dower settled (b). It is not clear whether, in a case in which no specific portion of the dower has been fixed as prompt, the Court has the power, under the Sunni law, to award the whole amount as prompt. The High Court of Bombay has held that the Court has such power (c).

Baille, 92. In I All. 483, the Court fixed one-fifth of a dower of Rs. 5,000 as "prompt," the wife having been a prostitute. In I All. 506, the Court held that a third of a dower of Rs. 51,000 was reasonable as "prompt"; and the same proportion was fixed in 2 Bom. H.C. 291. In all these cases the parties were Sunnis, and the marriage contract was silent as to whether the dower was to be prompt or deferred.

222. Non-payment of "prompt" dower.—Though the wife is bound, as a necessary consequence of the marriage, to render conjugal rights to her husband, she may refuse herself

⁽a) Mirza Bedar Bakht v. Mirza Khurram Bakht
(1879) 19 W. R. 315 [P. C.]; Masthan Sahib v. Assan Brib (1809) 28 Mad. 371.
(b) Eidan v. Mazar Hussein (1877) 1 All. 483; Tavifik-un-nusa v. Ohulam Kambar (1877) 1 All. 508; Umda Begum v. Muhammadi

Begwm (1910) 33 All. 291, 9 I. C. 200; Mthhammad v. Saghtr-tur-nissa (1919) 41 All. 562, 50 I. C. 740; Fattma Bibi v. Sudruddin (1865) 2 B.H C. 291. (c) Hoosein Khan v. Gulab Kadum (1911) 35 Bom. 386, 11 I.C. 568.

to her husband, if the "prompt" dower is not paid when demanded; but once the marriage is consummated, she has no right to refuse herself to her husband, though the "prompt" dower may not be paid.

See section 216 (4) and the cases there cited. Where a woman is pregnant at the time of her marriage, but she conceals the pregnancy from her husband, the concealment does not render the marriage invalid, and she is entitled to payment of the prompt dower (d)

- 222A. Liability of father of minor son for dower debt --- A father does not, by giving his consent to the marriage of his minor son, become liable for the payment of the dower debt, unless he has become a surety for the payment thereof (e).
- 223. Dower a debt. The widow's claim for dower is a debt payable out of the estate of her husband, and it must. like other debts, be paid before legacies and before distribution of the inheritance.

See the cases cited in the next section See also Bhola Nath v. Maqbul-un-nussa (1903) 26 All, 28. A widow is merely an ordinary creditor in respect of her dower debt. such a debt has no priority over other debts (Macnaghten, p. 274).

Relinquishment of dower. A dower, being a debt, may be remitted by the widow [creditor] without acceptance by the husband's heirs (f). But a relinquishment of her right to dower by a widow who is a minor under the Indian Majority Act 9 of 1875 is not binding on her, though she may have completed her fifteenth year and is a major according to the Mahomedan law (g). "The gift of dower to a dead husband is valid on a favourable construction of the law". Bailbe, p. 553. But there must be free consent. Where there is no free consent, as where at the time of the gift she was overwhelmed with grief at the death of the husband and was in great mental distress the relinquishment of her right to dower is not valid (h).

224. Widow's right of retention.—(1) The widow's claim for dower does not entitled her to a lien on any specific property of her deceased husband. But when she is in possession of the property of her deceased husband, having obtained such possession "lawfully and without force or fraud," and her dower or any part of it is due and unpaid, she is entitled as against the other heirs of her husband to retain that possession until her dower is paid. The right of retention is extinguished on payment of the dower debt (1).

⁽d) Kulsambe v. Abdul Ander (1921) 45 Bom.
131, 50 1 C 433.
(e) Mishmand Soldy v. Shahabard-Dis (1927)
Mishmand Soldy v. Shahabard-Dis (1927)
(f) Jana Rogan v. Luman Royan (1934)
100 102; Ander Charles (1934)
100 102; Ander Charles (1934)
100 102; Ander Charles (1935)
101 102; Ander Charles (1935)
102 102; Ander Charles (1935)
103 102; Ander Charles (1935)
103 102; Ander Charles (1935)
104 102; Ander Charles (1935)
105 102; Ander Charles (1935)
105 102; Ander Charles (1935)
105 105; Ander Charles (1935)
105 105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)
105; Ander Charles (1935)

Breber Buchun v. Sheikh Haund (1871) 14
 Mi.L.A. 377; Abanan Begum v. Medammad M. Melamund (1972) 12
 Mi.L.A. 377; Abanan Begum v. Melamund (1988) 35 (41 120; Haunta Biol v. Zubuda Biol (1916) 43 1.A. 204, 201; V. Zubuda Biol (1916) 43 1.A. 204, 201; V. Zubuda Fiold (1922) 26 1. Juna Biol v. Chundale Foldt (1922) 26 1. Juna Biol v. Luchale Foldt (1922) 26 1. Juna Biol v. Lu

S. 224

There is a conflict of opinion whether it is necessary, to entitle the widow to retain possession of her husband's property. that the possession should have been obtained by her not only "lawfully and without force or fraud," but also "with the express or implied consent of the husband, or his other heirs." The High Court of Madras (i) has held that no such consent is necessary. The High Court of Calcutta has held that it In two earlier cases the High Court of Allahabad held that such consent was necessary (1); in later cases it has held that no such consent is necessary (m). The better opinion seems to be that no consent is necessary. enough if possession was obtained lawfully and without force or fraud.

(2) A widow, who is in possession of the estate of her husband, is bound to account to the other heirs of her husband for the rents and profits received by her from the estate during the time of her possession, if so required by them (n). But she is entitled in that case to compensation for forbearing to enforce her right to the dower debt; this compensation may be allowed in the form of interest on the dower debt (o).

[.1 dies leaving a widow and a sister. Some time after A's death, the widow applies to the Collector to have certain lands forming the entire estate of A registered in her name, alleging that she has been in possession of the lands by right of inheritance and also on account of her dower. The application is opposed by the sister, but the lands are registered by the Collector in the widow's name. After ten years, the sister sues the widow to recover her share (three-fourths) in the estate of A. The widow contends that she is criticled to continue in possession and enjoyment of the estate until payment of her dower. The widow is entitled to retain possession until her dower is satisfied; Beeber Bachun v. Sheik Hamid (1871) 14 M.I.A. 377. (In the case cited above, the widow was in possession at the date of the suit, and the Privy Council held that her possession was lareful, though the sister had opposed the application of the widow to have the property transferred to her name. The reason is that possession was not obtained by the widow unlawfully or by force or fraud.)]

Sub-sec. (1).—In Beebee Bachun's case cited in the above illustration, their Lordships of the Privy Council said: "The appellant (widow) having obtained actual and lawful possession of the estates under a claim to hold them as heir and for her dower, their

⁽³⁾ Feeps Bee v. Syed Moothya (1920) 43 Mad. 214, 53 l.C. 905. (4) Sabur Bibi v. Ismail (1924) 51 Cal 124, ("24) A C. 508, dissenting from Sabelyan v. Ansuruddin (1911) 8 Cal. 475, 9 J C. 1031

¹⁰³¹unut-un-nissa v. Bashir-un-nissa (1894)
17 Ali 77; Muhammad Karim Ullah v.
Amani (1894) 17 Ali 9.
amzan Ali v. Aspheri Begam (1910) 32
Ali. 563, 566, 6 1 C. 406. Muhammad
Shoatb v. Zaib Jakan (1928) 50 Ali. 423, (l) Amanut-un-nusea

⁽²⁷⁾ A A . 850. (n) (1871) 14 M I. A. 377, at page 384, supra. (o) Hamura Butu v. Zubatda Hibi (1916) 43 I. A. 224, 38 All. 581, 36 IC. 87, affing. (1910) 33 All. 182, 7 I. C. 497 (Interest allowed 33 Ali. 182, 7 I. C. 497 [Interest allowed at 6 per cent. per annum], Woomatool v. Meerimmun-nissa (1868) 9 W. R. 318; Sahelpan v. Annaguddin (1911) 38 Cal. 475, 480-481, 9 I. C. 1031; Naucat Begam v. Dilafraz (1926) 48 All. 803, (8 I. C. 978, (226) A. 39 [awarding of interest discretionaries] Lordships are of opinion that she is entitled to retain that possession until her dower is satisfied . . . It is not necessary to say whether this right of the widow in possession is a lien in the strict sense of the term, although no doubt the right is so stated in a judgment of the High Court in the case of Ahmed Hoosein v. Mussumat Khodeja (10 W.R. 369). Whatever the right may be called, it appears to be founded on the power of the widow, as a creditor for her dower, to hold the property of her husband, of which she had lawfully and without force or fraud, obtained possession, until her debt is satisfied, with the liability to account, to those entitled to the property, subject to the claim for the profit received."

The conflict referred to in the second paragraph of the sub-sec. (1) arises from the italicized words which occur in the following passage in the judgment of the Privy Council in Hamira Bibi v. Zubnida Bibi (p) :-

"But the dower ranks as a debt, and the wife is entitled, along with other creditors, to have it satisfied on the death of the husband out of his estate. Her right, however, is no greater than that of any other unsecured creditor, except that if she lawfully, with the express or implied consent of the husband, or his other heirs, obtain possession of the whole or part of his estate, to satisfy her claim with the rents . . . accruing therefrom, she is entitled to retain such possession until it is satisfied. This is called the widow's lien for dower, and this is the only creditor's lien of the Mussulman law which Thus received recognition in the British Indian Courts and at this Board."

The Full Bench of the Madras High Court has held that the observations of their Lordships of the Privy Council expressed in the passage italicized above were merely obster dicta. The Calcutta High Court has held, dissenting from the Madras High Court, that their Lordships were in the above passage defining the nature of the widow's dower debt and her right to retain possession of her husband's property, and that the observations of their Lordships were not merely obiter.

Suit by husband's heirs for possession .- The husband's heirs are not personally liable to pay the dower debt. Any one heir may therefore sue for possession of his share of the estate on payment to the widow of his proportionate part of the dower debt (a). See s. 223.

Wife's right during husband's lifetime.-The right of retention arises for the first time after the husband's death, or, if the wife has been divorced, immediately on her divorce. A wife who has not been divorced is not entitled, during her husband's lifetime, to a hon for her unpaid dower on her husband's property, though she may have been put into possession thereof by the husband himself to protect her rights in , respect of such dower. The property therefore may be attached and sold by a creditor of the husband in execution of a decree against him and the wife is not entitled to retain possession against the purchaser (r).

225. Nature of the above right --- (1) A widow in possession of her husband's property under a claim for her dower has no such estate or interest in the property as a mortgagee has under an ordinary mortgage. There is no real or true between the widow's right of retention and a mortgage usufructuary or other. In the case of a mortgage

⁽p) (1916) 43 I.A. 294, 301, 38 All. 581, 588, 33 All. 182, 7 I.C. 497. Narayana v. Biyari (1922) 45 Mad. 103, 69 1.C. 977, ('23) A.M. 57,

³⁶ I.C. 87. (q) Hamira Bibi v. Zubaida Bibi (1916) 43 I.A. 294, 38 All, 581, 36 I.C. 87, affing. (1910)

't the mortgagee takes and retains possession under an agreement between him and the mortgagor. The widow's right of retention is conferred upon her not by the agreement or . bounty of her husband, but by the Mahomedan law (s).

S. 225

The right of the widow to retain possession of her husband's property until satisfaction of the dower debt does not carry with it the right to sell, mortgage or otherwise transfer the property (t). If in a suit by the husband's heirs against the widow for possession of the property a decree is passed for possession conditional upon their paying the dower debt within a specified period, failure to pay the decretal amount within such period does not constitute her owner of the property. If treating herself as owner, she alienates the property and delivers possession thereof to the alienee, the alienation is invalid (except to the extent of her own share in it), and the husband's other heirs are entitled to recover possession from the alience without payment even of the dower debt to him. By giving up possession of the property; she loses her right of retention. But whether she also loses her right to claim the dower debt is a question that was left open by the Judicial Committee in a recent case (u). It is submitted that the right to claim the dower debt is not lost if the husband's heirs regain possession of the property that was alienated by her.

This sub-section deals with the right of a widow to alienate the property of which she is in possession. The next sub-section deals with her right to transfer the dower debt and the right of possession.

(2) There is a conflict of opinion whether the widow's right of retention is transferable and heritable. In some cases it has been held that the right of retention is a personal right, and it cannot therefore be transferred by sale, gift or otherwise (v), nor can it pass to her heirs on her death (w). In other cases it has been held that the right of retention is in the

⁽a) Maina Bibi v. Chaudhri Vakil (1925) 52 I.A. 145, 150-151, 47 All. 250, 255-258, 86 I.C. 579, ('25) A.PC. 63.

⁽f) Chukh Bibi v. Nhama-un-nissa (1884) 17 All. 19 [mortussen]: Meiha Bibi v. Wasi 19 [mortussen]: Meiha Bibi v. Wasi (1871), allimed, by the D. C. sub worst. [gift], allimed, by the D. C. sub worst. Maina Bibi v. Chaudheri Velsi (1925) 52 I. A. 145, 47 All. 120, 86 I.O. 572 (25) 52 I. Nad. 214, 236, 78 II.O. 905, salej, Musammat Sitaran v. Ganesh (1927) 2 Luck. 553, 101 I. C. 714, ('28) A. O. 209.

⁽u) Maina Bibt v. Chaudirt Vakil (1925) 52 I A. 145, 47 All. 250, 86 I. C. 579, (25) A.PC. 63: Musammat Sitaran v. Ganesh (1927) 2 Luck. 553, 101 J. C. 714, (28) A.O. 209.

⁽v) Ali Muhammad v. Aziz-ullah (1883) 6 All. 50; Muzaffer Ali v. Parbati (1907) 29 All. 640.

⁽w) Hadi Ali v. Akbar Ali (1898) 20 Ali, 262.

S. 225 nature of property, and it is both transferable and heritable (x). In a recent case their Lordships of the Privy Council expressed a doubt whether a widow could transfer her dower debt or her right of retention (η) .

A transfer by a widow of the property itself cannot be treated as a transfer of her dower debt and of her right of retention (z).

It is clear that if the right is keritable, the heirs of the widow are entitled to continue in possession of the property of which the widow was in possession at the time of her death until the dower debt is satisfied. But if the widow herself had not obtained possession, her heirs could not enter into possession (a).

- (3) Where the property of which the widow is in possession was mortgaged by her husband, the mortgagee may sell it, and the widow is not entitled to retain possession of the property against a purchaser from the mortgagee (b). The reason is: that she has no charge on her husband's estate for her . dower debt (c).
 - (4) A widow, though she may be in possession of a portion of her husband's property under a claim for her dower, is entitled to sue her husband's heirs to recover her dower debt out of his estate (d).
 - (5) Where a widow, who has been in possession of her husband's property under a claim for her dower, is dispossessed, she may institute a suit for possession thereof (e). Such a suit will be one under sec. 9 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, and should be brought within six months from the date of dispossession (f).
 - (6) Where in a suit by the husband's heirs against the widow for possession, a decree is passed for possession conditional upon their paying the dower debt within a

⁽c) Acus-vi-lah v. Ahmad (1885) 7. All. 303 [heritalis], Ali Habbah v. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis], Ali Habbah v. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis], Ali Habbah v. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1910) [heritalis] (1911) A. Allahdad (1912) P. Ha. 141, [heritalis] (1911) [heritalis] (1912) P. Ha. 141, [heritalis] (1912) A. P. Luttur (1912) P. Ha. 141, [heritalis] (1912) A. P. Luttur (1912) P. Luttur (1912) [heritalis] [heritalis] (1912) A. P. Luttur (1912) [heritalis] (1912) [heritalis] [heritalis] (1912) A. P. Luttur (1912) [heritalis] (1912) [herit ⁽y) Maina Bibs v. Chaudhri Vakıl (1925) 52 I.A. 145, 159, 47 All. 250, 262, 86 I.C. 579, (25), A.P.C. 63.

⁽²⁾ Maina Bibs v. Chaudhri Vakil (1925) 52

I. A. 145, 47 All. 250, 86 I. C. 579. ('25) A.PC 63; Musammat Sitaran v. Ganesh (1927) 2 Luck. 553, 101 I.C. 714,('28) A.O.

<sup>209.
(</sup>a) Tahr-un-missa v. Nawab Hasan (1914) 86
All 568, 24 I.C. 938.
(b) Imeer Ammel v. Saukaranarayanan (1900)
25 Mad 658.
(c) Kaniz Fatima v. Ram Nandan (1923) 45
All 384, 78 I.C. 977, (23) A.A. 351.
(d) Chilam Ali v. Sagri-al-Nissa (1901) 23 All.

⁽a) Ohviam Ali v. Sagar-ul-Nessa (1901) 23 All.
43.2
(a) Majidmian v. Bibisaheb (1918) 40 Bom. 34, 40-50, 30 I.C. 870 (suit by wildow and heirs of a co-widow]; Arizullah v. Ahmad (1885) 7 All. 383 suit by heirs of a wildow).
(f) Mashal Singh v. Ahmad Hussin (1928) 60

ashal Singh v. Ahmad Husain (1928) 50 All. 86, 103 I.C. 363, ('27) A.A. 534.

specified period, and the plaintiffs fail to pay the decretal amount within that period, the decree lapses, but such lapse does not operate as res judicata so as to bar a subsequent suit by the same plaintiffs against the widow for possession of the same property based upon the ground that the dower debt has since been satisfied from the income of the property (a).

- 226. Limitation.—(I) The period of limitation for a suit to recover "prompt" or "exigible" dower is three years from the date when the dower is demanded and refused, or, where during the continuance of the marriage no such demand has been made, when the marriage is dissolved by death or divorce.
- (2) The period of limitation for a suit to recover "deferred" dower is three years from the date when the marriage is dissolved by death or divorce.

The Indian Limitation Act, 1908, Sch. I, arts. 103, 104.

C .- DIVORCE.

227. Different forms of divorce.—The contract of marriage under the Mahomedan law may be dissolved in three yays: (1) by the husband at his will, without the intervention of a Court of Law; (2) by mutual consent of the husband and wife, also without the intervention of a Court: or (3) by a judicial decree at the suit of the husband or wife. A wife cannot divorce herself from her husband except by obtaining a judicial decree in that behalf.

When the divorce proceeds from the husband, it is called talek (ss. 228-234); when it is effected by mutual consent of the husband and wife, it is called khula (s. 235) or muharat (s. 236) according to the terms of the contract between the husband and the wife.

228. Divorce by talak.—Any Mahomedan of sound mind, who has attained puberty, may divorce his wife whenever he desires without assigning any cause.

Macnaghten, p. 59; Hed., 75; Baillie, 208-209.

~ Ss. 229-230 229. Form of talak immaterial.—A Mahomedan may divorce his wife without a talaknama or written document, ι and no particular form of words is prescribed. If the words used are well understood as implying divorce, such as "talak," no proof of intention is required; otherwise the intention must be proved (h).

It is not necessary for the validity of a talak that the declaration of talak should be pronounced in the presence of the wife or even addressed to her (i).

Thus where a Mahomedan belonging to the Hanafi sect went to a Kazi with two witnesses, and after pronouncing the divirce of his wife in her absence had a latakama written out by the Kazi which was duly signed and attested by witnesses, it was held that the fact that the decleration of latak was not actually made to the wife, but in her absence, to the Kazi and the witnesses, did not vitate the divirce; "such a writing," it was said, "even though not communicated to the wife, effected an irrevocable divorce around the divirce of the document" (1). As to data by writing see a. 232 belong see as 232 belong the state of the document.

- 230. Divorce by talak how effected.—Divorce by talak, when the marriage is consummated, may be effected in any of the three following ways:—
- by a single declaration of talak followed by abstinence from sexual intercourse for the period of iddat (called talak. ahsan); or,
- (2) by a declaration of talak repeated three times, once during each successive tohr (period between menstruations), and accompanied by abstinence from sexual intercourse until the third pronouncement (called talak hasan); or,
 - (3) by a declaration of talak repeated three times in immediate succession or at intervals within one tohr (k) (called talak-ul-bidaat). But the triple repetition is but one of the forms by which the irrevocability, which is the essential feature of talak-ul-bidaat, is indicated, and a talak-ul-bidaat is none the less valid though it may be pronounced by a single declaration, provided it clearly indicates an intention irrevocably to dissolve the marriage (t).

⁽b) Mn JI v Kalimeir v med (1927) 54 1. A.
10. A San. Ban JO 16. A. (277) A PC 3.
10. Ban Ban JO 16. A. (277) A PC 3.
106. InPathin v Speed note (1888) 12 (1924) 2 Rang. 400 (24) A.R.
206. InPathin v Speed note (1888) 12 (1924) 20 (1924

Ma. Mi. V. Kallander Ammall (1927) 54 LA.
 61, 6 Rang, 18, 10.7 1.C. 1 (27) A-PC. 15;
 Saraban V. Rabickhi (1905) 30 Bom. 587,
 544; Asha Biba V. Kadari (1909) 33 Mad. 22,
 3 I. C. 730; Rajasaheb, In re. (1920) 44
 Bom. 44, 54, I. C. 673; Full Chand V.
 Narab Ali (1909) 36 Cal. 184, 1 I.C. 740.
 Sarabai V. Rabiabai (1905) 30 Bom. 537.

 ⁽k) In vs Abdul Ali (1883) 7 Bom. 180; Amirud-Din v. Khatun Bibi (1917) 39 All. 371, 39 I.C. 513.
 (l) Sarabai v. Rabiabai (1905) 30 Bom. 537.

When the marriage is not consummated, the divorce may be accomplished by a single declaration of talak.

Ss. 230, 231

Hed., 72, 73, 83; Bailhe, 206, 207, 226, 227. As to iddat, see s. 177 above.

The Hanafis divide talak into_talak-us-sunnat, that is, talak according to the rules taid down in the sunnet or triclitions, and tile to-al-bedrat, that is, heretical or irregular talak. The talak-ul-sunnat is again sub-divided into (1) ahsan, that is, most proper, and (2) hasan, that is, proper. The talak-ul-hidgat or irregular divorce is good in law, though bad in theology, and it is the most common and prevalent mode of repudiation in this country (m). In the case of talak absan and talak basan, the husband has an opportunity of reconsidering his decision, for the tulak in both these cases does not become absolute until a certain period has clapsed (s. 231), and the husband has the option to revoke it before then. But the talak-al-balaat becomes prevocable immediately it is pronounced (s. 231). The essential feature of a talak-ul-bidaat is its irrevocability. One of the tests of irrovocability is the repetition three times of the formula of divorce within one tohr. But the triple repetation we not a necessary condition of talak-ul-bulgat, and the intention to render a talak irrevocable may be expressed even by a single declaration. Thus if a man says . " I have divorced you by a talak-ul-barn (prevocable divorce)," the talak is talak-al-bidgat and it will take effect immediately it is pronounced, though it may be pronounced but once. Here the use of the expression "bain (irrevocable)", manifests of itself the intention to effect an irrevocable divorce. It may here be said that a talak by writing belongs to the class of talak-ul-bidgat, for in the absence of words showing a different intention, the writing must be presumed to take effect from the time of its execution; see sec. 232.

A tribak-al-bidant should be pronounced during the period of tohe. If it is pronounced during the period of mentionation, the total losses its character of irrevocability, and it may be reroked at the option of the husband at any time before the expiration of the period of addat: Bullle, 207.

Shah law.—The. Shiah lawyers do not recognize the validity of talk-ul-biduat, Baillie, Part II, 118. Talak under the Shiah law must be pronounced in the presence of two competent witnesses (Baillie, Part II, 113).

- 231. When talak becomes irrevocable.—(1) The talak called ahsan [s. 230 (1)] becomes complete and irrevocable on the expiration of the period of iddat.
- (2) The talak called hasan [s. 23^ (2)] becomes complete and irrevocable immediately on the third pronouncement, and it is not suspended until completion of the iddat.
- (3) The talak-ul-bidaat [s. 230 (3)] becomes complete and irrevocable immediately it is pronounced.

Until a talak becomes complete and irrevocable, the husband has the option to revoke it, which may be done either expressly, or impliedly as by resuming sexual intercourse.

Ss. 231*-*233 Hed., 72, 73; Baillie, 206, 207, 226. In all the three forms of lalak the wife is bound to observe the uldat, though in the second and the third case, the divorce may become irrevocable before completion of the uldat. As to iddat see s. 199 above. See also s. 243, ets. 1, 3, 5 and 6.

As to talak-ul-bidgat, see the penultimate paragraph of the notes to sec. 230.

232. Talak by writing.—In the absence of words showing a different intention, a talak by writing operates as an irrevocable divorce (talak-i-bain.) and takes effect immediately on the execution of the document (talaknama) (n).

In a Bombay case (a), a Mahomedan appeared before the Kazi of Bombay and oxecuted a holekoman, which ran as follows: "As on account of some disagreement between us there has arisen some all-feeling, I, the declarant, appear personally before the Kazi of my free will, and divorce Saraba, my wife by nick by one boin-duke, (irrevocable divorce), and renounce her from the state of being my wife." The Court observed: "The authorities show that a boin-duke, such as this, reduced to manifest and customary writing, takes effect immediately on the mere writing. The divorce being absolute [and irrevocable], it is effected as soon as the words are writien, even without the side receiving the writing." Note that tedals in the above case, being tubishoun or "irrevocable" tubid, belongs to the cutegory of talak-sid-budont, the talak-sid-budont being the only kind of talak which becomes irrevocable mucedualey it is promounced. The other two kinds of talak, namely, talakabson and talak-bason are always recording and the option to recole continues for a extinue proof.

233. Stipulation by wife for right of divorce.—An agreement made whether before or after marriage by which it is provided that the wife should be at liberty to divorce herself from her husband under certain specified contingencies is valid, if the conditions are of a reasonable nature and are not opposed to the policy of the Mahomedan law. When such an agreement is made, the wife may, at any time after the happening of the contingency, repudiate herself in the exercise of the power, and a divorce will then take effect to the same extent as if the talak had been pronounced by the husband (p). The power so delegated to the wife is not revocable, and she may exercise the power even after institution of a suit against her for restitution of conjugal rights (q).

[6a] At enters into an agreement before his marriage with B, by which it is provided that A should pay B Bs. 00 as her dower on demand, that he should not beat or illtreat her, that he should allow B to be taken to her father's house four times a year, and that if he committed a breach of any of the conditions, B should have the power of div overing herself from A. 1. Some time after the marriage B div overes herself from A, alleging and ⁽n) Baillie, 233 , Sarabar v. Rabiabar (1905) 30

 Bom 537

⁽a) Sarabas v. Rabsabas (1905) 30 Bom. 537.

⁽p) Hamidoola v Faizunnissa (1882) 8 Cal 327, Ayatunnissa Besbee v. Karam Ali

^{(1908) 36} Cal. 23 , Maharum Ali V. Ayea, Khatun (1915) 19 Cal. W. N. 1226, 31 1. C. 562 , Saunudin V. Latiffannessa Hibi (1919) 46 Cal. 141, 48 1. C. 609 [agreement after marriage.] (q) (1919) 46 Cal. 141, 48 1. C. 609, supra.

cruelty and non-payment of dower. A then suce B for restitution of conjugal rights. Here the conditions are all of a reasonable nature, and they are not opposed to the policy 233-234A of the Mahomedan law. The divorce is therefore valid, and A is not entitled to restitution of conjugal right: Hamidoola v. Faizannissa (1882) 8 Cal. 327.1

Ss.

Note. The agreement in the above case may be supported on the doctrine of tafuces. which is an essential part of the Mahomedan Law of Divorce. Under that law the husband may in person repudiate his wife, or he may delegate the power of repudiating her to a third party or even to the wife (Baillie, 238); such a delegation of power is called tafweez.
"When a man has said to his wife, 'Repudiate thysolf,' she can repudiate herself at the meeting and he cannot divest her of the power" (Bailhe, 254). "When a man has said to his wife, 'Choose thyself to lay,' or 'this month,' or 'month' or 'year,' she may exercise the option (of repudiation) at any time within the given period" (Baillie, 242). The agreement in the case cited above may be regarded as a case of repudiation by the wife under an authority from the husband, in other words, as a talak by tafarez. Such a divorce, though it is in form a divorce of the husband by the wife, operates in law as a talak of the wife by the husband.

I(b) An agreement between a husband and wife by which the husband authorizes the wife to divorce herself from him in the event of his marrying a second wife without her consent is valid: Maharam Ali v. Ayesa Khatum (1915) 19 Cal. W.N. 1226, 31 I. C. 562; Badarannissa v. Mafiatalla (1871) 7 Beng. L. R. 142.1

At any time after the happening of the contingency .- Thus where a power is given to a wife by the marriage contract to divorce herself on her husband marrying again, then if her husband does marry again, she is not bound to exercise her option at the very first moment she hears the news. The injury done to her is a continuing one, and she has a continuing right to exercise the power (1).

234. Talak under compulsion. - A talak pronounced under compulsion is valid. Similarly a talak pronounced by a husband in a state of intoxication is valid, unless the thing which intoxicated him was administered to him without his knowledge or against his will.

Med., 75, 76; Baillie, 208-210, Ibrahim v. Enayetur (1869) 4 B. L. R. A. C. 13 (as to talak under compulsion). The reason of the rule is that a husband acting under compulsion has the choice of two evils, one, the threat held out to him and the other. divorce; and if he makes a choice of divorce, divorce will take effect. As to the efficacy of divorce pronounced in a state of voluntary intoxication, it is stated in the Hedaya that "the suspension of reason being occasioned by an offence, the reason of the speaker is supposed still to remain, whence it is that his sentence of divorce takes effect. in order to deter him from drinking fermented liquors which are prohibited."

Shigh law .-- Under the Shigh law a talak pronounced under compulsion or in a state of intoxication is a legal nullity (Baillie, Part 11, 108).

234A. Talak where marriage solemnized in England according to English law .- A civil marriage, solemnized at a Registrar's office in London between a Mahomedan domiciled in India

Ss. and an Englishwoman domiciled in England, cannot be dissolved by the husband handing to the wife a talaknama [writing of divorcement (s. 232)], although that would be an appropriate mode of effecting the dissolution of a Mahomedan marriage according to Mahomedan law (s).

The reason is that such a marriage is a Christian marriage by which is meant the voluntary varion for life of one main and one woman to the exclusion of all others; it is not a marriage in the Mahomedan sense which can be dissolved in a Mahomedan manner. A Mahomedan marriage, being a polygamous marriage is, according to the English law, no marriage at all.

- 235. Khula divorce.—(1) A divorce by khula is a divorce, with the consent and at the instance, of the wife, in which she gives, or agrees to give, a consideration to the husband for the release from the marriage tie. In such a case the terms of the bargain are matters of arrangement between the husband and the wife, and the wife may, as a consideration for the divorce, release her dower and other rights, or make any other agreement for the benefit of the husband.
 - (2) The divorce by khula is complete and irrevocable from the moment the husband repudiates the wife.
 - (3) Non-payment by the wife of the consideration for a khulu divorce does not invalidate the divorce, but the husband may sue the wife to recover the amount payable by her under the agreement (t).

Hed., 112-116; Baillie, 305 et seq.

Khula means to bay down. "In law, it is the laying down by a husband of his right and authority over his wife." A khula divorce is virtually a divorce purchased by the wife from the husband for a price, and it is in this respect that khula differs from mubaral dealt with in the next section.

236. Mubarat divorce.—A divorce by muharat or mutual release operates as a complete discharge of all marital rights on either side. It is effected by mutual consent, and it differs from khula in that no consideration passes from the wife to the husband. But like khula, it becomes complete and irrevocable from the moment of repudiation.

Hed., 116; Baillie, 306.

⁽⁴⁾ Rex v. Hammersmith, Niperintendent Registrate of Marringer [1917] I K. B. 634 (5) Moonther Ruis-II-likhen v. Litteful-oon- 184.

237. Apostasy from Islam.—Apostasy from Islam of either party to a marriage operates as a complete and immediate dissolution of the marriage (n).

Ss. 237*-*239

[H and W, both Mahomedans, are husband and wife. H becomes a convert to Cristianty. W then marries A, but before the completion of the period of iddal (s. 199). Is W guilty of bigamy within the meaning of s. 494 of the Indian Penal Code? No, because apostasy operates as an immediate dissolution of marriage (e).]

Essence of Islam.—The essential doctrine of the Islamic faith consists in the belief in one God and the belief that Mahomed is his prophet (w)

237A. Agreement for future separation.—An agreement between a Mahomedan husband and wife which provides for future separation in the event of disagreement between them is void as being against public policy (x). But an ante-nuptial agreement between the prospective husband and the prospective wife, entered into with the object of securing the wife against ill-treatment and of ensuring her suitable maintenance in case she is ill-treated, is not invalid (y).

When wife may sue for divorce.

- 238. When wife may sue for divorce.—The wife cannot divorce herself from her husband except in the cases stated in sections 235 and 236. But she may sue for divorce on the ground of her husband's impotency (s. 239), or on the ground that he has falsely charged her with adultery (s. 240).
- 239. Impotence of husband.—No decree can be passed in a suit for divorce on the ground of the husband's impotence, unless it is proved (1) that the impotence existed at the time of marriage, and (2) that the wife had no knowledge of it at the time of marriage.

If the above facts are established, the Court will adjourn the further hearing of the suit for a year in order to ascertain whether the infirmity is inherent or whether it is merely supervenient or accidental. If the defect is not removed within the aforesaid period, the Court will pass a decree dissolving the marriage on the application of the wife. The divorce becomes irrevocable when the decree is passed.

⁽u) Amir Beg v. Saman (1910) 33 All. 90, 7 I. C.

^{342. (}v) Abdul Ghani v. Azizul Huq (1912) 39 Cal.
409, 14 I. C. 641.
(w) Narantakath v. Parakkal (1922) 45 Mad.
986.

⁽x) Bai Fatma v. Alimahomed (1913) 37 Bom.
280, 17 I. C. 946. See Indian Contract
Act, 1872, s. 23.
(y) Muhammad Muin-ud-Din v. Jamal (1921)
43 All. 690.

Se. 239-241

Hed., 126-128; Bailbe, 347-349. There is a difference of opinion as to whether the year should be a lunar year or a solar year. In Baillie's Digest of Mahomedan Law it is stated that the year is to commence from the "time of litigation." But in A v. B (*) and Muhammad Ibrahim v. Altafan (a), the further hearing appears to have been adjourned for a year from the date of the order. In Vadake Vitil v. Odakel (b) the alleged impotence was not proved, 240. False charge of adultery against wife [laan] .- If a husband brings a false charge of adultery against the wife, the wife may sue for and obtain a decree for divorce, but not if the charge is true (c). A subsequent retraction of the charge is of no consequence (d).

Lagn or reciprocal cuising .- According to the Mahomedan law, if a husband accuses his wife of adultery, the wife may sue him for a divorce. If the husband cannot produce four eye-witnesses to the fact, the procedure to be followed by the judge is to require the husband to bear witness to the charge four times, saving each time, "I attest by God that I was a speaker of the truth when I cast at her the charge of adultery." The husband should then say the fifth time, " The curse [laan] of God be upon him if ne was a har when he cast at her the charge of adultery." The wife is then to bear witness four times, saying each time, "I attest by God that he is a har in the charge of adultery that he has cast upon me," and saying the fifth time, "The wrath of God be upon me if he be a true speaker in the charge of adultery which he has cast upon me," If she does so, the judge has to accept her oath, and he is to separate them. No separation takes place until a decree is passed by the judge directing the husband to make the separation by repudiating his wife. If he refuses to repudiate her, the judge himself is to pronounce a separation between them. But before the does so, there is no separation. A separation is not effected by a mere charge of adultery (c), or by the mere laan (f): Baillie, 335-339; Hidaya, 123-124. The above are merely rules of evidence, and they have been superseded by the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Moreover, a special oath can now be administered only under s, 8 of the Indian Oaths Act, 1873, and it would not be conclusive proof unders, 11 of the Act if neither of the parties had offered under s, 9 to be bound by the oath of the other (f).

241. No other ground of divorce recognized.-A wife is not entitled to claim divorce on any other ground, not even if the husband fails to perform the obligations arising on marriage.

As to the obligations arising on marriage, see s. 205 above. As to the obligation of maintaining the wife, it is expressly stated in the Fatawa Alumgiti that "a man is not to be separated from his wife for mability to maintain her." Baillie, 443. As to the obligation of conjugal fidelity on the part of the husband, and payment of prompt dower to the wife, and treating her with kindness, it is nowhere stated in the Hedaya or Fatawa Alumgiri that conjugal infidelity or non-payment of prompt dower or cruelty to the wife is a ground of divorce. As to how far failure to perform the above obligations is a valid defence to a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, see s. 216 above.

 ^{(2) (1896) 24} Bom, 77, at p. 83
 (a) (1925) 47 All 243 83 L.C. 27, (25) A. A. 24.
 (b) (1884) 3 Mad. 347
 (c) Zafar Husana V. I umati-ar-Rabinata (1-49)
 41 All 278, 40 L.C. 250, Khatrjabi V. Ignarsathe (1928) 52 Bom. 205, (28) A.B. (d) Rahima Bibi v Fazil (1927) 48 All. 834, 98 1 C 573, (27) A \ 56. (c) Jaun Bielne v. Bearce (1865) 3 W. R. 93, 52 Bom. 295, ('28) A B 285, supra

^{(1) 52} Bom. 295, ('28) A. B. 285, su) ra.

242. Wife's costs in suit for divorce.—The rule of English law which makes the husband in divorce proceedings liable prima facie for the wife's costs, etcept when she is possessed of sufficient separate property, does not apply to divorce proceedings between Mahomedans.

Ss. 242, 243

It was so laid down by the High Court of Bombay in A. v. B. (1896) 21 Bom. 77.
That was a smit by a Mahomedan wife against her husband for divorce on the ground of his impotence. The English rule is founded upon the divertine of the Common Law according to which the husband becomes entitled upon marriage to the whole of the wife's personal property and to the meome of her real property. Such being the ease, it is but just that the husband should pay the wife's costs pending the hearing to enable her to conduct her case against him. Under the Mahomedian has, however, the husband does not by marriage acquire any interest in the property of the wife. Hence it was held in the above case that the practice of the English Divorce Court should not be applied to proceedings for divorce between Mahomedian leaf.

Legal effects of divorce.

- 243. Rights and obligations of parties on divorce.—The following rights and obligations arise on the dissolution of a contract of marriage by divorce, whatever may be the form of divorce, and whether it is effected by a judicial decree or without it:—
- (1) The wife is bound to observe iddat during the period specified in s. 199, but not if the marriage was not consummated (g).
- (2) If the wife observes iddat, the husband is bound to maintain the wife during the whole period of iddat (s. 215).
- (3) The wife cannot marry another person until after completion of her tidlat (s. 199). And if the husband has four wives, including the divorced one, he cannot marry a fifth one until after completion of the iddat of the divorced wife (h).
- (4) The wife becomes entitled to the "deferred" dever (s. 221). And if the "prompt" dower has not been paid, it becomes payable immediately on divorce. But if the marriage has not been consummated, the wife is not entitled on divorce to the whole of the unpaid dower, but only to half the aggregate amount of the "prompt" and "deferred" dower (s).

⁽g) Paillie, 353. (h) Hed., 32; Baillie, 37.

S, 243

- (5) In the event of the death of either party before the expiration of the period of iddad, the other is entitled to inherit to him or to her in the capacity of wife or husband, as the case may be, provided the divorce had not become irreverable before the death of the deceased; the reason being, that the husband might have revoked the divorce, if death had not supervened. But there is no such right after the divorce has become irrevocable (i).
- If the divorce is pronounced in death-illness (marz-ul-maut), and the husband dies before completion of the wife's iddat, the wife is entitled to inherit to him even if the divorce had become irrevocable prior to his death, unless the divorce was effected with her consent: the reason of the rule being that a sort of inchoate right of inheritance arises on death-illness, and the husband cannot defeat that right while on his death-bed. But the husband is not entitled under similar circumstances to inherit to the wife, if the wife dies before completion of her iddat, the reason being that the divorce proceeded from him and not from her (k).

A husband divorces his wife by talat-ul-balant pronounced by him while in "health" and during the lab; of the wife. After pronouncing the divorce, but before the expiration of the period of ideal, the busband dies. The wife has no leain to inherit to the husband, not withstanding the husband's death before the completion of the period of uldat. The reason is that a talat al-bidaat becomes irrevocable immediately it is pronounced (k). This is a case under para. I of cl. 5. See s. 231 (3).

Neither is the husband entitled to inherit to the wife, nor the wife to the husband, in the event of the death of either of them after the expiration of the period of iddat (h).

(6) In the case of a divorce completed by a triple repudiation, it is not lawful for the parties to re-marry unless the woman shall have been married to another person and divorced by him after consummation of the marriage (m).

The first para. of cl. (5) refers to the case where the divorce has not yet become irreveable, and the husband dies before completion of the period of iddal. The second preveable, are seen as where the divorce is pronounced in death-illness. Cl. (6) refers to iddal.husan (s. 230).

⁽¹⁾ Sarabai v. Rabiabai (1905) 30 Bom 537 (1) Sarabai v. Rabiabai (1905) 30 Bom. 537. (1) Hed., 108; Bai I+e, 292; Abhtaroon-Nissa v Sharintoola (1867) 7 W. R. 268.

D.-LEGITIMACY.

244. Special rules.—The subject of Parentage in Mahomedan law derives its importance from the special rules relating to legitimacy and filiation by acknowledgment.

Ss. 244-245

An illegitimate child, we have seen, can inherit to its mother alone and her relations (s. 72). But a legitimate child is entitled to inherit also to its father and his relations. And it has been seen in s. 206 above that the issue even on invalid marriage (as distinguished from a void marriage) is regarded as legitimate.

245. Presumption as to legitimacy: birth during marriage.—
A child born of a married woman six months after the date of the marriage is presumed to be the legitimate child of the husband, but not a child born within less than six months after the marriage (Baullie, 392-393).

The rule of the Indian Evidence Act, however, is that the birth of a child at any time during the continuance of a valid marriage, is conclusive proof of its legitimacy, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when the child could have been begotten [the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, s. 112].

It is submitted that the rule of the Indian Evidence Act supersedes the rule of the Mahomedan law. The High Court of Allahabad has adopted this view (n).

[A marries B on 1st January 1905. B gives birth to a child on 1st March 1906. A dies two days after the birth of the child. Is the child entitled to inherit to A? It will be entitled so to inherit, if it can be regarded as the legitimate child of A. Under the Mahomedan law, the child cannot be regarded as legitimate, it having been born within less than 5ix months after the marriage. Under the Indian Evidence Act, it is legitimate, it having been born during the continuance of the marriage. It is doubtful by which of these two rules the question of legitimacy is to be determined: Muhammed Allahadad v. Muhammed Inmul (1888) 10 All. 289, at p. 339.]

The Mahomedan law requires as a condition of legitimacy that rosception should have commenced after marriage; a child conceived before marriage is not legitimate under that law (o). Under the Indian Evidence Act, however, the fact that the birth took place during the continuance of a valid marriage, is sufficient to establish legitimacy, although conception may have taken place before marriage. Mr. Field, in his work on the Law of Evidence, says: "It may be supposed that the provisions of this section (i.e., s. 112 of the Evidence Act] will supersede certain rather absurd rules of the Mahomedan law by which a child born siz months after marriage, or within two years after divorce or the death of the husband, is presumed to be his legitimate offspring." On the other hand, Sir R. K. Wilson, in his Digest of Anglo-Muhammudan law, says ⁽n) Sibt Muhammad v. Muhammad (1926) 48 (o) Ashrufood Dowlah v. Hyder Hossein Khan All. 625, 628, 96 I.O. 582, (28) A.A. 589. (1866) 11 M.I.A. 94.

Ss. 245-247 (s. 83) that the rule of the Evidence Act is really a rule of substantive marriage law rather than of evidence, and as such has no application to Mahomedan so far as it conflicts with the Mahomedan rule stated above. 'The correct view, it is submitted, is the one taken by Mr. Field. Whether the rule laid down in s. 112 of the Evidence Act is a rule of substantive law or of ovidence, the fact stands that the rule finds its place in an enactment which applies to all classes of persons in British India. There is, therefore, no reason why it should not be applied to Mahomedans. The Chief Court of Ould has held that since a 112 applies only to a ward marriage, it cannot apply to a marriage which is feasified or invalid (p. See as 2044) and 206.

246. Presumption of legitimacy: birth after dissolution of marriage. A child born of a married woman within two years after divorce or the death of the husband is presumed to be the legitimate child of the husband, but not a child born more than two years after the dissolution of the marriage by death or divorce (Baillie, 396-397).

But this rule of Mahomedan law, it is submitted, must now be taken to be superseded by the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act. s. 114.

In fact, it was held by the High Court of Calcutta prior to the passing of the Evidence Act, that "notwithstanding Mahomedan law, a Court of Justice cannot pronounce a child to be the legitimate offspring of a particular individual when such a conclusion would be contrary to the course of nature and impossible" (q). Hence it was held in that case, that mowithstanding Mahomedan law, a child born nundern months after the divorce of its mother by her former husband was not the legitimate offspring of that husband. That cases was decided in 1871, that is, a year bofore the passing of the Evidence Act. The decision, it seems, would be the same under s. 114 of that Act. That section provides that "the Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinkalikely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural exents," etc. Having regard to the provisions of that section, a Court would be justified in presuming that a child born of a woman nineteen months after her divorce by her husband is not the legitimate child of the husband.

Shiah law.-- The longest period of gestation according to the Shiah law is 10 months; Baillie, Part 11, 90.

Acknowledgment of Legitimacy.

247. Acknowledgment of legitimacy.—Legitimacy is not a condition essential to the right of inheritance from the mother (s. 72); but it is a condition precedent to the right of inheritance from the father, and depends upon the existence of a lawful marriage between the parents of the claimant at the time of his conception or birth. When legitimacy cannot be established by direct proof of a lawful marriage, "acknow-ledgment" is recognised by the Mahomedan law as a means whoreby the marriage and legitimate descent may be established as a matter of substantive law for the purposes of inheritance. An acknowledgment of legitimacy is of no effect if it be proved either that there was no marriage at all between the parents of the acknowledgee, or, if there was one, that it was not lawful. It is effective only where on the evidence in the case the Court is unable to come to a definite finding as to the factum of marriage (r).

⁽p) Mneammat Kaniza v. Hasan (1926) 1 Luck | (q) Ashruff Ali v. Meer Ashad Ali (1871) 16 71, 92 1 U. 82, (26) A.O. 231. | (q) Ashruff Ali v. Meer Ashad Ali (1871) 16

Baille, 406; Hed., 439. The dectrine of acknowledgment is an integral portion of the Mahomedan family law; hence the conditions under which it will take effect must be determined with reference to Mahomedar Jurasprudence (s).

Presumption of legitimacy.—A child whose illegitimacy is proved beyond doubt, by reason of the marriage of its parents being either disproved or found to be unliawful, cannot be legitimatized by archnowledgment. Acknowledgment has only the effects of legitimation, whether other the fact of the marriage or its exact time with reference to the legitimacy of the child's birth, is a matter of uncertainty. An acknowledgment, in other words, is of no effect if it be proved that there was no interage at all between the parents of the acknowledge, or, if there was, one it was numberful. The rule is himsted to cases of uncertainty of legitimate descent and proceeds entirely upon an assumption of legitimacy and the establishment of such legitimacy by the force of the acknowledgment (i). No statement made by one man that mother provid to be dilegitimate is his son can make that other legitimate, but where no proof of that knot has been given, such a statement or acknowledgment is substantiative evidence that the person is acknowledged in the legitimate is not of the person who makes the statement, provided his legitimacy is possible "(i) [is 250]. See notes to s. 240, "Burden of proof."

248. Acknowledgment may be express or implied.—The acknowledgment by a Mahomedan of another as his legitimate child may be made either by express declaration, or it may be presumed from treatment tantamount to acknowledgment of legitimacy (v). But mere continued cohabitation with a woman does not suffice to raise such a legal presumption of a marriage with her as to legitimatize the offspring. The cohabitation must be a cohabitation as man and wife as ⁽²⁸⁾ A. O. 562, Firoz Din v. Nawab Khan (1928) 9 Lah 224, 109 I. C. 779, (28) A. L. 224 [marriage disproved], Irahin v. Mubarak (1920) 1 Lah 229, 56 I. C. 923; Ummanatiya v. Valli, Mahomed (1910) 40 Boin, 28, 30 I. C. 504.

^{(1916) 40} Bonn. 28, 30 I. C. 904. (1) 10 All. 280, supra. (1) Muhammad Allahdad v. Mahommad Ismail (1888) 10 All. 289, 337. (2) Sadik Husain v. Hashim All. (1916) 43 I. A. 212, 224, 33 All. 627, 601, 36 I. C. 104. (2) Saiyad Walsulka v. Muran Saheb (1864) 2 B. H. C. 285.

distinguished from "a mere casual concubinage" (w), and the treatment must be such as to amount to acknowledgment of legitimacy (x).

[(a) A child is born to a Mahomedan of a woman who had resided in his female apartments for a period of 7 years prior to the birth of the child. It is proved that the cohabitation was a continual one and not merely "casual," and that it was between a man and a woman condabuting together as man and reife and having that repute before the conception commenced. It is also proved that the child was born under his root, and continued to be maintained in his house without any steps being taken on his part or of any one else to repudiate the title to legitimary as his offspring. These facts are sufficient to raise a presumption of marriage and acknowledgment: Khajah Hidayat v. Rui Jan (1844) 3 M. I. A. 293.

Note. In Makanard Banker v. Sharfpon Nissa (1860) 8 M. I. A. 136, there was abundant evidence of continued cohabitation between the father and the mother of the claimant. But there was no proof in that case of treatment tantamount to acknowledgment as in the above illustration, and the claimant was therefore adjudged to be illegitamate.

(b) A child as horn to a Mahomedan of a woman who had been in his service for some time before the birth of the child. It is alleged that the man entered into a maternage (s. 206B) with the woman, but the date of the marriage is not found. The evidence shows that pregnancy commenced before the woman had the acknowledged status of a molt wife. It does not appear when the intercourse, which led to the birth began, nor what the nature of it was, whether of a casual or a permanent character. It is proved that there was no express acknowledgment, and it appears from the evidence that the treatment of the child was squireord, he being sometimes treated as a so and at others, not. These facts are not sufficient to raise a presumption of marriage and acknowledgment: 1.shripool Dwelden V. Ipder Ilasoria (1860c) II M. L. A. 250c).

- 249. Conditions of a valid acknowledgment.—In order that an acknowledgment may be effective and give the acknowledgee the status of a legitimate son, the following conditions should exist:—
 - the acknowledgment must be not merely of sonship, but of legitimate sonship (y);
 - (2) the acknowledgment must not be impossible upon the face of it (z), that is, it must not be made when the ages are such that it is impossible in nature

⁽¹⁰⁾ Mahomed Bauker v. Shurfoon Nissa (1860) 8 M I A. 136, 59. (x) Khajoh Hidayat v. Ras Jan Khanum (1844)

Khajah Hidayat V. Ras Jan Khanum (1844)
 M. L. 205., Ashrufood Dovelah V. Hyder Howein Khan (1866)
 M. L. A. 94;
 Mahammad Armat V. Zalit Depron (1881)
 S. Ch. 200.
 Mahammad Armat V. Zalit Depron (1881)
 A. 100.
 Mahammad Armat V. Zalit Depron (1881)
 A. 100.
 Mahammad Armat V. Zalit Lepton (1883)
 A. 100.
 Mahammad Armat V. Aga Mahamad Jater (1893)
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 11.
 A. 606,
 Z. 12.
 A. 606,
 <

Masit-un-nussa v. Pathans (1904) 28 All. 295; Musst. Bibes Fazilatunnessa v. Musst. Bibes Kamarunnessa (1905) 9 C. W. N. 352.

⁽y) Habbur Rahman v. Altaf Ali (1921) 48 I. A. 114, 120, 48 Cal. 866, 60 I. C. 837; Usmannya v. Vall Mahomed (1916) 40 Rom. 28, 30 I. C. 904, [acknowledgment of another man's son not lawful]. (2) (1921) 48 I.A. 114, 120-121, 48 Cal. 856, 60 I. C. 837, suprage.

for the acknowledgor to be the father of the acknowledgee; or when the mother spoken to in an acknowledgment being the wife of another man (a). or within prohibited degrees of the acknowledger (b) or a prostitute (c), it would be apparent that the issue would be the issue of adultery, incest or fornication (d).

249, 250

- (3) the acknowledgee must not be known to be the child of another man:
- (4) the acknowledgee must confirm the acknowledgment, but such confirmation is not necessary when he is an infant.

Hed., 439 : Baillie, 406.

Burden of proof .- As marriage among Mahomedans may be constituted without any ceremonial, direct proof of marriage is not always available. Where direct proof is not available, indirect proof may suffice. Now one of the ways of indirect proof is by an acknowledgment of legitimacy in favour of a son. This acknowledgment must be not merely of sonship, but of legitimate sonship. Further, it must not be impossible upon the face of it as stated in the present section. If these conditions are satisfied, the acknowledgment gives rise to a presumption that there was a marriage between the parents. The presumption, however, being one of fact, and not juris et de jure, it may be rebutted by positive proof that there was no marriage at all between the parents. If it is not rebutted, the marriage will be held proved and the legitimacy of the acknowledgee will be held to be established (e).

The acknowledgment must be not merely of sonship, but of legitimate sonship. The latter, however, may be presumed for the former, for when a man acknowledges another to be his son, that prima face means his legitimate son (f). But this presumption may be rebutted by proving facts showing that the acknowledgment of sonship was not intended to have the serious effect of conferring the status of legitimacy on that other (q) Statements made by a member of a Mahomedan family, e.g., the widow of the alleged father, that a person is a son or an heir, are evidence of family repute of legitimacy (h).

250. Right of inheritance.—If an acknowledgment is of legitimate sonship, and that relationship is possible in fact and in law [s. 249], it raises a presumption of marriage between the acknowledger and the mother of the acknowledgee, and, unless

⁽a) Liaqat Als v. Karim-un-Nussa (1893) 15 All. 386; Mardensaheb v. Rafakanheb (1909) 34 Bom. 111, 41. C. 264: Afha Mhammad v. Zohra Begam (1924) 3 Luck. 190, 105 1. C. 490, (28) A 0. 562, Muhammad Shaffy-ulch v. Nuh-ulch (1926) 48 All. 68, 88 1. C. 96, (28) A. All. 69, 88 1. C. 96, (28) A.

⁽b) Aizunnissa v. Karimunnissa (1895) 23 Cal. 130.

⁽c) Dhan Bibi v. Lalan Bibi (1900) 27 Cal. 801; Firoz Din v. Nascab Khan (1928) 9 Lah.

rebutted, gives the acknowledgee the right of inheritance to the acknowledger as his legitimate child (i), and also a similar right to the mother of the acknowledgee as the lawful wife of the acknowledger (j).

The acknowledged child may be either a son or a daughter (k).

Clear and reliable ovidence that a Mahomedan has acknowledged children as his legitimate issue raises a presumption of a valid marriage between him and the children's mother (1).

251. Acknowledgment of legitimacy irrevocable.-Once an acknowledgment of paternity is made, it cannot be revoked either by the acknowledger or persons claiming through him (m).

But an acknowledgment may be repudiated by the acknowledgee (n).

252. Adoption not recognised.—The Mahomedan law does not recognize adoption as a mode of filiation (o).

Even a Hindu coverted to Mahomedanism cannot adopt (p).

Hobbur Rahman v. Allaf Ali (1921) 48 T. A. 114, 60 f. C. 837. Medinamid Armid v. Lalla Bergen (1881) 8 v. 14, 425, 9 f. A. 8.
 Lalla Bergen (1881) 8 v. 14, 425, 9 f. A. 8.
 Changen (1881) 8 v. 14, 425, 9 f. A. 8.
 Khapak Dindaya v. Rin Jan (1844) 3 M T. A. 200, 318.
 Khapak Dindaya v. Rin Jan (1844) 3 M T. A. 200, 318.
 Khapak Dindaya v. Rin Jan (1844) 3 M T. A. 200, 318.
 V. M. Mahmand (1873) 22 V. 318.
 V. M. Mahmand (1873) 22 V. 31.
 A. 190, 51 A. 820, 1 Almohald International v. Machandra (1914) 3 F. J. A. 73, 85, 15 Cal. 878, 809, 47 T. 15 J. 4.
 J. 180, 51 C. 53.
 L. A. 114, 60 U. S. 87.
 L. A. 114, 60 U. S. 87.

(k) Oomda Bebee v. Synd Shah Jonab (1866) 5 W. R. 132

W. R. 132 (I) Imambandi v. Mutsabli (1918) 45 I. A. 73, 81-82, 45 Cal. 878, 889, 890, 47 l. C. 513. (m) Ashrigod Dovidh v. Hyder Hossen (1860) 11 M. J. A. 94; Muhammad Allahdad v. Muhammad Ismaul (1888) J. All. 289, 317.

(n) Habbibur Rubman v. Altaf Ali (1921) 48 1.A. 114, 48 Cal 856, 60 LO 837.
(a) Mulammad Allahdad v. Muhammad Ismail (1888) 10 Ali, 259, 340, Wuhammad Umar v. Muhammad Nuz-ud-Du (1912) 39 Cal, 418, 39 1 A. 19, 13 1.C. 344.

(p) Bar Machhbar v Bar Uurbal (1911) 35 Born. 264, 10 l. U 816.

CHAPTER XV.

GUARDIANSHIP OF PERSON AND PROPERTY.

253. Age of majority—In this Chapter, "minor" means a person who shall not have completed the age of eighteen years.

Ss. 253-255

See Indian Majority Act IX of 1875, a. 3, and the Guardians and Wards Act VIII of 1890, s. 4, cl. (1).

Age of majority according to Mivesiman law.—As cording to the Islamic law, the minority of a male or female termina's when he or she attains puberty. Among the Hanafis and the Shuahs, puberty is presumed on the completion of the fifteenth year. Under the Mussalman law, every individual upon attaining puberty may enter into legal transactions of every kind affecting his or her property or his or her status, e.g., marriage and divorce I afir Ali Vol. 11, 3rd od. pp. 581, 581 i.

254. Power of Court to make order as to guardianship—When the Court is satisfied that it is for the welfare of a minor that an order should be made (1) appointing a guardian of his person or property, or both, or (2) declaring a person to be such guardian, the Court may make an order accordingly.

Guardian and Wards Act, s. 7.

- 255. Matters to be considered by Court in appointing guardian.—(I) In appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor, the Court should, subject to the provisions of this section, be guided by what, consistently with the law to which the minor is subject, appear in the circumstances to be for the welfare of the minor.
- (2) In considering what will be for the welfare of the minor, the Court should have regard to the age and sex of the minor, the character and capacity of the proposed guardian and his nearness of kin to the minor, the wishes, if any, of a deceased parent, and any existing or previous relations of the proposed guardian with the minor or his property.
- (3) If the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the Court may consider that preference.

Guardians and Wards Act, s. 17. The italicized words show that if a minor, of whose porn or property or both a guardian is to be appointed or declared by the Court, is a Mahomodan, the Court is to have regard to the rules of Mahomedan law subject, however, to the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3). We now proceed to enumerate the rules of Mah provisions of sub-sections (2) the guardianship of the person of a minor, and (2) the guardianship of his property.

Guardians of the Person of a Minor.

256. Right of mother to custody of infant children.—The mother is entitled to the custody (hizanat) of her male child until he has completed the age of seven years, and of her female child until she has attained puberty, and the right is not lost though she may have been divorced by her husband (q).

Hed., 138; Baillie, 435.

The mother is not entitled to the custody of her infant child if she is wicked or unworthy of trust, as where she is a professional singer or mourner or where she has committed a theft: Baillie, 435. See also s. 253.

Shinkhu.—Sections 256 to 260 contain the rules of the Sunni law as to the guardianship of the preson of a minor. There is a substantial difference in this respect between the Sunni and the Shah law. Under the Shiah law, the mother is entitled to the custody of her male child during the whole time of sucking (that is, two years), and of her-female child until she has completed the age of seven years. But if the mother dies before the children attain the aforesaid age, the father becomes entitled to their custody (r). After the child attains the aforesaid age, the father has the right to the custody of the child (a). But if the father be then dead, or if he dues thereafter while the children are still minors, the outsofty belongs to the mother. On the death of both parents, the father's father is entitled to the custody of the child. It is doubtful tq, whom the custody belongs in the absence of the father's father; Ballle, Part II, 95.

- 257. Right of female relatives in default of mother.— Failing the mother, the right of custody of a boy under the age of seven years, and of a girl who has not attained puberty; devolves upon the following female relatives in the order enumerated below:—
 - (1) mother's mother, how high soever ;.,
 - (2) father's mother, how high soever; .
 - (3) full sister;
 - (4) uterine sister;
 - (5) [consanguine sister];

⁽q) Bailhe, 435. Zarubibi v. Abdul Razak (1910) 12 Bonn. L. R. 891, 8 L.C. 618: Emperor v. Ayuhabai (1904) 6 Bonn. L. R. 536. (x) Lardii v. Mahomed (1887) 14 Cal. 615.

257-259

- (6) full sister's daughter;
- (7) uterine sister's daughter:
- (8) [consanguine sister's daughter]:
- (9) maternal aunts, in like order as sisters; and
- (10) paternal aunts, also in like order as sisters.

Hed., 138; Baillie, 435-436 Neither the consumming sister (No. 5) nor her daughter (No. 8) is expressly mentioned either in the Hedaya or the Fatawa Alumgiri; it almost seems as if the emission is accidental, for paternat aunts are expressly mentioned.

- 258. Females when disqualified for custody,- A female (including a mother) otherwise entitled to the custody of a child loses the right of custody—
 - (1) if she marries a person not related to the child within the prohibited degrees (ss. 201-202): but the right revives on dissolution of the marriage by death or divorce;
 - (2) if she is "wicked," as where she is prostitute (t); or is a professional singer, or has committed theft or other criminal offence, or if she is otherwise "unworthy to be trusted."

Hed., 138-139; Baillie, 435-436; Fuseehun v. Kajo (1884) 10 Cal. 15; Bhoocha v. Elahi Bux (1885) 11 Cal. 574.

The reason of the rule in cl. (1) is that if a woman marries a man not closely related to the child, the child may not be treated kindly. It is otherwise, however, where the mother, for instance, marries her child's paternal uncle or the maternal grandmother marries the paternal grandfather, because these men, being as parents, it is to be expected that they will treat the child kindly | Hed., 138 l.

A postasy .--- A postasy is stated in the Fatawa Alumgiri as a ground of disqualification. The reason given is that a woman who relinquishes the Moslem faith would be kept in prison till she returned to the Mahomedan faith [Baillie, 435]. But this reason cannot apply in British India; hence it would seem apostasy is no disqualification in British India [Baillie, 435, f. n. (3)]. See also Act 21 of 1850, and the notes of s. 208.

- 259. Right of father and of male paternal relatives.—In default of all the female relatives mentioned above, the right of custody passes to the following persons in the order enumerated below :--
 - (1) the father:
 - (2) father's father, how high soever;

Ss. 259-260

- (3) full brother;
- (4) consanguine brother;
- (5) full brother's son;
- (6) consanguine brother's son;
- (7) full paternal uncle;
- (8) consanguine paternal uncle;
- (9) full paternal uncle's son;
- (10) consanguine paternal uncle's son;

provided that no male is entitled to the custody of an unmarried girl, unless he stands within the prohibited degrees of relationship to her (ss. 201-202).

If there be none of these, it is for the Court to appoint a guardian.

Hed., 138, 139; Baille, 437. It follows from the proxise to the section that though a bog may be given in the custody of his paternal uncle's son, a girl should not be entrusted to him, for he is not within the prohibited degree [Baillie, 437].

The father being the natural guardian, an order of the Court appointing him guardian of his minor son is without jurisdiction (u).

259A. Custody of married minor.—The mother of a girl who is married, but has not attained puberty, is entitled to the custody of the girl as against the husband of the girl (v).

See Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, s. 19, which is to be read with s. 17 of that Act. See s. 255 above.

260. Custody of boy over seven and of girl who has attained puberty.—The father is entitled to the custody of a boy when he has completed the age of seven years, and of a girl when she has attained puberty. Failing the father, the right of custody devolves upon the paternal relatives in the order and subject to the proviso mentioned in s. 259.

Hed., 129; Baillie, 438; Idu v. Amiran (1886) 8 All. 322.

According to the Mussalman law, the father's right of custody ceases on the boy or gul's attaining the age of puberty, that is on the completion of the fifteenth year [see notes to s. 253]. But it has been held that though under the Mahomedan law the father is not entitled to the custody of the person of his son after he has completed his fifteenth year, the effect of the Indian Majority Act, 1875, by which minority is continued until completion of the eighteenth year, is to extend the right of the father to the custody of 260-262A the boy's person until completion of the eighteenth year (w).

⁽u) Ulfat Bibi v. Bufats (1927) 49 All. 773, 102 I C. 103, (27) A A. 581. (v) Nur Kadir v. Zuleikha Bibi (1885) 11 Cal.

261. Custody of illegitimate children .--- The custody of illegitimate children belongs to the mother and her relations. [Macnaghten, 298.]

Guardians of the Property of a Minor.

- 262. Legal guardians of property -The following persons are entitled in the order mentioned below to be guardians of the property of a minor :-
 - the father;
 - (2) the executor appointed by the father's will;
 - (3) the father's father:
 - (4) the executor appointed by the will of the father's father.

Buillie, 689; Macnaghten, 62, 304. The four guardians mentioned in this section are heremafter called legal guardians. It will be seen from what has been stated above that the only relations who are entitled to be the legal quardians of the property of a minor are (1) the father, and (2) the father's father. No other relation is entitled to the guardianship of the property of a minor as of right, not even the mother, brother or uncle. But the father or the paternal grandfather of the minor may appoint any one of these as his executrix or executor, in which case they become ligal quardians and have all the powers of a legal quardians as defined in ss. 263 and 267. The Court also may appoint any one of them as guardian of the property of a minor, in which case they have all the powers of a guardian appointed by the Court as stated in ss. 264 and 267A.

Note that the only persons who may appoint a guardian of the property of a minor by will are his father and his father's father. Even the mother has no power to appoint by will a guardian of the property of her minor children. A mother's executor is not a legal quardian, nor is a brother's executor, nor an uncle's executor. In fact no executor, except the father's executor or the father's father's executor, can be a legal guardian of the property of a minor: Macnaghten, 304. As to the powers of a legal guardian, see ss. 263 and 267.

262A. Guardian of property appointed by Court.—In default of the legal guardians mentioned in s. 262, the duty of appointing a guardian for the protection and preservation of the minor's property devolves on the Court. The appointment of guardians of property is now governed by the provisions of the Guardians and Wards Act. 1890.

Ss. Baillic, 689; Imambandi v. Mutsaddi (1918) 45 I. A. 73, 84, 45 Cal. 878, 893, 47
 262A-264 I. C. 513; Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, s. 17.

The Court should, in appointing a guardian of the property of a minor, be guided by what appears in the circumstances to be for the nedfare of the minor. Thus in one case the mother of a minor was appointed guardian of the property in preference to the paternal uncle (r). The fact that the mother is a purdinashin lady is no objection to her a nondiment as guardian of her son's property (v).

262B. De facto guardian.—A de facto guardian is a person who has charge of the person or property of a minor without being his lawful guardian, that is, without being a legal guardian as defined in s. 262 or a guardian appointed by the Court as stated in s. 262A (z).

The expression "de facto guardian" is used in contradistinction to "de jure guardian." As to the powers of a de facto guardian, see, ss. 265 and 267B below.

263. Alienation of immovable property by legal guardian—A legal quardian of the property of a minor [s. 262] has no power to sell the immovable property of the minor except in the following cases, namely, (1) where he can obtain double its value: (2) where the minor has no other property and the sale absolutely necessary for his maintenance; (3) where there are debts of the deceased, and no other means of paying them; (4) where there are legacies to be paid, and no other means of paying them; (5) where the expenses exceed the income of the property; (6) where the property is falling to decay; and (7) when the property has been usurped, and the guardian has reason to fear that there is no chance of fair restitution.

Bailhe, 687-688; Macnaghten, p. 64, s. 14, pp. 305, 306; Imambandi v. Mutsaddi (1918) 15 I. A. 73, 91; Hurbar v. Hiraji (1806) 20 Bom. 116, 121; Kali Dutt v. Abdul Ali (1888) 16 Cal. 627, 16 I. A. 96; Thotdu, v. Kurhammed (1910) 34 Mad. 527, 81, C, 1093.

The prohibition against abenation referred to in this section applies to immov able property to which the minor has an undisputed title. It does not apply where the minor stitle to the property is disputed. Thus where the father of a minor sold a portion of the immovable property inherited by the minor from his mother the title to which was in dispute, and the sale was made pursuant to a compromise which put an end to pending litigation, the sale was held to be binding on the minor as being one for the minor's benefit (a). As to the power of a legal guardian to dispose of morable property belonging to his ward, see a 207 below.

264. Alienation of immovable property by guardian appointed by Court.—A person who is appointed guardian of the property of a minor under the Guardians and Wards Act, ⁽x) Alm-ullah v. Abadi (1906) 29 All. 10.

⁽y) Januanti v. Gajadhar (1911) 38 Cal. 783, 785, 10 I. C. 334.

⁽z) Imambandı v. Mutsaddi (1918) 45 I.A. 73 92, 45 Cal. 878, 903, 47 I.C. 513. (a) Kali Dut v. Abdul Ali (1888) 16 I. A. 96, 16

1890 [s. 262A] has no power, without the previous permission of the Court, to mortgage or charge, or transfer by sale, gift, exchange, or otherwise, any part of the immovable property of his ward, or to lease any part of the property for a term exceeding five years, or for any term extending more than one year beyond the date on which the ward will cease to be a minor. A disposal of immovable property by a guardian in contravention of the foregoing provisions is voidable at the instance of the minor or any other person affected thereby (b) [Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, ss. 29, 30].

As to the disposal of movable property by a guardian appointed by the Court, see s. 267 A below.

265. Alienation of immovable property by de facto guardian.—A de facto guardian [s. 262B] has no power to transfer to another any right or interest in the immovable property of the minor which the transferee can enforce against the minor; nor can such transferee, if let into possession of the property under such unauthorized transfer, resist an action in ejectment on behalf of the minor as a trespasser (c).

[6a] A dies leaving a widow and a minor son. The widow sells to B the share of herself and of her minor son in an immovable property inherited by them from 1. The sale is not binding on the minor: Imanshendt v. Mutsaddt (1918) 45 1. A. 73, 45 Cal. 878, 47 1. C. 513; Muhammad Shafe v. Mst. Kalsum Bi (1923) 4 Lah. 467, 79 1. C. 260, (24) A. L. 200.

(b) A mortgages has immovable property to B. A dies leaving 4 grandsons one of whom is a minor. By his will, A bequestin the mortgaged property to the 4 grandsons of equal shares subject to the payment of the mortgage debt. The three major grandsons on their own behalf, and one of them purporting to eat also as useration of the minor, sell the property including the minor's share to B in consideration of the discharge by B of the mortgage debt, and put B in possession as purchaser. On attaining majority, the minor sues B to redeem the mortgage to the extent of one-fourth of the property, that being his share. The sale is not binding on the minor, and he is entitled to redeem his share of the property: Mata D in A shamed All (1012) 34 All. 213, 39 1. A. 49, 13 I.C. 976.]

Where a person, who is neither a logal guardian (s. 262) nor a guardian appointed by the Court (s. 262 A), assumes to deal with the property of a munor as though he was a guardian, he is called a de facto guardian. Thus a mother, or brother, or sister, or uncle is not a logal guardian of the minor's property, and if he or she transfers the minor's immonoble property, the transfer, being one made by a de facto guardian, is not binding on him, even though it may have been made to discharge the debts of the minor's Ss. 264, 265

⁽b) Solema Bibi v. Hofre Muhammad (1927) 54 Cal. 637, 104 1.C. 833, (27) A.C. 830, (c) Imambandi v. Mutandid, (1918) 45 1 A. 73, 45 Cal. 878, 47 I.C. 513; Mata Din v. Ahmad AK (1912) 30 I A 40, 34 All. 213, 13 I C. 976; Khushra v. Fauz (1928) 9 Lah. 33, 103

¹ C. 365, ('28) A.L. 113, [suit to set aside allenation by mother is governed by art, 44 of the Limitation Act, 1998]. See also Moulvi Abn Mahomed v. Amid Karım (1888) 15 I. A. 220 [sale by mother—lapse of time—acquisecrocci father (d). It was so held by their Lordships of the Privy Council in Imambandi v. Mulsaddi (e). Prior to that decision there was a conflict of opinion among the different High Courts as to the legal effect of such a transaction, it being held in some cases that it was absolutely void, and in others that it was valid if it was for the benefit of the minor. But it has been held that if a de facto guardian, e.g., a mother, mortgages her son's property, and the mortgage is set aside in a suit by the son, then if the minor's estate was benefited by the loan, the Court may under s. 41 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, direct the minor to refund the amount by which the minor's estate was benefited (f) .

Sa. 265~267A

The principle of the Privy Council decision referred to above has been extended to cases of agreements by a de facto guardian to refer to arbitration disputes relating to immovable property belonging to a minor, and such agreements have been held to be void (q). As to the power of a de facto guardian to dispose of movable property belonging to a mmor in his charge, see s, 267B below.

- 266. Agreement by guardian for purchase of immovable property for his ward.-Neither the guardian of a minor nor the manager of his estate is competent to bind the minor or his estate by a contract for the purchase of immovable property.
- [A, the manager of the estate of a minor, B, agrees to purchase certain immovable property on B's behalf from C. The agreement is coid, and neither B nor C can sue for specific performance of the contract: Mir Sanwarjan v. Fakhruddin (1912) 39 Cal. 232, 39 I. A. I, 13 I. C. 331. Note that an agreement for purchase is not binding on the minor in any case.]
- 267. Power of legal guardian to dispose of movable property.—A legal guardian of the property of a minor [s. 262] has power to sell or pledge the goods and chattels of the minor for the minor's imperative necessities, such as food, clothing or nursing (h).

Power to continue business, -- Where the father was a partner in a firm at the date of his death, the mother is not entitled to enter into a fresh partnership, on behalf of her minor children, with the surviving partners to continue the business. If she does so, the minor's share in the assets of the firm is not hable for losses incurred after the father's death. The minor hoirs are entitled to their share of the assets of the firm at the time of their father's death as well as to their share of the nett profits made since their father's death (s).

267A. Power of guardian appointed by Court to dispose of movable property.-A guardian of the property of a minor appointed by the Court [s. 262A] is bound to deal with movable property belonging to the minor as carefully as a man of ⁽d) (1912) 39 1 A. 49, 34 All. 213, 13 I.C. 976, supra, ⁽e) (1918) 45 1 A. 73, 45 Cal. 878, 47 I.C. 513. (f) Rang Ilahi v. Mahbub Ilahi (1926) 7 Lah. 35, 94 I.C. 25, ('26) A.L. 170.

 ⁽g) Mohsiuddin v. K. Ahmed (1920) 47 Cal. 713, 67 I. U. 945.
 (h) Imambanda v. Mutsaddi (1918) 45 I. A. 73, 86-87, 45 Cal. 878, 895-896, 47 I. C. 513.
 (1) A. Khorasany v. C. Acha (1928), 6 Rang. 198, (22) A. B. 169.

ordinary prudence would deal with it if it were his own [Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, s. 27].

Ss. 267A-268

267B. Power of de facto guardian to dispose of movable property.—A de facto guardian [s. 262 B] has the same power to sell and pledge the goods and chattels of a minor in his charge as a legal guardian of his property (j).

Guardians and Wards Act.

836. Applicability of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890—All applications for the appointment or declaration of a guardian of the person or property or both of a Mahomedan minor must now be made under the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, and the duties, rights, and liabilities of guardians appointed or declared under that Act, are governed by the provisions of that Act.

⁽j) (1918) 45 I. A. 73, 86-87, 45 Cal. 878, 895-896, 47 J. C. 513, supra.

CHAPTER XVI.

MAINTENANCE.

- Ss. 269. Maintenance of children and grandchildren.—(1) A 269-270A father is bound to maintain his minor sons. He is also bound to maintain his daughters until they are married. But he is not bound to maintain his adult sons unless they are disabled by infirmity or disease. The mere fact that the children are in the custody of their mother during their infancy (s. 256) does not relieve the father from the obligation of maintaining them (k). But the father is not bound to maintain any of his children, if they have property of their own.
 - (2) If the father is poor, and incapable of earning anything by his own labour, the mother, if she is rich, is bound to maintain her children in like circumstances as the father.
 - (3) If the father is poor and infirm, and the mother is poor, the duty to maintain the children lies on the grandfather, provided the grandfather is rich.

Hed., 148; Baillie, 459-462. A daughter when married passes to her husband's family, and there is no obligation on the members of her natural family to maintain her after her marriage, not even if she is divored (B).

- 270. Maintenance of parents—(I) Children in easy circumstances are bound to maintain their poor parents, although the latter may be able to earn something for themselves.
- (2) A son, though in straitened circumstances, is bound to maintain his mother, if the mother, though not infirm, is poor.
- (3) A son who, though poor, is earning something, is bound to support his poor father who is earning nothing.

Baillie, 465, 466; Hed., 148.

270A. Maintenance of grandparents.—A person is bound to maintain his paternal and maternal grandfathers and grandmothers if they are poor, but not otherwise, to the same extent as he is bound to maintain his poor father.

Baillie, 466.

⁽k) Emperor v. Ayshabaı (1904) 6 Bom. L. R. 530, Mahomed Jusab v. Haji Adam (1913) 37 Bom. 71, 15 1. C. 520 [a Cutchi Memon 113 I. C. 236.

271. Maintenance of other relations.—Persons who are not themselves poor are bound to maintain their poor relations within the prohibited degrees in proportion to the share which they would inherit from them on their death.

Ss. 271-273

Baillie, 467.

Daulie, 40

272. Statutory obligation of father to maintain his children—
If the father neglects or refuses to maintain his legitimate or illegitimate children who are unable to maintain themselves, he may be compelled, under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1908, to make a monthly allowance not exceeding fifty rupees for their maintenance.

See Criminal Procedure Code, s. 488. If the children are illegitimate, the refusal of the mother to surrender them to the father is no ground for refusing maintenance (m)-

273. Maintenance of wives.—See ss. 213 to 215 above.

(m) Kariyadan v. Kayat Beeran (1895) 19 Mad. 461.

The references throughout are to pages.

Acts (Regulation)-

Administrator General's Act (3 of 1913), 27.

Ajmer-Merwara Regulation (3 of 1877), 6.

Bengal Act (12 of 1887), 4. Bombay Regulation (4 of 1827), 5. Bombay Regulation (8 of 1827), 26.

Burmah Laws Act (13 of 1898), 7. Central Provinces Laws Act (20 of 1875).

7. Charitable Endowments Act (6 of 1890),

Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), 156. Contract Act (9 of 1872), 4.

Cutchi Memons Act (46 of 1920), 9. Indian Succession Act (39 of 1925), 15, 16, 26, 27.

executors, powers of, 106. probate not necessary, 105.

Madras Civil Courts Act (3 of 1873), 5.

Mussalman Wakf Validating Act (6 of 1912), 146.

N. W. Frontier Regulation (7 of 1901), 6. Official Trustees Act (2 of 1913), 156 Oudh Laws Act (18 of 1876), 7, 158. Probate and Administration Act (5 of Probate and Administration Act (5 of 1881), 15.

Punjab Laws Act (4 of 1872), 6, 158.

Rolegious Endowments Act (20 of 1863),

156. Succession Certificate Act (7 of 1889), 26. Usury Laws Repeal Act (28 of 1855), 4.

Abu Hanifa,

founder of Hanafi school, 13.

Abu Yusuf, disciple of Abu Hanifa, 14.

Acknowledged kinsman.

when inherits, 75. Acknowledgment.

by legitimation, 199, conditions of valid, 206, effect of valid, 208. Administration suit, by an hor, 17.

Administrator.

vesting of estate in, 16.

Adoption.

not recognised in Mahomedan Law, 210.

Agreement.

enabling wife to leave busband, 186. for future separation, invalid, 201. talak by, 198.

Alienation of share,

by heir, before distribution of estate, 17-20.

Apostasy,

and dissolution of marriage, 201. and guardianship for marriage, 183. and guardianship of person, 213. and inhoritance, 32.

Aunt.

paternal, is D.K. of 4th class, 53. maternal, is D.K. of 4th class, 53.

Bastard, right of, to inherit, 75.

Bequest, alternative, 104.

for pious purposes, 103, 132. to heirs, 100.

to heirs and strangers, 103. to unborn persons, 104.

revocation of, 104.

of remainder, 102,

in excess of one-third, 102.

consent of insolvent heir, 101. See Legacy.

Birthright.

not recognised in Mahomedan law, 28.

Borahs. Debt. of Guzerat, law governing, 9. effect of acknowledgment, of during of Bombay, are Smahs, 10. death-illness, 108. liability of heirs for, 20, Brother payment of, by heirs, 25. consanguine, is a residuary, 40A. recovery of, due to deceased, 25 son of, is a residuary, 40A. Distant kindred. daughter of, is D.K. of defined, 51. 3rd class, 52. full, is a residuary, 40A. four classes of, 52. full, son of, is a residuary, 40A. See Inheritance. Divorce daughter of, is distant kindred of third class, 52. different kinds of, 195. khula, 201). uterine, is a sharer, 34A. mubarat, 200 uterine, children of, are D.K., 62. talak, 195-196. effect of, on the married parties, 203-204. Conjugal rights. in case of marriages in England, 199. defences in suit for restitution of, 186. ground for, apostasy, 201. right to sue for restitution of, 185. separation in case of disagreement, con-Conversion to Mahomedanism. tract for, 201. effect of, on rights of inheritance, 8, wife's suit for divorce, for, 201. on marital rights, 8. wife, stipulation by, for divorce, 201. Converts. amount of, 188. well known sects of, 8, 9. " deferred," 189. Costs. defined, 187. of wife, in a suit for divorce, 203. father of minor son, liability of, 190. Creditor. is merely a debt. 190. suit by, against estate, 21. limitation, period of, for recovering, 195 payable before legacies as a debt, 190. of prostitution, not recognised, 6. prompt," 189. of succession, when enforced, 5 " proper," 189. relinquishment of, 190. Cutchi Memons. widow's right to retain possession of hussuccession among, governed by Hindu law 8 band's property, 190, 191. Eldest son. testamentary power of, 9. rights of, under Shiah law, 98. of Bombay, are Sunnis, 11. Endowments. Cutchi Memons Act. 9. law relating to administration of, 156. Cypres. Equity and good conscience, doctrine of, 138. rules of, 2, 14. Daughter. Escheat to the crown. when a sharer, 34A. under Sunni law. 75. when a residuary, 40A. under Shiah law, 98. children of, are distant kindred of first class, 52. Estate (of a Mahomedan). debts due to, how recoverable, 25. Death-illness. devolution of, 15, 16. acknowledgment of debt in, 108, distribution of, 15. gift made in, 107. ensetments relating to administration what is, 107. of. 27.

Estate (of a Mahomedan)—contd.	Gift Hiba-(contd.)
how administered, 15.	kinds of —contd.
vesting of, in executor or administrator,	gift to two donees, 121.
16.	gift with a condition, 122.
Executor,	gift over, 124.
legal guardian of minor's property, 215.	hiba-bil-iwaz, 126-128.
non-Mahomedan can be, 106.	hıba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz, 128.
powers of, 106.	gift of mushaa, 119.
vosting of estate in, 16.	sadakah, 129.
False,	life-estates, 122, 123.
grand father defined, 34.	Marumakkatayam law, effect of, on grandfather is a distant kindred of second class, 52.	donees of, 130. revocation of, 124, 125.
grandmother defined, 34.	possession, 113, 115, 117.
,, is a distant kindred of	registration, 113.
second class, 52.	relinquishment of ownership by donor,
Father,	seizo in, 113.
as a sharor, 34A.	subject-matter of, 109-111.
as a residuary, 40A, 43. may inherit both as sharer and residu-	trust, gift through the medium of, 114.
ary, 47-51.	to whom can be made, 109.
Father's father.	who can make a, 109.
See True.	writing, whether necessary for a, 112.
Father's mother,	Girasias,
is a sharer, 34-A.	· ·
Fosterage,	law relating to, 9. Grandfather, is a ground for prohibiting marriage,	See False; also True.
177.	Grandmother,
Funeral expenses,	See False; also True.
payment of, is first charge upon the	Guardians for marriage.
estate, 15.	apostasy of, 183.
Gift (Hiba), acceptance of, 113.	persons entitled to be, 183.
defined, 109.	Guardians of person and property.
lelivery, how effected in case of -	age of minority, 211.
actionable claims, 117.	agreement for purchase on behalf of bailees, 118.	minor, 218.
immoveable property, 115.	alienation of immovable property by incorporeal property, 117.	guardian appointed by Court, 216. alienation of immovable property by minor children, 117.	de facto guardian, 217.
minors generally, 118.	appointment of, by Court, 197, 201, 203,
constituted, 113.	215.
kinds of —	de facto guardian, 216.
arceat, 129.	Guardian and Wards Act, how far death-bed, 107, 108.	applies, 211-214, 219.
gift depending on contingency, 122.	illegitimate children, custody of, 215.
gift in future, 121.	married minor, custody of, 214. of person, 212-215.
Bits  J 400 47 O, 121.	or person, 212-210.

brother's (full) daughter is D. K.,

3rd cl. (s. 61), 62.

List of heirs-Sunni Law-contd. -contd. brother's (full) son's daughter is D. of property-K., 3rd cl. (s. 61), 62. legal, 215. brother's (full) daughter's children appointed by Court, 215. are D. K., 3rd cl. (s. 61), 62. brother (cons.) is a res., 40A. de facto, 208. brother's (cons.) son is a res., 40A. sale of immovable property by legal brother's (cons.) son's son is a req., guardian, 216. powers ofbrother's (cons.) daughter is D. K., legal guardians of property, 215, 216, 3rd cl. (s. 61), 62, 217, brother's (cons.) son's daughter is guardians of property appointed by D. K., 3rd cl. (s. 61), 62. the Court, 215, 216, brother's (cons.) daughter's de facto guardians, 216, 217. ren are D.K., 3rd cl. (s. 61), 63. Halai Memons. daughter as a sharer, 34A. law governing, 9. daughter as a res., 40A. of Bombay, are Sunnis, 11. daughter's children and grand-children Hanafi law. are D. K., 1st cl. (s. 57), 55. general rule of interpretation of, 14. father as a sharer, 34A. of inheritance, 33 76. father as a res., 40A., 43. Heirs, father as both sharer and res., 43, 46. alienation by, for payment of debts, 25, father's father as a sharer, 34A. bequest to, how far valid, 100-102. father's father as a res., 40A. liability of, for debts, 20. father's father as both sharer and res.. right of, to alienate share before distri-46 bution, 17. father's mother is a sharer, 34A. right of, to alienate share for payment of debts, 25. father's brother-see below Uncle. father's sister-see above Aunt. suits against, 21-24. tenants-in-common, 17. husband is a sharer, 34A. administration suit, 17. mother is a sharer, 34A. List of heirs—Sunni Law mother's father is D. K., 2nd cl., 60. aunt, full pat., is D. K., 4th cl. (s. mother's mother is a sharer, 34A. 63), 68. sister as a sharer, 34A. aunt, cons. pat., is D. K., 4th cl. sister as res., 40A. (a. 63), 68, aunt, ut. pat., is D. K., 4th cl. (s. son is a res., 40A. 63), 68, son's son is a res., 40A. aunt, full mat., is D. K., 4th cl. (s. son's daughter as a sharer, 34A. 63), 68. son's daughter as res., 40A. aunt, cons. mat., is D. K., 4th cl. (s. son's son's son as res., 40A. 63), 68. aunt, ut, mat., is D. K., 4th cl. (s. son's son's daughter as a sharer, 34A. 64), 69. son's son's daughter as a res., 40A. aunt, children and grandchildren of, are D. K., 4th cl. (s. 65), 70. son's daughter's children are D. K. brother (full) is a res., 40A. of 1st cl. (s. 57), 55. brother's (full) son is a res., 40A. uncle (full Pat.) is res., 40A. brother's (full) son's son is a res., 40A. uncle (cons. pat.) is res. 40A.

uncle's (full pat.) son as res., 40A.

uncle's (cons. pat.) son as res., 40A.

Heirs-contd.

Heirs-contd. Husband. is a sharer, 34A. List of heirs-Sunni Law-contd. See also Return, doctrine of. uncle's (full pat.) daughter as D. K., 4th cl. (s. 65), 70. Iddat. uncle's (cons. pat.) daughter as D. marriage during, void, 178. K., 4th cl. (s. 65), 70. Illegitimate child. uncle (ut. pat.) is D. K., of the 4th cl. right of, to inherit, 98, (s. 64), 69. uncle's (ut. pat.) children are D. K., Imam Muhammad. 4th cl. (s. 65), 71. disciple of Abu Hanifa, 14. uncle (full mat.) D. K., 4th cl. (s. 64), Increase. doctrine of, in Sunni Law, 39. uncle (cons. mat.) D. K., 4th cl. (s. doctrine of, not recognised by Shiah 64), 69. law, 97. uncle (ut. mat.) D. K., 4th cl. (s.64), Inheritance. general rules of, 28-32. uncle's (full mat.) children are D K., birth-right, 28. 4th cl. (s. 65), 71. homicide, effect, of on, 32. uncle's (cons. mat.) children are D. K., 4th cl. (s. 65), 71. kinds of estate :- uncle's (ut. mat.) children are D. K., ioint family, 32. 4th cl. (s. 65), 71. life estate, 29. wife is a sharer, 34A. spes successionis, 29. vested remainder, 29. List of heirs-Shish Law. representation, principle of, 28. aunt (ss. 89-90), 91-94. Hanafi law of, aunt's children (s. 91), 94, distant kindred, 4 classes of, 52. brothers (ss. 84-86), 86-87, (s.96), 97. Ulass I: (descendants of deceased) brother's descendants (ss. 87-88, 88-91 allotment of shares, amongst, 55. daughter, 83-85 (s. 83), 97-98 (s. 97). order of precedence, amongst, 55. daughter's children (s. 83), 84. Class II · (descendants of deceased) father (s. 83), 83, order of succession, 60. grandparents (ss. 85-88), 86-91. Class III: (descendants of parents) husband (s. 79), 80, (s. 94), 96. allotment of shares, amongst, 63. mother (s. 83), 83, (s. 95), 96. order of succession, 62. sister, 86-87 (ss. 84-86), 97-98 (s. 97). rules of exclusion, 61. sister's descendants, 88-90 (ss. 87-88). Class IV: (descendants of grand son (s. 83), 84, (s. 98), 98. parents) son's descendants, 84 (s. 83). order of succession, 67. uncle (ss. 89-90), 91-94. table of uncles and aunts, 74. uncle's children (s. 91), 94-95. heirs, classes of, 33. wife, 80 (s. 79), 96 (s. 94), 98 (s. 99). increase, doctrine of, 39. illegitimate children, 98 (s. 100). acknowledged kinsman, 75. bastard, 75. Hibs. crown, 75. See Gift. missing persons, 76. Hiba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz. step-children, 75. defined 128. successor by contract, 73. Hiba-bil-iwaz universal legatee, 75. defined, 126. sharers, who are, 34. Homicide. table of, 34A.

as a bar to succession, 32, residuaries, defined, 41.

Inheritance- contd.	Legatee, universal,
Hanafi law of-contd.	right, of, to inherit, 75.
if none, residue reverts to sharers, 48.	Legitimacy,
table of, 40A.	by acknowledgment, 206-210.
Shiah law of,	by adoption, 210.
heirs, classes of, 77.	presumption of, 205,206, 207.
heirs, of first class	Letters of administration.
rules of succession, 83.	expenses of, how borne, 15.
herrs, of second class	when necessary to obtain, 26.
brothers and sisters and their des- cendants, 87.	Life estate, gift of, 122, 123,
grand parents, 86, 89.	how far recognised, 29, 120.
rules of succession, 86
heirs, of third class -	Limitation,— suit by heirs against co-heirs, 17.
order of succession, 91.	suit by neirs against co-neirs, 17.
uncles and aunts, 92.	suit for pre-emption, 171.
other heirs, 95.	where wakf void, 144.
increase, doctrine of, not recognised,	where alienation of wakf property
97.	unauthorised, 152.
return, doctrine of, 95.	Lubbais (of Coimbatore),
right of particular individuals to	succession among, 10.
inherit : childless widow, 98.	Mahomedan.
eldest son, 98.	meaning of, 8.
illegiti m ate child, 98.	sects and sub-sects, 11.
Jactitation of marriage,	Mahomedan Law.
sut for, 187.	administration of
Joint family and joint family business,	generally, 1.
how far recognised amongst Maho-	in Bengal, U. P. and Assam, 4.
medans, 32.	m Burmah, 7.
Justice, equity and good conscience,	in Central Provinces, 7.
principle of, when to be applied, 11.	in Oudh, 7.
Khojas,	in Presidency Towns, 3.
law relating to Succession and Inherit-	in Punjab and N. W. Frontier, 6, in Muffasal of Bombay, 5, ance amongst, 8.	in Muffasal of Madras, 5.
joint Hindu family law, whether	application, extent of, of, 1.
applicable to, 32.	interpretation, of, 13.
Sect of, is Shiah, 11.	of crimes, 1, 2.
Koran,	of evidence, 1.
interpretation of the, 13.	sources of, 13.
Legacies.	Maintenance,
abatement of, 105.	agreement for future maintenance, 201, [s. 237 A].
lapse of, 105.	of children and grandchildren, 220.
revocation of, 105	of parents and grandparents, 220.
subject-matter of, need not be in exist-	of poor relations, 221.
ence at the time of execution of	of wife by husband, 185.
will, 104.	during iddat, 185.
See Bequest.	order for, 185.

Marriage,	Missing persons,
batil (void), 178.	right of, to inherit, 76.
between persons of different sects, 12, 176.	Molesalam Girasias (of Broach), succession among, governed by Hindu breach of promise of, 187. contract, who may, 174.	law, 9.
consent obtained by force or fraud, 174.	Mosque, defined, 174.	right of every Mahomedan to enter a during iddat void, 175.	public, 154.
essentials of, 174.	wakf of mushaa for a, mvalid, 136.
fasid (invalid), 178.	Motazalas,
fosterage, prohibition on ground of, 177.	a sect of Mahomedans, 11.
guardians for, 183.	Mother.
invalid, consequences of, 179.	is a sharer, 34A.
jactitation of, suit for, 187.	Mother's mother.
lunatics, of, 174, 185.	is a sharer, 34A.
minors cannot contract, 182.
repudiation by, of, 184.	Mushaa,
muta, 181.	can form the subject of a wakf, 136. defined, 118.
polyandry not allowed, 175.	,
presumption of, 180.	Mutawali,
prohibition of, on account of - affinity, 177.	appointment of new, 148. appointment by arbitration, 148.
, consanguinity, 177.	definition of, 147.
fosterage, 177.	founder may be first mutawali, 134, 148.
registration of, 175.	office of, not transferable inter rives, 151.
proposal and acceptance, 174.	office of, not attachable, 154.
religion, difference of, 176.	powers of :— to appoint successor on death, 151.
Sunnis and Shiahs, between, 176.	to grant leases, 159.
sects, between persons of different, 12, 176.	to increase allowance of servants, 153. to mortgage or sell, 152.
valid, consequences of, 179.	remuneration of, 153.
voi !, consequences of, 179.	removal of, 153.
witnesses, 174, 175.	who may be, 148.
wives, number of, 175.	Pre-emption (right of),
women who cannot be lawfully joined together as wives, 178.	buyer, whether should be a Mahomedan, 165.
See also Agreement, Apostasy, Conjugal	death of pre-emptor, 170.
rights, Divorce.	decree for pre-emption not transferable,
Marumakkatayam law,	171.
effect of, on donees of gift, 130.	device for evading, 172.
Marz-ul-maut,	defined, 157.
See Death-illness.	distinction between the Sunni and Shiah
Minority,	law, of, 172. enactments relating to, 158.
age of, according to Mussulman law, 253. and guardianship of marriage, 183. and guardianship of person, 212, 215.	females, 161. formalities (necessary) of, 167.
and guardianship of property, 215, 218.	limitation, 171.

Pre-emption (right of)—contd. recognised amongst Hindus, 158. right of, when arises, 161. when may be exercised, 164. whon lost, 170. not recognised in Madras Presidency, 167.	Return, doctrine of—contd. in Shiah law— generally, 95. affecting husband and wife, 96. affecting mother, 96. affecting uterine brothers and sisters, 97.
sect law, governing, 172. shafees, among, 166. suit for, 171. suit for, limitation for, 171. transfer by purchaser after domands, 169. vesting of property in pre-emptor, 171.	Revocation, of bequest, 105. of gift, 124. of talah, 197. of wakf, 136. Sajjad-a-nishin. office of, 155.
Probate, oxpenses of, how borne, 15. ostate vests without probate, 16. when necessary, 26. Prohibited degrees, of affinity, 177. of consanguinity, 177. Prophet, precepts of the, 13.	Sects, change from one to another, right to, 11. governs law of succession, 15. marriage with another, does not sub- ject party to law of that sect, 12. Sharers, defined, 34. rules of succession, 35-38. table of, 34A.
puberty, what is the age of, 174, 211 presumption re, 174. Remainder Vested, how far recognised, 20.	Shiah law. bequest to heirs, 103. cypres, doctrine of, 138. homicide, no bar to succession, 32. increase, doctrine of, not recognised by, 97.
Renunciation (of inheritance), how far building on heir, 29 [s. 43]. Representation, right of not recognised in Mahomedan law, 28. Residuaries, classified, 45. defined, 41. female, 46.	inheritance, 77.98. pre-emption, 158. return, doctrine of, 95. suicide, how far a bar to succession, 9. talak, 197, 199. wakf, 136, 137, 138. Sister, consanguine, as sharer, 34A. as residuary, 40A.
table of, 40A. Residue, poculiar features of, 48. Restitution (of conjugal rights), suit for, 185. Return, doctrine of, distinguished from increase, 51. in Sunni law 48.	full, as sharer, 34A. as residuary, 40A. uterine as sharer, 34A. ohildren of, are distant kindred of third class, 52. Son, is a residuary, 40A, 48. daughter of, as a sharer, 34A. as a residuary, 40A.

marz-ul-maut, wakf during, 134. minor cannot create, 133.

mortgage of wakf property, 152. mortgaged property, wakf of, 131.

Son-contd.	Uncle-contd.
daughter of, children of, are distant	daughter of paternal, is D. K. of 4th kindred of first class, 52.	class, 53.
son of, is a residuary, 40A.	table o uncles and aunts, 74.
Step-children,	Universal legatee,
no right to inherit, 75.	right of, to inherit, 75.
Step-parents,	Usage,
no right to inherit, 75.	given effect to, by Courts, 5, 6. Usury, prohibition against, whether repeated,
Succession,	by Usury Laws Repeal Act of 1855, 4.
governed by Sect law of deceased, 14. when per stirpes, 147.	Vested.
See Inheritance.	inheritance, defined, 31.
	remainder, how far recognised, 29.
Successor by contract,	Wages,
defined, 73.	of servants, borne by the estate, 15.
Sunnis,	Wakf,
sub-sects of, 10.	alienation of wakf property, 138, 152
parties to suit presumed to be, 10.	attachment of wakf property, 138.
Talak.	cash, of, 131.
form of immaterial, 196.	contingent, invalid, 136.
how effected, 196.	cypres, doctrine of, applied to, 138.
kinds of,	debts, provision for payment of, 133.
by agreement, 198.	definition of, 131.
under compulsion, 199.	equity of redemption, wakf of, 131.
by writing, 198.	family settlements, Sunni law, 139, 141.
where marriage solemnised in England	family settlements, Shiah law, 143.
according to English law, 199.	form of, 133.
	how dealt with prior to Wakf Act, 140.
Tenants-in-common, heirs take as, 16.	how dealt with under Wakf Act, 144.
limitation, 16.	illusory, 140.
•	immemorial user, by, 138.
True,	immovable property, of, 131.
grandfather, defined, 34.	intention to create, 135.
as a sharer, 34A. as a residuary, 40A.	khankah, 155.
as both sharer and residuary, 46.	law before Wakf Act, 140.
grandmother defined, 34.	law under Wakf Act, 144.
grandmother is a sharer, 34A.	lease of wakf property, 152.
•	life-interest for settlor, 137.
Trusts,	limitation—
conditions in gifts in the nature of, 122.	where wakf void, 144.
gifts through medium of, 114.	where alienation of wakf property public. See Wakf.	unauthorized, 152.
Uncle.	maintenance of settlor, 137.
maternal, is a distant kindred of fourth	of settlors descendants,
class, 53.	139-143.

paternal, is a residuary, 40A.

4th class, 53.

children of maternal, are D. K.

son of paternal, is a residuary, 40A.

Waki—contd.	Words-contd.
mosque, for, 136, 154.	Hiba-ba-shart-ul-iwaz, 128.
moveables, of, 131.	Hiba-bil-iwaz, 126.
mushaa, of, 136.	Hizanat, 212 [s. 256].
mutawali see Mutawali.	Iddat, 175.
objects of, 132.	Ijmas, 13.
permanent, must be, 131.	Ismailia, 11.
possession of wakf property, delivery of,	Jabr, 183.
134.	Kazi, 155.
postponement of objects of, 136.	Khankah, 155.
registration, 134.	Kiyas, 13.
residence of settlor, provision for, 137.	Khula, 195, 200.
revocation, of, 136.	Laan, 202.
sajjadanshin, 155.	Maliki, 11.
sale of wakf property, 152.	Marz-ul-maut, 107.
succession per stirpes, 147.	Motazala, 11.
suit for declaration that property belong	Mubarat, 195, 200,
to wakf, 138.	Mushaa, 118, 136.
takia, 155.	Mutawali, 147.
testamentary, 134.	Sadakah, 129.
Wakf Act, text of, 146.	Sajjad-a-nishin, 155.
who may create, 133.	Shafee, 166.
Widow (childless),	Shafei, 11.
limited right of, to inherit under Shiah	Shafi-i-jar, 159.
law, 98.	Shafi i khalit, 159.
Wife,	Shafi-i-sharik, 159.
is a sharer, 34A.	Shiah, 11.
maintenance of, 185.	Shufaa, 157.
right of, to claim divorce, 195, 198, 201,	Sunni, 11.
202.	Takia, 155.
Will,	Talab-i-Ishad, 167.
authorities on, 99.	Talab-i-Mowasibat, 167.
form of, 100.	Talàk, 195.
how far hoirs can take under a, 100.	Talák ahsan, 197.
limit of testamentary power, 102.	Talàk Hasan, 197.
who can make a, 99.	Talák-i-bain, 198.
Words,	Talàk-ul-bidaat, 197.
Amreo 30.	Talák-ul-sunnat, 197.
Arcent, 129.	Talaknama, 198.
Asna Aasharias, 11.	Tohr, 196.
Aul, 39.	Umra, 30.
Hadis, 13.	Wakf, 131.
Hanafi, 11.	Wasiat, 100.
Hanbali, 11.	Zaidya, 11.
Hiba, 109.
l l

लाल बहाबुर शास्त्री राष्ट्रीय प्रशासन धकावषी, पुस्तकालय Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration, Library म सु री MUSSOORIE.

यह पुस्तक निम्नांकित तारीज तक वापिस करनी है। This book is to be returned on the date lest stamped.

दिनांक Date	उधारकर्ता की संख्या Borrower's No.	বিলাক Date	उषारकर्ता की संख्या Borrower's No.
		 	-
	ļ

10 711.9

भवारित संख्या 25 32 340.54 mw वर्ग संख्या पस्तक संख्या Class No. athed Book No. लेखक Author D.F. Mulla गीर्षक Title Mahamedon Low निर्गम दिनांक उधारकर्ताकी संख्या द्रस्ताक्षर Date of Issue Borrower's No. Signature 340.59 8539 LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI Mational Academy of Administration

MUSSOORIE Accession No. 1071112 1. Books are issued for 15 days only but may have to be recalled earlier if urgently required.

5. An overdue charge of 25 Paise per day per volume will be charged.

3. Books may be renewed on request at the discretion of the Librarian. 5. Periodicals, Rare and Reference books may not be issued and may be consulted only in the library. 5. Books lost, defaced or injured in any way shall have to be replaced or its double price shall be paid